CRUDE THOUGHTS FROM THE EDITORIAL PEN

THE MAN WHO LAUGHS.

The man whose ha! ha! reaches from one end of the street to the other may be the same fellow who scolded his wife and spanked the baby before he got his breakfast, but his laughter is only the crackle of thorns under the pot. The man who spends his laughter through his life—before a late breakfast; when he misses the train, when his wife goes visiting and he has to eat a cold supper; the man who can laugh when he finds a button off his shirt, when the furnace goes out at night, and the twins come down with the measles at the same time—he's the fellow that is needed. He never tells his neighbours to have faith; somehow he puts faith into him. He delivers no homilies; somehow the sight of his face, the sound of his happy voice and the light of his blessed daily life, carry conviction that words have not power to give. The blues fly before him as the fog before the west wind. He comes into his own home like a flood of sunshine over a meadow of blooming buttercups and his wife and children bloom like June roses. His home is redolent with sympathy and love. The neighbourhood is better for his life and somebody will learn from him that laughter is better than tears. The world needs this man. Why are there so few of them? Can he be created Can he be evolved? Why is he not in every house, turning rain into sunshine and winter into summer all the year around until life is a perpetual season of joy.

Isn't it remarkable when good books and papers are so cheap that men and women read so little and neglect the minds God has given them to improve? If we would make our homes and our home life pure, happy and elevating we must seek knowledge on the various topics that are daily discussed. Too many boys and girls grow up now that by the time they have entered their teens have cultivated such a taste for trashy, impure literature which is scattered broadcast over our land, that anything solid or that would improve their minds or character is considered dull and uninteresting.

There is a great deal said about making home attractive so the young people will not want to wander away from them; but it is a private opinion one hardly dares to express that there is too much being done for young America in the well-to-do classes; they are coddled and humoured and given the soft places, while the parents take the rough ones, until the parlour has come to be looked upon as their orbit, while the mother "lives and moves and has her being" in the kitchen."

A beautiful writer has said: "If there be a pleasure on earth which angels cannot enjoy and which they might almost envy man the possession of, it is the power of relieving distress. Every kindly act we do but inclines us more and more toward such deeds and we become the readier to do the same again and with more enjoyment. Every kindness done to others in our daily walks advances us nearer those great souls which make the age they live in memorable.

Every man, every woman, every child has some talent, some power, some opportunity of getting good and doing good. Each day offers some occasion for using this talent. As we use it it gradually increases, improves and becomes native to the character. As we neglect it it dwindles, withers, and disappears. This is the stern but benign law by which we live. This makes character real and enduring; this makes progress possible; this turns men into angels and virtue into goodness.

We have no desire to throw any bouquets at ourselves, but believe there is not a family that reads this department in our paper from week to week that is not benefitted and stimulated to better things. It encourages all that is good and discourages all that is evil. If you agree with us speak a good word and help us to place our paper in every home in the community.

Cheerfulness is a gospel that every woman should possess; it is worth more than creed or dogma. Ask the man who fights the hard battles of life what it means to go home to a cheerful wife. Cheerfulness is a jewel either in prosperity or adversity. A low-spirited, fault-finding wife can kill the last bit of hope and enthusiasm remaining in a troubled heart while the cheerful, hopeful one leads it to press on or to begin over again with a "heart for any fate."

WHEN PARENTS DRINK.

A case has come to light where an eleven-year-old Montreal boy was being badly brought up by his parents. The little fellow had a father and a mother who were both addicted to the use of strong liquors. When the detectives went to get the child they found that his father was drunk in bed, and the mother was in the same condition elsewhere in the house, and there were other allegations against the woman which were proven on the same visit. The Juvenile Court sent the boy out to a farm, where he will be taken care of properly by the farmer and brought up to a useful existence.

Spring Impurities In the Blood

A Tonic Medicine is a Necessity at This Season

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are an all year round tonic blood-builder and nerve restorer. But they are especially valuable in the spring when the system is loaded with impurities as a result of the indoor life of the winter months. There is no other season when the blood is so much in need of purifying and enriching, and every dose of these pills helps to make new, rich, red blood. In the spring one feels weak and tired —Dr. Williams' Pink Pills give strength. In the spring the appetite is often poor—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills develop the appetite, tone the stomach and aid weak digestion. It is in the spring that poisons in the blood find an outlet in disfiguring pimples, eruptions and boils — Dr. Williams' Pink Pills speedily clear the skin because they go to the root of the trouble in the blood. In the spring anaemia, rheumatism, indigestion, neuralgia, erysipelas and many other troubles are most persistent because of poor, weak blood, and it is at this time when all nature takes on new life that the blood most seriously needs attention. Some people dose themselves with purgatives at this season, but these only further weaken themselves. A purgative merely gallops through the system, emptying the bowels, but it does not cure anything. On the other hand Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make new blood which reaches every nerve and organ in the body, bringing new strength, new health and vigour to weak, easily tired men, women and children. Try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills this spring—they will not disappoint you.

Sold by all medicine dealers or sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE NEW BARREL SILHOUETTE

Fashion Offers Straight Lines As Well as Barrel Effects This Spring

Silks Strongly in Evidence

NEW YORK, March 31.—There will be two fashionable silhouettes this spring. The slim silhouette, with its straight, clinging lines will continue to be first in favour, as it has been all through the winter, but the new barrel skirt will give women a chance, to indulge in the bouffant effect, which will, doubtless, be welcomed by those who have complained of being tired of the eternal straight line.

True to its name, the new silhouette is in the outline of a barrel, bulging at the hips and drawn in at the waist and ankles. There are many ways of accomplishing the fulness over the hips. One is by the clever draping of the material at the waistline somewhat after the fashion of the "peg-top" skirts that were used some years ago. This type of the barrel skirt is shown in the sketch, which illustrates a dress of figured pongee with sleeves and belt of plain pongee in natural colour. The skirt narrows down to two yards at the hem; for the narrow skirt, especially in this form, is to come in with the spring, fashion authorities say. This silhouette has also been named the "bowling-pin;" and looking at the whole silhouette from shoulder to ankles, and not merely from the waist downward, the name is indeed most appropriate.

Satins and a Variety of Silks for Spring.

Perhaps the most generally favored of all fabrics this spring will be satin. It is to be used for one-piece dresses, for suits, and for separate coats. This material will also be in demand for evening gowns and afternoon dresses, and for these its popularity will be shared by charmeuse, which is very closely related to satin. The suits and dresses of satin will be decorated with braiding and embroidery will carry out the Oriental colourings which are distinctly in vogue this season.

There is a decided predominance of silks for spring. Among the silks for suits, poplin, rajah and tussur are strongly in evidence, and many novel ideas are noticed in the developments of these materials. On a suit of gold-coloured silk jersey, black velvet was used for the collar and for a band at the lower edge of the coat. Some suits of rajah silk are trimmed with stencilling in attractive colour combinations. The stencilling is done on the fronts of the coats or only on the belts, just enough to furnish some contrast. This is one of the very newest trimming ideas.

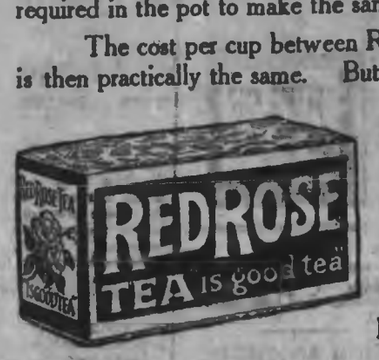
In spite of the great vogue for colours in all the brightest hues and in all manner of combinations, a great deal of black and white is used. When cleverly handled, this combination is always attractive, and it is again very fashionable in Paris and New York. Solid black and white checked materials with rather large checks are considered smart for coats, both for the long separate coats and for shorter coats to be worn with white serge sleeves.

Economy

Many women think they are saving money by buying cheap tea, forgetting that it is not the cost per pound but the cost per cup that determines a tea's economy.

You may pay 5 or 10 cents more per pound for Red Rose Tea than for common tea. But because Red Rose Tea is a blend of Indian-Assam teas with Ceylons, consisting of the choice tender shoots and buds—the parts of the tea plant that yield the largest amount of liquor and the finest flavor—one-third less is required in the pot to make the same number of cups.

The cost per cup between Red Rose Tea and common tea is then practically the same. But the flavor—what a difference!



And this distinctive and delightful flavor and rich strength is protected by the Red Rose sealed package. No air, odors or dust can get in to injure Red Rose Tea's splendid quality and economy.

Choice Recipes

STEAMED CHERRY PUDDING.

One-half cup sugar, 2 eggs, 1-2 cup butter, 1-2 cup sweet milk, 2 teaspoonfuls baking powder mixed with flour, to make a stiff batter, 2 cups canned cherries. Steam one hour. Use the juice of the cherries cooked and thickened with cornstarch for the pudding sauce.

JUMBLES.

1 1-2 cups of sugar, 3-4 cup butter, 3 eggs, 3 tablespoonfuls milk, 1-2 teaspoonful soda 1-2 teaspoonful of cream of tartar. Mix with sufficient flour to roll. Roll and sprinkle with sugar, cut out and bake.

GRAHAM GEMS.

Take about one pint of separator milk and two tablespoons of sweet cream, or take whole sweet milk, warm, add a little salt, stir in graham flour until the batter is thick as thin pancakes, beat hard for several minutes. Have the gem irons smoking hot on the stove. Grease, fill irons full, put into a hot oven. They will be light and tender.

EGGLESS JOHNNY CAKE.

Sift together two-thirds of a cup each of cornmeal and entire wheat flour, a teaspoonful of baking powder, a half teaspoonful of salt and two tablespoons of sugar; wet with two cups of sour milk, into which a rounding teaspoon of soda has been dissolved; beat the milk until it foams over the cup. Beat well together and bake in a deep, square tin. When a crust is formed on top cover with another tin of the same size and shape and continue baking until done; about 3-4 of an hour will be required in all. After taking from the oven let stand covered for five minutes before serving into squares, then serve.

MUSH BREAD.

This recipe is very highly recommended: One pint of scalded milk, one-half pint of meal stirred into the milk until it begins to thicken. Take off fire and stir in beaten yolks of four eggs; thoroughly mix, add teaspoon (level) of salt, then the beaten whites. Bake for twenty five minutes in a rather quick oven. It must be baked carefully or it will fall.

ECZEMA AND SORE EYES.

"My boy, Frank, seemed weak chested and took a very severe cold," writes Mrs. D. Stevens, Ninga, Man. "The many medicines used did not seem to benefit him, until we tried Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, and found it to be exactly what was wanted to cure him." No treatment is so thorough and effective as a cure for croup and bronchitis.

The Paint That Costs The Least

is the Paint that covers the greatest surface—that takes the shortest time to apply—that wears the longest. Martin-Senour "100% Pure" Paint does all three. Here's the proof. "100% Pure" Paint covers 900 square feet of surface per gallon.

Hand-mixed-lead-and-oil, and cheap prepared paints, cover only about 500 square feet.

The greatest cost of painting is for labor. It takes less time to apply Martin-Senour "100% Pure" Paint because its fine, even texture spreads much easier.

MARTIN-SENOUR
"100% PURE" PAINT

(Made in Canada)

is guaranteed to be exactly as represented. The purity of the White Lead and Zinc Oxide—the high quality of the Linseed Oil—the minute fineness of the grinding by powerful machinery—insure a paint that gives years of protection and beauty to your home.

Why use cheap paint—that is expensive to put on—when Martin-Senour "100% Pure" Paint wears nearly twice as long?

Sunday Sermon For Those Who Do Not Go To Church

(By JAMES SUTHERLAND)

THE MILLENNIUM.

Rev. 19th chapter, 11-21. Christ, the glorious head of the church, is described as sitting on a white horse—the emblem of justice and holiness. He is faithful and true to his covenant and promise. He is righteous in all his proceedings. He has a penetrating insight into all the strength and strategems of his enemies. He has a large and extensive dominion over many crowns, for he is King of Kings and Lord of Lords. He is arrayed in a vesture dipped in blood, his own blood, by which he purchased his mediatorial power. His name is the Word of God. The army he commands is very large; angels and saints follow, chosen, called and faithful, armed in purity and righteousness. A sharp sword proceeds out of his mouth with which he smites the nations. The threatenings of the written word which he is going to execute on his enemies, who are now put in the wine press of the wrath of God to be trodden underfoot by him. The ensigns of his authority are his name written on his vesture and thigh, King of Kings and Lord of Lords asserting his authority and power, warning the most powerful princes to submit or they must fall before him. An invitation is given to the fowls of heaven that they should come and view the battle and share in the spoils, intimating that this great decisive engagement should leave the enemies of Christ a feast for the birds of prey, and that all the world should have cause to rejoice in the issue of it.

The angel standing in the sun denotes that these judgments would be conspicuous to all the world, and betokens the light and knowledge that shall then beam upon mankind and the total ruin of anti-Christ in the east seems closely connected with his fall in the west. The battle is joined; the powers of earth and hell make their utmost effort. The victory is gained by the great and glorious Head of the Church. The leaders of the army, the beast and false prophet are taken, those who led them by power and by policy and falsehood are cast into the burning lake and their followers are given for a feast to the fowls of heaven.

Towers says that this passage denotes the complete destruction of the anti-Christian powers of Europe and the confiscation of all the treasures and possessions the anti-Christian princes have accumulated.

Daubuz says: The destruction of the Beast and the false prophet, and all their obstinate adherents, and all they have. The ceasing of all open opposition to the gospel and the dreadful punishment of all those who concurred in anti-Christian corruptions has been described, but the great agent would produce fresh evils if not prevented.

The apostle had a vision figuratively representing the restraints which would be laid on Satan himself and it is implied that Christ with Almighty power and absolute authority will restrain the devil from deceiving mankind as he has hitherto done. He makes use of means in this work; he has a chain and key; a great chain to bind Satan, and the key of the prison in which he was to be confined. He cast him into the bottomless pit, cast him down with force and with just vengeance to his own place and prison from whence he had been permitted to break out and deceive the nations. Christ shuts and none can open, shuts by his power, seals by his authority. The time of Satan's confinement is one thousand years, after which he was to be loosed again for a little season.

The church should have a considerable time of peace and prosperity; but all her trials were not yet over (verses 4-6.) Here is an account of the reign of the saints for the same space of time in which Satan continued bound. Those who suffered for Christ, and faithfully adhered to him, not receiving the mark of the beast, nor worshipping his image. They were raised from the dead and restored to life. They were possessed of great honor and authority—rather of a spiritual than of a secular nature. They reigned with Christ a thousand years. Those who suffer with Christ shall reign with him in his spiritual and heavenly kingdom. This is called the first resurrection and all who have served and suffered for Christ shall take part therein. As for the wicked they shall not be restored to their power again till Satan is let loose. This may be called a resurrection as the conversion of the Jews is said to be life from the dead. The happiness of the servants of God is declared. None can be blessed but they that are holy. They are secured from the power of the second death. This second death must be something awful. It means separation of soul and body from God—banished from his presence forever—years will follow the final destruction of the anti-Christian, idolatrous, persecution powers, during which pure Christianity in doctrine, worship and holiness will be diffused over all the earth, and all idolatry, infidelity, cruelty and all other evils which now harrass and desolate the earth, will be restrained by the almighty operation of the Holy Spirit, and godliness, and righteousness, peace and purity, will render the earth in some measure like heaven itself. Hitherto, the depravity of human nature and the malignant agency of apostate angels have been shown in the state of the world. Nothing but the power of God can prevent men from opposing, despising or perverting the gospel itself. But at length the Lord will arise by his mighty power he will destroy the wicked and confine the fallen angels. And by the all powerful working of the Holy Spirit, fallen men will be new created, and repentance, faith and holiness will as certainly prevail as unbelief, impenitence and other sins now do. That measure of righteousness which the universal prevalence of true Christianity must produce will immensely lessen the quantity even of natural evils. We may easily perceive what a variety of dreadful pains, diseases and other calamaties must cease if all men were true and consistent Christians. All the evils of public and private contention will be ended and happiness of every kind largely increased. Every man will then try to alleviate suffering instead of adding to the sorrows around him, nor shall they hurt or destroy in all the holy mountain of God. The wild notions and extravagant practices grafted on the belief of a millennium long caused even the name of it to be objected to by many, yet we have as just grounds to expect such a happy event as the Jews had to look for a Messiah, but then those who suppose it will be a carnel millennium are as much mistaken as the Jews were in looking for a temporal deliverer. It is our duty to pray for the promised glorious days and to do everything in our public and private stations which can be instrumental in preparing the way for them, even as David made abundant provision for the temple Solomon was to build.

Whether the general opinion that this thousand years will be the seventh thousand from the creation or the Sabbatical millenary, the event must determine, but the dawn of this glorious day cannot be far distant, and we ought to advert to these things which may prepare the way for it, in the application and improvement of our time and our several talents, vs. 7 to 10. The restraints laid for a time upon Satan are taken off for reasons we are not competent to understand. Thus the Spirit of Anti-Christ will arise again after the thousand years are expired. While this world lasts Satan's power in it will not be wholly destroyed, though it may be limited and lessened till the end. No sooner is Satan let loose than he begins again deceiving the nations, and stirring them up to make war with the saints and the servants of God.

It would be well if the servants and the ministers of Christ were as active and persevering in doing good as are his enemies in doing evil. They are deceived as to the cause they engage in; they believe it to be good and they are deceived in the issue; they expected to win the day, Satan's last efforts seem to be the greatest. He raises a mighty army from all the four quarters of the earth (verse 8). Gog and Magog are prominent in this army, who compass the camp of the saints and the beloved city, the spiritual Jerusalem. The army of the saints are drawn forth out of the city to defend it but the army of the enemy is superior in numbers so that they compass the city about. Fire came down from God out of Heaven and devoured the enemy.

Yours sincerely,
James Sutherland.

"Go and Enlist" Says Speaker Clark

WASHINGTON, April 5.—"You had better go down town and enlist," was the advice given men in the House galleries by Speaker Clark yesterday when he rebuked the galleries for applauding a speech by Representative Kahn of California. Mr. Kahn was showing the necessity for training American soldiers for at least one year before they were sent to the European trenches. The galleries applauded several times when Mr. Kahn told of the danger of the "slaughtering" of Americans if they are sent unprepared to European battlefields.

"The rules of the House forbid the people in the galleries to applaud or dissent or assent regarding anything said on the floor," said Speaker Clark. "The men up there who applauded had better go down and enlist."

The Silver Anniversary Of W. M. S.

WARSAW, April 4.—On Friday evening, March 30th, the Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist Church celebrated its silver anniversary. The chairman of the evening was the pastor, Rev. D. R. Clare, who spoke encouraging words on the value of the W. M. S. to the Church. During the evening greetings were received from the sister Missionary Society of the village, that of the Baptist Church; from Mrs. (Rev.) E. D. Lewis, who was the first president of the society; a number of past members, and also from Miss Ada Payne, of Japan, who is a life member of the society. Mrs. W. Wasson, the present president of the society, extended words of welcome, after which Mrs. Jos. Edwards gave a history of the society for the past twenty-five years. The society had twelve members the first year, this year twenty-two yearly, and eleven life members. The first year eighteen dollars was sent to the branch treasurer; this year nearly two hundred dollars. The society is represented by one missionary in the foreign field. While the history was being read, the charter members present took their places on the platform. A number of splendid musical selections were rendered during the evening, and the programme closed with the missionary exercises, "The Challenge of the Cross," given by seven of the young girls. A silver collection was taken.

Mrs. Arthur Edwards is visiting Mrs. Mark Bickell, of Ponton, Ont.

The regular meeting of the Women's Institute will be held on Thursday, April 12th, at 2.30 p.m.

Fine, Bonny Little Boy

Penetang (Ontario) Child, Once so Thin and Delicate, Cured by Dr. Cassell's Tablets.

MRS. JARVIS, BOX 286, PENETANG, P.O., ONTARIO, says: "It is a pleasure to write and tell you what Dr. Cassell's Tablets have done for my baby. When only five months old he was taken ill. I had medical advice for him, and was told he had colic, for which he was treated, but he did not get any better, only worse. I tried several special foods, but none of them would stay on his stomach, and he became so thin that he seemed just skin and bone. He only weighed ten pounds. We never thought poor baby could live, but one day I chanced to hear of a baby's case almost like mine, that had been cured by Dr. Cassell's Tablets, so I got some for my baby, and I am thankful I did. After a few doses the nervous jumps he had suffered from stopped, and soon he was almost well. I have given him the Tablets during teething, and find them very soothing. He is a bonny boy now, quite cured, and weighs twenty-five pounds at twelve months old."

Every mother should know that Dr. Cassell's Tablets are just as suitable for children as they are for grown-up people. Their splendid nutritive and vitalising properties soon overcome any tendency to nervousness or weakness in the little ones, and lay the foundation of a strong constitution for after years.

RESIDENT WILSON SIGNS THE FORMAL DECLARATION OF WAR

ates should make another final ef- t for peace before taking the nge, but even the shock of the ma- ity leader "bolting" had no effect the bi-partisan patriots who were ermined to set on the President's ring message.

MINORITY FIGHTS HARD.

the night advanced the excite- grew. The thronged galleries ed nothing. The tension more than once snapped in rapid, burning hot exchanges. The small minority voices but resolute purpose handed the sword to her sons and bade them go to the service of principles held dearer than life. There has been, it is true, more of the froth and the frills here at the United States Capitol. But the tumult and the shouting die. Behind the characteristic exuberance of a young and great and prosperous people there is the same sound, staunch—yea, and grim—determination to re-establish first things in first place and to fight to a finish with all the resources of the nation. The United States, reading her title clear, will be no mean ally to the forces of those who war for the world's weal. Officialdom realizes that a man's task confronts it at once. When President Wilson, in his historic war message, hissed out his stinging reference to German spies and German intrigue, he spoke from more intimate and ominous knowledge than the public generally yet possesses. There is at the White House no alarmist hysteria, but the Administration is keenly aware of home problems of momentous import so serious in scope that it is believed the British and French Ambassadors have been taken into confidence with a view to possible co-operation by their Governments.

THE ZIMMERMAN BALLOON.

Rep. Miller of Minnesota created a profound sensation during the debate when he gave to Congress what he declared to be certain hitherto unpublished sections of the Zimmerman note to Mexico. The sections, he announced, submitted that, if agreeable to Mexico, Germany would forthwith establish submarine bases off the Mexico coast and supply to Mexico quantities of arms and munitions. It was further declared that all German reservists in the United States had been ordered to Mexico, with instructions to be prepared at the proper time to attack at various points along the line. Rep. Miller added it was known that during the past few days three schooners had landed on the west coast of Mexico laden with arms and munitions, and that a number of German officers were already on the scene for the purpose of training the troops. "A flood of German money is going into Mexico at this moment," the speaker added. The Minnesota Representative turned to Chairman Flood of the Committee on Foreign Affairs, who is in close touch with President Wilson and the Cabinet, in verification of his statement, and the silence of the Virginia man was regarded as seriously significant.

FIVE YEARS OF PLOTTING.

Bit by bit the ugly facts believed to be definitely in the hands of the Administration are getting to the public. While no official information has yet been given, there is departmental authority for the conviction that Germany's sinister operations in the United States have coveted the past five years, if, indeed, not more. Propagandists like Dernburg have had associates scattered like a huge web over the various States, whose purposes were sinister and secret. In Teuton communities they have been most active. The Administration believes, however, that in the large majority of cases the Kaiser's emissaries have played him false. Their reports, as one departmental official expressed it to The Globe, were as erroneous "as the reports that Ireland would rise in rebellion, South Africa would withdraw from the British Empire and India would plunge into a foment of mutiny."

The United States Government now has some first-hand knowledge of these intrigues within her borders. Certain citizens of German origin but American patriotism have told what they knew. Flattered by the attentions and the alluring prospects held out by influential German emissaries, many of them may have given assurances that, at the proper time, they would choose, if choice become necessary, the loyalty to the land of their ancestry rather than allegiance to the land of their adoption. This was the club the Kaiser believed he held over President Wilson.

FOMENTING THE NEGROES.

Reports reached the State Department from Federal agents that German intrigues were endeavouring to bring about a coloured uprising in the tobacco and cotton belts of Georgia, Alabama, the Carolinas and parts of Florida, as well as in certain districts in Louisiana and Mississippi while several Senators and Representatives have turned over to the Justice Department telegrams and letters threatening their lives for supporting the war resolution. Investigations are already under way.

"UNJUST, CRUEL, BARBAROUS."

In scathing language the report of the Committee on Foreign Affairs, presented to the House, pillories the illegal operations of Germany. The conduct of the German Government during recent months toward the United States, its Government and its citizens is described in this official document as "discourteous, unjust, cruel, barbarous, and so lacking in honesty that it has constituted violation of the course of conduct which should obtain between friendly nations."

It mentions specifically the operations of Dr. Chokraberty, Captain von Papen, von Imel, Hans von Wedell, Carl Rurcede, Albert Sanders and Captain Boy-Ed. Among other acts charged against these men is the procuring of fraudulent passports for Teuton agents and spies. It is easily within the reach of probability that startling action may be taken at any time. The organization of the "service" over the whole country is believed to be in most satisfactory shape for immediate action of any kind.

STRIKE BLOW AT WAR PROFITS.

The Government has already invoked its drastic powers to strike a blow at exorbitant war profits. Under the authority of the last naval appropriation bill, a certain manufacturer has been directed to furnish a large order of war supplies at prices fixed by the Government, far lower than the figures voluntarily submitted. If the order is not obeyed, the plant will be taken over and operated by the Government. The Justice Department declines to disclose the name of the manufacturer, but announces that the President and his advisers are determined that only fair and reasonable prices shall be paid by the nation. All departments are in co-operation in mobilizing the industrial strength of the country. So far as railways are concerned, the present intention is for the Government to advise these corporations as to the service it requires from time to time, and, when working to that end, all the railways will be operated practically as one system.

With really amazing rapidity and efficiency the leaders of the nation seem to be evolving smooth-running and effective system out of the introductory chaos of unpreparedness.

To the farmers of Ontario

Your farm help problem!

The Ontario Government appreciates the patriotic efforts of the farmers of Ontario, who are making a noble contribution to the cause of victory by responding earnestly to the appeal for increased production. It realizes that these efforts are limited only by the shortage of farm help, and it desires to afford every possible assistance in order to increase the number of workers on the land this season.

Let the Ontario Government Help You

The Department of Agriculture is making appeals through the press, and in other ways to men and boys who cannot join the army, to retired farmers and business men, to men who have spent the winter in the woods, and even to men outside the province to help on farms. Many have already promised to help the farmers this season.

BOYS—Many city, town and village boys made a success last year as helpers on the land under proper direction. The Government is endeavouring to enlist large numbers of industrious boys for farm service. Men are visiting many Collegiate Institutes and High Schools to find those boys who are both willing to work and have ability and application.

It will be necessary for the Government to have exact information about the kind of help a farmer wants, the length of time for which help is wanted, and the amount of wages the farmer is willing to pay.

Cut out of this advertisement the application form which appears below. Please fill out all the blanks carefully; put the form in an envelope and mail at once. Address your letter to the District Representative of the Department of Agriculture for your county or to "The Ontario Government Labor Bureau, 15 Queen's Park, Toronto."

If you want to apply for farm help, all you have to do is to fill in the application below, cut it out and mail it to Ontario Government Public Employment Bureau. (Address below.)

Amazing Power of Bon-Opto To Make Weak Eyes Strong

Doctor Says It Strengthens Eyesight 50 per cent in One Week's Time in Many Instances

A Free Prescription You Can Have Filled and Use at Home

Victims of eye strain and other eye weaknesses and those who wear glasses, will be glad to know that according to Dr. Lewis there is real hope and help for them. Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their eyes restored by this remarkable prescription and many who once wore glasses say they have thrown them away. One man says, after using it: "I was almost blind. Could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without my glasses, and my eyes do not hurt any more. At night they would pain dreadfully. Now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for fifteen days everything seems clear. I can read even fine print without glasses." Another who used it says: "I was bothered with eye strain caused by overworked, tired eyes, which induced fierce headaches. I have worn glasses for several years, both for distance and work, and without them I could not read my own name on an envelope or the type-writing on the machine before me. I can do both now and have discarded my long distance glasses altogether. I can count the fluttering leaves on the tree across the street now, which for several years have looked like a dim green blur to me. I cannot express my joy at what it has done for me."

It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time and multitudes more will be able to strengthen their eyes so as to be spared the trouble and expense of ever getting glasses. Eye troubles of many descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by the use of this prescription at home. Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Bon-Opto tablets. Drop one Bon-Opto tablet in a fourth of a glass of water and let it dissolve. With this liquid bathe the eyes two to four times daily. You should notice your eyes clear up perceptibly right from the start, and inflammation and redness will quickly disappear. If your eyes bother you even a little it is your duty to take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have saved their sight if they had cared for their eyes in time.

Note: Another prominent Physician to whom the above article was submitted, said: "Yes, the Bon-Opto prescription is truly a wonderful eye remedy. Its constituent ingredients are well known to eminent eye specialists and widely prescribed by them. I have used it very successfully in my own practice on patients whose eyes were strained through overwork or misfit glasses. I can highly recommend it in case of weak, watery, aching, smarting, lurking, harmful eyes, red lids, blurred vision or for eyes inflamed from exposure to smoke, sun, dust or wind. It is one of the very few preparations I feel should be kept on hand for regular use in almost every family." Bon-Opto, referred to above, is not a patent medicine or a secret remedy. It is an ethical preparation, the formula being printed on the package. The manufacturers guarantee it to strengthen eyesight 50 per cent in one week's time in many instances or refund the money. It can be obtained from any good druggist and is sold in this city by Warne Drug Co. and Other Druggists.

GERMAN PLOTTERS TRY TO BLOW UP THE PENNSYLVANIA RAILWAY TUNNEL

Clash With Troops on Guard and Attempt is Frustrated---Crew of German Interned Cruiser Blow Up Their Vessel in Harbour---Seven Killed By American Soldiers---Little Change Reported Today From the Western Front.

GERMAN SHIPS SEIZED BY THE U. S.

SPECIAL TO THE EXAMINER:

PITTSBURG, Pa., April 7.—An attempt by a party of seven Germans to blow up the Pennsylvania railway tunnel in Western Pennsylvania was frustrated by the troops on guard there to-day. One of the Germans was killed and several were wounded, according to the first reports from the scene of the clash. One of the soldiers was said to have been fatally wounded.

It is confirmed that one soldier was killed by the persons who tried to blow up Brinton Arch, near here, on the Pennsylvania railway tunnel.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—The German interned cruiser Cormorant has been blown up by its crew in the harbour at Guam, the Navy Department announced to-day.

The Cormorant refused to surrender to the American forces when American soldiers went to take her over. Two German warrant officers and five of the crew were killed, and twenty officers and three hundred and forty-two men were taken prisoners by Americans.

Guam is an island off the Phillipines.

LONDON, April 7.—Austria-Hungary apparently has broken relations with the United States.

Count Tarnowsky has never been formally recognized as Ambassador to the United States.

NEW YORK, April 7.—Six incendiary fires, starting within a few minutes of each other, wrecked the buildings at Belmont Race Track and destroyed the grand stand of the Hunt Club on Long Island early to-day. Kerosene acids and explosives are said to have been found.

LONDON, April 7.—A report printed in the Berlin Vossische Zeitung that "England had invited Germany to negotiate peace" was officially branded as ridiculous to-day.

(By William Philip Simms, U. P. Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES AFIELD, April 7. — "America has declared war." That was the flash that went jubilantly forward over all field telephone and telegraph lines to the fighting line to-day. "Gee whiz, man, I feel like hugging you," voiced an ordinary quiet staff captain of the Canadian forces, whose mother was a Philadelphian, as we approached the group of Canadian officers at an advanced position. "The Canadians are proud of the United States, just as proud as any American could be," he continued. "This will mean much in our future of neighbourly relations. D'ye see that?" he inquired, pointing at a hurricane of shells bursting over the Germans. "Well, those are our fireworks in celebration." Every man we encountered expressed jubilation over the news of the war declaration by Congress, clinching the joyful news of President Wilson's speech.

Out in the front line trenches the Tommies hoisted up sign boards appraising the enemy—"America's enemy now"—of the news. "Each board ought to be worth at least a thousand shells," grinningly appraised one officer. "We are now going to give 'em some of Wilson's speech in that way also. Some sentences of that speech are better than bombs." It was noticeable to-day that none of the German troops taken prisoners knew anyhing about America's entry into the war.

NEWPORT, R.I., April 7.—Nantucket Shoals Lightship to-day reported a German raider sighted off Cape Henry. Deputy Collector of Customs Walcott told the United Preses he had notified all shipping and advised them to remain in harbour. It is believed naval vessels will immediately be sent in search of raider.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES AFIELD, April 7.—No appreciable change in the positions on the British front was reported to-day.

British artillery caused another big explosion immediately behind the German firing line, and airmen were more unusually active in scouting, bombing railways and other raiding work over Germany's back areas.

There were a number of battles between the British and German machines, but it may be stated that the planes fully achieved their ends.

PARIS, April 7.—(French Official).—Violent artillery actions, with considerable fighting, between reconnoitering detachments, was reported from various sections of the Western front in to-day's official statement.

A German attack south of Ville au Bois was repulsed, and in hand grenade fighting of Champaigneul the advantage was with the French forces.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—The War Bill has passed the House of Representatives 378 to 50, and the Senate 82 to 6, and President Wilson has signed it. One hundred interned German ships valued at $125,000,000 have been seized by the Government, including the 55000,-ton Vaterland. Sixty spies and plotters have been arrested.

NEW YORK, April 7.—Cuba and Brazil will probably both declare war on Germany.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—W. J. Bryan wires offering to serve as private if needed.

PETROGRAD, April 7.—Russians smashed Turkish forts on the Bosphorus in an aeroplane raid.

NEW YORK, April 7.—Allied warships will be withdrawn from this side of the Atlantic, and the United States navy will take control here.

LONDON, April 7.—The whole Somme district is now cleared of Germans.

WASHINGTON, April 7.—America to-day sent to Russia a greeting, in which she declared: "This country arrays itself in opposition to the greatest enemy of and menace to the democracy of the world." And expressed rejoicings that the people of Russia have merged into a mighty democracy.

The message made a significant plea for "internal concord in Russia, in order to crush Germany.

CAPT. R. W. FRANK, of Peterborough, who is in charge of the Canadian Army Dental Corps at Halifax.

A GREATER PETERBORO'

The meeting on Monday evening in the Opera House is open to all citizens and is called for the purpose of organizing an association for the general advancement of the City.

There will be half a dozen short speeches by prominent citizens who are familiar with the entire situation.

The business and professional men and those who have taken an active part in municipal matters of course will be present, and a special invitation is given to all the ladies of the City and the balcony will be reserved for them.

The Trades and Labour Associations are especially requested to attend as well as those who are not members of these organizations, as it is hoped that from now on mechanics and labourmen will be given a better opportunity in assisting the advancement of the City. A prominent labour man will speak.

All citizens are stock-holders in the City of Peterborough, owning as we do our own waterworks, electric light and wer system, and will very shortly own the Street Railway and Gas Plant, and it can be readily understood that it is a mutual industrial partnership and all should be vitally interested.

A short musical programme will commence at 7:45 o'clock and the business meeting will start sharp at 8:10.

A GREAT WAVE OF ENTHUSIASM OVER PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

People in England Say the Message is the Greatest Pronouncement Against Germany Since the War Began

THE FUNDAMENTAL ISSUES

By T. P.O'Connor

(From Central News.)

LONDON, April 7.—It would be impossible to exaggerate the great wave of enthusiasm throughout the entire United Kingdom with which President Wilson's address to the United Congress of the United States has been received in England.

There has been a little doubt in this country for weeks past that America would ultimately enter the war, but the blank fog of silence which spread in Washington for many days, gave rise here to much misgiving and there came the expectation, not of the refusal on the part of President Wilson to enter the war, but rather of the spirit in which he would call upon Congress to finally act in this matter.

There were suggestions, too, from the German Press, that another last desperate effort was going to be made by the German Empire, to offer some manner of compromise to America that might entice the President into a last attempt to keep his country out of the horrors of war.

Then out of all this dense fog of silence down came this tremendous, thundering address on this slight fabric anxiety and the manner in which the United States will really enter the war produces a more profound impression upon the people of Great Britain than the actual entrance of America into the war, itself.

President Wilson's address is the greatest pronouncement against Germany and her malicious plans against the liberty of the world, says everybody here, since even the war began.

The Striking Feature.

The most striking feature of the speech is the masterly and relentless and yet with all nude, presentation of the fundamental issues that divide the belligerents, claimly that there are those already involved in the war who maintain that it is not a war for aggression nor yet for new territory. Nor still is the war being conducted, at least upon the part of the Entente Allies for the purpose of killing trade rivalry, which Germany has long maintained through insinuation, was the real cause of Great Britain's entrance into the conflict.

247th Battalion Is Not Likely To Leave City Until Monday

Officers and Men Are However Ready to Move at Short Notice—Lieuts. Strickland, Latimer and Cameron Selected to Go—Lieut. Dunsford Reverts to the Ranks in Order to Go Overseas—To-day's Orders and General Military News.

Lieut.-Col. Ackerman, of the 247th Battalion, is still waiting for definite orders in regard to the departure of the battalion to join the 235th at Ottawa. Yesterday it was thought that the first draft would be sent this morning, and preparations were made accordingly, but the order did not come through, and it is not likely that any of the men will leave before Monday, although the first draft of fifty has been ordered to parade at the Armouries to-morrow (Sunday) morning at 9 o'clock.

Lieut.-Col. Ackerman has selected the officers who are to accompany the men. They are Lieut. Alan H. Cameron, Lieut. J. F. Strickland and Lieut. Harry Latimer.

Lieut. Sidney J. Dunsford, one of the subalterns of the battalion, has reverted to the ranks to go overseas with the men. He gave up his commission, and was sworn in as a private yesterday. "I'm proud of you," remarked Col. Ackerman, as he shook hands with the new recruit. To-day's orders announced the promotion of ex-Lieutenant and now Pte. Dunsfotd to the rank of Sergeant. He is a son of Mr. W. H. Dunsford, of the Bank of Commerce, and has a brother overseas. Several other lieutenants of the 247th will likely follow his example and go back to the ranks to get overseas.

The detachments from Havelock, Norwood and Millbrook have reached the city and have been examined by the Medical Board. The Buckhorn, Coe Hill and Bancroft quotas are expected to-day, and by to-night the final medical examinations will be completed and the battalion will be ready to leave at any moment. Several of the non-commissioned officers are being transferred to the 57th Regiment, Canadian Defence Force. A number of the men whom the Board has pronounced medically unfit for the infantry are being transferred to the Forestry Draft.

The passing of the 247th Battalion means the passing of the old 93rd Band as well. The bandsmen were boarded with the rest of the battalion and the physically fit members have been selected for the infantry, a number of others transferred to the Forestry draft and the older and medically unfit members will likely be discharged.

The instruments will be handed over to the Speakers' Patriotic League. The band was organized in September, 1915, and, under the skilful direction of Bandmaster Hughes, was recognized as one of the finest musical organizations in the Canadian Expeditionary Force. They accompanied the 93rd Battalion overseas and were then sent home to assist in the recruiting of the 247th. Their work in this regard is at an end, and now the bandsmen are going back with rifles over their shoulders to have a crack at Fritzie.

Lieuts. R. G. Johnston, W. H. Moore and R. H. Leach, of the 247th Battalion, who have been attending the I. S. of I. at Kingston, returned on Thursday evening.

Pte. Wm. Lanoue has been added to the strength of the 247th Battalion.

Pte. W. A. Primeau of the 247th Battalion is promoted Sergeant in to-day's orders.

Mrs. E. Wegg, 223 Antrim street, has received the following letter from her husband, Pte. E. Wegg, who went overseas with the 93rd Battalion:

Somewhere in France,
March 13, 1917.

Dear Wife,—I received your parcel last night and everything was in Christ is risen! Christ is risen!

Hear the strains so sweet and clear!
"To the world, an Easter greeting

"Christ is risen! Christ is risen!
Go ye forth and join the song.
Tell it to the far-off nations;
Tell of Him who rights the wrong.

Then when all have heard the story
Of the Christ who dwells above,
When the heathen nations hearken
To His messages of love,

He will gather in His children
To His loving tender arms,
And for ever there He'll keep them

INFORMATION IS WANTED

For some time after the enlistment for service in the war was taken up in this city, employers made certain allowances of pay, or part of wage to be continued to men who went into the service. It is now desired by the Patriotic Fund, at Ottawa, to know if such payments are continued, to whom and for what amounts. Of course several of the public service corporations, railways, express companies, etc., made to employees these payments, but generally for a period of six months, which has now elapsed. There are other patriotic employers who have done so and who may be continuing payment.

It is asked that information in this regard be supplied to the Patriotic Fund Office, in this city. The information will be treated confidential. Only the fact is desired.

ALLAN CASSAN KILLED BY AN ELECTRIC CURRENT

Was Engaged in Repairing the Former Lines Leading Into the Plant of the Peterboro' Lock Company

INQUEST TO-DAY

Allan Cassan, a Utilities Commission lineman, was killed by an electric current this morning at 8.30 o'clock while engaged in repairing a high tension lead into the Peterborough Lock Company's plant on Simcoe street. This was one of the wires that had been broken by the heavy snow fall on Friday morning. The lineman, in charge of Mr. Harry Beatty, had worked all day Friday restoring connections and breaks, and the Lock Works job was but one of the large number that were requiring immediate attention.

Three wires, carrying 2,200 volts, were strung from the main syystem on the street into the lane between two buildings of the Lock Works; one of them was down. The first step was to climb the pole at the street line and pull out the safety plugs known as "cut-outs." This was to cut off the "juice" from the wires in the lane. Mr. Beatty then picked up the west wire that was down and examined it. He instructed Cassan to make a new joint while he, himself, went away for a new arm.

When Beatty returned, Cassan was dead. The men who had remained with him apparently did not see exactly what had happened, but they were a unit in their report that the deceased had begun to work on the wire which Beatty had examined just a few minutes before, and which by reason of the "cut-outs" being out, should have been perfectly safe. In other words, the men and officials were unable this morning to determine the exact cause of the fatality. Mr. H. O. Fisk, manager of the Utilities Commission, had the "cut-outs" marked and removed, and personally tested them. That which had been on the western wire, the one that had fallen, was in perfect condition, and responded to the tests to which it was submitted.

An inquest is being held this afternoon at four o'clock at Comstock's.

Allan Cassan was the son of Mr. Thomas Cassan, 576 Homewood avenue. He was born in Seymour, Ontario, and came from Havelock to Peterborough in November. Since then he had been employed with the Utilities Commission. He was in religion a Methodist, in politics a Conservative, and was a prominent Orangeman. He was 26 years of age. He is survived by his father, two sisters and one brother, Aldred and Nellie at home, Mrs. Huffman, Trenton, and William McKenzie, a half-brother, residing in Toronto.

The funeral which will take place in Havelock, will be announced later.

Telegraph and Telephone Transmission Systems Were Broken in All Directions—Some Were Not Yet Repaired Late This Afternoon.

RESULT OF FRIDAY MORNING STORM

IN THE WAKE OF THE STORM.

Telegraph and telephone lines down in all directions. City isolated for about 18 hours.

Over 250 local telephones reported out of service.

150 Bell Telephone poles down in vicinity of Peterborough. Many rural lines severed.

Two fires Friday morning from wire trouble.

Many houses without electric light last night.

The above is an incomplete summary of one of the most disastrous storms that has swept over Peterborough and Midland Ontario in many years. Thursday's rain was but a prelude to a heavy fall of wet, gluey snow that stuck where it fell. Followed a high wind that played havoc with electric transmission lines, disorganizing telephone, telegraph light and alarm systems in all directions. Peterborough's experience was common throughout this part of the province, and it will be weeks before the lines are restored.

Tested Transmission Systems.

The unusual and peculiar combination of heavy, stick snow that adhered to the wires applied a severe and general test to the various transmission systems. Lines that had seemed taught began to droop about one o'clock Friday morning and the wind that blew in from the east added to the strain that felt for every weak spot. Early Friday morning, under the combined pressure of wind and snow the wires began to part, arms snapped off and poles broke into splinters.

"Seventeen poles down along two concessions," reported a farmer from the Millbrook district this morning.

"More than a dozen strewn along the tracks near Foxboro, this side of Belleville," explained G.T.R. Conductor McCarthy yesterday when he arrived with his passenger train at 11.30 a.m. three hours late.

Bell Telephone Co. Has 150 Poles Down Around Peterborough

With 150 poles down in and around the city, Peterborough's long distance telephone service suffered a severe blow from Thursday night's storm. At noon to-day the only out-of-town connections reached to Norwood, Lakefield and Omemee. In the city 200 telephones were reported out of order and it was expected that this number would be increased when all the reports from subscribers had been received.

The heaviest pole casualties the Bell Telephone Company recorded were on the Hastings and Cavanville lines. Near the Henry Hope factory

SATURDAY, APRIL 7, 1917

THE PLOUGH AND THE SWORD.

Isaiah, the prince of prophets, foretold as a condition of peace, the "beating of the sword into ploughshares."

But we are at war now and the condition demanded is beating the ploughshare into a sword.

That is to say, food production has become one of the mightiest and most important agencies of promoting the success of a contest that has become a fight of endurance.

That coalliance of nations will win that can maintain its armies in the best fighting condition represented by food and munitions.

Adequate food supply is the first essential. To vary Napoleon's epigram, an army fights on its stomach. Munitions come next, and we cannot have the fullest supply of this victorious destruction unless we have—in Britain especially—a well-fed, well nourished populace, capable of working long hours at express speed.

Great Britain cannot use her vast money resources to adequate effect without food, which is growing alarmingly short. The "Tight little Islands" haven't the ground to grow a tenth of their food needs, if war conditions favoured getting the most into and out of the land available. They have to depend on outside sources and the chief of these is Canada.

This apparently superfluous exodium leading up to the cream of this appeal is to prepare the people of Peterborough and district as part of Canada, and impress upon them the need of taking the question of greater crop production seriously—in deadly earnest; and not as a mere figure of speech.

Greater production needs more hands. The farms of the country cannot grow greater crops, because of the shortage of labour.

The war has made a serious drain upon an already serious shortage of labour.

The farmers must have help from the towns and cities that have absorbed so many from the farms.

The town dwellers, to respond to this, will have to make some sacrifice; but it will be as nothing compared to the sacrifices our soldier boys and the soldiers of Britain and her allies are making.

They are making these sacrifices for us, and the sacrifices will be greater if we let them go hungry through failure to do our share in supplying them with food.

The allies are not getting enough food. There is a world food shortage. Hardly a nation that is not on short rations, or in a state of semi-starvation or starving.

Bring it home to yourself. If you thought a son, or brother, or neighbour's boy were short of food, wouldn't you strain a point to help him—even take a lot of trouble and do a lot of hard work to get it to the trenches?

Yet, your boy or mine; your neighbour's boy or mine will be in that state if we let the bulk of our soldiers go on short rations by failure to grow and send them enough food.

We should buckle to the task of helping greater production, because it is one of the conditions of victory.

Every pound of additional food we grow will be that much more to feed the people that are spending everything for us.

Even the help of school boys in the towns is demanded and they should enlist. They are too young to fight with guns, but they can fight with pitchforks.

The most important fighters in the battle zone are the men of the supply service, who bring food and ammunition to the front.

Boys and men can be working in the supply service right here in Peterborough county. If they help to grow and reap more food-stuff—they are supplying the soldiers in the trenches.

We need a bumper crop in Canada this year.

The most of Ontario farmers see the necessity and will do their best. But to do their best they must have help from the village cities and towns.

This help can come from High school boys, from retired farmers with enough strength left to drive a seed drill or ride a plough or a reaper, and from the hundreds of men who have been heard to say: "If I was ten years younger I would be in the fighting ranks."

Forty-five is the limit for army service, but thousands of men between forty-five and fifty are "fit" for farm work.

Even the girls can help. Every summer one can see women driving hay rakes and reapers. That leaves men free to do heavier work and so the greater production game can go on.

Get into line now as much as possible and help get the big crop into the ground. It will grow—the most of it—without much attention. The help will be needed when the short, sharp harvest season comes.

Then, as the Ontario Commissioner of Agriculture (Dr. Creelman) suggests, if we are in earnest, when harvest comes and help must be had to save the crops, then shut down the schools and the factories, and slow down in things generally till the harvest is gathered in, and we do our best bit in feeding the workers in the Old Country and the soldiers in the trenches.

We can have and help greater production if we think; if we "size up" the situation and get ourselves saturated with the tremendous truth that if we win this war and want to do our bit, we can, since we cannot fight, do it by fighting our hardest to feed the fighters and the people that are feeding them with munitions.

Beat the ploughshare into a sword.

THE APPEAL TO YOU.

The public meeting to be held in the Grand Opera House on Monday evening next, is an appeal to every public spirited citizen, and that means you. It is to be held under the auspices of the Greater Peterborough Association, and the object is to complete organization, in order to make the Association practical, and something more than a name.

The proud slogan, "Peterborough has possibilities unparalleled," is a mere jumble of wasted letters and inflated words, without cooperation and coordination of effort to give their spirit effect and realise upon the truth of its spirit.

A part of our "unparalleled" resources is our citizenship. If we do not arouse that and mobilise it for practical service we shall accomplish nothing. It is our chief equipment.

This is a primary object that must be effectively accomplished before one advance step can be taken. No organisation can do the work required with the greatest success without having with it the mass of citizenship, in spirit and co-operation. Every citizen who has a home to be made a better home by being in a little bigger and more progressive city, is interested and should be present.

We expect to see the city council present in body, and as a body, for to the initiative of its head, the Mayor, the movement to culminate in full organisation Monday night, is chiefly due.

The Association no matter how perfect its organisation, and how great its zeal, cannot carry out its plans without the help of the city council; and the city council cannot do its best work without the cooperation and help of the Association.

The latter is calculated to be at once a balance wheel and a spur to the aldermanic body. In fact one of the most important functions of the Association should be to help the council with advice founded on knowledge of needs and conditions in the public interest that should form the basis of action; to be a medium of connection between the body of citizenship and their elected representatives.

Aldermen are not infallible and with a natural desire to do their duty to the best public advantage, will welcome the assistance that the Association can give. Harmony of relationship between the council and the association is the first condition to the only cooperation that can be possible and profitable to the city's interests.

Then the revived Board of Trade can be made a splendid assistance in promoting the objects of the new movement. By constitution and legitimate function it can make itself the right hand of the city council and a splendid co-worker with the Greater Peterborough Association.

It is hoped that there will be a large attendance of ladies. By deference to the old relations between the franchised and unfranchised sexes, the old chivalry of special attention to the ladies is demonstrated by seats being reserved for them in the balcony. Women have a new interest in civic progress, because they have new powers and new responsibilities.

Any civic organisation that does not include women, either in the sense of moral or material help, is to that extent imperfect.

Now is the time, now the season, to get the Greater Peterborough idea in motion. The resurrection of nature, the call to new life and new action in nature, should arouse a new resolve and impulse to be seized of nature's spirit of growth, and new beauty and new energy of accomplishment.

To sum the matter in a word, the ambition of a Greater Peterborough is the concern of every citizen, and it is to be hoped that every class and interest of the city will be largely represented at the meeting in the Grand Opera House on Monday night, April ninth.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

AN APOLOGY IS DUE

The newspaper and other critics who have been denouncing the 83rd Band as slackers because the Adjutant-General of the Canadian forces saw fit to order them back to Canada to assist in recruiting are asked to take notice that all members of the band who are medically fit are leaving Peterborough with the 247th Battalion, going back overseas as fighting men. Before long they will be on the firing line, fighting for the people who have been abusing them for something for which they were not responsible. As a matter of fact, the members of the band have come in for a lot of criticism, which was contemptible and unfounded on facts. Many people seemed to lose sight of the fact that the bandsmen were soldiers who were under orders at all times. They were ordered back to Canada and they came. Their mission here is at an end with the passing of the 247th, and now they are leaving to take their places in the trenches. There are apologies due to these men from the people who have called them "chocolate" soldiers and slackers. It is hoped that these critics will not wait to see the names of the men they were abusing in the casualty lists before making amends.

Two Fires Friday Morning Caused By Short Circuits

Mr. Alex. Reid Lost Two Horses, Stable and Equipment—Result of the Trouble Caused by Storm

About five o'clock Friday morning Mr. James Mowat, an employee of the Peterborough Radial Railway Company discovered a fire in Mr. Alex. Reid's barns at 715 George street which Chief Howard said had been caused by a short circuit or other trouble in the electric lighting system. The blaze had gained considerable headway and soon demolished the stable with its contents of two horses, hay, oats, harness and other valuable equipment. The heavy fall of snow practically saved the house, although it did not appear in serious danger. The Fire Department confined the blaze to the single out-building. Mr. Mowat's announcement was the first intimation Mr. Reid and his family had of their danger. It is understood that the loss is partially covered by insurance.

Shortly after this alarm was sent in the wires were blown down on George street below Smith and the fire teams had to pick their way around them.

Wires Caused This Too.

At 6:10 a.m. the brigade was called to Mrs. Ratchford's home at 300 Edinburg street. Again electric wires that probably had become overheated by a short circuit seemed to have been the origin of the blaze. The wires were burned from the cellar to the roof and small fires were making headway in the cellar and pantry. The loss was comparatively small.

It was stated that Mrs. Ratchford is a widow whose only son was killed in action a short time ago.

H. M. S. PINAFORE AND THE 57th BAND

Double Presentation of "Pinafore" in Opera House for Benefit of Band Fund

The 57th band is in need of funds. The war has hit it rather hard in this respect—the financial support that is needed for any musical organization to maintain its efficiency — provide new music, etc. Another difficulty has been overcome. Many of the younger members of the band enlisted, leaving the "old guard" who have been joined, by a lot of splendid younger musicians. The band has therefore maintained its organization and its capacity and has had regular and effective rehearsals, that have brought it to a high state of efficiency, musically effective, to delight the public when the season of open air concerts comes.

The band is in good shape musically, but it needs funds for new music, etc., and the people will have a chance to help them to obtain funds and get full value in a double sense, in the splendid entertainment that is to be presented, and in the sense of helping a worthy public interest.

The Conservatory orchestra and members of the faculty and the leading musicians of the city are preparing a presentation of Gilbert & Sullivan's classic comic opera, "H. M. S. Pinafore," to be put on at the Grand Opera House on Tuesday and Wednesday nights, May 1st and 2nd. It will be presented under the auspices of the Conservatory Orchestra, that has been diligently practising the music of this fine old English classic, which was first played in May, 1878. Its sterling merit of tuneful music, its refined and graceful comedy, its picturesque costuming and stage setting, gave it an immediate vogue at that time, and it has been often repeated in every part of the world.

A strong and effective local chorus has had the music under rehearsal for two months and have got the uplifting and sprightly choruses "down fine."

The solo parts are in the hands of some of the best vocalists of the city, and the rest of this month will be devoted to perfecting the histronic parts, so that the acting will be on a par with the music, now so well in hand. In the histrionic training and other respects, the services have been tendered of Mr. R. J. Devey, who has made such striking successes in putting on operas, and who has put on "Pinafore" several times. This assistance, combined with the excellent musical training under Mr. Gliddon, will assure a splendid all-round production of an all-round splendid comic opera. The public is invited to remember the dates and give encouragement to good music and give the 57th band a lift. The summer evenings would be dull without the band, and it cannot reach and be at its best without financial assistance.

MUSICAL TREAT AT ALL SAINTS' ON GOOD FRIDAY

The service at All Saint's Anglican church rendered by the choir, assisted by Miss Logan, violinist, was a musical treat in every sense of the word.

The service was opened with prayer by the Rector, Rev. R. B. Grobb, who also read the lesson appropriate to the occasion.

The opening numbers were from Stainer's Crucifixion, as far as the "Processional to Calvary" the bass and tenor solos being well rendered by Messrs. Boddy, Gladwin and Chandler.

The anthem "Calvary" was next rendered by the choir, with a soprano solo by Miss Herbert sung in a very pleasing manner.

Miss Logan contributed two excellently rendered violin solos, "Cavatina" and "Berceuse" her playing was much enjoyed and showed excellent training and great power of execution.

Miss Doris Rathbone in that great air for the alto voice, "He was despised," excelled herself and shows great promise for so young a singer. She was accompanied by Miss Logan, violin, and Miss Flowers, organist, making a beautiful diversion in the programme.

The Duet, "Now we are ambassador" from St. Paul by Messrs. Boddy and Chandler was sung with good taste, making a fitting entrance to the chorus, "How lovely are the messengers" from the same work.

The Quartette, "God so loved the world," was sung unaccompanied and its many pleasing harmonics were well brought out.

The organ accompanist was Miss Flowers and she played with good taste and judgment.

Mr. George E. Chandler conducted the choir and his efforts were well rewarded, each item being deeply appreciated, light and shade being a marked feature.

Special Services In George Street

The Easter services in George street Methodist church will be of special interest. The church will be beautifully decorated for the occasion and at the evening service, special music will be provided. The service will close with the rendition of the United States National Anthem.

August 9th, 1915.

"I think it my duty to tell you what "Fruit-a-tives" has done for me. Three years ago, I began to feel run-down and tired, and suffered very much from Liver and Kidney Trouble. Having read of "Fruit-a-tives", I thought I would try them. The result was surprising. During the 3½ years past, I have taken them regularly and would not change for anything. I have not had an hour's sickness since I commenced using "Fruit-a-tives", and I know now what I haven't known for a good many years—that is, the blessing of a healthy body and clear thinking brain".

lighted to find the cause of the United Kingdom proclaimed to the whole world by President Wilson, as a fight between Liberty and Militarism; between democracy and despotism.

One of the other things in President Wilson's address, most approved here, is the strong distinction which the chief executive of the United States drew between declaring war on the Hohenzollerns, and the Junkers, and declaring war against the German people.

It is even hoped here that such a declaration may open the eyes of the millions of people who come under the rule of the German Kaiser and encourage them to imitate the example set by Russia by breaking the bonds of servitude which have brought them into this abyss of blood and disaster.

It is even suggested by one of the most prominent London papers that our aviators should drop copies of President Wilson's speech into the German trenches. However nobody even supposes that the German militarists will allow their people the opportunity of reading in full an indictment so scathing of their oppressors and their unjust but hopeless cause.

Puts End to Misgiving.

Finally the speech puts an end to another form of misgiving namely that America would though going to war with Germany adopt an attitude of detachment of limited liability. In short, of going into the war on her own initiative and not aligning herself with the allied governments.

The speech, however, involves full co-operation by the United States on both the sea and on the battlefields of France, and from this hour it is expected that Doctor Page, the American Ambassador, and our Ministers, will be in hourly consultation. It is also expected that America will be marching with mathematical accuracy, step by step, with the allied armies, fleets and policies, and everything appears now as if a new prospective has really dawned on the war.

Nobody here now doubts how the war will end or that the collapse of Germany will come sooner than was contemplated by even the most optimistic of Great Britain's ministers and leaders.

The submarine menace to the shipping of Great Britain and the threatened starvation of our people has been the most formidable of all the German instruments. This, however, has been exercised by the voice of President Wilson and is still further lulled by the swell of the swish of the American navy through the German infested ocean, and the thunder of the hammers in American ship-yards which are replacing our lost tonnage.

In fact, the difference between us since that period before and that which came after the message of President Wilson to Congress, is the difference bewteen a fierce snow storm, which came a few days ago and which reminded us that the long winter still had us in its grasp and the blazing sunshine which to-day heralds the coming spring.

The Ultimate Effect.

In fact the lofty dignity in which President Wilson voiced his appeal to the American people and their representatives has caused the wisest of our men to realize that the ultimate effect upon both the Eastern and Western world will be dealt for years afterwards for the betterment of mankind.

Coming as it does as a most tremendous sequel to the Russian revolution it forms an evangel of transformation which plainly predicts what must come to all the countries of Central Europe before the universe can again breathe the air of peace. The war has been placed on a new level by the statesmanlike pronouncement of President Wilson and plainly indicates that a new era has dawned not only upon Europe but upon the whole world.

In fact, the speech has echoed through the hearts of every true Briton like another utterance of the Gospel. It offers not hate or revenge but the routing out of falsities which have caused a cancer on the face of Europe.

Memorial Service At the Temple Was Largely Attended

Aoout thirty-three dollars was the amount of the collection at the memorial service at the Simcoe street Temple last night in aid of the Salvation Army's fund for the provision of huts for the soldiers in France. A capacity crowd attended the service which was conducted by Adjutant McElhiney. Stereopticon views were shown that sketched the progress of the war from the first events in August 1914. Pictures of Peterborough's first contingent, its men and officers in training here, their life at Valcartier, the overseas journey were thrown on the screen. They were followed to France, and many fine views recalled their work up to the very eve of Langemarck. Other slides sketched the Salomiki expedition, the work on the Italian front, and some features of the western front. Photographs of Peterborough men of practically every contingent bore sad and silent testimony of the sacrifice of war, a sacrifice that has not been lightly borne by the congregation of the Simcoe Street Temple. There was no discrimination of the men of Peterborough in regard to their creeds, but it was evident from the spontaneous recognition of many of the faces on the canvas that the Salvation Army men have been well represented at the front. An incident or two served as a touching reminder that the congregation included more than a few hearts that have been made heavy by the sorrow of war. When the pictures of the two sons of Sergt.-Major Blunt were cast on the screen Adjutant McElhiney named them, b t was being uncertain of how they had fared, asked the father to help him. From the darkness of the hall a voice answered with a little quiver, "one is dead and the other is a prisoner in Germany." Private Eddie Dolman's picture was immediately applauded. "One of our best boys," said the Adjutant. "He is now in an hospital suffering from curvature of the spine caused by a bullet wound." After a pause he continued. "I've just been informed that a letter this week says he is able to be around again on crutches." Generous applause was given the photographs of Major Bennet, Col. Ackerman, as a lieutenant of the 2nd battalion, Col. Tom Johnston, 'the daddy of them all,' remarked the Adjutant. Bruce Blanchard, who was decorated, Sergt.-Major Howarth, Canon Davidson and others. In fact Adjutant McElhiney has secured a splendid collection of slides that are extremely interesting now, and which time will render more valuable.

The singing by the Songsters' Brigade under the direction of Mr. Will Ford was a treat, and the solos by Mrs. Ford and Miss Elsie Northcott were worthy of commendation. And in its congregational singing the Temple affords an inspiration for probably most of the churches of the city. "Abide with me" and "Jesus lover of my soul," were two of the hymns of the service sung with a fine choral effect apart altogether from the fervour that characterized them. The memorial service will be continued to-night when views of those who were lost on "The Empress of Ireland" will be shown with war slides.

EASTER DAY.

This year Easter Sunday comes on the 8th of April. Briefly it may be explained that Easter Day is the first Sunday after the full moon following the vernal equinox which occurs on March 21st.

There are many myths in regard to Easter. One of these which has survived to the present day is the idea that the sun dances on Easter Day. In a book entitled "Popular Antiquities" the author remarks that the practice of going at an early hour to see the sun dance is not confined to the humble peasant and his family but is scrupulously observed by many persons of high rank. We are probably familiar with the old ballad:

"Bye Dicky, she dances such a way
No sun upon an Easter Day
Is half so fine a sight."

The present author of "Values Eastern" quaintly says: "We shall not [illegible] discourage the contraction of a cluster of poles were prostrate, and below Downer's corners there was another string completely out of commission. Rural lines radiating in those and other directions were cut off from local connection, and the service was otherwise crippled by the storm, whose full effects are just beginning to be listed.

Rushing Temporary Repairs.

Mr. G. O. Cameron, local manager of the Bell Telephone Company, stated that their line men worked hard all day Friday and would be out again on Sunday rushing temporary repairs to open up lines of communication. Describing the effects of the storm he said that poles had not merely been snapped off leaving jagged stumps, but that most of them had been broken in two and three places. Contrary to what might have been expected, the wires were not severed near the poles, but apparently had sagged and stretched under their load of snow, finally breaking in the middle of the reaches between poles.

Damage Not Estimated.

It was impossible Mr. Cameron said, even to roughly estimate the damage the Bell Telephone Company had sustained. The storm had swept over a wide extent of the Midland section of the province. Many poles, for instance, were down in the Markham district and towns along the lake front had also suffered rather serious disorganization. It would probably be weeks before permanent repairs would be completed, but the immediate work would be confined to temporary restoration of the circuits. Just as soon as possible all the long distance lines will be re-opened for public service.

Fire Alarm System Was Crippled By Many Broken Wires

"The most troublesome storm in my experience in Peterborough," said Chief Howard who was first called out at 11.30 o'clock Thursday night by a break in the south end at the corner of Romaine and Park street. Within a short time the entire system was demoralized, and was not finally patched up until six o'clock Friday night.

"The snow was heavy and sticky," the Chief explained, "and the wires were soon weighed with a load that caused them to sag almost to the breaking point. Then when the wind blew along they came in contact with other power wires. First the insulation would burn and the exposed wire melt. There were breaks and grounds at Auburn, East City near St. Luke's church, near the C.G.E. and the De Laval factories and at other points."

The Chief was out repairing breaks until about five o'clock Friday morning when the brigade was called to the fire at Mr. Alex Reid's. The men had scarcely returned to the hall when another alarm called them back to Mrs. Ratchford's home on Edinburgh street. Both these fires the Chief attributed to the disarrangement of the electric service system.

All day Friday repair work was continued by the Chief and several of his men until the alarm system was patched up about 6 p.m. But the lines have been so stretched that they will have to be completely examined and tuned up. The Chief believes that in many places, due to the strain of their snow burden, the wires have sagged and are swaying in danger of touching adjacent wires and causing more trouble.

UTILITIES COMMISSION HAD BETWEEN 100 AND 150 BREAKS IN SERVICE

The storm's effects did not cover look the Utilities Commission electric transmission system, and roughly estimated there were close to 150 grounds and breaks to be patched and fixed up. To illustrate the weight of snow that fell Mr. H. O. Fisk stated a span of wires across the river near the old Dickson bridge that had been 20 feet above the water had been borne down by their burden of snow until they were partly submerged in the river. And they were capable of holding up under a strain of 600 pounds. Mr. Fisk pointed out that copper wire has 38 per cent. elongation or stretching quality.

Below Smith street there were no wires across the river. They had all gone down under the weight of snow, and when the Murray street lines broke, Ashburnham's lamp went out. The south ward houses, or quite a number of them, were in darkness last night. St. Luke's and St. John's churches conducted services by lamp light, and only an auxiliary gas plant prevented a postponement of the memorial service at the Salvation Army Temple.

A Statement From Mr. Stevens

The following statement signed by Mr. W. Stevens, Secretary of the Trades and Labour Council has been handed in for publication. It refers to an article that appeared in Thursday's issue of a local evening contemporary. The statement reads as follows:

"On referring to the records of the meeting, Mr. Stevens finds that having written his report of Mr. Elliot's remarks from memory, that while the report was substantially correct, yet some of the incidents were not stated just as Mr. Elliot stated them. Concerning the statement that Mr. Elliot expected to meet rabid people in the Trades and Labour Council. As Mr. Elliot as many warm friends in the Council, some of them almost lifelong friends, as indeed Mr. Stevens is himself, Mr. Elliot very naturally knew of the high standing of the membership of the labour representatives and would not express himself in this way.

With reference to Mr. Elliot stating that the merchants were going to elect a labour mayor and labour aldermen. The merchants have not yet had a meeting to discuss these matters with the labour representatives, and Mr. Elliot never prophecies except when he has a sure thing. He has no mandate from the merchants to speak on their behalf. Very naturally this part of Mr. Stevens' article relates rather to his hopes."

Sure! High Heels Cause Corns But Who Cares Now

Because style decrees that women crowd and buckle up their tender toes in high heel footwear they suffer from corns, then they cut and trim at these painful pests which merely makes the corn grow harder. This suicidal habit may cause lockjaw and women are warned to stop it.

A few drops of a drug called freezone applied directly upon a sore corn gives quick relief and soon the entire corn, root and all, lifts out without pain. Ask the drug store man for a quarter of an ounce of freezone, which costs very little but is sufficient to remove every hard or soft corn or callus from one's feet.

This drug is an ether compound and dries in a moment and simply shrivels up the corn without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue or skin. Clip this out and pin on your wife's dresser.

"CRUCIFIXION" GIVEN UNDER GREAT DIFFICULTIES BY ST. JOHN'S CHO

The nineteenth presentation of Stainer's "Crucifixion," given in St. John's Church last night by the choir under the direction of Mr. R. J. Devey, will be remembered by all who took part in it for some awkward and unforeseen incidents. The early morning train bore away the tenor soloist, Mr. Walter Hutchinson, owing to the sudden death of his father, and when the choir and congregation began to assemble, no lights were available. Mr. A. W. Turner promptly headed a band of willing workers, who raided the Oriental Hotel for lamps, and the church presented a scene which might have been one of the early Christian services held in the catacombs. Many people went away, as it appeared unlikely that the service could be held, others quietly took seats, and when the lamps appeared, the church was three parts filled, it being then nearly half an hour late. The Rev. Canon Cornish, only dimly to be seen at the altar, conducted the devotions, and then the choristers showed their fine spirit by giving an excellent presentation. Mr. Devey took the opening solo tenor work and the beautiful tenor solos in "Fling wide the gates" and "King ever glorious" were splendidly sung by Mrs. W. G. Perks, who was asked to undertake them about 11 o'clock the same morning. Mr. Taylor, to whom fell the bass solo work, sang finely, specially in "Could ye not watch?" and "Is it nothing to you all ye that pass by?" Mr. Ward (gladly welcomed back from Quebec) was also in fine voice as "A voice in the choir," the dramatic passages in Recit. of the mocking thief, and the penitent thief, in number seventeen, were very effectively rendered. The loss of such veteran tenors as Mr. Morphet and Mr. Hutchinson was felt in the four part male passages, but the tenor section was more conscious of it than the congregation, and did well. The doubled quartette, composed of Mrs. Devey, Miss Quartermaine (sopranos), Mrs. Evans, Master Jack Turner (altos), Mr. Marshall, Mr. Heiderman (tenors), Mr. Ward and Mr. Flowers (t gave a most tuneful and reverent dering of both their numbers, so loved the world" and the chor Granier's "Hosanna," the solo o latter song being beautifully sun Mrs. A. L. Amys at the conclusi the work. The whole of the c work was distinctly good, a expression throughout show thorough knowledge of the without which, in the half light able they would certainly have at sea. Mr. Cyril Devey for the time skilfully presided at the or

It must be gratifying to St. J to realize that their purely volu choir can keep up its yearly pr tion of choral work, in addition regular liturgical services, a equally due to the faithfulness members at practice and the unt energy of their choirmaster.

ONLY ONE G. T. R. TELEGRAPH LINE OPEN OUT OF PETERBORO'

Port Hope and Belleville Lines Have Poles and Wyes Down—Trains Were Held Up By Debris On the Tracks.

The morning train from Belleville on Friday due here at 8 o'clock, did not arrive until 11:30. Conductor McCarthy stated that he had been delayed near Foxboro by twelve or fifteen G.T.R. poles that had been snapped off by the wind and blown across the tracks.

Trainmaster Orr and a gang of men went over the road from Lindsay to Belleville on Friday, and was working out of Peterborough again this morning.

Held Up Toronto Train.

The G.T.R. Toronto train due here at 9 p.m. Thursday night was held up between Markham and Uxbridge by four poles having been blown downy across the rails. The trainmen appointed themselves a wrecking crew and cleared the line, arriving here somewhat late.

Only a Wire to Lindsay.

This morning the G.T.R. telegraph lines to Belleville and Port Hope were out of commission and freights were running as sections of the regular trains. Mr. Tom Yerrow had a number of men out this morning on the Port Hope line. Communication with Lindsay was complete, and it was expected that the other lines would be opened this afternoon.

THE WEATHER

The heavy wet snow of Thursday night, while disagreeable, was not unseasonable, as we usually have a similar experience during the first half of April, and sometimes much later. It is a curious fact that practically without exception there is rain or snow on Good Friday. During the last 25 years we have discovered but two years in which there was not snow or rain on that day. These years were 1912 (5 years ago) when Good Friday was an ideal spring day, and 1898, when the conditions were good. Easter Sunday, on the contrary, is generally bright and sunshiny, although there have been exceptions then also, but not many more than the exceptions pertaining to Good Friday. The precipitation during Thursday night, in the form of heavy snow, and yesterday, in rain, totalled 1.20 of an inch altogether.—W. P.

WOMEN'S AILMENTS

Come From Heart and Nerves

Young girls budding into womanhood, who suffer from pains and headaches, and whose face is pale and blood watery, will find Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills build them up.

Women, between the ages of 40 and 50, who are nervous, subject to hot flushes, feeling of pins and needles, smothering feeling, shortness of the breath, palpitation of the heart, etc., are tided over this trying time of their lives by the use of this remedy.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have a wonderful effect on a woman's system, making pains and aches vanish, bringing color to the pale cheek, and sparkle to the eye.

The old, worn out, tired out, languid feelings give place to strength and vitality, and life again seems like living.

Mrs. Alfred Winter, Castor, Alta., writes: "I should like every woman who is suffering from nerves or heart trouble to know how much Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have helped me. For two years I kept a hired girl and was doctoring all the time. After having taken four boxes of your pills I am able to do all my own work. I would especially recommend them to women between 40 and 50 as at that time they are more liable to be far from well. One of my neighbors knows how they helped me, and she is now using them."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c., or three boxes for $1.25, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

MILITARY NEWS

good shape. The apples especially were a treat. I think I will treat the boys to-night to a hot cup of lemonade; that is if I can "sponge" enough sugar. The tobacco came in at a good time as I was nearly out, and we are in the trenches again. The mud is pretty bad, too. It must be fierce in the front line. Tell Roy when you see him that I saw young Hartley from Lakefield the other night, and Ball also, and I went to see Percy Cullen, but he was on fatigue. I enquired for Harold Freeman, but he is in the hospital at present; I don't know what with. I may see him any time now as his battery is not far away, and one of the boys got a letter from him saying he expected to be back with them soon. I have met over half the old Battalion I guess, or had word of them from other lads in the last month. It is like home again to see their faces and have a chat with them. Some of them will have some tales to tell when they get home. I have seen lads from seven different battalions now. I think I have seen some from every draft that came over here.

As far as I know there were only eight drafts came out here and we make the eighth; so I have done pretty good in seeing them all.

I haven't tried on the suit yet, but will let you know next time how it fits. It looks good anyway.

Well, news seems scarce to-day so will close.

From your loving husband,
ERNIE WEGG.

To-day's Orders.

Peterborough, Ont., April 6th, 1917.

Daily orders by Lieutenant-Colonel C. H. Ackerman, commanding 247th Batt., C.E.F.:

Orders for Saturday, April 7th, 1917:

1. Duties—

Orderly officer for Saturday, April 7th, 1917: Lieut. C. G. Shaw.

Next for duty, Sunday, April 8th, 1917, Lieut. V. J. McElderry.

A. E. BRITTAIN, Lieut.,
Adjutant, 24th C. S. Batt., C.E.F.

The Norwood Register says:

Gomp. Lloyd Duffield, who has been invalided home from England, arrived in town on Tuesday afternoon. After two weeks' leave he will report at the Convalescent Home at Kingston, where he expects to spend some time recuperating.

A German helmet—a memento of the first prisoner taken by Pte. John Rathwell of this village, who is fighting with the Canadian contingent in France, is on exhibition in the front window of Messrs. Pearce and Son's store. The helmet weighs 2 1-2 lbs.

Mrs. Simmons, Browntown, has received the following letter:

"Dugout," France, March 7.

Mrs. Simmons,—Many thanks for the socks and gum which I received from Sergt. Stanley of the 93rd a few days ago and which I assure you are quite welcome these days, as the mud is up to our knees, after the thaw. Once more, thanking you for your kindness, I remain

Yours truly,
Corp. A. Rutter,
21st Battalion, C. E. F., France.

My home is 190 Lake street, Peterborough.

Miss Reta Flaherty, 481 Patterson street, received the following letter from Pte. M. J. McAuliffe, who was wounded in France.

March 15th, 1917

Dear Reta,—I will drop you a few lines, hoping to find you all well. I am in the hospital with wounds on left side of face. I am getting on fine and will be back in the trenches in a few weeks. On the gun with me there were seven of us and out of seven there was one killed right beside me. There were two badly wounded another was hit on the right arm. The same shell hit all of us. I got it on left side of face. Out of seven there were two left unwounded. I can thank God that I was not killed. It was about four o'clock in the morning when they tried to come over, but they did not get our trench for our machine gun fire was too much for them. We saw the Germans out on No Man's Land. We turned our machine gun fire on them and all you could see was men wounded going down. In the morning when it was daylight we could see Germans lying all over No Man's Land. When they try to make a raid on us they never can get to our trenches.

Well Reta this is all for this time. Give my love to the rest of the family. I remain.

Lovingly yours,
PTE. M. JOE. McAULIFFE

Death of Jas. Graham

FENELON FALLS, April 6.—Mr. Jas. Graham passed away at his home here on Monday evening, while in his 69th year. He was born in Peterborough, but moved to Vaculam Township with his parents when but a small boy, where he lived till about four years ago, when he retired from farming and moved into the village. He has always been a faithful member of the Baptist Church. Besides a sorrowing wife, he leaves to mourn his loss two daughters, Mrs. John Paterson, of Calgary and Mrs. H. C. Mann, Ottawa; and one son, James, who is living on the homestead.

FRECKLES

NOW IS THE TIME TO GET RID OF THESE UGL SPOTS.

There is no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as the prescription othine — double strength — is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of othine—double strength—from any druggist and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength othine as this is sold under a guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles

Meatless Day Each Week in England

LONDON, April 7.—Baron Devonport, the British food controller, has ordered that beginning April 15 hotels restaurants, boarding houses and clubs, there shall be one meatless day weekly. In London the day will be Tuesday. Elsewhere in the United Kingdom it will be Wednesday.

The Controller has also ordered that no potatoes or food containing potatoes shall be allowed, except on meatless days and on Friday.

The order imposes restrictions on the quantities of meat, sugar and bread at meals served in hotels, restaurants, boarding houses and clubs. The scale for meat is, for breakfast, two ounces; luncheon, five ounces, and dinner, five ounces. The bread restrictions call for two ounces at all these meals.

Baron Devonport, in explaining the order, said he expected it to result in a saving of 65 per cent. of the meat now consumed, 53 per cent. of bread and 63 per cent. of sugar. He said he had originally intended to order two meatless days, but that he feared this would lead to an increase in bread consumption.

The military authorities are looking after the food question by issuing an order which prevents soldiers in garrison from taking meals at the Y.M.C.A. and other canteens. This restriction was referred to by General Sir Francis Lloyd G.O.C., London district when visiting the Maple Leaf Club yesterday.

Commenting on some complaint made by the ladies interested in these clubs to the effect that they were not well filled, he expressed the opinion that they should not be kept for garrison men, but cater only for visiting soldiers. The general believed that the clubs would be found useful for the period of demobilisation, also for any case they had housed over 35,000 men in the past eight months.

QUIT MEAT IF YOUR BACK HURTS FLUSH YOUR KIDNEYS WITH SALTS

Meat Forms Uric Acid, which Clogs Kidneys, Irritates Bladder or Causes Rheumatism

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels; removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

PROBABLE REDUCTION IN HARD COAL PRICES

It is with extreme satisfaction we announce to our trade, that our order for the coming season's supply of Hard Coal has been again placed with the D. L. & W. Coal Co., whose excellent service to the Province of Ontario was so marked during the past winter months, and who when the Canadian Railways found themselves unable to grapple with the existing condition in transportation were able to arrange with the D. L. & W. Railway, who in turn supplied for several weeks sufficient engines and train crews to deliver in D. L. & W. cars to Toronto and Brantford for distribution in these outlying centres two solid train loads of 51 cars each per day of hard coal.

This action modified and relieved largely what was probably the most difficult situation the province has ever faced.

Competative companies have attributed this action to the fact, that Mr. D. E. Russell, General Sales Agent of the D. L. & W. Coal Co., is a Canadian by birth, as is also Mr. E. H. Read, the assistant sales agent, and the Ontario trade being in the hands of Mr. W. A. Martin, born and educated in the coal business in London, Ontario.

Whether or not these facts prompted such a generous spirit to the Ontario trade, it has at least placed in us the maximum confidence, that we will be able during the coming year, as we did in the past to fill every order and every obligation we undertake.

It might not be out of place to say in this connection, that we distributed the past year about 3,000 tons more coal than under normal conditions. Our only regret being our inability, through lack of equipment and stock to supply every demand made on us.

We are unofficially advised, that a reduction in the price of hard coal shipped from the mines will be effective this month, which we will later announce.

The bride, who looked very lovely in a chic suit of pussy-willow taffeta with touches of gold, a gold tagel straw hat, grey shoes and gloves, and carrying a bouquet of Marguerites, entered the church on the arm of her father to the strains of the wedding march played by Miss Sanderson. She was attended by her cousin, Miss Vera Mowry, Toronto, who was prettily attired in an old rose crepe de chene dress. The groom was supported by Mr. Fred Briegel, Montreal. During the signing of the register Mr. Asa Huycke sang "Because." Directly after the ceremony the happy couple left by the 11:30 C.P.R. to spend their honeymoon in Montreal. They will reside in Knowlton, Que.

TRAVEL.

Tales of adventure and travel have always had a great fascination for the young. It is strange that as we get older that fascination seems to get deadened. Perhaps it is because the ever crowding interests of life leave one little time to indulge in the same class of literature that was the delight of our boyhood days; or, perhaps, some of us feel a trifle ashamed to confess that we have a hankering for books that appealed to us when we were young. There are some, I know, of whom this is true. But it is a foolish shamefacedness, and one for which I think very few sensible-minded men would have any thing but contempt. Many of our greatest men of letters have confessed to the unadulterated joy they have felt in turning to the pages of books which were their favourites when they were boys. Some have read and re-read them many times. Robertson Nicoll, than whom there is no more respected authority, has said that Mayne Reid's books are to him as pleasant reading to-day as they were in the days of his youth, and he recommends them as being healthfully exciting and absolutely clean. But Mayne Reid's books and the works of others of his contemporaries are now little known, the taste for Brereton, Altsheler, Barbour, Ellis, and Henty, having almost entirely swept away the memories of Ballantyne, Mayne Reid, Marryat or Lever. Yet, there are no such books published to-day as were written by the four last-named authors.

It does not take very much to arouse in a boy the desire for adventure. In my own case my interest was early awakened, I remember, not so much by books, as by having the good fortune to listen to a thrilling account of two shipwrecks, and an encounter with pirates, by a man who had been a participant in them all. He was a friend of our head master, and a man of Herculean build, and with a beard of almost Barbarossan proportions. It was a wonderful tale he told us, but the part that most affected, us, and made us wild with desire to follow in his footsteps was that which dealt with the struggle with the pirates. The incident took place off the Patagonian Coast. The ruffians had clambered up the ship's side at night and, having murdered the guards, had proceeded to slaughter the sleeping sailors and pillage the hold. Our friend was awakened from a sound sleep by the tickle of a dagger at his throat. The dramatic way in which he described how he brushed aside the dagger, leaped from his hammock and killed his assailant with one blow from his brawny fist, made us hold our breath, but when he went on to say how he dashed up the gangway, and joined in the general melee which was in progress on the deck, and, seizing one savage after another, threw him over the ship's side into the sea till but one was left to tell the tale, then, indeed, we gave vent to our overwrought feelings and shrieked aloud with excitement. One regrettable feature of the recital was that it was the immediate cause of an outbreak of lawlessness in the school and of depredations in the neighbouring villages, but to compensate for this there was created amongst the boys a certain spirit of manliness which, under proper direction, bore good fruit in the lives of many of them in after days.

It is not given to everyone perhaps to receive at first hand accounts of thrilling adventure by flood and field, but it is within the power of everyone to read of such things in books. The Public Library has a splendid Travel section. Almost every part of the inhabited and uninhabited world is represented. We can visit the Dalai Lama in his almost inaccessible fastness and witness the troubles and tortures of Savage Landor in the sacred city of Lhassa; or we can follow Younghusband in his wonderful expedition to Thibet, and learn something of the geography of the country. We can brave the Antarctic colds with Scott or Shackleton or the torrid heat of Africa with Stanley, Livingstone, and a host of succeeding travellers. We can ride to Khiva with Burnaby, that colossal Englishman, whose strength was equal to that of four ordinary men, and who ended his days gloriously fighting against overwhelming odds at Abu Klea, or, going further back, we can read the strange history of Belzoni, that other giant in strength, who, starting in life as a "strong man," at Sadler's Wells Theatre, ended by becoming famous as an Egyptian and African explorer. Or, again, coming nearer home, we can explore our own home land of Canada and learn more than many of us know now concerning the vastness of its resources, its scenic beauties, and its future possibilities. North and South, East and West, are within the reach of all of us. Why do we not take more advantage of our opportunities?

Canadians Give Huns All The Latest News

Hold Up Signs Giving Latest News—Enthusiasm Among American Fighters—Pungent Advice For the Enemy—"Get Rid of Your Kaiser," Read Placard Shown on Parapet.

NEWS IS WELCOMED

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN FRANCE, April 9 (via London)—The new of the action of the United States Senate in voting for war with Germany reached the far-flung western battle line and was hailed with cheers. Nowhere was the gratification greater than along the section of the front held by the Canadians, with whom many thousands of Americans are serving. Many Canadian and British companies were busy preparing signs to hold up over the trenches, telling the Germans the tidings from Washington. This is the favourite plan of the Tommies to convey all sorts of news to their enemies across No Man's Land.

German prisoners taken had not heard of President Wilson's address, and knew only in a vague way of the breaking of diplomatic relations in February. Some of the French signs which were prepared included a brief translation into German of the President's statement that the United States was entering the lists against the German Government and not against the German people. Others included the latest slogan: "No Peace with the Hohenzollerns," while stille others read, "Get Rid of Your Kaiser."

NEWS IS WELCOMED.

The British army as a whole has regarded the United States as practically in the war since the severance of relations. It was said then that active participation was only a matter of time. The President's address was just reaching the frone trenches in its entirety. The gist of the speech has been sent out by wireless and telephone, but the soldiers generally preferred to wait for congressional action before spreading the news to "Fritz."

The weight of America, thrown into the war scales just at this juncture, in what is regarded as the critical year of the struggle, has sent a renewed thrill of confidence all along the front. One could sense it everywhere. Visiting Canadian headquarters and the Canadian trenches, the correspondent was greeted everywhere with outbursts of congratulations. One young captain, whose mother is American, said:

"I feel like hugging everybody in sight. Everywhere I have been I wanted to call out all the soldiers and ask them if they had heard the good news. We Canadians now feel that our American family has been reunited. This will mean wonders for the future relationship of Canada and the United States. We feel more like brothers than ever before."

There was much speculation along the front as to the manner of American participation and an almost universal wish that the United States should be represented on the fighting line at the earliest possible moment, if only by a brigade or division. Mingled with the universal desire that the war should soon be ended was the generally expressed hope that it would last long enough to give the Americans a chance at the Germans. Some of the British officers reiterated the view expressed to the correspondent when diplomatic relations were severed, that American participation might first consist of the sending of special detachments, such as aviators, machine gun sections and batteries of artillery.

MAY REJOIN UNITED STATES ARMY.

While the Canadians are loath to lose the services of any of the thousands of Americans in their ranks it was said at headquarters that it was realized that, with an American force in the field, many of them would desire to be released so as to serve under their own flag. Their long training and experience under most desperate battle conditions would prove an invaluable aid, it was conceded, to an American expeditionary corps. Many of these men might also be available for return home to help in training men. It is also expected that the United States will ask that a large number of its officers be attached to the British army for observation and experience under the actual conditions of European warfare.

Toasts were drunk to America at many a front line dugout. The British look forward eagerly to the participation of the United States, thus helping to completely outlaw German militarism. It can be truthfully said that the khaki clad army faces the foe with renewed determination to bring about a quick and decisive result. There was a new note of joyous confidence as the British and Canadian cannon hurled tons of shells against the German positions.

Pledges By The Kaiser Hailed With Rejoicing

SPECIAL TO THE EXAMINER:

BERLIN, via London, April 9.—Formal pledge by the Kaiser for political reform was generally hailed with rejoicing in editorial comment to-day. But a number of the more liberal newspapers indicated clearly the pledges were not enough to satisfy those seeking greater participation by the paper in election.

United States Begins the First Week of War

SPECIAL TO THE EXAMINER:

WASHINGTON, April 9.—Congress began its first week of real war to-day, faced with the problem of raising 6 billion, 750 million for the "pay as you go" struggle. The House and Senate leaders have virtually decided that approximately fifty per cent of the first year's expenditures, 1 billion, 750 million must be drawn from taxes. A further bond issue of $2,000,000,000 will be asked to be held in readiness for use by the United States army and navy. The United States will loan three billion to the Entente Allies. This sum will be raised by bond issue at 3 1-2 per cent. interest, simultaneously with the two billion issue to be raised by the government, as soon as subscription is complete the three billions will be turned over to the allied governments for their bonds, which will bear 3 1-2 per cent. interest.

Food Prices Were High Sixty-One Years Ago

Young Men Must Be Induced to Remain on the Farms and Become Producers Rather Than Become Consumers in the Cities and Towns—Extract From a Newspaper Printed Sixty-One Years Ago

HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF

That history repeats itself is a common saying. How true it is is illustrated by market conditions and by the press comments on them. The high prices of foodstuffs, the influence of the war on the cost of living, the need of increased production, the paramount importance of agricultural industry, the regrettable disinclination of people to engage in farming, the tendency of the young men to leave the rural communities, and flock to the towns and the cities—these are subjects much talked of and written about at present. A writer in the Halifax Recorder, who loves to delve into the literature of the olden time, has reproduced from that paper of November, 1855, an article that might be applied with hardly a word of change to the present situation. The question of the relation of increased wages to increased cost of living, is much discussed now. This is how it was viewed 61 years ago:

"One of the Halifax weekly prices current of breadstuffs and every kind of provisions, at the present time, is a matter of very serious consideration to most persons in the community. Wages are high, we are told, and trade pretty brisk, with fair profits to those engaged in it; but we fear, the prices of the necessaries of life have more than increased in proportion. Indeed as to a great number of persons, this is certainly the case. Individuals, who are 'just making a living,'—who support themselves and, it may be, their families, upon fixed and limited incomes, whether interest on capital, salary or wages, begin to find themselves straitened, in many instances, to a degree unusual in Nova Scotia."

This reads much like an article of to-day. In the former time, as at present, war was usually saddled with the responsibility of the high prices, but then, as now, there were people who thought the war was not the only thing responsible. The foundation of the trouble, it was said, was in the fact that farming was not sufficiently attractive to retain the young men on the land, that consumption of food was increasing while production was not. The moral pointed was that the young men must be induced to remain on the farms, thus swelling the ranks of the producers, rather than become consumers in the cities and towns.

Sixty-one years later the same difficulties are found to exist, and the same remedies are being advocated. And sixty-one years hence, probably, the student of old newspapers will reproduce the articles of to-day, and find that the old problem remains unchanged.

BRITAIN HARDER HIT THAN PEOPLE IN THE DOMINION

An interesting table has been made by comparing the figures issued recently by the Labour Departments in Great Britain, the United States and Canada, dealing with the increase in the price of staple foodstuffs during the past year. In the United Kingdom, as is to be expected, the advances recorded in leading lines have been most marked. This is readily accounted for by the fact that the domestic production of food has decreased to a great extent, as more and more men have left the farms to join the colours. An equally important factor has been the lack of shipping facilities to bring into England the production of other countries to supply the regular trade and the wants of the army as well.

Cheese and butter have advanced 134 and 114 per cent. respectively. These enormous increases are due largely to the fact that the British Government has brought up imports from New Zealand by the shipload, leaving the regular market bare of supplies of certain grades, and causing other grades to advance according to the inevitable law of supply and demand. An increase of 110 per cent. in the price of such necessary staple as mutton seems incredible. The shipping situation is doubtless largely responsible in this case, as great quantities of New Zealand mutton, commonly called Canterbury lamb, were formerly consumed in the Old Country. As comparatively few ships can be spared in these times of stress for a six weeks voyage to New Zealand and Australia, the importation of frozen meat from this source has naturally been curtailed.

Mounting the Ladder.

Milk has gone up 96 per cent., which is partly due to the heavy demand from the hospitals. Flour has gone up 79 per cent. on account of the high price of wheat, and also owing to the fact that very little is being brought in from other countries. Even at this advance, the flour on sale in Great Britain to-day, is only a coarse grade with a certain amount of shorts left in. Sugar is up 82 per cent., and it is safe to say that it would hove been much higher but for the control exercised by the Royal Sugar Commission. The absence of the former large production of German and Austrian sugar in the world's markets is directly responsible for the greater proportion of this increase.

Fish is up only 35 per cent., which is remarkable considering the difficulty fishermen are meeting with in pursuing their trade.

Canadian prices in the table have gone up more than American. This is due to the fact that the exportation of Canadian foodstuffs has been on a scale great enough to control prices in the domestic market. Flour, and therefore bread, has made the most marked advance, which is directly attributed to the rise in the price of wheat.

What Figures Show.

The following table shows the increase per cent. in the leading lines of foodstuffs since January, 1916:

	United Kingdom.	United States.	Canada.

Higher Prices In Prospect

Comment on the Market Situation —Business is Good

The following comment on the market situation as regards food stuffs, appeared in the Canadian Grocer this week:

The opinion is quite generally held among wholesalers and others closely in touch with the grocery trade that the entry of the United States into the war will mean higher prices in many lines of commodities. Purchase of large stocks of supplies by the United States Government for the use of her troops would have the effect of sending prices in an upward direction. Beans and dried fruits of all kinds will be in big demand for the use of troops. Flour and cereals of all kinds, together with sugar, are commodities that adapt themselves to rations for an army and the consumption is expected to be heavier in these.

Upward Tendency.

In the Canadian markets there has been an upward tendency in numerous grocery lines during the week. Eggs are higher and meats are in firm market. Teas have advanced in Canadian markets and still higher prices are looked for. Some authorities on the tea market anticipate that tea will be enhanced in value by fully 50 per cent. in the near future. Starches and corn syrups are all higher. Cornflakes, gelatine, ketchup, Manila paper, soaps, herring, corn products, are some of the commodities in which there have been advances. Rice will in all probability be in acute market in the near future, as one of the large importing concerns has already repudiated 15 per cent. of its contracts, due to the fact that the British government as requisitioned tonnage on the Pacific Ocean. Business in grocery lines has kept remarkably good.

VALUING ROSS FACTORY.

OTTAWA, April 7.—A valuation of the machinery and contents of the Ross rifle factory at Quebec, which the Government is appropriating, is being made by experts supplied by the Canadian Appraisal Company and an accountant representing the Department of Militia and Defence. It is said the task will occupy the valuators for about two months. When it is completed, an offer will be made, it is understood, to the Ross Rifle Company on behalf of the Government. If that offer is not accepted, recourse will be had to the Exchequer Court, which will fix the price to be paid for the plant.

QUESTION.

O, soul of mine, to life's new rapture born,
Can'st thus forget the splendor of that morn
When, through the chill and silence of the night,
Stole the warm radiance of the Easter light?

Did not thy Lord, before the dawn of day,
Unseal thy tomb, and bid thee come away
And in that sacred garden, cool and dim,
Amidst the lilies didst thou not walk with Him?

Then why shouldst thou, all trembling and afraid,
Still bring thy spices where the Lord is laid?
Unto the heavens lift up thy downcast eyes;
Thy Lord is risen, and thou with Him did'st rise.

Not for the trump of doom and judgment hour
Waits, through years, the resurrection power.
To-day He lives; to-day His life may be Eternal life begun, O soul, in thee.

—Emily Huntingdon Miller.

DEATH TRANSFIGURED.

Perhaps, there is no evidence of the truth of the resurrection story more striking than the wonderful way in which the idea of death has been transfigured by it.

"I am He that liveth and was dead; and behold I am alive for ever more."

A living Christ, dear friends! The old, the ever new, ever blessed Easter truth! He liveth; He was dead; He is alive for evermore! Oh, that every thing dead and formal might be got out of our creed—out of our life—out of our heart to-day. He is alive! Do you believe it? What are you dreary for, O mourner? What are you hesitating for, O worker? What are you fearing death for, O man? Oh, if we could only lift up our heads, and live with him; live new lives, lives of hope and life and holiness, to which death should be nothing but the breaking away of the last cloud, and the letting of the life out to its completion.

—Phillips Brooks.

Easter, and our Lord arisen!
Easter pledge that we shall rise,
As the bulb that breaks its prison
Blooms beneath the open skies!
Alleluia, Lord Victorious!
All our hearts, aspire to Thee.
Prince, exalted, sovereign, glorious!
Thou hast set the captives free.

Nervous Headaches And Neuralgic Pains

Are the Surest Symptoms of Exhausted Nerves—Lasting Cure Effected by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

Peterborough, Ont., March 5.—Among the hundreds of cures being reported from this city as the result of using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, the most prominent symptoms are headaches and neuralgic pains. About one-fifth of all the blood in the human body is consumed in the brain in the manufacture of nerve force. When the blood gets thin and watery the nerves are starved and you have headaches, neuralgic and sciatic pains. Dr. Chases Nerve Food, by forming new, rich blood, affords lasting cure of such ailments.

Miss Edythe Cowles, 563 Sherbrooke street, Peterborough, Ont., writes: "For some years I have suffered from nervousness, sleeplessness and a run-down system. Many times chloroform had to be resorted to to relieve the severe headaches I used to have. I had doctored for years, and had been advised that it would be necessary to have an operation, but I kept putting it off. Finally, I procured a box of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and before I had taken many of the pills found that they were doing me good, so I continued the treatment. My headaches have ceased, I can now eat and sleep fine. I have not felt so well for many years. This is the only medicine I have taken, and I can give the full credit to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I have already recommended it to many of my friends."

Mrs. W. T. Abbott, 536 Patterson street, Peterborough, Ont., writes: "My system was in a run-down condition, and I was troubled with nervousness and sleeplessness. For some time, also, I had been bothered with neuralgia, and, although I tried many remedies, it was without success. Upon the advice of a friend, I commenced using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and found in five or six days that my neuralgia was cured, and I have not been troubled in this way since. I also find that now I can eat and sleep well, and I give full credit of this great benefit to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I might also mention that I had lost considerable in weight, but after using the Nerve Food I gained back the flesh I had lost. My husband has also found Dr. Chase's Nerve Food of great benefit to him, and uses it when he feels run down from overwork."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, a full treatment of 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Do not be talked into accepting a substitute. Imitations only disappoint.

To speak distinctly and directly into the mouthpiece—

AN eminent telephone man of 30 years' experience says that this is the great need in telephoning. Over half the service difficulties would disappear if distinct and direct speaking were practised.

¶ To speak towards your telephone from a yard or so away, or to speak across it means bad transmission—often wrong numbers, misunderstanding and annoyance.

Indians Go Mad Eating Potent Mescal Bean

SIOUX FALLS, S. D.—Secret service agents of the government stationed in the west report that the mescal bean evil among some of the Indian tribes is becoming a menace. The eating of these beans, which are natived of Mexico, for their drug producing effects has extended to some of the Sioux tribes of southwestern South Dakota, but the bean is more generally used by the Winnebago Indians than by any other tribe.

In the effort to put a stop to the mescal bean eating curse among the Winnebago Indians the government is utilizing the services of members of this tribe who formerly were addicted to the use of the mescal bean, but who have reformed and who are proving the best instruments through which the government is working to stop the practice.

SEEING HEAVENE.

The mescal bean is a small brown pellet, about the size of the average overcoat button. These, when eaten in quantities of a dozen or more, leave the user in a temporary state of mental derangement, during which the Indians believe, they are communicating with the Holy Spirit.

"While you are under the influence of this drug you do not see things as they really are," said F. T. Thunder of the Winnebago Indian agency, who is doing everything possible to put a stop to the use of the bean among the Indians of his agency. "I personally used the drug for a long time, and thought as some of them do now. I could hear bells ringing and could see visions of heaven. I had a hard time quitting, but I did so. I am now trying to persuade others to quit."

EXCESSES KILLING MANY

"But we are powerless to stop the evil except through gentle means," he continued. "When I come upon a number of Indian warriors using mescal each has a Bible and they say they are holding a religious meeting. If I try to interfere they can have me arrested for disturbing the peace. The use of the mescal bean to excess is killing many of the red men. Some of them feed it to their babies to quiet them when they cry."

In South Dakota several Sioux Indians belonging on the Pine Ridge and Rosebud reservations have been arrested by the United States authorities on the charge of using the mescal bean.

COULD JAIL EVERY HUN OVER FOURTEEN

WASHINGTON, April 7.—President Wilson had indicated the benevolent policy the Government will pursue toward Germans in this country, legal officers of the administration directed attention to a law on the statute books, under which as soon as Congress declares war existing every unnaturalized male German fourteen years of age or over may by Presidential proclamation be confined or removed as alien enemies.

Under the old Prussian-American treaty of 1828 German citizens here would be to an extent exempt from the provisions of this law. The United States, however, has refused to accede to a proposal of the Berlin Government that the treaty be reaffirmed with changes and additions, and it is understood the document will be declared abrogated if the conduct of Germans make such a step necessary.

State Department officials revealed that Germany recently replied to the American note refusing to accept her proposal regarding the treaty, because of her "disregard of the canons of international courtesy" and her "clear violations" of the treaty itself. While no details were given out, it is understood that Germany denied that she had violated the treaty, and evinced a desire to abide by it.

The American Government in its note said it was seriously considering whether the treaty had "not been in effect abrogated by the German Government's flagrant violations of its provisions."

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Sage Tea and Sulphur Turns Gray, Faded Hair Dark and Glossy

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was sto make it at home, which is mussy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients for about 50 cents. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended fo rthe cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

Gen. Foch, Hero Of The Marne, Is Now Retired

PARIS, April 7.—General Ferdinand Foch, the hero of the battle of the Marne has been detached from active service. A list of promotions issued contain the brief announcement to this effect. It is not known whether General Foch has been assigned to some special political or military mission, or whether he has been definitely placed on the reserve through ill-health, and as having reached the age limit. He is succeeded as general of division by Gen. Laboria, formerly chief of brigade.

Another well known leader who has been withdrawn from active service is General of Division Eydoux, military governor of Dundirk and former head of a military mission, which reorganized the Greek army in 1913. Five generals of brigade are retired, their places being taken by colonels who distinguished themselves in recent operations and who are given temporary rank of generals. General Lyautey, former Minister of War, is reappointed resident-general in Morocco, the post he held prior to joining the Briand Ministry.

General Foch is 66 years of age, and has enjoyed a brilliant reputation as one of the foremost strategists in the French army. He is a Basque by origin, and spent his early years in Metz. After the war of 1870 he went to Paris and devoted himself to preparing for the next struggle with Germany, which he confidently predicted would open with another lightning drive by the Germans against Paris.

At the battle of the Marne, General Foch held the centre of the French line with 120,000 men. He was opposed by 200,000 Germans, including the famous Prussian Guards. When both his wings were being driven back, General Foch launched a terrific attack against the German centre, which was completely successful, and forced the entire German line into a general retreat. Hurling his men through a gap incautiously exposed by his retiring foe, Gen. Foch delivered the decisive blow of the tremendous conflict. Subsequently he was given command of a group of armies, and was promoted Grand Officer in the Legion of Honour. King George of England conferred on him the Order of the Bath, first class.

THE ROMANOFF FAMILY.

BERLIN. — Professor Stephen Kekule von Stradowitz, Germany's best known authority on heraldry, publishes an interesting article on the House of Romanoff, showing that the Russian family really has no claim to the Russian name, but are purely of German blood and of the house of Holstein-Gottorp, which is the youngest line of the reigning house of Oldenburg-Holstein. The Romanoffs hailed originally from the vicinity of Tver, the professor says. As the oldest known ancestor he mentions Andrew Ivanovitchas Kobyla. In 1347, this Kobyla journeyed to Tver to woo a woman for his relative Gerdia.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

Choosing a Husband

By ELINOR MARSH

Miss Virginia Ashurst was known to possess a fortune producing $30,000 a year. Naturally she had no end of suitors, and she was quite sure that all of them wished to marry her money as well as herself and without her money would not think of marrying herself.

She resolved to submit a series of questions to each one of the half dozen men who had proposed to her. These questions were to be propounded anonymously, the men not knowing from whom they came. This was the form of her interrogatories:

"First.—State what you consider the claims of a wife on her husband.

"Second.—Do you hold that the husband or the wife should be at the head of the household?

"Third.—What is the object of your life?

"Fourth.—Do you believe in the present system of education used in schools and colleges?

"Fifth.—Should the mother's or the father's views be paramount in the training of children?

"Sixth.—Should the wife be permitted to receive the attention of men other than her husband?

"Seventh.—Should the husband be permitted to pay attention to other women than his wife?

"Eighth.—What are your views as to the use by a husband of money belonging to a wife?"

Miss Ashurst hoped in the replies to these questions, selected with some care, to form an opinion of the inner selves of those who replied to them. Had she asked them herself of her suitors she knew that she could not depend on the sincerity of the answers. She surely had an advantage in not being known.

She was somewhat disconcerted to find that all her suitors were applicants for the hand of this wealthy unknown. The replies were all evidently well considered and satisfactory to her, some especially so in certain numbers, some in others, but altogether they made up a fair average. Yet there was no one that showed in every number just what she wanted. Besides, she was miffed that every one of the men who had tried to make her believe he loved her and would be miserable without her was ready to marry another girl with a fortune. She resolved to send her list of questions to another half dozen of her men acquaintances.

She received replies in every case. Five of these replies were acceptable, some of them being carefully worded and showing that the writer was a thoughtful, well balanced person, while one treated her examination paper with contempt. This person was Bob Clendenin, a young fellow whom Virginia might have considered as one she would like for a husband had he not been a sort of free lance, apparently oblivious to the seriousness of life. His reply to the answer as to the claims of a wife on her husband was that the fewer claims she had the less likely she would be disappointed. He averred decidedly that the husband should be head of the house. His object in life was to get through it with the least bother. He pronounced the present system of education "rotten to the core." The father's views as to the training of children should be paramount, but they never would be. No father could ever compete with the mother in winning the affection of the children. Consequently they would always be influenced by her instead of him. As to a wife or husband being permitted to pay attention to other men or women, either might do so ad lib unless the other objected.

When it came to the last question, concerning the use of a wife's money by a husband, the reply was that he was incompetent to answer it because he, being poor, would not on any account marry a rich wife, and he knew that such a condition would surely render the husband subservient to the wife, and he had no fancy for any such serfdom.

Miss Ashurst, who had started out with one idea, became captivated with another. She had intended to be guided as to the suitor she should accept by the good, hard sense indicated in the replies of the applicant. The man showing the most depth of thought and feeling in his replies would be favored. But she was much staggered by Mr. Clendenin's examination paper, especially by his reply to her last question, in which he declared that he would not be tied to any rich woman. What staggered her was a desire that sprang up in her breast to make him eat his words.

And so it was that this human attribute which is in both men and women came up to interfere with Miss Ashurst's very sound and practical way of choosing a husband. She resolved to win—if she could—the man who would likely give her the most trouble, for, with his views concerning a poor man married to a rich wife, constant friction was to be expected.

As to how Miss Ashurst won a husband despite his objections to marrying money and how it all turned out after their marriage there is no room here. Mr. Clendenin meant what he said in objecting to be tied to a wife's fortune, and Miss Ashurst, after all, was obliged to call in the little god to get him. After getting him she found him an excellent manager for her estate and paid no attention to it herself.

Hopes Women Will Adopt This Habit As Well As Men

Glass of hot water each morning helps us look and feel clean, sweet, fresh.

Happy, bright, alert—vigorous and vivacious—a good clear skin; a natural, rosy complexion and freedom from illness are assured only by clean, healthy blood. If only every woman and likewise every man could realize the wonders of the morning inside bath, what a gratifying change would take place.

Instead of the thousands of sickly, anaemic-looking men, women and girls with pasty or muddy complexions; instead of the multitudes of "nerve wrecks," "rundowns," "brain fags" and pessimists we should see a virile, optimistic throng of rosy-cheeked people everywhere.

An inside bath is had by drinking, each morning before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of lime stone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour fermentations and poisons, thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Those subject to sick headache, biliousness, nasty breath, rheumatism, colds, and particularly those who have a pallid, sallow complexion and who are constipated very often, are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store which will cost but a trifle but is sufficient to demonstrate the quick and remarkable change in both health and appearance awaiting those who practice internal sanitation. We must remember that inside cleanliness is more important than outside, because the skin does not absorb impurities to contaminate the blood, while the pores in the thirty

War Hastens Wedding in the United States

The first thing Private Donald Story Stewart did after the 71st Regiment had been ordered out was to get married. He obtained a leave of absence and telephoned to Miss Ida Kramer Ettlinger, 430 West 162nd street, and asked her to meet him at the marriage license office in the New York Municipal Building. The couple met and were married just one year and a half earlier than it had been announced they would be.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Ida C. K. Ettlinger, widow, and a grand-daughter of the late William Kramer, who established the family fortune as the owner of the old Atlantic Garden and the Thalia Theatre, in the Bowery, when they were in their heyday.

A reporter called on the mother, and she and her other daughter, Miss Elsie H. Ettlinger, were surprised that Miss Ida had been married. While the reporter was there, the bride returned, alone, and trying to assume a natural and unconcerned manner.

"Why, how do you do, Mrs. Stewart?" the mother said.

"The daughter fell into her mother's arms and cried a bit, and then said:

"Well, he was going to war, and we thought it best to get married. See, I am wearing his signet ring as a wedding ring, but he has a wedding ring. I didn't wear it home, because we wanted to keep it a secret."

The bridegroom is 23 and the bride 20 years of age.

Tommy a Tragic Comedian Over Trench Burial

Patrick MacGill is a young Irish author of "Songs of the Dead End," "The Rat Pit," and other novels and books of verse. He is serving in France.

(By Patrick MacGill.)

LONDON, April 2.—It was in the trenches near B—— last summer. I was sitting on the firestep cleaning my rifle when I noticed a man coming along the trench toward me carrying over his shoulder a wooden cross.

"What are you going to do with that?" I asked him when he drew near. I could now see the inscription on the cross; it read: 'A notre devote fille.'"

"It's to put over me mate," said the man. "Poor boy, he got killed yesterday and we buried him behind the trench. So I wanted somethin' to put over him, and as luck would have it a shell dropped into the graveyard beyont there and flung this over on top of me dugout."

'Can you read French?" I asked. "The inscription . . . ." But I went no further. To the Irish soldier the symbol meant everything; the inscription did not matter and the cross itself was fashioned in commemoration of the departed; the sexless, silent dead."

Many Graves Seen.

Here in the vicinity of the trenches were the graves of soldiers innumerable. At every turn where a gap in the parados opened to the rear they stared you in the face, the damp, clammy mounds of clay with little crosses over them. Each inscription, when there was one, told of the same tragedy.

A soldier had been killed in action on a certain date; his name, number, and regiment were given and his mates had placed little bunches of flowers on his grave. When his regiment moved off the flowers faded. Maybe the man's cap was left there on the black earth, but in course of time the kindly grasses covered it up.

Further back, near the banks of the canal, was a well ordered graveyard where death was allowed most of its customary reticence save when now and again casual shells dropped on the spot and delved into the graves. I have often visited the spot, and a quiet afternoon last August found me there amongst the graves.

Place All Quiet.

How quiet the place was. On my right I could see the wide winding street of a deserted village, its homes, its tall poplars, with their green branches, and my soul felt strangely quieted!

In its peace, in its cessation from labour there was neither anxiety nor sadness. It seemed as if the houses, all intact at this particular spot, held something sacred and solemn, that in them all was good. They knew neither evil nor sorrow. Here was peace, the desired consummation of all things. But it was the peace brought about by war, the peace of the desert and death.

I looked at the grave near me, saw the cross and its rude lettering. This was the epitaph, this and nothing more: "An Unknown British Soldier."

On a grave adjoining was a cheap gilt vase with flowers. English flowers, faded and dying. I looked at the cross. One of the Coldstream guards lay beneath. He had been killed in action six months before. I turned up the black edged envelope which lay on the vase and read the badly spelled message:

"From his broken-harted wife and loving little son, Tom."

Here lay Canadians, Australians, Frenchmen and Germans. Many of the French had bottles of holy water placed on their graves under the crosses. Several soldiers of a mountain battery were buried in a corner near the village wall. The barn in which they were billeted was hit by a high explosive shell. Thirty-one were killed.

Now they rest in the bosom of the kindly earth, under crosses fashioned from biscuit boxes. On the back of one of the crosses was the wording in black: "Biscuits 50 lbs." Most of the epitaphs on the crosses were short and concise and ran as thus:

And under it stamped on a bronze plate was the information: "Erected by the Mobile Unit (B.E.C.S.) to preserve the record found on the spot."

Cheerful in Sorrow.

But even in burying the dead, the British soldier, one of the bravest and most cheerful of created beings, finds scope for that humor which is peculiarly his own. All soldiers who have been in the trenches near Cambrai will recollect Cock Robin Pump and the epitaph over the dead robin which was buried beside it. The poor bird was killed by a "coal box"; a Tommy buried it and was moved to poetry in inscribing the epitaph. The verse ran thus:

"Cock Robin's dead beside this pump;
A coal-box hit him such a thump—
And this is all we've got to tell;
We'll lick the swine that fired the shell."

'Twixt being a rainbow chaser or a grouch, go after the rainbow every time.

LETTUCE GROWING

Lettuce is the most popular and the most extensively grown salad crop. It is in demand the year round for the preparation or the garnishing of various dishes. A considerable quantity is produced in the greenhouses during winter and commands good prices.

Almost every kitchen garden has a few rows of lettuce in the spring, since it is one of the easiest crops to grow and will give the earliest greens for the table. Market gardeners start their plants in hotbeds, a frame-like which is not recommended for the amateur even if he has a hotbed at his disposal. The heat and dampness will cause many of the plants to damp off unless the greatest attention is given to ventilation. Lettuce can be started earlier than is possible in the open ground by setting up a cold frame. This is simply a rich patch of garden soil with boards around the four sides and covered with sashes. Bank up the sides and have mats or blankets ready for covering on cold nights. The frames may be put in shape as soon as the snow is off. Seed is sown in shallow furrows not more than quarter of an inch deep. Water daily and if the sun shines hot give plenty of ventilation in the middle of the day. When the plants are from one to two inches high and well hardened off they are set in the open ground.

When sending it done in the garden and no transplanting is to be done the rows are usually 12 to 14 inches apart. Or the seed may be scattered broadcast and raked in with a hoe.

There are many different varieties of lettuce and the beginner is likely to be puzzled by the lists in the catalogues. The box varieties have an upright habit of growth and loaf shaped heads. The crispest kinds are those of the butter class some of which form heads like cabbage and others are merely bunched. Trianon and Paris are two of the best Cox varieties; Grand Rapids is best for forcing while Iceberg is best for ground-planting on account of remaining headed for some time. Improved Hanson, a curled cabbage sort, and Improved Salamandu, an uncurled cabbage, are also recommended.

Lettuce is a cool weather plant, and hence well suited for early spring growing. When properly hardened the young plants will stand even lower temperature than cabbage. There is little trouble from insects or disease, about the only enemy when grown outdoors is the plant louse. With a quick growth the injury from these can be largely avoided.

EASTER DAY.

Natures' vernal smile of gladness
Wakes the earth from winter's gloom,
Vanished, too, for us all sadness,
Christ is risen from the tomb.

In death's cold embrace still sleeping,
In the sepulchre He lay,
(Watch and ward strong angels keeping),
Prostrate, silent, yesterday.

But to-day, ere dawn has risen,
Lo, the Conqueror, in His might,
Breaks the bars of that dark prison,
Wakes to endless life and light.

Now after death and hell victorious,
Our Redeemer, king He reigns,
And the great and high, and glorious,
Still for us to plead He deigns.

Peace, and love salvation bringing,
Jesus lives again for aye.
Hope and joy, like flowers are springing,
Gladsome, in our hearts to-day.

Loud earths' myriad tongues are telling
Of His resurrection power,
Songs of grateful love are welling,
Free from every verdant bower.

ECZEMA ON FACE
WAS SO BAD HAD TO STAY IN HOUSE

All skin diseases such as eczema or salt rheum, itching or burning rashes, eruptions, ulcers, boils, pimples, etc., are all caused by bad blood, and while not usually attended with any fatal results, may sooner or later develop into some serious blood trouble and the entire system become affected.

Burdock Blood Bitters, that old and well-known remedy, will cleanse the blood of all its impurities, and by this means cure all skin diseases and other blood troubles.

Mrs. Ernest Andrews, Hamilton, Ont., writes: "My face was covered with eczema and was so terribly bad I had to stay in the house. I had ten different doctors but got so tired of their treatment that I went and bought a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters, and it helped me, so I kept on taking it. Now I am cured, and have a lovely skin.

"People who used to see me when I was so bad and see me now will not believe it, but I always tell them that nothing cured me but Burdock Blood Bitters."

THE 1917 CAVAN COUNCIL

Who has not heard of a "Cavan Blazer?" The men who in the early history of Cavan township not only blazed the way for subsequent civilization, but at the same time earned for themselves the unique appellation of "Cavan Blazers" by reason of the many escapades in which the figured. Father Time was lenient with quite a few of the original "Cavan Blazers" and many of them lived to an advanced age. Ten or fifteen years ago it would have been possible to have mustered at least a platoon of the Old Guard, but times have changed, and the real old-time Cavan Blazer is getting to be about as scarce as the veterans of Balaclava. That their survivors are not lacking in the sterling qualities of their parents is indicated in the appended references to the present Township Council of Cavan Township.

CAVAN COUNCIL 1916—1917.

It will be generally conceded that in points of executive ability and useful attention to the requirements of the Municipality of Cavan, the Council has favourably impressed the electors, as they were all returned by acclamation in 1916—1917. All are men of good standing, sound judgment and fair business accumen, and although not singular in such respects in the good old township of Cavan, they are qualities to be considered in electing a reeve and council.

Reeve A. J. Henderson.

Mr. A. J. Henderson, Reeve of Cavan, has been a resident of the township all his life. He was born in the neighbourhood where he now resides. His father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Henderson, came to this county from the county of Fermanagh, Ireland, over sixty years ago, settling on the Fall Line, where they remained for a number of years.

Mr. B. J. Henderson being the youngest of a family of six (his mother dying when he was but an infant), he was cared for in the home of Mrs. Jas. Fallis (Miller James), where he remained until the death of both his foster parents, when he then purchased the farm belonging to the late Benj. Mitchell, where he has been carrying on farming for the last twenty-five years. His father and the rest of the family moved to Jackson, Mich., when he was but a small boy. He has two brothers living, viz.: Dr. C. W. Henderson, ex-Mayor of Union City, Mich., and J. W. Henderson of the Henderson Iron Supply Works, Buffalo, N.Y.

Mr. S. J. Henderson entered municipal life six years ago, last January. He was Councillor for two years, Deputy-Reeve two years, and this year in his third term as Reeve. In each office he has been attentive to the duties involved and has endeavoured to be fair and honest in everything that came before the Council. Reeve Henderson is generally popular and we predict that he will reach the Warden's chair and even higher honours if such is his desire. He is thoroughly capable to fill any office the electors may call him to take. He is connected with the Oddfellows and Independent Order of Foresters, and was twice a delegate to the High Courts in Guelph and Barrie. He was District Master of Cavan Orange Lodge and was asked to allow his name to come before the County Lodge as a candidate for the C. M's. chair, but on account of other urgent matters he declined the honour with sincere gratitude to the brethren for their good will. Mr. Henderson was President of the Millbrook Agricultural Society two years and in every official capacity he has done his duty systematically, faithfully and well. Reeve Henderson is a prosperous, happy farmer, and is enthusiastic in supporting everything which he believes is for the good of the community.

Deputy Reeve Harold Baptie.

Mr. Harold Baptie, Deputy-Reeve of Cavan, was born in the Village of Ida 38 years ago. When quite young with his parents, he removed to his

He is a son of Mr. James Baptie, whose father, the late Alexander Baptie, was one of the first blacksmiths in Cavan township. Coming from Scotland, where he learned his trade, in the year 1839, he located in Peterborough, from which city he removed to Cavanville, and from there to Ida, where he died in 1857. Of his family of four sons and one daughter, three survive him, viz.: Dr. George Baptie, Ottawa; Mrs. W. H. Lough, Ida, and Mr. James Baptie, Springville.

Deputy Reeve Baptie's mother was a Miss Goodfellow, a daughter of the late Archibald Goodfellow, who came to Canada from Edinburgh, Scotland, and settled near Fraserville, Monaghan Township.

Mr. Goodfellow erected a large brick store in 1868, and afterwards conducted a general store business there. This store was destroyed by fire some years ago. Mr. Goodfellow lived retired in Belleville for some years before his death, which occurred in 1903.

Dep. Reeve Baptie is a young man of good ability and integrity. His duties as Dep. Reeve have been carefully and wisely attended to. He is a member of Fraserville L. O. L. No. 46, and has filled most of the offices of the Lodge. Mr. Baptie is energetic, painstaking, and enthusiastically upholds any movement for the betterment of the community and the electors have every confidence that he will always do what he believes to be the right thing.

Councillor George F. Clarke.

Mr. G. N. Clarke, Councillor, son of the late Jas. Clarke, was born on Lot 20, Con. 8, Cavan. His grandfather, on his father's side, was the late John Clarke of Cavan, who was born in the County of Monaghan, Ireland, and came to Canada in 1833. The late John Emerson was Councillor Clarke's grandfather, on his mother's side. He was the first school teacher at Fairmount, and taught school in his home before the school was erected.

Mr. Clarke entered the Municipal Council in 1914, taking the seat made vacant by the death of the late J. H. Armstrong. He has filled the position with credit to himself, and the electors. He is fair-minded, honest, and has great executive ability. He is a member of L. O. L. No. 46, Fraserville, and was W. M. at the time their hall was built. He is also a member of the C. O. F., I. O. O. F., Fairmount Farmers' Club, the Methodist Church, and Board of Directors of the Millbrook Agricultuarl Society.

Councillor Jas. L. McCamus.

Mr. J. L. McCamus, Councillor of Cavan, is a son of the late Thomas McCamus, and was born on the old homestead adjoining the farm on which he now resides, which was settled by his grandfather, the late Robert McCamus, who came to Canada from the County of Cavan, Ireland, in the year 1820. His grandfather, on his mother's side, was the late Jas. Fair of Cavan.

Councillor McCamus is a young man with splendid ability, and he has proven himself a capable representative of the electors in the Council. His sound reasoning on matters that came before the Council has been appreciated and favourably commented upon by his colleagues.

He is a member of the I. O. O. F., C. O. F. He is an Anglican and an active worker in Christ Church, Baliieboro. He is one of the most prosperous farmers of the township, and is an extensive dealer in thoroughbred Short Horn cattle.

He was elected by acclamation each year since he entered municipal life, and no doubt he will climb to the top of the municipal ladder if he so wishes.

Councillor Edwin W. Ball.

Mr. E. W. Ball, Councillor of Cavan, is a son of Mr. W. R. Ball, of Millbrook. His grandfather, on his father's side, was the late John Ball of Enniskillen, Ireland, who came to this country when 22 years old, and settled on Lot 3, Con. 5, Cavan. Councillor Ball's grandfather on his mother's side, was a daughter of the late Archibald Lowery of Cavan, and on his mother's side, a daughter of the late John Howden of Cavan.

Councillor Ball was born on the Fallis Line, and has been a successful farmer. He farmed about eight years on the boundary between Smith and N. Monaghan, afterwards moving to Cavan. Lot 21, Con. 12. About fourteen years ago he married Miss Annie Henry, daughter of the late Maxwell Henry. Councillor Ball is a member of the Farmers' Club, the Bee Association of Ontario and is always interested in all things pertaining to the welfare of the farmer. He is a Presbyterian.

COUNCILLOR EDWIN W. BALL.

He was elected Councillor by acclamation in 1916—1917, and has given liberally of his time to assist his colleagues in the Council to improve conditions in the municipality. His ability as a Councillor, generally is admitted, and no doubt he will attain higher municipal honours in due course.

Clerk J. N. McGill.

Mr. J. N. McGill (at present on leave of absence, being Capt. Quartermaster with the 136th O.S. Batt. in England), was born in the Township of Manvers, at Ballyduff, but has resided in the Township of Cavan since he was a year and a half old. He is a son of the late J. J. McGill of Cavan (whose father, the late James McGill, of Burton, Manvers), and Mary Ann Coe, daughter of the late John Coe, of the Township of Cavan. John Coe, granfather, and Richard

CLERK J. N. McGILL.

Coe, an uncle of J. N. McGill, were members of the Cavan Council for a number of years.

Mr. J. N. McGill was a member of the Council for three years as Councillor, and two years as Deputy-Reeve, which office he resigned to take the clerkship.

As Councillor and Deputy-Reeve he filled the positions most capably.

He is secretary-treasurer of the Millbrook Agricultural Society, which office he has held since the late Major C. H. Winslow resigned. With such capable secretaries as Mr. W. Vance, the late Major Winslow and J. N. McGill, and Sec. H. R. Armstrong, pro tem, together with the splendid work of the officers and directors, the Millbrook Central Exhibition has continued to grow, until now it has the distinction of being one of the best fairs in Canada. Mr. McGill is an ex-President of Cavan Liberal Conservative Association, and is a director of the Lindsay Central Exhibition. Mr. McGill has been a baseball enthusiast in past years and was one of the best first basemen in Canada. He was also a great coacher and often turned what seemed to be a losing game into a victory.

Capt. Q. M. McGill stands high in the esteem of the people of Cavan and Millbrook.

TREASURER T. A. CAMPBELL

Mr. Campbell, the trustworthy and capable treasurer of the Township of Cavan is a son of the late George Campbell, whose father, the late Thomas Campbell of Hope Township, was born in the north of Ireland, and came to this country about 80 years ago and settled at Campbellcroft, where one of his sons still resides. He took a prominent part in municipal and political affairs. His wife was Kathleen Fair, a sister of the late Wm. Fair of Millbrook.

Treasurer Campbell's father settled in Cavan in the early forties and did pioneer work in clearing the woods and bringing the land under cultivation. He filled about all the offices in the gift of the people. School Trustee, Councillor, Reeve, Warden of the county and member of the Provincial Legislature. He was School Trustee for many years and was influential in having the present excellent site selected for our beautiful school and grounds. He was Treasurer of the township for six years and was such at time of his death. His wife was Margaret Walsh, daughter of the late Wm. Walsh.

Of a family of five children, three survive, G. A. Campbell, electrical engineer (now overseas) and who recently received great praise for his invention of a trench stove; Miss Margaret S. He has been treasurer for twelve years. He is a member of the Masonic Order and has been through all the chairs. He has fine ability and plenty of initiative.

In another issue we will give a history of some of the ex-Reeves of Cavan.

Fifteen Lashes Given
To Lad of Seventeen

LONDON, Ont., April 5.—The cat-o'-nine tails was used in London jail yesterday for the first time in many years. Fifteen lashes were received by a youth found guilty last week of criminal assault, the sentence being imposed by Judge MacBeth. During the past few days a storm of indignation has been aroused by a story to the effect that the prisoner was an undersized, delicate boy of fifteen years, whose environment before and since leaving England was such that he was a victim of society. Sentiment was thus aroused against the Court's decree, and so many protests were voiced that Mr. S. F. Glass, M.P., consented to represent these opinions to the Department of Justice, and he wired the Minister this morning asking him to order the flogging delayed. The Sheriff had received no instructions from Ottawa this afternoon, and the punishment was duly meted out to the boy, after which various rumours were circulated that the boy had been brutally beaten.

The facts appear to be that the prisoner is a husky lad of seventeen years, weighing more than 135 pounds, and, according to his own father, a healthy, rugged youth. The girl he attacked was an eight-year-old orphan.

Daily Newspaper
Considered the Bes

Ads in Them Sure To Be Read, Says Charles E. Carpenter.

ST. LOUIS, April 7.— That there can be no doubt about daily newspapers being by far the best media for reaching the people in the community in which they circulate, is the statement of Charles E. Carpenter, president of E. F. Houghton & Co., Philadelphia, who addressed the business meetings in St. Louis recently. His subject was "Advertising from the Viewpoint of a Successful Advertiser."

"In both cases," continued the speaker, "the periodical is purchased for the reading matter, but the reader of the magazine may or may not refer to the advertising pages, as they are frequently segregated, and very often the perusal of a single article or story terminates the readers interest in the magazine. The reader of the newspaper, even though he be of the sort who never reads the paper thoroughly, will scan each page for news items, and it is then that the advertisements catch his eye, and in direct proportion to their size and attractiveness of copy." Mr. Carpenter said htat the spoke as an extensive user of advertising.

THE WAR HEROES.

(By Emma P. Seabvry.)

We met them everywhere, and never dreamed
We walked and talked with heroes by the way;
"No heroes in our age," we liked to say;
Just common men with common aims, they seemed,
Living their lotted span, who toiled and schemed,
Despaired and hoped, with here and there a ray
Of some diviner sense that bade us stay,
Or flash of loveliaht that about them gleamed.

But when it came, the great supremer test
Of manhood's best and bravest; at the call
For country, home, and life, God's promised years;
They stood unflinchingly, smiled at Death's request,
Wrenched love away, waved cheer, and hope to all,
And fell, engulfed in glory, and our tears.

Ballard Beaten in Liquor Business

North Sydney Dealer Relinquishes $14,000 of Liquor to Temperance Leader.

Another development in the interesting liquor situation at North Sydney, N.S., has occurred there within the last few days. On Thursday, Deputy Inspectar Lamond, accompanied by the Rev. Mr. Schurman, seized six barrels of spirits, the property of Mr. Charles Ballard and valued at over $2,000. The liquor was found in a freight car at the C. G. R. Station, and was awaiting shipment to New Waterford. On Friday, Mr. Ballard approached the Rev. Mr. Schurman and said he had come to the conclusion, that with a man of Mr. Schurman's persistency, there was no use to continue any longer in the business, and that he had decided to give it up absolutely. To prove his good faith, he handed the clergyman his invoices, code book and keys to his warehouse, in which is stored between $13,000 and $14,000 worth if liquor, and told them to make a clean sweep of everything. The invoices covered shipments of $8,500 worth of liquor on the way to North Sydney from Europe.

The officers will now proceed to ship this large consignment to the original owners, and as Mr. Ballard is going out of the business, the liquor seized on Thursday has been given back and will be shipped out of the place with the goods delivered up to Friday. This is by far the greatest victory yet achieved by the temperance people, and must be (says the Sydney Record) particularly gratifying and encouraging to the Rev. Mr. Schurman, whose untiring efforts night and day to wipe out this evil, have been so persistent.

MUNICIPAL COAL
YARDS IN TORONTO

TORONTO, April 7. — Mayor Church announces that arrangements had been made with the Harbour Commissioners for the provision of a site on the waterfront for municipal coal yards of sufficient capacity to store 1,000,000 tons of coal. The fuel will be shipped across the lake during the summer and will be held in reserve to meet any exigencies that may arise next winter. Details of the arrangements will not be disclosed until the formal agreement has been prepared. But, said the Mayor, the citizens can rest assured they will not have to pay famine prices for coal next winter. It is possible the bay will be kept open all the winter to facilitate shipments of coal if the occasion demands it.

KAISER FATALLY ILL.

Will Die in a Few Months, State American Bankers.

LONDON, April 7. — The Morning Post gives prominence to a despatch from its Washington correspondent, who cables a report given on authority of German bankers in America who are on most intimate terms with the German Government, that the German Emperor is fatally ill of Bright's disease. Death is expected within the next few months.

The Emperor, according to the correspondent's informant has for some months past been in the depths of depression. The efforts of his physicians and entourage to rally him have been unsuccessful, and the disease has so completely fastened itself upon him that recovery is impossible. The correspondent adds:

"With his death, according to the German bankers, the House of Hohenzollern will lose the throne of Germany, as the Crown Prince is known to be a moral degenerate and the German people could not accept him as their sovereign. Either Germany will become a republic or a limited constitutional monarchy, the real power being exercised by a Parliament elected by universal franchise. It is the opinion of the German bankers, knowing the conditions existing in Germany and the temperament of the people, that unless there should be a sudden uprising, which they do not now anticipate, a constitutional monarchy rather than a republic will be the outcome."

SCHOOL TEACHER

Anaemic, Run-down, Nervous—How She Recovered.

There are so many cases like this right here in Peterborough that we are publishing this interesting letter with the hope that some of our customers will try Vinol and get the same happy result that Miss Baez did.

Key West, Fla.—"I am a teacher, and became anaemic, nervous, run-down, no energy or desire to do anything, I could not sleep and had that languid, nervous feeling that made me a burden to myself. I had taken various tonics without benefit. I heard of Vinol and tried it. Soon I had a good appetite, could sleep all night and it built me up so I have the ambition to do any kind of work." Mary L. Baez, Key West, Fla.

The reason Vinol was so successful in this case is because it is a constitutional remedy that goes to the seat of trouble. The peptonate of iron manganese and glycerophosphates contained in Vinol enriches and revitalizes the blood, while the strengthening, tissue-building properties of beef and cod liver peptone aid in building up the tired, overworked, run-down system.

Suffered With Heart
For Ten Years

Would Nearly Smother

There is nothing that brings with it such fear of impending death as to wake up in the night with that awful sense of smothering. The uncertain and irregular heart action causes the greatest distress of both mind and body.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are the only remedy that can give prompt relief and effect a complete cure in cases of such severity.

They strengthen and invigorate the heart, so that it beats strong and regular, and tone up the nervous system so that the cause of so much anxiety becomes a thing of the past.

Mrs. M. O. McCready, Wapella, Sask., writes: "I am not much of a believer in medicines, but I feel that it is only right for me to let you know what your wonderful remedy has done for me, and in a very short time, too. I had suffered terribly with thy heart for nearly ten years, could scarcely do any work, and would nearly smother at times. I had many remedies, some only relieving me for a time. I got a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and felt so much better that I kept on using them, and can truthfully say I feel like a new woman.

"I would advise anyone with heart trouble to use them."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. or three boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

EXAMINER PATTERN SERVICE
LADY'S SKIRT.

By Anabel Worthington.

8178

In deference to the American woman's objection to drapery on her dressy skirt, designers are offering spring models with just the wanted features and with a waistline slightly above normal.

Among the dressy numbers recently arrived the model illustrated is one that will have wide acquaintance. It is cut in four gores and has a box plait in each side of the front and back, so that the effect is of a broad panel divided. The side gores are gathered and the garment is mounted on a raised waistline. With just such simple treatment the straight lines of Fashion's acceptance have been achieved. You can suit yourself about using the sash that drapes at front and which has contrasting ends. In material making the skirt of satin or silk it will be more effective than if no sash is used.

French serge, broadcloth, charmeuse, crepe, taffeta, &c., are excellent weaves for such model. It looks and it is easy to make.

The skirt pattern, No. 8,179, cuts in sizes 24 to 34 waist. To make in size 24 requires 3 yards of 36 inch material.

THE CANADIANS ARE IN A BIG DRIVE

AN ADVANCE BETWEEN LENS AND ARRAS

CANADIANS LIKELY IN LATEST ADVANCE OF BRITISH FORCES

Big Gains Made Between Lens and Arras Where Canadian Battalions Were Holding the Line Reported By Field Marshall Haig--Many Prisoners Were Taken--"Everywhere We Penetrated the Enemy's Lines" Says the Official Report.

A SUMMARY OF TO-DAY'S WAR CABLES

SPECIAL TO THE EXAMINER:

LONDON, April 9.—Field Marshal Haig reported an attack in force by the British troops between Lens and Arras this morning, making satisfactory progress, and everywhere penetrating the enemy's lines.

The report asserted that there was no estimate of the number of prisoners as yet, but that a considerable number had been reported captured.

TORONTO, April 9.—The offensive launched early this morning by the British forces between Arras and Lens is of deep interest to Canadians for the reason that it is believed the Canadian battalions are on this front. Ten days ago Berlin officially announced that their lines east of Neuville St. Vaast were attacked four times "by a Canadian regiment." Neuville St. Vaast is about five miles north of Arras fronting the notorious Vimy Ridge. Stewart Lyon, correspondent of Canadian Press Limited, has several times within the last week or so mentioned Canadian raids in the vicinity of Arras, while Roland Hill, in special cables, has told of nocturnal raids at Neuville St. Vaast.

PARIS, April 9.—All the crew of the American steamer Seaward, torpedoed without warning in the Mediterranean, have been landed at Vigo.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—The United States will meet in full harmony with the Allies, it was officially stated at the Navy Department to-day. In keeping with President Wilson's message to Congress "valuable co-operation will be undertaken." Secretary Daniels declined to say when this co-operation goes into effect or to what extent it will be carried. The presumption is that it is already under way in part.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—The United States Government may shut off this country's coal shipments to the Argentine Republic if that country persists in keeping an embargo on wheat to the Allies.

PETROGRAD, April 9.—Generals Loch and Janouscheoski have been summarily removed from their commands in the Russian army because of the defeats along the Stockhod River.

NEW OFFENSIVE BY THE BRITISH TROOPS

Terrible Drive Surpassing in Violence Last Year's Initial Attack on the Somme Launched Early This Morning on Twenty-five Mile Front—By 8 O'clock All Initial Objectives Had Been Attained

SPECIAL TO THE EXAMINER:

(By William Philip Simms, U. P. Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES AFIELD, April 9.—The fourth summer of fighting to-day was inaugurated with a drive of such concerted force, of such co-ordinated activity as to overshadow even the great Somme drive of a year ago. In the air vast droves of British airmen hovered like sea gulls, while below the "tanks" were again called into action ahead of the struggling infantry men. Again the tanks spread consternation among the enemy. The British began their terrific offensive at dawn this morning after terrifice pounding all day "Easter Sunday," amid high winds and driving sleet storms. The movement started all along a wide front, from Lens to Cambrai. The first stage of the fighting had been crowned with success by eight o'clock. At that time the initial objectives had been fully attained. Field Marshal Haig was striking to-day the most formidable blow at the German "Hindenburg line" that the Allies have so far launched in this sector. It is an attack in force over twenty-five miles, and may be the start of a new spring offensive.

OTTAWA, April 9.—Although Parliament is scheduled to re-assemble April 19th, there is no certainty at to date of the returns of Premier Borden and his colleagues from England. Sir George E. Foster, Acting Premier, will probably carry on with minor public business until Sir Robert reaches Canada. The Ottawa Citizen (Independent), this morning editorially suggests that Sir Robert should immediately "report progress" in regard to the conferences in England. The Citizen wants to know what Premier Borden and Hon. Bob Rogers have done in England to intensify Canada's part as an ally in the present war.

WASHINGTON, April 9.—After discussion a bill providing for punishment for the destruction of war materials was passed by the Senate to-day. The General Army bill carrying $270,000,000 for the maintenance of the regular army for the current year was also reported to the Senate to-day.

NEW YORK, April 9.—The German official statement, received from Berlin via London to-day, declared "minor engagements" between Albert, Cambrai and Peronne, were taking the course intended by us.

PUBLIC MEETING WILL BE HELD THIS EVENING

An excellent musical programme will be given in connection with the public meeting to be held this evening in the Grand Opera House under the auspices of the Greater Peterborough Association. The musical end of the programme will commence at seven-forty-five and will end at eight-ten o'clock, after which the regular business of the meetings will be taken up. The speakers include Mr. J. J. Turner, newly elected President of the Board of Trade. Everybody who is interested in the welfare and development of the city is invited to attend. The balcony has been reserved for the ladies.

17 CHINAMEN FOUND WITH GAMBLING AND HOP-MITTING OUTFIT

Had a "Joint" Fixed Up in the Cellar of a New Chinese Grocery Store on Water Street

IN COURT THIS MORNING

A few days ago a Chinese grocery store was opened at 385 Water street, formerly occupied by the Inspector of Weights and Measures. The window display included samples of tea and fancy goods that offered an exterior sign of interior innocence. But from behind this placid front the police tumbled seventeen Chinamen last night shortly after ten o'clock. Gathered up in the raid was a strange collection of exotic gaming devices and complete opium smoking outfits, that provided the most interesting exhibition the police court has witnessed in many a month.

This morning Hum Hoy, who was managing the grocery store, and Jim Hum proprietor of the Dominion Cafe, were charged with keeping opium at 385 Water street for purposes other than scientific. The remaining fifteen Orientals were charged with frequenting a resort for the purpose of smoking and inhaling opium. Chief Thompson also has a gambling charge in reserve. Owing to the absence of Crown Attorney Hatton, who was out of the city, the hearing was adjourned until Wednesday. Bergain bail of $200 covering the entire seventeen prisoners was kept out of the $237.97 that was separated from them when searched after their arrest.

The police raiders were Sergeant Reid, and Constables Pratt, Lawrence and Wigg, the latter having reported the activity up the street. The prisoners gave their names as follows:

Lee Weh, 464 George street.
Hum Moon, 180 Simcoe street.
Hum Hoy, 385 Water street.
Tom Foke, 224 Hunter street.
Tom Sun, 464 George street.
Hum Fun, 59 Hunter street.
Geo Lee, 196 Charlotte street.
Lee Hill, 236 Charlotte street.
Jack Lee, 194 Charlotte street.
Chas. Foung, 220 Hunter street.
Chu Pong, 174 Charlotte street.
Yee Yuck, 169 Simcoe street.
Joe Tom, 174 Simcoe street.
Chung Ling, 191 Charlotte street.
Tom Lee, 414 Water street.
Hum Suit, Dominion Cafe.
Jim Hum, Dominion Cafe.

Twelve of the Chinamen had money, the others apparently were "broke." Of the former their aggregate of $237.97 was unequally divided. One man had only five cents, while another had sixty dollars. They offered no resistance to arrest, but went quietly with the four policemen to the station, where they crowded the unupholstered benches.

This morning Mr. G. N. Gordon ap-

British Tank Steamer Sequoya Sends German U Boat to the Bottom After a Hot Twenty Minute Battle

CASUALTIES SUSTAINED

Special to The Examiner:

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., April 9.—The sinking of a German submarine off the Cornish Coast by the British tank steamer Sequoya was revealed for the first time to-day when the Sequoya arrived here from England. The submarine was destroyed after twenty minutes' battering, during which one man on the Sequoya was killed, three wounded, and the bridge and wheels were carried away by shell fire from the submarine. Finally, when a well placed shell from the Sequoya struck the diver, which sank immediately, amid a burst of flame and smoke.

A Chance To Help The Great War Veterans

There is a chance for every patriotic lady in the City of Peterborough to help the man who has done his bit. Volunteers are wanted to assist the Great War Veterans to sell tags on the 21st of April, the Anniversary of Ypres. Come and spend the day with the Veterans, and help to make it as successful as the day our boys blocked the road to Calais, and stopped the Huns from destroying our liberty and freedom. Those wishing to help that day please hand in their names to the Great War Veterans, Room 204 Barrie Building, or to any of the members that they know.

LAST DRAFT OF THE 247th BATTALION TO LEAVE FOR OTTAWA

Final Draft Which Includes the Members of the Old 93rd Band Will Take Their Departure on the 1:27 C.P.R. Train To-morrow Morning—Recruiting For the 57th Regiment Commences To-night—To-day's Orders and General Military News.

The last draft of the 247th Battalion, which includes the members of the old 93rd Band, will leave for Ottawa at 1.27 to-morrow morning on the C.P.R. parading at the armouries at 1 o'clock. They will reach Ottawa about 7 o'clock to-morrow morning. This morning saw the last appearance of the band as a band, when they played the first draft of the battalion off. They turn their instruments over to the city this afternoon and leave to-night, or rather to-morrow morning, as fighting men. As the band marched into the armouries this morning on their return from the station they played their old time regimental march, "Bonnie Dundee," winding up their career as a band with the tune that the citizens used to hear so often when Lt.-Col. Johnston's unit was here last year.

The bands of the 57th Regiment and Salvation Army will head the parade to the station to-night.

With the departure of the last draft practically all the 247th will have left the city. A number of the non-coms. are being transferred to the 57th Regt., C.D.F., for instructional work.

Following the example of Lieut. Dunsford, who reverted to the ranks and left with the draft this morning as a sergeant, Lieut. Bondet reverted yesterday in order to get away, but was unable to pass the medical board.

57th Regiment, C.D.F.

Recruiting for the 57th Regiment, C.D.F., will commence to-night. A recruiting office will be opened in the recreation room of the armouries and Major Hounsell and Capt. Langford will be in charge to-night, when the enrolment of men will commence. There will be no medical examination for the present.

OTTAWA, April 8.—It is officially announced through the Chief Press Censor's Office that the following troops have arrived safely in England:

The 146th and [illegible] Western Battalions.
The 196th and 204th Toronto Battalions.
The 244th Montreal Battalion.
The 165th Battalion, Acadiens.
The 236th Railway Construction Battalion.
No. 2 Construction Battalion.
No. 15 Field Ambulance, Kingston, and No. 16 Field Ambulance, St. John, N.B.
Drafts: Cavalry (R.C.D., L.S.H., and C.M.R.), Halifax; Siege Artillery, Horse and Field Artillery.
Infantry drafts: B.C.R., N.S. Highlanders, Highlanders and Jewish draft from Montreal, Irish-Canadian Rangers, Second and 191st Battalions, French-Canadians, draft from Regina, No. 6 University Company.
Machine gun draft: Canadian Army Service Corps.
Army Medical Corps: Veterinary lieutenants for C.E.F.
Inland Motor Transport Section.
Naval ratings.
Newfoundlanders.
Total, all ranks, 8,135.

There are a number of Peterborough men in several of these units reported safely arrived in England, notably in the 236th Railway Construction Battalion, the 204th and the 2nd Battalion drafts.

The Cobourg Sentinel Star says: Last evening the seventh draft of the Cobourg Heavy Battery left here under Lieut. Harry Ponton for overseas. This is the largest draft of the Battery to leave, the first draft consisting of 65 men, the second of 38, and the third, fourth, fifth and sixth of 50 men and one officer each. This draft is probably the youngest of any yet to leave, of the 70 men only 2 being over 30 years of age and 9 married. They are a fine bunch of men, physically and morally and their demeanour in Cobourg has been all that could be desired.

Pte. Alex McFarlin of the 254th Battalion, Marmora, is visiting his cousin, Mrs. W. Devall, East City for the week end.

Pte. Joe McFarlin of the Convalescent Home, Toronto, veteran of the 21th Battalion, is visiting at the home of his uncle, Mr. B. Revoy.

Mrs. Cripps of the Soldiers' Wives and Mothers' Club has received a letter from Pte. Joe Temple who went overseas with the 93rd Battalion and is now at the front with the 5th C.M.R. acknowledging a gift of socks and gum from the club. Pte. Temple lived at 212 Aylmer street before enlisting and went to England as a member of No. 2 Pigeon.

Mrs. Hartley has received an interesting letter from her son, Pte. C. Hartley who enlisted with the 93rd Battalion was transferred to the 4th Pioneer and is now in France with the 2nd Canadian Railway troops. He says in part, "Everything is going as good as can be expected and we are having pretty fair weather at present. The wind is blowing pretty hard and the ground is solid once more and that is a lot better than the mud.

"I must tell you that myself and the rest of the boys in my company had a close call of being killed a few nights ago. About 12 o'clock we were awakened by old Fritz sending his shells over to us. He sent about twelve eighty-pound shells over the top of our huts. The last one fell just outside of our hut, but as luck had it, the ground was soft, so when the shell exploded most of the pieces went into the ground. We came off lucky as the only damage it did was to throw some of the earth upon our roof and give us a shaking up. It came a distance of fifteen miles and was fired by a naval gun, but anyway as long as it comes close and doesn't hit us I guess everything will be O. K.

The Germans retreated about five miles into a new position, but I suppose you see all these things in the paper.

BELLEVILLE, April 7.—Lieut. David V. Ketcheson, who was machine gun officer of a local battalion, has been awarded the Military Cross, according to a cable which he sent to his father, Mayor H. F. Ketcheson, of this city, from London, England. Lieut. Ketcheson was attending High School when war broke out, and enlisted as a private. At the front he won his commission. On

OTHERS GO TO-NIGHT

Once more has Peterborough watched the departure of a body of citizen soldiers from her midst. This morning she said farewell to one hundred gallant lads from the city and the surrounding district, the first draft from the 247th Battalion, en route for Ottawa. To-night the balance of the soldiers will go and with their departure the 247th will have ceased to exist as a unit, the troops being absorbed into the 235th Battalion, with which unit they will go overseas at once. The good wishes of all the citizens will go with the boys who departed this morning and with their comrades who leave to-night. During the time they have been training here their conduct has followed the high standard set by the 93rd Battalion. They have behaved themselves splendidly throughout and have been a credit to themselves and to their officers. So good has been their behaviour that it has been unnecessary to establish any military police system and they leave on the first stage of their journey towards the battle line in Europe without a mark against them.

The 247th is small in numbers compared to the 93rd, but it is distinguished by the large percentage of native-born Canadians in its ranks, while the average age of the men is younger and the number of single men larger than in the other units that have left Peterborough. The surrounding district is well represented as there are men from Norwood, Havelock, Lakefield, Millbrook, Buckhorn, Lang, Coe Hill, Bancroft and other points as well as from the immediate countryside. They should give a good account of themselves wherever they are sent and the Examiner unites with the citizens generally in wishing them good luck and a safe return.

WORK FOR THE STAFF.

To-day's departure has meant some hard work for the staff of the 247th. For the past few days, yesterday included, there have been few idle moments, as since the first message was received last Thursday, the different detachments throughout the district and at the different schools had to be rounded, all the men medically examined by the board, details as regard to pay and clothing arranged and a vast amount of clerical work, due to the transfer to another unit completed, until late yesterday afternoon definite orders as to the time of the departure was not known and the men were paraded twice yesterday.

The first draft of one hundred members of the 247th Battalion left on the 11.36 C.P.R. train this morning. The parade had been called for nine o'clock, but when the orders to go this morning were received late yesterday afternoon, the hour was changed to 8 o'clock, and although the only means of promulgating this order was by means of the newspaper bulletins, the men turned up in good time this morning. The entire draft of 100 men were ready early without an absentee, which is a record to be proud of.

Before leaving the Armouries the 32th Chapter, Daughters of the Empire, presented each man with a parcel of socks and afterwards cigarettes were distributed throughout the draft.

In addressing the men for the last time Lt.-Col. Ackerman reminded them that when they reached Ottawa they would be part of the 235th

TEAM WORK.

A hockey seven or a lacrosse eleven, no matter how individually brilliant, its members, cannot be at its best without team play. No matter how deeply interested our individual citizens may be in promoting the success of the Greater Peterborough idea, the highest results, the most striking success can only come from team work—cooperation and coordination of effort. In this fact lies the appeal of the meeting in the Grand Opera House to-night. The Greater Peterborough Association may organize to perfection, but not even this preparatory organization, nor its future work, can meet with the highest success unless the citizens—every citizen in some way or other—are behind its organization and efforts. We can't get money to finance the city unless everybody pays taxes; and we can't develop a greater Peterborough without the cooperation of every citizen, from the least to the largest. It is too much to hope that everybody will be interested, but we shall have the larger army for fighting the battle by trying to get everybody into the ranks.

It is hoped that there will be a bumper attendance at the Opera House meeting to-night. The presence of the city power in the land, the ladies, will be especially helpful and inspiring. Let us staunchly stand by the City Council, the Greater Peterborough Association and the Board of Trade, whose chief importance is that they represent the machinery which the citizens can use to advance the whole interests of Peterborough.

THE CROSS IN THE SKY.

Saturday night from nine to ten, and later, many persons were interested, some disturbed in mind, and some frightened, by a phenomenal appearance in the sky. A circle—a halo—round the moon, which was full Saturday night, is no uncommon occurrence. But an exceedingly distinct halo, flanked on each side by bright "moon dogs," that grew and faded in brightness, taking on wavering rainbow tints, was strikingly unusual. And to add to the strangeness, bands of light, vertical and lateral, crossed on the face of the moon extending above and below and side-wise several degrees; sometimes distinct as they flashed, and dim as they paled, but always keeping the appearance of a huge fiery cross of dull glow and of a cloudy amber hue. Many persons took the whole conjuncture of aerial effects as a portent of some impending dreadful calamity. Some took a more hopeful view. The "heavenly vision"—coming between Good Friday and Easter—between the cross tragic and the cross triumphant—suggested a benign meaning. One good, pious, hopeful lady asserted her belief that the "cross" in the sky was a sign of peace; and, reminded of the legend of Constantine, declared in effect, that history would repeat itself, and that the promise, "In hoc signo vinces," would come true in the speedy victory of the allies.

Recalling the reminder of Hamlet—"There are more things in Heaven and earth, Horatio"—these may be something of portent in these things; or the belief in their significance may be an exemplification of the fact that old superstitions die hard. We have only to dust up Shakspere's Chronicle to find a chronicle of the supernatural disturbances of nature, all grisesome and awful, that heralded the murder of King Duncan, and similar things foreshadowed, we [illegible] on the same authority, [illegible] ession of Cæsar—Calphurnia [illegible] hard:

"Fierce, fiery warriors fight upon the clouds
In ranks and squadrons and right form of war,
Which drizzled blood upon the capitol.
And when she would further dissuade Cæsar from going to the senate-house on the Ides of March, she adds,

"These are the ... there are no ... seen;
... heavens themselves blaze forth ..."

There is a good deal of historical support for great celestial disturbances preceding disastrous happenings. Comets have always been regarded as precursors of war; and, as a matter of fact their appearance has been followed by great wars. But in the case of Saturday night's celestial phenomena, they are benign. The cross and the crown—or halo—may signify the crowning of the cross the nations are bearing, now, with victory for the right.

But, as is most probable, the appearances that attracted so much attention may have no supernatural meaning, but be explainable by natural causes. The bright light of the full moon acting upon an atmosphere charged with aqueous vapours, can easily account for the appearances created; and the shifting, wavering, pulsing movement of the halo, and of the bodies and of the cross athwart the moon, may come from the same causes as the corruscating splendour of the aurora borealis, the low, clear, frosty temperature being favourable for such manifestations.

Anyway, the sign of the cross is a good sign, and if there is anything portentious in it, we may take the comfort that it portends good to us and our cause, the cause we are urging in the name, and for the sake of what, the Cross stands for—the good and happiness of mankind.

PROTECT THE BIRDS AND PROMOTE PRODUCTION.

Now is the time for our schools—and of course our homes may join in if they like, and as they should do—to give a much needed lesson. The birds have come back ready to nest and begin their share in the work of greater production. If helped and protectd, and even if only left alone, they will be an immense negative, but positively effective, help to great or yield of growing things. They are ready to declare war on insect pests that destroy so much in the way of fruit and grain every season. Birds kill an infinite number of these pests, and all the more if they have young to feed. Young birds are as voracious feeders as sharks, and it keeps the parent birds busy filling their perpetually yawning mouths and apparently perpetually empty maws. And there will be more young birds if the nests are protected. The great enemy of the bird nest is the boy—not because he is a boy, or even a bad boy, but because he doesn't think. Some boys, however, destroy bird nests from the inherited savage lust to kill and destroy, especially the helpless. Whether boys from thoughtlessness or desire of destruction rob and destroy bird nests, and some not thinking of, and some not caring for, the mischief they do, the effect on bird life and bird usefulness is the same. Parents and teachers should take this time to teach boys that in destroying bird nests, and consequently bird life, they are doing not only a senseless and cruel thing in itself, but bringing injury upon themselves and the community—considering how many insects that destroy food plant life or productiveness, birds themselves feed upon. To ask this from teachers is, perhaps, an interruption of routine. But this is a time of emergency, when routine must yield to imperative demands. The call is for greater food production and this is helped by preventing food destruction. A little timely lecture by a teacher will affect the boy who is merely thoughtless, but it may not so much affect the boy who is cruelly disposed—must kill something. In that event his propensity to destruction to killing something, might well be diverted from the birds to the cats. It is a heartless to see cats prowling and lurking and sneaking after their kind, lying in wait to kill our beautiful songs and insect-destroying birds. In the hunting home, especially in relation to the birds, cats are only destructive of bird life. In their sneaking, sly and ruthless ways, they are Huns, and only deserve the consideration due to a Hun. They may be a joy and comfort in some homes, and home is where they should stay, in the interests of preserving our birds—for their songs, for their cheerful presence about our homes and grounds, and for the service they do in preventing the destruction of our food plants by noxious insect life.

INCREASED YIELD NEED COST LITTLE EXTRA LABOUR

Every British Subject Will Do His Duty in this Year of Supreme Effort For the British Empire—When Labour is Scarce Brains Are in Some Ways a Good Substitute.

The Ontario Department of Agriculture has issued the following bulletin, in which it is shown that with wages abnormally high and labour deplorably scarce, a good deal can be done by substituting

BRAIN FOR BRAWN.

That large plump seed will produce more bushels per acre than will the average seed used by many, is an established fact.

Fifteen per cent. is a rational increase that can be had from every acre sowed if the necessary precautions are taken.

Wheat	4,000,000 bush.
Barley	1,760,000 bush.
Oats	17,000,000 bush.
Peas	880,000 bush.

The above amounts can be secured without the expenditure of any extra labour at seeding time, and with but little at harvest time.

All necessary seed should be properly cleaned and bagged during the late winter season. Every farmer has time to do this after March first and before seeding time. Will you assist in the Greater Production of foodstuffs by careful cleaning of the seed?

Perhaps pedigreed seed cannot be secured. If not, select out of your granary three times the amount of grain required for seed purposes. By the use of the fanning mill, clean and re-clean until you have just sufficient for seed purposes.

Use proper sieves and plenty of wind in the mill and the third part remaining for seed will be the largest and heaviest seeds, which naturally are the most vigorous.

Do this work before seeding commences.

Two bushels of this will sow an acre. The extra return from good seed will be from 5 to 10 bushels per acre, and decidedly more in some cases.

The market value of the increased yield represents the additional outlay that can be made for good seed per acre.

Vigor in seed grain is just as essential as vigor in live stock.

PREVENTION OF WASTE.

Many thousands of bushels of oats are lost annually due to the ravages of smut.

Secure 1 pint of formalin for every 20 to 30 bushels of oats required for seed purposes. Dilute with 40 gals. of water and use a barrel in which the bags of grain may be immersed for 20 minutes. Spread out to dry and then place in new bags or in bags that have been treated in a similar manner and thoroughly dried, thus preventing re-contamination.

The adoption of these two suggestions would mean millions of bushels of grain extra with practically no appreciable extra labor. Your country asks your careful consideration and co-operation.

Consult the nearest District Representative of the Department of Agriculture if you are not familiar with this work, or communicate with the Department of Agriculture at Toronto.

THE PRESIDENTIAL PILOT MUST HAVE FREE HAND

President Wilson has emerged triumphant from an ordeal not unlike President Lincoln's, and in his method of meeting it there is much that recalls the greater emancipator. He has shown fine dignity and patience in his long vigil. He has endured a degree of misunderstanding that is the common lot of the greatest men. He has known how to keep his own counsel. He has not permitted himself to be pricked or goaded into action. He has kept himself aloof from influences that might tend to confuse or distract. He has known from the first the nature and magnitude of the task. The ship bore the heritage of humanity, there were rough and dangerous waters; he was the pilot, there must be no plucking at his sleeve. With that insight which is the mark of genius he knew the course.

The President has taken note of the big forces that must always shape historical events. First of all, there were our own hundred million, to whom he has been interpreter and guide. If we were to get into this war we must have behind us a hundred per cent. America. We were prosperous, peace-loving, polyglot, possessing a common idealism, but not yet fused into national unity. There must be no impetuosity in our going in, there must be no room for reaction. There must be no insufficiency of ground, no action in sudden anger, no flaw of passion, to bring bitter and regretful thoughts at the way should prove long and difficult. "Here we stand; we can do no otherwise. God help us," must indeed, express our attitude in assuming these vast responsibilities.

While no President has been more criticised, Mr. Wilson has had the vindication of events from time to time, and the faults imputed to him have had the merit of manifest cursability at every stage. If he had made a mistake in plunging the country into needless war it was irretrievable. But keeping out until the last possible minute not only gave him the advantage of time and opportunity for peaceful settlement, but also, if that proved impossible, ripened the situation for war by cumulative evidence of Prussian barbarity. He won a diplomatic victory and new respite from the impudent by Berlin's suspension of submarine outlawry in 1916. And then upon his breaking off relations a few weeks ago the country rallied to him. By precipitate action he would have deprived himself of the last full justification which the march of events brought to his hand—the revolution in Russia. That fortified him with the ground of appeal for democracy against autocracy, upon which he took an impregnable position in his address to Congress.

But there had been one danger and one fear, and only one from the Lusitania onward, and that was that the country would decline in spirit, and that when the time came, as come it must, in the view of many of us, to take our stand at whatever sacrifice for humanity and country, we would fail to react to those impulses which make the soul of a nation. That danger is past, if it ever existed; and we can look each other in the eye steadily and fearlessly as America moves splendidly to her place in the line that defends civilization. We come at the moment perhaps of greatest need and usefulness to the Allies, as well as possible helpfulness to the German people, if they will but understand the spirit in which we are undertaking our obligations in this war.

Woodrow Wilson is in many ways unlike others, and for that he may suffer in the temporary judgment of his fellows. Perhaps he is deficient in gregarious instinct. Another in his place would have more consulted, more communicated would have asked the cheer of companionship along the road which he has travelled alone. But now that the course has been determined, we can all see the cause of his preoccupation. He looked upward. He steered not by compass, but by the North Star, which is a double star, His eyes were fixed on Democracy and Peace—an enduring peace founded upon a world democracy. —New York Times.

"PEG O' MY HEART."

The return engagement of the United Producing Company, presenting that popular comedy, "Peg o' My Heart" in the Grand Opera House, Saturday afternoon and evening, was a gratifying success. Marion Dentler as "Peg" played a difficult part in her usual good form. She was well supported by a well balanced company, and the stage setting was in keeping with the high quality of the performance. The play is full of funny situations, while underlying it all there is a practical interpretation to the story, which is so effectively portrayed by Marion Dentler and her company of star performers.

OUR CHIEF WEAPON.

No delay in building a large fleet of ships designed to free the seas of submarines is a policy that is wise and that evidences a grasp of the real situation by government authorities. A fleet of submarine-destroyers and commerce protectors which will help to clear the lanes of commerce between this country and the ports of Great Britain and France is our chief weapon. Nothing that we quite properly do in the way of battleship building and of creation of an army will be so surely and quickly effective of the result we aim at, as will the assurance of food, supplies and ammunition to the Entente nations. In our great maps of military and naval preparation it will be wise to keep this less spectacular and somewhat commercialized detail of our war making in mind. A sea open to neutral commerce means an end to Germany's aggressive pose in dictating terms of the war's adjustment. And we can do much within a short time to bring this end to pass.—Rochester Post.

EASTER MUSIC

ST. LUKE'S.

The morning service at St. Luke's included the Easter anthem, "The Trumpet Shall Sound," with soprano and bass solos by Miss Norris and Mr. Carter. Smart's anthem, "If We Believe," was sung in the evening by Miss Mildred Green. The work of the soloists and choir, under the direction of Mrs. Greenslade, was most acceptable to the congregation at both services.

KNOX CHURCH.

Easter music at Knox Church revealed the choir at full strength, singing at both services with fine volume, union and balance. The solos of the moning anthem "Resurrexit," were taken by Miss Penrose and Mr. Humpage. In the evening, the anthems were "Christ is Risen" by Turner, with Miss Kenyon as soloist. Mr. John Smith sang in good place "The Trumpet Shall Sound," from Handel.

MURRAY STREET BAPTIST CHURCH.

At Murray Street Church last night the Choir rendered the following numbers, under the direction of Mr. Asa Huycke, "O Sun of Righteousness," and "O Death Where is thy Sting?" A nice interpretation, with complete control, were notable qualities of the work. The soprano solo part "Why Seek Ye the Living among the Dead?" by Miss Florence Pott, was splendidly done. Mr. Asa Huycke sang Shelley's superb "Resurrection." At the offertory Mrs. Gibson of the Conservatory staff played the tender Berceuse, from Jocelyn." Miss Ida Sanderson's work at the organ showed a fine reserve and skill.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

The choir of St. John's Church had a heavy programme of Easter music, to which it responded under Mr. Devey's leadership with a most satisfying performance. Miss Ruby Cartermaine took the solo of the morning anthem "As it Began to Dawn," and Mr. Tom Ward of the evening anthem "Christ is Risen." Both soloists were in good voice and showed a deep appreciation of their parts.

CHURCH OF THE SACRED HEART.

Goesel's setting for the High Mass was sung Easter morning. The soloists were Misses Ella Lynch, A. Murphy, J. Collins, Mamie Allen and Messrs. F. Grady, O. Legendre and J. Collins. Mr. Ed. Bartley suffered an injury to his foot on Saturday night and was unable to attend on Sunday. Miss Allen's mezzo-soprano voice was very pleasing in her solo passages.

GEORGE STREET METHODIST

At George street church the message of Easter was eloquently conveyed in song and special music. The evening service was particularly rich in this effect. The first anthem, "Ye Choirs of New Jerusalem" by Maunder, with solo by Miss Kathleen Fanning, called forth the resources of the choir, which excelled itself in the closing anthem, "We Declare Unto You Good Tidings." The solo part was well sustained by Miss Emma Worth. Mrs. Renwick sang Granier's "Hosanna" with a fine appreciation of its sentiment. A ladies' sextette, "God is a Spirit," by Misses E. Kemp, R. Kidd, Fusee, R. McKee, Mrs. Hetherington and Mrs. Rehill, and a male quartette by Messrs. Harold Jones, Edwin Dixon, C. C. Parsons and Wesley Grinell were very acceptable numbers. Mr. Renwick at the organ lightened the festal spirit of the service.

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH.

Large congregations at St. Paul's Church heard a splendid programme of Easter music presented under the direction of Mr. John Allan. In the morning Miss Dorothy Allan sang "I know that my Redeemer Liveth" with a depth of feeling. "Calvary," also solo, by Rodney, was another effective number. In the offertory anthem, "Victory," by Shelley, the choir caught the lofty theme and was ably supported in the solo and trio parts by Miss Allan, Mrs. Lloyd and Mr. Francis Mather. The evening music was equally appropriate, including Mr. Douglas Carlyle's solo, "The Lord is King," a contralto solo, Stephen Adams' "The Voice of the Father," by Miss Gertrude Stevens, both of which were effectively rendered. The anthem was "Lo! the Tomb is Empty," the solo parts being taken by Miss Allan and Mr. Hilton. Miss Allan also sang the beautiful prayer, "Consider and hear me."

PARK STREET BAPTIST CHURCH

The choir wore their new gowns for the first time yesterday, making a splendid appearance. Their anthems were well sung, under the direction of Mr. A. Nicholls, especially Rev. Evan Hall's "Alleluia" in the evening in which Miss Florrie Nicholls sang the solo part.

VICTIM OF A PAINFUL ACCIDENT

Wilbur Howden, 251 Park street, an employee of the Canadian Express Company, was the victim of a painful accident on Saturday evening. Whilst unloading a large packing-case from the express car on the C.P.R. local, he underestimated the weight. The box slid, knocking him on his chest, and causing him to slip under the express truck. He was taken to Nicholls Hospital, where it was found he had sustained a bad fracture of his leg, below the knee.

GREATER PETERBOROUGH.

Editor Examiner,

Dear Sir,—Kindly allow me space in your paper, in view of the meeting at the Grand Opera House, upon the expansion of our city, as well as those taken place these last few weeks.

Now, if the citizens, industrial concerns, Council, etc., are in earnest over the development of Peterborough; then it is of no use going haphazard about it, like we seem to do. Above all, let us plan the city out at least for a population, say, of 100,000 people within the next ten to twenty years. How can this be done? Only by co-operation with all connected with the city; in utilising the facilities around it; also by bringing pressure upon the Government through the Senate and Member of Parliament to aid. I suppose we shall have to put the work under different headings. So, first, let us start at (Government's work.) This is to Canalize the rivers and lakes for ocean-going steamships, drawing water to a depth of 20 feet, with a length of 600 feet and beam of 60 feet; piling or concrete walls, 75 to 100 yards between them, in the rivers, with necessary Lie Bays to allow a clear course for ships passing, while others are loading or otherwise. Locks for different heights of water, with three or four sets of lock gates, to accommodate the different sizes of vessels could also insert overflow as well as to generate electrical power, at each side where locks are. Dredge the Lakes for ships to turn round in, where not deep enough, and mark the channel with red and black bucys.

Looking at the map we find a fine stretch of water, to make this the chief route to the Georgian Bay. From Lake Ontario into Rice Lake, Otonabee, Hiawatha, Fenelon Falls, Burnt River and Balsam Lake to Lake Simcoe, across which either from Barrie, to reach Midland, or Orillia to Port McNichol, on the Georgian Lake, for the western trade.

(The Commercial Heading).—This would mean that the business and trades people be willing to change their present location, to Monaghan Road, making that the centre of the city, (a thoroughfare 60 ft. wide, between the curbs, with pavements 20 feet, making 100 feet between the building line, with two car lines, with the poles supporting cable, between them; also poles utilized for street lighting). Building good, substantial stores and offices, etc.

(Council or Citizens' Heading).—These must be prepared to plan the city and make attractive both to live in, also bring in industrial concerns. Well, the best sites for industries would be from Rye's to the Cereal Works, on both sides of the river, from Water Street or George street to the river, could be reserved on both sides, a similar distance, for the aforementioned length. This centre could easily be served by the G.T.R. changing their line at Ware street, to run by the side of works; also the C. P. R. would be able to cater for the northern part occupied, Monaghan being the centre, would have street cars from Jackson Park to the river, with lines through to George street, on McDonnel, Charlotte, Chamberlen, Princess, King Edward or McGill, and Park, from the business and residential. To do this in the cheapest way would be to buy a drain-digging machine, concrete, mixer, light rails, with cars, with perhaps a steam shovel for grading, etc. The citizens would also occupy each street to keep all waste land outside of the developments, as they proceeded, to keep down expenses; that is, the Council would make a street, putting in the sewer, light and water, then concrete the pavement and road; the citizens, to occupy every lot on said street before going on others; parks could have open bathing places, by excavating parts, from two to six feet in depth, for a distance of 50 to 75 yards long and 30 yards wide. One park at the South End of Monaghan Road, covering 100 acres, with lagoons, joining the river, for canoes and motor launches, also bathing pool, would serve the South End people. Jackson Park, Victoria, the North Waverley, the East, and, as the city expanded, one on Sherbrooke street, on the West. The bridges across the river, to be built, either swing or the bastile principle, but no fixed concrete or steel bridge. The sewerage, to be treated by the latest system; either septic tanks with sludge wells, lime, pumphouse, etc., or sprinkler treatment; the whole to be roofed against the rigours of winter; also a breeding place for flies in summer.

(The Industrial Heading)—Each firm to put the best and largest plant it can afford to build, to do its best to induce other firms, with which they come in contact, to locate here; also pay their employees a minimum wage of eighteen dollars a week.

This is a programme, Mr. Editor, for the citizens of Peterborough to begin upon, if in real earnest.

Thanking you for the space, I remain,

A TRAVELLER.

DENTAL.

SUFFERING OF THE ARMENIANS

Rev. Dr. Chambers' Address in St. Andrew's Church

In St. Andrew's church last evening, Rev. Dr. Chambers, of Queen's University, delivered an address on the condition of the Armenians in Turkey during the past two years. He stated that massacres in the past were child's play as compared to what these Christian people have been subjected to by the Turks since the war began.

No direct appeal was made, but there is an organization in Kingston which is taking up the condition of the Armenians, of which Dr. Chambers is secretary and to whom contributions may be sent and information obtained.

During the service the choir sang an anthem and Easter carol very acceptably, and Miss McLaren's offertory solo was exceedingly well rendered.

February 22nd he was badly wounded, being struck in the arm and shoulder by many machine-gun bullets, but he still carried on in a trench raid until he was struck by a hand-grenade, which penetrated from the back of his left shoulder to the front of the right shoulder. For a long time he was considered in a very dangerous condition, but now his recovery is assured.

TORONTO, April 9.—St. Anne's Anglican Church here, Rev. Lawrence Skey probably holds the record for war service on this continent. They have 452 members in the overseas units. Eighteen have been killed in action, 65 wounded, 13 prisoners of war, and seventeen have already returned from the front invalided or incapacitated.

Orville Moore, son of Mr. Archie Moore, has been successful in his application to enter the Royal Flying Corps.

Scout News

AN APPEAL TO MEN

The call of King and Country has found such ready response from the leaders of Boy Scout troops in Canada that to-day there is urgent need of more Scoutmasters and Assistant Scoutmasters in every province. The appeal is for men who are willing to play the game with the boys. Many a man who to-day knows nothing of the technique of Scouting will eventually, if possessed of the qualities of leadership, make a good Scoutmaster. The Scoutmaster may be twenty-one years old or he may be sixty-one years old; he is the man who had some interest in boys, who can squeeze out of a busy life an evening a week and an occasional half day or day for a hike; who has in his heart the lust of the trail and of the open sky, and who knows some of the things the Scout is supposed to know and who has a thirst to know more of them.

SCOUTS AGAINST U-BOATS.

Sir Robert Baden-Powell writing in a recent issue of "The Scout" points to the assistance Boy Scouts can, and, are giving to combat the German U-boat menace by growing their own vegetables. "I don't know which lot of Scouts is leading the way in the matter of potato growing," he writes, "but there is a splendid response to my suggestion that we can beat the German U-boat campaign by growing our own vegetables if we try. If the farmer can grow the corn, the Boy Scouts can grow a good lot of the vegetables that will be needed during the coming year.

"In Leeds the Scouts have taken over 20,000 square yards of ground from the Parks Committee, and some 1,500 of them are already beginning work on it. If this plan is carried out at other big places where there are lots of Scouts and plenty of waste ground, it will be a great help to spoiling the German's idea of starving us out by sinking all our food ships with their submarines."

ON THE SERVICE OF YOUR COUNTRY.

(Taken from April Number of Boys' Life.

Boy Scouts have been hiking, camping, working, playing, so that they would have strong bodies, skilled hands, keen minds and courageous spirits when they were needed by the nation. With many it has been play, but play with a purpose. Now the time has come to use that training. The nation needs every boy right now. We must have a larger food supply—nothing must be left undone to avoid a famine in case of war. Have a garden, the biggest and best you can make. It may be only a window box full of lettuce and radish, but a million boxes would mean at least two million pounds of wholesome food.

Watch for fires. Reduce fire risks by cleaning the rubbish out of cellars and corners. Be sure you know exactly what to do in case of fire. Let your town or city officials know that you are ready for service in your community. Tell them what you can do and ask them what they would like to have you learn to do. Think! These are only a few of many things that you might do. You know your own town. What does it need? How can you help? This is real Scouting

ANCIENT CITY'S SITE IS LOCATED AT LAST

CAIRO, April 9.—The site of Canopus, one of the most ancient cities of Egypt, has been found, according to Daninos Pasha who claims the honour of making the discovery. For many years he has maintained that its site lay somewhere in the region of Aboukir Bay and, apparently, his contention is now proved to be correct.

Before the foundation of Alexandria Canopus was the commercial capital of the country and the most important religious centre in lower Egypt.

Excavations have already brought to light a great public bath of the Ptolemaic period, about 15 feet in length. It is divided into twenty chambers of which the largest is about 24 feet long and of the same width. There are rooms for various forms of baths, such as hip and mud baths and a large hall which was evidently used for massage purposes and the preparation of aromatic oil.

Bronze coins found in various rooms bear the effigies of Ptolemy Soter Ptolemy Energates and Queen Berenice. Of the several statuettes unearthed, the most interesting is that of a Chinese figure, which shows, it is contended, that in the dim past relations, must have existed between China and this ancient capital of Egypt.

Labour Men Will Call On Property Owners To Secure The Use of Vacant Lots

Friday night, despite the very inclement weather, a few of the members of the Peterborough Garden Club got together to push along the details of the lots allotment. This included a thorough going over of the properties as laid out from the assessment rolls, such as available for use and not occupied.

Nearly three hundred separate lots were listed. The owners of these lots both in the city and outside had been communicated with by letter asking that the use be allowed. So far very few had consented. Probably more through carelessness than from unwillingness. So it was up to the committee to go at the thing in another way.

INTERVIEWING PROPERTY OWNERS.

The list of resident owners was gone over thoroughly. Street address of these were written out on slips of paper. In all it was found that over fifty of these would have to be seen personally. The names were set out in wards, and by street and number. Then Mr. J. Crowe, for the men of the Trades and Labour Council agreed to take the slips, and as ten men of the Council had offered to do some useful work in furthering the project, to see that they would be delivered. This is the slips, not the men. The bunch will divide up to about five for each man to attend to. The slips will go to Mr. Crowe this afternoon and he will arrange to have the work taken up.

Along with the slips is a brief form of consent to the use of the property, stating that the owner allows use of it subject to the rules of the Club. It is proposed that a form of personal agreement shall be prepared to be filled in by the owner and user, as a personal arrangement and to ensure that friction shall not develop.

So soon as the slips are returned and consent of owners has been secured the properties will be listed and defined as to street and number and the list will be printed in the local papers. Then those who wish to have the use of lots can look the list over and make selection. Due and ample notice will be given of the publication so that men may be on the lookout for it.

SOME LOTS HAVE BEEN WITHDRAWN.

A good number are arranging for use of lots for themselves. In fact some properties listed with the Committee have been taken up in the interval. And people who have a surplus of lands in gardens are giving the use of portions. So that the movement is fairly under way, and from the protestations that never again will the users be obliged to pay $4.50 per bag for potatoes it looks that barring an absolutely bad season some production will to some extent regulate the market prices.

Further particulars of the scheme will be given to the press as soon as available.

Peterboro' Says Farewell to the First Draft

Battalion. While they could keep the 247th in their memory they would be from now on 236th men. He thanked the men for their splendid conduct while members of the 247th, and remarked that their orderly room records showed that their behaviour had been marvellous. He hoped that they would always conduct themselves in a similar manner, obey orders cheerfully and be punctual and clean. They should be proud of the fact that two of their officers had reverted to the ranks in order to accompany them.

The draft showed their appreciation of Lt.-Col. Ackerman by three hearty cheers and then gave a similar round for Lieut. A. E. Brittain, the Adjutant.

Mayor Dupuis, who with Ald. Taylor and Ald. Dobbin and City Clerk Armstrong was present to say farewell on behalf of the city authorities, briefly addressed the men. The city and county were proud of the work they had already accomplished and were confident that in the days to come the men of the 247th would do equally as good work. He hoped that the city and county would be able to keep up a supply of men to assist them in carrying out their task, which, he hoped, would soon be over. His Worship said that those who left dependents behind could rely upon them being looked after, and, in conclusion, wished the departing soldiers God speed and good luck.

Headed by the band, making their last appearance as a musical organization, the draft paraded to the station in command of Lieuts. A. H. Cameron and Harry Latimer, the balance of the Battalion and Staff acting as escort. The band played a number of selections on the way to the station, including the popular "Pack all your troubles in your old Kit Bag." At the station the troops were drawn up at the rear of the platform and an opportunity given for friends to say farewell. Many affecting good-byes could be seen as mothers, wives, sisters and sweethearts took leave of their loved ones.

The entertainment was made in good style without any confusion. The band played "O Canada" as the men of the draft boarded the train. There was a big crowd at the station, but soldiers and police handled them systematically. As the train pulled out three cheers from the crowd were re-echoed from the khaki-clad soldiers in the coaches.

Kibble's Mammoth "Uncle Tom's Cabin" Co. Here To-morrow

Big Parade at Noon

There are very few adults who have not yet seen a production of the now famous play, "Uncle Tom's Cabin." Probably there is no other play that has been presented as many times and is still being presented at the present time in both Canada and the United States. Still crowds of both young and old flock to see this wonderful play of slave days in the Southern States. Kibble's Uncle Tom's Cabin Co. which plays both a matinee and an evening performance to-morrow (Tuesday) at the Grand, carry a troupe of 80 people, including negro songsters and dancers as well as blood hounds, ponies and donkeys, so necessary in giving a good performance. The troupe travel in their own cars and will arrive by Grand Trunk at 8.10 a.m. to-morrow from Belleville. The matinee commences at 2.30 sharp, and the prices are: Children 15c., adults 25c. Evening at 8.15, prices 50c., 35c. and 25c. Upper gallery 15c.

Unique Service Held at Lakefield

A service of unique order was conducted in the Methodist church, Lakefield, when the Women's Missionary Society took charge of the entire service. The choir, numbering twenty-five, was composed entirely of women. Mrs. J. H. Sherin presided at the service, in the absence of the president, Miss Nina Sherin. Three very interesting papers were read, "Mission Work in China and Japan" by Mrs. (Revd) Barrett, "Can. Mission Work" by Miss Jery, and "General Mission Work" by Mrs. W. W. Leonard. Women made able and efficient ushers and sidesmen, Mrs. A. Higgins, Mrs. G. Boyce and Mrs. B. English officiating. Mrs. Percy Spence presided at the organ. An unusually large number attended the novel service and a splendid monetary contribution towards mission purposes was received.

It will not be amiss for the average business man to take some advice he gives to his son about keeping a savings bank account.

Redfern Hollinshead Sang at Lakefield

St. John's church, Lakefield, was fortunate in having Mr. Redfern Hollinshead of New York, who sang at the eleven and seven o'clock services on Easter. Mr. Hollinshead's magnificent voice, well known to music lovers in Canada, was greatly appreciated by the large congregations at both services. In the morning he rendered a solo from "Bethany," and in the evening, "The Sorrows of Death," from Mendelssohn's Hymn of Praise. After the evening service, Mr. Hollinshead rendered some selections on the organ, which proved him to be not only the possessor of a magnificent voice, but also an artiste at the organ.

During his visit in Lakefield Mr. Hollinshead was the guest of Rev. and Mrs. A. W. Mackenzie at "The Grove."

SUDDEN DEATH OF JAMES BOWIE

Well Known Resident of Keene Has Passed Away

Mr. James Bowie, the well known cattle buyer and butcher of Lang, Otonabee passed away suddenly at his home last evening. He was attacked with heart failure and died a couple of hours later. Mr. Bowie was widely known through the district and had a host of friends who will be shocked by the news of his sudden death. He was born in Otonabee fifty-four years ago and had spent all his life in that township. His wife, three daughters and one son survive him. The daughters are: Anna, Margueerite and Lillian and the son is Logan Bowie, all four residing at home. The funeral will take place on Wednesday morning to St. Peter's Cemetery, Peterborough.

Lunar Aura On Saturday Night A Grand Display

A particularly fine lunar halo was seen on Saturday evening and noticed and admired by hundreds. The halo, which was of 45 degrees diameter, had distinct mock moons or nodes on its western and eastern limbs and fainter ones at the top and bottom. From the moon, as a centre, bright rays shot out towards these mock suns and formed a plainly-visible cross. At times this cross was more noticeable than others.

Halos are supposed to be caused by the refraction of light on ice crystals, floating in the upper atmosphere. The display on Saturday evening was an unusually fine one.—W.P.

Keeping everlastingly at it undoubtedly brings success, but going about it the right way saves a heap of time.

The CRESSMAN Company Limited

"THE TRENT CANAL OPENS A GREAT WATERWAY"

So reads the heading of an article in the Peterboro Examiner of the 4th inst., copied from the Toronto Evening News. Had this article appeared in the Peterboro Evening Review, I could understand it, as an attempt to excuse the Dominion government for its delay in completing this great enterprise. It is just 85 years since the government of the day attempted to make a highway which in time of war or for commercial purposes could be used as a great commercial highway. In that day there was no railway in Canada, and no good roads of any kind, and this canal was deemed of prime importance. The rebellion broke out in 1837 and the money set apart for the canal was diverted to military purposes to put down the rebellion. Since then is a long cry. If, however, the far-seeing men of early days deemed the waterway a national necessity, how much more is it that to-day? There was no great Northwest in those days and no vast production of wheat, only herds of buffalo and some wild Indians on the great lone land, now known as the great Northwest. However, the buffalo are gone, the Indians are going, but the white man, the plow, the reaper and the threshing machine cover these western lands and the trouble now is to get large enough spouts to let the golden grain flow down to the ships on the eastern sea for the hungry millions of the old lands. Hence the cry of the people for the opening of the water-ways.

The News is right. The Trent Canal is a "great waterway," and it is no credit to the country that it was not opened thirty years ago.

Keeler, the old member for East Northumberland, worked all his later years to speed its completion. Conger, the member for West Peterborough, did the same, but a whole generation has been born and has partly passed away, since these good men died.

The Erie Canal was built, served its great purpose, and paid for itself many times before it ceased to be used, and is now being succeeded by a greater canal of five times the capacity of the original. The State of New York is now completing a new and enlarged Erie Canal, which will have 11 feet of water on the lock sills. This new Erie Canal will have barges of 1,000 tons capacity. New York State has set apart for its construction, $100,000,000.

The little old Erie Canal has $360,000,000 in freight money within the limits of the State, and the disbursements of this money along the line of the canal has built up the great interior cities from Buffalo to Albany, forming a continuous line of commercial centres, which has no counterpart in any other state of the union. The growth of these cities in turn led to the construction of railroads paralleling the canal, and these by consolidation and scientific management, have gradually reduced the cost of transportation during the last 40 years from an average of two cents per ton mile to about six mills per ton mile.

In France the government guarantees the dividends on the railways and the only railways which have not called upon the government to make good are those that parallel the canals.

In about four years New York State's great new canal will be finished. God alone knows when the Trent Canal will be finished. The last section on Georgian Bay is not yet, the next to the last section is not yet half done. There is a big embankment three-fourths of a mile long and a high level bridge to be built at Campbellford before anything larger than a motor boat can get through to Trenton. Ten millions of dollars already sunk in the canal is there eating up interest, and no one knows how many years longer the people are to be humbugged by false statements and excuses for this delayed work.

The article in the Toronto News referred to says the section from Trenton to Lake Simcoe will be open this year; that is not possible, but if it were possible would some one explain why the last section is not yet let?

The Dominion revenue for the year has increased by twice as much as is required to complete the canal. Is there any valid reason for these continuous, sickening delays? The conviction is universally held in the country that the railways are the cause of all the delays. A country that could finance, raise and support 400,000 soldiers and all the panoply of war could without effort have raised the little five millions of dollars required to finish our canal.

No one has any confidence in the promises of the government. No company or person is preparing or building barges for the canal. No one has faith as they think if they had the boats they would rot before there would be a clear run for them.

When the Quaker Oats Company bought and built here they were prophesied the canal in a year or two. It is now 16 years since they built their great factory and no barge has come up from Trenton, or has gone down from the Georgian Bay. When will the first barge go through? Who can say? When the railways let go, and parliament is free to govern this country, then there may be a chance, but not till then. If the Americans owned the country it would all have been completed thirty years ago. It is already eaten up with interest charges and so has cost three prices.

Potato Parings Are Food For The Hungry

"They slip into the kitchen, like thieves and pick up the potato parings and eat them raw."

This is the hunger of Belgium, as set forth in an official Belgian Relief Committee report. This is the hunger of the women and children of our allies — our brothers-in-arms — whom we are asked to help with a few morsels of food each day. This is the hunger that is driving many mad and others to death — the first emaciating and then consuming death of starvation.

When human beings descend to stealing into the kitchens of the German officers and stealing refuse that a self-respecting farmer hesitates to feed to his swine, then the situation is indeed serious. This is the situation that the people of Canada are asked to help relieve. When potato parings are food even the least you can afford to give is acceptable.

Canada in her plenty is asked by the Belgian Relief Committee to help make it unnecessary for these families of our allies to subsist of refuse. Wholesome food, at least, is the lot they deserve if we cannot do more for them. The Belgian Relief Committee is actively engaged in its campaign of relief and is spreading its appeal broadcast over Canada.

Will you send your share to the offices at 50 St. Peter Street, Montreal, or to the branch of the committee that likely exists in your town. The need is great—the situation must be met at once.

Little Baby Mummified Embalmed For Two Decades

CHESTER, Pa., April 9. — A real mummy, a Bible coloured baby, born some twenty years ago, who died after living several weeks, was viewed the other day at an undertaking establishment at 1009 West Third street.

There is no record of the parentage of the infant, and, in brief, its history is that it was found dead twenty years ago, and the body was turned over to the late Thomas Minshall, then an undertaker and deputy coroner. As the body was never claimed, he decided to use it for experimental purposes in embalming, and prepared a special mixture of embalming fluid, a portion of which he injected into the little body.

The result proved successful, and in a short time there was evidences of mummification, and, after being an object of curiosity and a "ten days wonder," the mummy, christened "Izzie," was taken to an unused room in the building and tucked away on the top shelf of a closet.

During all these years the infant body has laid there undisturbed, except when some curious person has called at the establishment and requested permission to see it. The mummy is twenty inches long, weighs two pounds, and resembles in every way a real coloured baby.

Steady Advance In the Prices Of Steel Products

In this summary of the iron, steel, metal and machinery markets for the week ending April 3, Canadian Machinery and Manufacturing News, Toronto, makes the following observations:

The steady advance in prices of steel products continues, without any indication whatever as to when the crest of the movement is likely to be reached. The probability that the United States Government will be a heavy buyer of steel has stimulated the demand and is tending to force prices up. The situation in the States is being reflected in the Canada market and higher prices on all iron and steel products may be looked for. Conditions at the mills here improve and production is increasing in a satisfactory manner. The freight congestion has been relieved considerably, allowing [illegible] shipment of fuel and [illegible] Manufacturers are thus in a better position to execute their output, although a shortage of labour is still felt. Prices of pig-iron have been raised to advance [illegible] on Canadian foundry [illegible] for the near future [illegible] there are however, but to the investment in the [illegible] Prices [illegible] from the manufacturers [illegible] The demand [illegible] is fairly good [illegible] with the exception [illegible] has extended. [illegible]

CHICAGO, April 7.— In one of the most turbulent elections in recent years, non-partisans had local machines turned topsy-turvey here Wednesday and administered a sounding rebuke to Mayor Thompson and the Republican City Hall forces.

Besides electing the city clerk and city clerks, clerks won twenty-two seats in the city council. The Socialists elected two and the Republican remaining twelve.

Other machines also went into the ditch. In the refractory river wards, four lights culminated in the murder of a Greek worker, independent democrats succeeded in electing their candidate.

Disorders and arrests were common occurrences along the levee throughout the election yesterday.

A Darlington township farmer last week sold a six-weeks-old calf, which weighed 300 pounds, at 12c per lb.

ROCKS BACK IN HIS CHAIR AND BREAKS NECK

VALDOSTA, Ga., April 8.—B. W. Cason, of Tampa, Fla., was instantly killed here when he rocked over backward in a chair and broke his neck.

Mr. Cason was a guest at the Southern Hotel here and was found huddled up on the porch with the chair in which he had been sitting lying across his body. He was dead when discovered by Mrs. Sweat, who operates the hotel and who summoned her husband.

There were no eye-witnesses to the accident and an investigation was ordered by Coroner Ulmer. The coroner's jury returned a verdict of death by accident.

The dead man was a brother of Mrs. [illegible] Valdosta.

Wrinkled peas [illegible] planted until later, as [illegible] to rot in cool [illegible] the smooth varieties. [illegible] when the ground is [illegible] it is time [illegible] heat-loving vegetables [illegible] beans, sweet corn, [illegible] and squash. This is an old [illegible] rule.

The quickest crop to mature is the [illegible] Lettuce, turnips, peas, beets [illegible] usually require from six [illegible] weeks, corn from eleven to [illegible] weeks, and potatoes from [illegible] to sixteen weeks to mature.

Distance is to the garden what the [illegible] crop is to the field and gives [illegible] of the best returns. A rich sandy loam, with sufficient nitrate to stimulate leaf growth and intensify the chlorophyll or deep leaf color of the plant and a sufficiency of soft water keep the crop crisp and fresh. Much the same id a is put into practice with cabbage, except that it does not require so much water.

Beans do not require very rich soil and it is safe to plant them on the very poorest patch. Snap beans may be grown in rows between the orchard trees.

The lima bean requires a rich, moist soil, but does not seem to deprive the land of its productiveness. Lima beans have been grown on the same fields in California for many years.

Cucumbers, squashes and melons require rich soil, and the cucumber profits by the application of fresh horse manure. Sheep manure will hurry plants along more rapidly than most chemical fertilizers.

The specialists believe that if the general principles they have outlined are followed it will be profitable for almost any one to plant his idle acres this season. They state that even where the monetary value of the crops raised in the back yard garden is not important, the gardener and his family must credit to the patch the health and enjoyment they gain from this outdoor occupation. They state further that from the community point of view it is the duty of every home owner to keep his place orderly and attractive. The most profitable way of getting rid of a patch of weeds in a back yard is to cultivate it and plant to some valuable crop, the orderly character of which will add much to the comeliness of the home grounds.

Gardening is an old old story. It is related that nearly twenty centuries ago Pliny the Elder summed it up in a sentence of just six words:—"Dig deep; manure well; work often."

peared for them, but declined to plead until Wednesday.

Apparently a Hop Joint.

The police stated that they had found the Chinamen in the cellar, the sidewalk window of which had been boarded up from the inside. Along the walls were newly built bunks with [illegible] and [illegible] apparatus which the police claim were essential to a gambling and opium joint. The air in the place was close and heavy with a peculiar odour attributed to opium and its fumes. It forced a postponement of the supper hour for most of the night force.

The Seized Properties.

The "properties" of the grocery cellar included dominoes, dice, playing cards, a canvas sheet marked off into [illegible] for some kind of game, also three [illegible] opium pipes, spirit lamps, two cans of opium, about the size of a mustard tin, almost empty, and other appliances for "hitting the hop." There were also two [illegible] glass jars labelled "Chinese Wine From Hong Kong," a suitcase containing a razor, [illegible] and a box of cartridges, and [illegible] other personal effects and a tin of "Kan Hee" opium that had been used but may be smoked again. It was indeed a strange assortment that littered the police court table. Most of the articles were foreign in appearance, use and odour, but there was a slightly pungent smell about the entire collection. A peculiar little weighing apparatus, probably for retailing the opium, was not the least interesting item in the exhibit. The pipes seem to be of dark brown bone, two about the size of a flute with a separate container that fitted into the pipe near the end opposite the mouthpiece. The opium is first picked up on an instrument that looks like a dentist's scraper, is cooked over the spirit lamp, placed in the pipe and smoked. Of such stuff as this, it is said, are made golden and rosy dreams. The city's entire Chinese population is about forty.

U. S. ENTRY INTO WAR GIVES ALLIES BIG SUPERIORITY

PARIS, April 9.—Loui Loucheu, Under Secretary of State for Munitions, pointed out the importance of America's entry into the war, adding as it did, so largely to the material resources of the allies as to give them a decisive superiority over Germany.

"As an official in charge of munitions," he said, "I fully appreciate the statement in President Wilson's message that the country's material resources must be organized and mobilized. War is largely a question of material. It is no longer a question of the valour of men. But you must put into the hands of these men an overwhelming material superiority.

"One of the chief lessons of the war is that the more we achieve in producing materials the more we must continue to achieve and to intensify the achievement, until overwhelming superiority is secured.

"During the last fifteen months we have made a strenuous and successful effort in the production of war materials, the American supply of steel proving one of the chief helps toward this result."

WASHINGTON April 9.—The members of the International Joint Commission, comprising Canadians and Americans named to settle disputes between Canada and the United States, placed a wreath on Washington's tomb at Mount Vernon at the same time President Wilson was signing the war declaration.

Grant May Be 30 Cents

Government to Increase Allowance to Hospitals.

While the Ontario Government has not announced the extent to which it proposes to increase its grant to hospitals, it is understood that the increase will be from twenty to thirty cents per diem per patient.

The municipalities are being required to increase their contributions to the support of local hospitals from $1.00 to $1.25. The same proportionate increase in the Government grant would mean an advance to 25 cents, but the intimation of Premier Hearst in the closing hours of the session of the Legislature that the Government would do as well if not better than the municipalities in future contributions to hospitals is generally applied as meaning that 30 cents per diem per patient will ultimately be fixed as the basis of the Government grant. It was stated that an official announcement would not be made until after the Premier's return from his trip to New York.

The deputation of representatives of Hospital Boards which waited on the Government three weeks ago urged that the Government grant be increased from 20 to 40 cents a day and that of municipalities from $1.00 to $1.50 per day per patient.

Many Recent Advances In Cost of Living

Market reports bring new gloom to the householder who is trying to stretch advancing wages over the constantly increasing gap between the two ends that refuse to meet. Included this tale of woes gathered from the grocers. All five cent soaps are now seven cents a bar or four for twenty-five cents. The manufacturers recently quoted a 35-cent increase some time ago, and within the past week or ten days it went up another 40 cents. This included Sunlight, Surprise, Comfort, Borax, Lifebuoy, Gold and other lines.

Catsup (not formerly sold at 10c. are now two for twenty-five cents, and the 25-cent bottles will set the householder back 30 cents.

Starches formerly 10 cents a package are now 13 cents or two for a quarter.

Corn syrups recently jumped 40c. a case on 5-pound tins, and 20c. a case on two-pounders.

Crisco went up $1.00 a case a few weeks back, and a few days ago increased that again by 75 cents. The retail prices used to be 30c., 55c. and $1.05 a tin; these have been increased to 50c., 85c. and $1.80.

Canned corn has advanced 40c. a dozen to the trade and grocers who have yet to into the market will have to retail this line at 18c. a tin or 2 for 35c. But the philanthropists who laid in large stocks will not take advantage of the market uplift. At least such is the intimation.

Matches that sold at 5c. a box are now 7c. or three boxes for 20c. Splitting them will soon be a necessary accomplishment.

Local merchants have been unable to secure home grown onions. They say the market has been cleaned out completely. Mr. Walter Oke had imported New Zealand onions, which are retailing at 15c. a pound. Not long ago our own onions were 10c. The encircling movement seems to be complete.

Tapioca and sago are 15c. a pound. A short time ago 10 cents bought them. The little white bean is up to 15c. a pound, an undreamed of price not so long ago. The dearest brooms used to be 60c. each. The cheapest lines to-day are 90 and 65c.

Sugar recently advanced 30c. per cwt. Ten pounds for a dollar is about the prevailing price.

COLONEL CALLS FOR UNITY.

Says the Nation Must Rally as One Man to Fight Germany.

NEW YORK, April 4.—In an article "Now We Must Fight," in the May number of the Metropolitan Magazine, Colonel Theodore Roosevelt calls for undivided allegiance to this country, now about to engage in battle with Germany, "the arch foe of international right."

"All of our people," he says, "in every section of the country, and without regard to creed, occupation, race, or origin, must rally as one man, must hold an absolutely, undivided allegiance to this country, and must be ready to lend themselves in any way for the flag that not only symbolizes our national honour and ancient renown, but the greatest hope for the future of the nations of mankind.

"We are going to war with Germany because Germany has bitterly wronged us. But there is much more than this at stake. In reality we are not fighting Germany merely in any private quarrel of ours. We are fighting Germany because under its present Government, a Government of ruthless and despotic militarism, Germany has become the arch-foe of international right and of ordered freedom throughout the world.

"All of us Americans love peace, and would do anything honourable to avoid war, but the very fact that we thus love peace makes us serve with devoted ardor the lofty ideals of right, through the achievement of which alone permanent peace can come to the world. We fight not only to protect ourselves, but to bring nearer the day when justice, and honour, and fair dealing between nation and nation, and man and man, shall exist through all the continents. We love life, but there are things we love even more than life, and we feel that we are loyal to all that is highest in America's past, when we act on the belief that those only are fit to live, who are not afraid to die."

MLLE. NELLI GARDINI—Joins Forces with Joseph F. Sheehan coming to "The Grand" on Wednesday next, April 11th, in Verdi's Masterpiece "Il Trovatore."

Mlle. Nelli Gardini, said by competent critics to be one of the greatest Dramatic Sopranos of the day, together with several members of her own company combines forces with Joseph Sheehan, America's foremost tenor, and the leading artists of The Boston English Opera Company in a magnificent production of Verdi's Masterpiece "Il Trovatore."

This tour, which is limited to ten weeks and embraces 48 cities in the United States, offers what is without a doubt the greatest singing organization heard in this country outside of a few large music centres and nothing to equal it has ever before been heard in this country at prices which the average theatre-goer can afford.

Needless to say this tour is in the nature of an experiment, and in order to avoid a big deficit at the reasonable prices charged it is necessary to play to capacity houses.

If the American and Canadian public shows its appreciation of this effort Mlle. Gardini has promised to return to this country next season for another joint tour with Mr. Sheehan in "Madam Butterfly," bringing her own orchestra of 35 with her.

Those cities making the best showing on this tour will naturally be included in next season's booking.

Nine Thousand German Prisoners Taken By The British

Bitter Fighting Marks Continuation of Forward Smash

Canadians Led In Attack On Vimy Ridge 9,000 Prisoners Captured

There is Every Reason to Believe That by To-night in Great British Smash Will Have Netted Field Marshall Haig Fifteen Thousand Prisoners and Between Fifty and One Hundred Guns.

BRITISH CASUALTIES SMALL

SPECIAL TO THE EXAMINER:

LONDON, April 10.—Bitter fighting marked the continuation of Field Marshall Haig's forward smash in the great spring offensive to-day. The British Commander in Chief to-day reported nine thousand prisoners and forty guns as yesterday's captures in the first day of his tremendous sledge hammer smash.

Repulse of all German couter attacks in severe fighting on Vimy Ridge was reported by Field Marshal Haig to-day. "There was severe fighting during the night at the northern end of Vimy Ridge," he said. "The enemy was ejected and a counter attack by them failed. The eastern slope was cleared and counter attacks repulsed."

"In the neighbourhood of St. Quentin," the report continues, "the enemy was driven from high ground between Leverguier and Hargicourt. We seized the village of Fampoux and also the neighbouring defenses to the north and south of Scarfe," the report continues, "After an intense bombardment the enemy at night attacked on a narrow front south-east of Ypres and succeded in reaching our support line. They were immediately ejected, leaving several dead.

Fampoux is about three and a half miles north-east of Arras, in the direction of Vitry-En-Artois and Douai. Harigcourt is on a line with Fresnoy-Le-Petit, Pontru and Maisemy, all about two and a half miles distant from the main line of German communications between Cambrai and St. Quentin. The whole German line is menaced by the British gain at Vimy Ridge. The Canadians led in the great attack and the capture of Vimy Ridge, with nine thousand German prisoners. The British casualties were small.

(By William Philip Simms, U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

With British Armies Afield, April 10.—There is every reason to believe that by to-night the great British smash will have netted Field Marshal Haig fifteen thousand prisoners and between fifty and one hundred guns. The driving force of the great offensive was undiminished to-day even with bitter opposition from the enemy.

In First War Stroke 600,000 Tons of Shipping Are Added To American Merchant Marine

German Vessels Taken Over by the Government, Valued at More Than $400,000,000, Are Expected to Be Put Into the Atlantic Service Carrying Supplies For the United States' Allies.

SIX MONTHS NEEDED TO REPAIR DAMAGE INFLICTED BY CREWS WHEN BREAK CAME

NEW YORK, April 10.—Ninety-four German vessels, including the cream of the German mercantile marine, which have been lying sheltered in American ports since the outbreak of the war in Europe, have been seized by United States authorities.

The total tonnage is more than 600,000 gross, and their value, before the war, was placed at $100,360,000. At the present prices being paid for vessels, the steamships seized probably have quadrupled in value, and a conservative estimate would price them at more than $400,000,000.

The tonnage seized is more than could be built in American shipyards in a year, and some of the larger vessels, notably the Vaterland, could not be produced in the United States in several years. To build them here at the prevailing prices would cost more than their estimated value of $400,000,000.

All Vessels Damaged.

All the vessels have been damaged by their crews at the order of the German government. It will take more than six months to replace the valuable parts destroyed on board some of the vessels according to marine engineers, but others can be made seaworthy in a much shorter space of time.

While no definite statement has been made by the administration regarding the employment of the vessels, officials said yesterday that "an intelligent use" would be made of them, and they probably will be placed in service as soon as repaired transporting war supplies to the allies of the United States. Some of them will be used as transports if an expeditionary force be sent abroad. Indications are that the vessels will be regarded as the property of the United States and will be paid for after the war, with deductions for the amounts that will be spent upon them to make them seaworthy.

All the vessels will have to go into dry dock. The Vaterland, with her 54,000 gross tons, is too large for any American dry dock, and will have to be towed to Balboa, it is said, to get accommodations.

Five Ships Seized at Boston.

At Boston, where six German vessels are lying, five were seized by Edmund Billings, Collector of the Port. The Kronprinzessin Celilie, of the North German Lloyd line, the largest steamship there, was already in the hands of the federal authorities. Her commander, Captain Charles A. Polack, with his officers, was quartered on board the Koln, the first steamship to be seized.

The seizure was made by a force of 250 men, made up of bluejackets, customs guards and policemen. No resistance was made, although many of the German seamen grumbled at being kept out in the rain for more than hour while arrangements were being made for their examination.

The vessels seized were the Amerika and the Cincinnati of the Hamburg-American line, the Koln and the Wittekind, of the North German Lloyd, and the Ockenfels of the Hanse line. While damaged, the vessels can be repaired for sea service, it was estimated, within two months, for less than $200,000.

Captain Polack, while the examination was in progress, remarked bitterly to a newspaper man:

"Too bad I did not keep my ship on for Germany instead of bringing her to all the trouble here."

Captain Sobaarschmidt, of the Cincinnati, had on board his nineteen-year-old daughter Gerda, who was permitted to go to the home of a friend in Cambridge.

Two shots were fired during the seizure, but according to the authorities, they were accidental. No trace of explosives or of incendiary devices were found on board the vessels.

375 Men Detained.

The crews, numbering more than 775 officers and men, were taken to the immigration station and held under guard.

At New London the Willehad, which acted as a mother ship for the merchant submarine Deutschland, when that vessel arrived here, was seized and the crew of fifty men taken to the Customs House under guard. The Collector, Mr. McGovern, after a cursory examination, said that in his opinion the Willehad's engines were in good condition. If a final inspection by naval engineers corroborates his statement, the Willehad probably will be the only German vessel in an American port that has not been rendered unseaworthy by her crew.

The steamships Rhaetia and the Prinz Oskar, of the Hamburg-American line, at Philadelphia, were seized by customs officers and their crews interned at the Gloucester immigration station. Following the seizure, federal authorities, accompanied by Captain Muetzell, of the Rhaetia, and Captain Maas, of the Prinz Oskar, made a thorough examination of the machinery of both vessels and found that they were so thoroughly wrecked that it will take several months to make them fit.

Officers Reveal Damage.

The German officers coolly pointed out the engine parts that had been removed. They denied that acid had been poured into the cylinder and valves. The boilers apparently were in good condition. The hulls seemed to be intact, but the vessels are lying in four feet of harbour mud.

At Philadelphia also are the German auxiliary cruisers Kronprinz Wilhelm and the Prinz Eitel Friedrich, the crews of which already have been removed.

At Newport News the Arcadia of the Hamburg-American line, the only German vessel there, was seized and her crew detained.

The Rhein, the Neckar and the Bulgaria, lying at Baltimore, were seized at an early hour by United States marshals and customs officials, supported by a company of National Guard infantry, and the crews, numbering sixty officers and men in all, were removed and interned. The federal officials found two 10-pound and one 5-pound keg of powder and a quantity of rifles and revolvers in the wheelhouse of the Neckar. Some powder also was found on board the Bulgaria.

Seize Two at Wilmington N. C.

At Wilmington N. C., the Kiel and Nimaria were seized by federal officials and twenty men, all of the crews who could be found, were locked up in comfortable quarters at the United States Marine Hospital grounds.

At Jacksonville, Fla., the captain and four men of the Frieda Leonhardt, all that remained of the crew, were arrested. The vessel had been badly damaged. At Pensacola the Vogesen and the Rudolph Blumberg were taken in charge by the federal authorities and their crews placed in custody.

The Rheslau and the Andromeda, at New Orleans, were seized and their crews placed in the United States immigration station there.

Similar action was taken on the Pacific coast. At Seattle, Wash., the Saxonia and the ship Steinbek, lying at Eagle Harbour, were seized by deputy United States marshals and their crews taken to the immigration station at Seattle.

Three sailing vessels—the Kurt, the Delbeck and the Arnoldus Vinnen—in refuge along the Columbia and Willamette rivers between Portland and Astoria, Ore., were seized and their crews taken to Portland for internment.

Captured Collier Sinking.

At San Francisco the Serapis, the bark Ottowa and the power schooner Atlas were seized by customs officials and their crews interned at the immigration station on Angel Island. The power schooner Neptun, which had been lying there, was sold last week to an American owner.

At San Juan, Puerto Rico, the Odenwald and the President and the captured British collier KD-3, which was brought in by a German prize crew, were seized and their crews interned. The crew of the KD-3 opened the seacock of the vessel before their capture and the vessel, it is said, is slowly sinking.

SECZEMA ON THE HEAD.

Mr. Peterson, South Bay, Ont., writes: "For years I suffered a sort of eczema on the head. I tried four different doctors, giving each a fair trial, but the disease grew worse and spread to my arm. I got Dr. Chase's Ointment, and it has entirely cured me. I give you my name because I want other sufferers to know about this splendid Ointment."

Funeral of the Late John Hull

(Lakefield News.)

One of the oldest and most highly respected residents of Lakefield, in the person of Mr. John Hull passed away at his late residence at the age of 75 years, after a short illness, from pneumonia. Deceased, who was one of the most widely known men in this part of the country, was born in the township of Whitby in 1842. His father the late Rev. T. R. Hull, a Bible Christian Minister was a native of Norfolk County, England. John Hull left the parental roof when but fifteen years of age, and learned the trade of milling in the village of Tweed. He afterwards worked at his trade in various places in this Province and Quebec, and in 1863 leased a mill and carried on a milling business there for one year, when he came to Lakefield and rented the grist mills, which he some three years after purchased. He afterwards remodelled the mills and for any years carried on an extensive milling business. When the canal was being constructed through the village it passed very close to the mill and in consequence seriously affected the business, and after a few years Mr. Hull practically closed the mill up. In later years, and in fact, up to the time of his illness, he carried on an insurance business and was actively connected with the Burleigh cheese factory. In religion he was a Methodist and took an active part in the work of the church, being always ready to advance its interests in every way. In politics he was a Liberal and an ardent supporter of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. He was one of the oldest members of Clementi Lodge No. 313, A.F. & A.M., and had filled the office of District Deputy Grand Master for Otonabee District. Deceased took an active interest in municipal affairs and has served as reeve, councillor and school trustee, and at the time of his death was a member of the village council. He is survived by a widow and three children, two sons and one daughter. His son, the late Private Wilfrid Hull, was the first Lakefield soldier to meet death in the present war. Also a brother, Thomas Hull of Stoney Lake. The funeral was held on Sunday afternoon, April 1st, interment taking place in the Lakefield cemetery. The services were conducted by the members of Clementi Lodge and the Rev. C. W. Barrett, pastor of the Methodist church.

"On To Berlin" War Cry Idea of Mr. Watterson

And When German Capital is Stormed by American Troops Louisville Editor Suggests "To Hell With the Hapsburgs" by Way of Change

MAKES TWO SUGGESTIONS

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 10.—Under the caption "It Is No "Make Believe," Mr. Watterson says in the Courier Journal:

"The formalities are over. We are officially as well as technically at war with Germany. The state of war which that Power forced upon us has been duly recognized and declared by our Congress, within whose province alone that function lies.

"This action was inevitable from the hour on Monday when the President, after two years of patient and persistent effort to avert war, arose before the houses and made his terrific indictment of Prussian piracy and perfidy, followed by his electrifying summons to a great nation to arise in its might and consecrate itself to the defence of its outraged liberties, in cooperation with those who are in a death grapple with the assailants of the liberties of mankind.

"The responses to that summons, voiced by their representatives, comes from the thrilled and resolute hearts of the people of all the land. They spring to the flag. They draw back the sword. They will not look back again to the ways of peace until all that the flag symbolizes, all that their swords have won, shall be triumphantly secure. America to-day is a sleeping giant aroused, a giant mightier by far than suspected by those in any quarter of the globe who have sneered at our prowess and spat upon our rights; mightier, too, than many, perhaps most, of her own sons yet realize. She is now at war, and she will not quit war until she has demonstrated her will and power to protect and persuade the sacred principles which inspired the birth of this republic, until she has justified the station which she has taken as the hope of liberty throughout the world.

Makes Two Suggestions.

"Two suggestions, Mr. President: Announce as our answer to the next peace talk that comes from the Central Powers, that we will never enter into any negotiation with the Kaiser, and, Mr. President, remove all restriction from the raising of a division by Theodore Roosevelt to cross the Atlantic as soon as possible.

"The German people should know we are ready to make peace with them, when they throw the Hohenzollern, as the Russians throw the Romanoff, and the sight of the Stars and Stripes hoisted over the allied trenches by an American President, will glorify us and electrify the world.

"Surely the time has arrived—many of us think it was long overdue—for calling the brave to the colours. Nations must also take stock on occasion and manhood come to a showdown. It is but a truism to say so.

"Fifty years the community has enjoyed surpassing prosperity. This has overcommercialized the charter and habits of the people. Seventy-five years the gospel of passivism, with 'business is business' for its text, has not only been preached indiscriminately, oracularly, without

A Revolt Threatens Enemy Country

SPECIAL TO THE EXAMINER:

THE HAGUE, April 10.—German papers show increasing nearness to revolt in Germany. The United States entry into the war, and Monday's British victory lead to much trouble.

A Single Application Will Banish Objectionable Hairs

(Aids to Beauty.)

Here is a home treatment for removing hairs that is quick, painless and inexpensive: With some powdered delatone and water make enough paste to thickly cover the objectionable hairs, apply and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and it will be left soft, clear and hairless. This treatment will not mar the skin, but to avoid disappointment, be careful to get real delatone.

SIX V. C.'S FOR THE LANCASHIRES.

London Daily News.

The honour that has fallen to the 1st Battalion Lancashire Fusiliers is without precedent in the history of the British army. In August, 1915, three V.C.'s were conferred for the famous landing at "W" Beach, Gallipoli; and to-day three more are announced—six in all—to the battalion for a single feat of arms. Two of the new V.C.'s lost their lives. Sir Ian Hamilton described the taking of "W" Beach as the finest feat of arms ever performed by the British or any other army. It is not the least striking testimony to the impossibility of distinguishing supreme valour where all showed such superb courage that the authorities apparently left the selection of the three now honoured (as in some other cases) to the suffrages of their comrades. The method of selection must add a glow—if that be possible—to the honours so dearly won.

A Sure Way To End Dandruff

There is one sure way that has never failed to remove dandruff at once, and that is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, common liquid arvon from any drug store (this is all you will need), apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

Lid Pried Off, Lost at Juarez: Anything Goes

JUAREZ, Mex., April 8.—With the lid pried off and thrown away by orders of Gen. Jose Marguia this city is regaining its notoriety as the "wickedest city in the world," once applied by Jack London.

Along the main street the buildings vacant since Villa's regima are blazing with lights. Inside the Mexican orchestras are strumming, the roulette wheels are spinning, and the dice are rolling. Public gambling is running full blast.

Nightly American national guardsmen and officers who can borrow or rent civilian clothes are slipping across the Rio Grande to see the most picturesque gaming house on the continent and woo the fickle goddess. Orders by American commanders are strict against crossing to this side, but many take a chance.

All Sorts of People.

Around the roulette tables of the Fiesta nightly is jammed the strangest assortment of humans to be found in America. Smartly dressed Spanish and American women rub elbows with dirty, barefooted de facto soldiers.

Painted women scattering gold over the tables hang over the shoulders of blanketed Yaqui Indians and Chinese labourers staking their "cinco centavos" (2½ cents) on the gaudy board.

Renegades and outlaws from a dozen lands press around the crap tables with natty Carranzista officers in olive drab, squatty Indian cavalrymen from Zacatecas in scarlet and vari-coloured blankets and huge spurs.

The Fiesta is a large, barren hall lighted with rows of glaring incandescents. Upon a raised platform at one end a twenty piece orchestra in shirt sleeves plays stirring bullfight airs, French classics, and American ragtime. The atmosphere is blue with the smoke of hundreds of black "adobe" cigarettes. Bullet holes in the rear windows—reminders of Villa's last attack—furnish the ventilation.

Five Deep Around Table.

Except for the singsong of the men calling the roulette numbers in Spanish above the throbbing of the orchestra the crowds around the tables are silent and intent. Humanity is packed five deep around the tables, eyes riveted upon the glittering wheel.

In the centre of the hall are three large wooden bowls surrounded by miniature grand stands filled with barefooted soldiers muffled to their eyes in blankets or "serapes" playing the Mexican game of "chusmas." A handful of wooden pellets are whirled around the bowl and the gamblers wager that an odd or even number stick in a series of slots at the bottom. As the balls spin around the bowl the soldiers yell in their excitement.

Nearby the Philippine game of cooncan holds forth, drawing the peons and many Chinese. The Chinese are inveterate gamblers and patronize the roulette wheels heavily.

Outside in the street swarms of beggars pull at the garments of pedestrians for "nee-klays." Hideously deformed men snatch at the clothing of Americans or sit on the walk moaning until a coin is dropped into the outseretched hand.

Every saloon now has its cabaret and entertainers and the sound of a score of orchestras blend. The famous Black Cat cafe has reopened as a keno hall. The tables are crowded with silent gamblers watching their boards as the caller tolls off the numbers. The Tivoli has a cabaret and is largely patronized by Americans.

"Turk" Touche's Career.

The career of "Turk" Touche, who holds the gambling concessions, is romantic. Twenty years ago he came to Mexico from Turkey. His only possession was a dancing bear which he exhibited throughout the country. Under Diaz he obtained the gambling concessions in Torreon and Chihuahua, where he opened the famed "Palace of Tears." To-day he is said to be worth a million dollars. It is said he pays $30,000 a month for the permits in this city.

Practical Joke Causes Death; $2,500 to Widow

EDWARDSVILLE, April 8.—What is said to be one of the most unusual damage suits in Illinois was heard at Edwardsville. The jury returned a verdict by which Mrs. Catherine Marquis of O'Fallon was given $2,500 against the East St. Louis and Suburban Railway for the death of her husband, Otis Marquis, on August 4, 1915.

Marquis left the car to get a drink from the cooler in the car barns. He had been ill for several months. As he raised the cup to his lips he received an electric shock. Shortly afterwards he became a nervous wreck and died.

It was afterwards learned that the metallic cup was connected to a battery and that employees of the car barns frequently turned the current on persons taking a drink.

Had Violent Coughing Fits

Looked Like Consumptive

Mrs. Mary Whetse, North Forks, N.S., writes: "Having taken five bottles of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, during the past few weeks, to relieve a chronic cough and general throat trouble, allow me to express my unbounded satisfaction and thanks as to its sterling qualities. A short time ago I became subject to violent coughing fits at night and directly after rising in the morning. I began losing weight, and all my friends cheerfully informed me that I was going into consumption.

"After taking the 'Dr. Wood's' I am pleased to relate that the cough has entirely disappeared and I have since regained the lost weight. I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup."

There are many imitations of "Dr. Wood's" on the market so see that none of these so-called "pine syrups" are handed out to you when you ask for "Dr. Wood's." It has been on the market for twenty-five years, is put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark, price 25c and 50c.

SOME SHARP DIFFERENCES.

The difference is apparent early: A boy has as much fun in stoning a cat as a girl has in hunting for violets. A boy's curiosity is directed to the ice box; a girl would like to see what is in the top bureau drawer.

A girl can give the impression when away from home that her parents are wealthy; a boy cannot.

Every boy is old enough to be welcome to sit in the neighbor girl's parlor many years before his sister thinks he is old enough to sit in the parlor at home.

A girl is never so young that she will reveal to the guests at a party that the spoons are borrowed; a boy child never grows so old that he fails to.

Give a boy a dollar and he will eat it; give his sister one and she will wear it.

A brother and sister may have hair of the same shade, but the boy's is called red, and the girl's, auburn.

When brothers fight it is over the larger share of pie; when sisters quarrel, one has worn something belonging to the other without asking permission.—Youth's Companion.

Nine trains are being used by Murguia to transport his army.

Asked if she were ready to go to the front, she replied:

"I shall be ready to go anywhere and do all I can for the brave men fighting for their country. The words of the President set my heart ablaze, and I felt that I must do what I could to help him."

Over 12,000 Workers in Lynn Affected by Order.

LYNN, Mass., April 7.—More than 12,000 shoe workers are affected by a notice given by 21 members of the Lynn Shoe Manufacturers' Association that on April 20 the factories will be closed for an indefinite period. The association states this is done to take account of stock and make repairs. The date of the shut down is simultaneous with the expiration of a "peace agreement," which has been in effect for the last year between the manufacturers and members of unions affiliated with the United Shoe Workers of America. The manufacturers claim they are paying seven cents a pair more for shoes than are the manufacturers of nearby points.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

A Bluff That Told

By SADIE OLCOTT

James Pearson was thirty years old and possessed a fine farm. He was a bachelor, and an old woman who had been his nurse kept house for him. Sam Slack was his right hand man, and on him Pearson relied for everything pertaining to the care of the farm and the raising of crops. The financial part of the industry Pearson attended to himself, also the sale of what the farm produced. One day Pearson said to his man Slack:

"Sam, there should be another woman about the place. Mrs. Griffiths (the housekeeper) is getting old, and it's all she can do to keep the house in order and get my meals. I wish you'd get married. You could have the cottage free of rent. Keep it anything turns up that requires a woman to do there'll be some one to do it."

"I wouldn't mind, Mr. Pearson," replied Sam, "if I could get a nice gal. Is there any one about here you think would have me?"

"Lord of 'em. Old Sawyer has three daughters and nothing to leave 'em. I could chuck you in for bait, and all three would swim for it. The most likely of the lot is Amanda. She'd make any man a good wife."

The last words were said as much to himself as to Sam, but Sam did not notice the musing tone in which they were spoken.

"Well, Mr. Pearson," he said, "I'll talk the matter over, and if I find there's any chance of gettin' a gal to fill the bill, mebbe I'll try for her."

Sam's reply was based on the fact that since Pearson had proposed the plan he must consider the man to whom he had proposed it a fixture. It was not likely that he would be turned out of a job so long as he did his work and kept the peace with his employer. The very next evening he went to Sawyer's and asked for Amanda. Sam was a good man, but as for making a proposition of marriage he was like a bull in a china shop. Since he had asked especially for Amanda he was given the living room and she was notified that he was waiting for her there. When she entered he got up out of the chair he was sitting in, said "good evening," sat down again before she had seated herself, arose again, remarked that it was a fine evening and when both were seated plunged into his subject.

"Miss Sawyer," he began, "Mr. Pearson says that Mrs. Griffiths, the housekeeper, is gittin' old and they'd oughter be another woman on the place."

Miss Sawyer had been thinking on that same line. She was not surprised that Pearson had come to it, and jumped at the conclusion that he had sent Sam to her with some sort of a proposition. But marriage was the only proposition she would listen to, and surely Pearson would not send his hired man to make a declaration for him.

"Jes' so," she said, and waited for further development.

"He told me that if I'd git married I might have the cottage on the farm that's been shut up for so long," continued Sam.

This was a development on unexpected lines. Miss Sawyer's rigidity of countenance did not relax. There was no mute or openly expressed invitation to proceed, but Sam was in for it and there was no way to back out, or if there was he was not competent to avail himself of it.

"I asked him if he thought there was any gal around here that would suit him—I mean that would fill the bill, and he said he thought you"—

By this time the scowl on Amanda's face had so far deepened that Sam dare not go any further. Amanda sat like a stone. The quiet was so impressive that those who were listening at keyholes wondered if the couple had left the room by way of the chimney. Finally Amanda, appearing to soften somewhat, said:

"I'm much obleeged to you, Mr. Slack, for your proposition. The only thing I don't like about it is that Mr. Pearson has mixed himself up in it. If you're prepared to give me a home that doesn't come through him I'm ready to marry you tomorrow. But as to livin' in one o' Mr. Pearson's outhouses, I'm not thinkin' that way at all."

Sam stammered something about being taken dat-aback as to the condition and went away, saying that if he found a way out of the matter he would let her know.

Pearson, who had his eye on Sam as well as on Amanda, knew of the visit and the next morning resumed the subject of Sam's marriage and the cottage. Sam told him of the girl's acceptance of him and the condition. Pearson opened his eyes very wide.

"Well, Sam," he said when he had recovered something of his equanimity, "what's going to be the result?"

"I dunno," replied Sam. "Seems to me that the plan o' gittin' another woman on the place has broke down."

"Reckon," replied Pearson. And he turned away.

The same evening he went to see Amanda Sawyer and apologized for what he called interfering in her love affairs. It was not long after that that Amanda supplied the feminine deficiency in his home, but as the wife of the master instead of the man.

Sam Slack, having had his mind set upon getting a wife, persevered and finally married a widow with one of the best farms in the county. This gave him a superiority over his former master which he rather enjoyed.

Aliens Poured In.

Scores of alien enemies, chiefly Bulgars and Austrians, many of whom knew nothing of the events of the past sixteen months other than the fact that their countries were at war, were brought by more intelligent fellow-countrymen to Toronto just before Christmas for registration. They poured into the city from the northern parts of British Columbia, Quebec, and the more settled portions of Northern Ontario to spend Christmas with fellow-countrymen.

Unable to read or speak English, isolated in shanties and construction camps, many of the new arrivals had no knowledge of the past events of the war. In some instances, in spite of the posters scattered over the country calling upon subjects of enemy countries to report themselves to the nearest registrar, the men, until their arrival in Toronto, did not know they were regarded as alien enemies.

The co-operation of the more respectable members of the Toronto colonies frequented by Bulgars and Austrians proved an assistance to the police. Unregistered new arrivals were refused shelter in the lodging-houses until they could produce the card given by the bureau.

University Of Vienna Suffers Badly From War

VIENNA, April 8.—The third year of the war found the University of Vienna suffering about as severely from the effects of the struggle as any of the German colleges.

Reports in the Vienna press announce that only 500 new students enrolled for the winter and that the number in attendance at the lectures had fallen from some 10,000 in time of peace to 4,000, half of whom were women.

Among the women students are many who in peace times studied at the Universities in Lemberg and Czernowitz.

WHEN YOU CAN'T SLEEP

YOU SHOULD USE
MILBURN'S HEART and NERVE PILLS

Sleeplessness is caused by the nervous system becoming deranged.

Perhaps too much worry has gotten on your nerves, perhaps you have overworked yourself, or have been excessive in your use of tobacco, but whatever the cause, the nervous system must be built up again before restful sleep can be assured.

Those whose rest is broken into by frightful dreams, nightmares, sinking and smothering sensations, who wake up in the morning as tired as they went to bed can have their old, peaceful, undisturbed, refreshing sleep back again by using Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

Mrs. John Sloan, Haley Station, Ont., writes: "Over a year ago I was very nervous. I could not sleep at night, and I would faint at the slightest fright. I tried several doctors, but they did me practically no good. I noticed your advertisement, and immediately tried Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and I am proud to say they cured me."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c a box or three for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

THE CALL OF THE FALLEN

Tremble, O men! Bow down! and hear
You list to ghosts! Not one alone,
Ten thousand and again ten thousand
And yet again, till mem'ry tires
At their rememb'ring. Ghosts of those
Who once were young and strong as you
Ten thousand times ten thousand ghosts,
We speak to you! Bow down, and weep!
Hear!

We are your brethren and your sons
Who left you in your homes to speak
Of Love, and love in innocence:
To dwell in peaceful country shires
With blazing hearth-fires and the birds
To make sweet music as ye sat.
We left you in this loneliness
Without a murmur of complaint.
Remember!
You nothing knew of war and death
The name of battle told you nought;
We left you to your dreams of love
Now we speak! Listen and tremble!

Behold! Look on us, men, and weep!
The trumpet's call of honour came
Adown the valley and we heard
And came, and conquered all for you
We woke to sound of guns and battl'
And we waded through th' life blood
Of our foes, fighting and falling
And rising to fight again till
A rifle butt or bay'net thrust
Sped us on that dread path of death
More awful made by hate and slaughter.
We fell, and now you look on ghosts.
Tremble!

We have fought for you and fallen
Have starved for you and suffered cold
And bore with pangs of thirst the wound
From which our life-blood spurted fast.
We died. And yet you stand aloof
Endeav'ring not to carry on
We fought for you and died for you, and you Forget!

Behold, O men! Behold our scars
And boast not then of sacrifice
'Tis we, 'tis we who've paid the price
While you've remained at pleasure's shrine.
And now 'tis time to take up arms
For your own selves, for we have gone
Leaving the task to you. We've come
From those green mounds in far off France
To call you!
Tremble, O men! Bow down and weep
Not alone for us and our scars
But for yourselves that you have missed
The glory of the death we won.
Weep for the wasted hours and days
When oppression's withering hand
Has stilled nations of the earth
And you were lost in pleasure's thrall.
Weep,
That liberty and justice have
With ruthless hand been torn away
From their high place in Europe's halls
And sunk in a mire of slav'ry.

To arms, O men! To arms and strike
The final blow for liberty!
List to honour's loud trumpeting
And leave your dreaming to the cowards.
We call you, and we wait, we watch
And we'll be with you in the fray.
There where the battle rages thick,
You'll find us. Speed the day!
To arms!

FISK NEGROES WILL SERVE.

Have Sent Offer of Services to President Wilson.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 9.—President A. E. McKenzie of Fisk University, a negro institution, has written a letter to President Wilson declaring that the negro men and women of that institution are ready to serve their country in any possible way. He calls on the President to outline the way "we can best make these offers effective in the nation's hour of testing."

THANKFUL FOR PEACE PARTY.

Only Consolation Hums Have Is That Some in U. S. Disfavour War.

BERLIN, via London, April 9.—The votes against war by six United States Senators and fifty representatives have given comfort to Germany, according to the Berlin Tageblatt, which said: "There is ground for satisfaction in the number of votes cast in Congress against declaring a state of war with Germany exists. It was shown that peace party exists and this must not be undervalued."

GREETING TO PREMIER.

Ovation to Lloyd George by Citizens of Bath, Eng.

BATH, Eng., April 9. — Premier Lloyd George was accorded a tremendous demonstration here when he came to witness the marriage of his eldest son, Major Richard Lloyd George, to Miss Roberta McAlpine. The ceremony was held in the abbey. The Prime Minister was given an enthusiastic greeting by thousands assembled outside the church.

DON'T DOUBT THIS! WORKS LIKE A CHARM

Read how to lift painful corns or callouses off without any pain.

Lift your corns out with the fingers. Not a twinge of pain or soreness before applying, or afterwards. This may sound like a dream to corn-pestered men and women who have been cutting, filing, and wearing torturous plasters. Yes! Corns lift out and callouses peel off if you will follow the advice of this Cincinnati authority.

Ask any drug store man for a small bottle of freezone. Tiny bottles like here shown can now be had for small cost. Apply a few drops directly upon your tender corn or callus, and instantly the soreness disappears; then shortly the corn or callus will be found so loose that it lifts right off.

Freezone is an ether compound which dries instantly. It doesn't eat out the corn or callus, but just shrivels it up so it lifts away without even irritating or exparting the surrounding or underneath tissue or skin. Genuine freezone is only sold in these small bottles, packed in a little wooden case bearing a yellow wrapper. Don't accept anything else.

STRONG DEMAND FOR ALL CHOICE KILLERS

Prices Advance Twenty-five Cents For Good Steers—Hogs Steady

The market was decidedly strong this morning at the Union Stock Yards, all the best steers and good to choice grades of fillers selling at 25 cents higher, and the medium class of cattle found a ready sale at last week's prices. The run was not heavy, with but 1,366 head unloaded and they all were sent over well before noon with nothing left over. Corbett, Hall and Coughlin sold four loads of choice steers, weighing from 1,200 to 1,350 lbs., at $12.25, which was the top price paid. J. B. Shields & Son sold 21 steers, weighing 1,290 lbs. per head at $12. Rice & Whaley sold 19 steers, weighing 1,280 lbs., per head, at $12.10.

Medium cattle sold at $9.75 to $10.50, strong and fat cows brought from $8.50 to $9.25. Canners and cutters remained steady at last week's quotation.

In the small stuff market there was a light run. Calves sold strong at steady prices, and the demand was good for all choice animals. Half fat calves and medium were a drag on the market.

Hogs sold at last week's figure. They were quoted at $16.15 off cars and $15.75 to $15.90 off car. The Buffalo and Montreal markets are inclined upward, and it may mean advance on the Toronto Market tomorrow, although buyers predicted a 25 cent drop here.

MY TIRED FEET ACHED FOR "TIZ"

List your sore, swollen, aching feet spread out in a bath of "Tiz."

Just take your shoes off and then put those weary, shoe-crinkled, aching, burning, corn-pestered, bunion-tortured feet of yours in a "Tiz" bath. Your toes will wriggle with joy; they'll look up at you and almost talk and then they'll take another dive in that "Tiz" bath.

When your feet feel like lumps of lead—all tired out—just try "Tiz." It's grand—it's glorious. Your feet will dance with joy; also you will find all pain gone from corns, callouses and bunions.

There's nothing like "Tiz." It's the only remedy that draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up your feet and cause foot torture.

Get a 25-cent box of "Tiz" at any drug or department store—don't wait. Ah! how glad your feet get; how comfortable your shoes feel. You can wear shoes a size smaller if you desire.

CONSCRIPT BIG INCOMES.

Suggestion to Wilson by Millionaire Newspaper Publisher.

SAN DIEGO, April 9. — E. W. Scripps, millionaire newspaper publisher, to-day telegraphed President Wilson as follows:

"I strongly urge that we should pay as we go in the war with income and inheritance taxes. All incomes of over one hundred thousand dollars a year should be conscripted. The minimum cash pay of soldiers and sailors should be not less than three dollars per day during the war. Such legislation would cost me much more than half of my present income."

SLOW TO WRATH.

(New York Sun)

The initial horror of the Lusitania, the sinking of American ships, the object lesson so carefully afforded to us by the destructive visit of the U-53 to our shores, the systematic campaign of incendiarism and bomb-planting cultivated by the Prussian diplomatic service in this country, the truculent seizure of the Yarrowdale Americans as hostage to prevent immediate action on our part against the accentuation of frightfulness, the attempt to sink a German ship in the Charleston navy yard channel, the wrecking of millions of dollars' worth of German merchantmen in American ports—all these warnings that Berlin means business of the grimmest sort have rolled off Americans' minds like water off the traditional duck's back.

The remains of the yolk in the newly hatched chick will keep the bird alive without other food for over two days.

let or hindrance, but has been richly financed and potentially organized. It has established a party. It has made a cult, justifying itself in a fad it has called humanity—in many ways a spurious humanity—and has set this above and against patriotic inclination and duty.

Divided, Neutral and Unprepared

"Like a bolt out of the blue flashed the war signal from the very heart of Europe. Across the Atlantic its reverberations rolled to find us divided, neutral and unprepared. For fifteen years a body of German reservists disguised as citizens have been marching and counter-marching. They grew, at length, bold enough to rally to the support of a Pan-German scheme of conquest and a pro-German propaganda of "kultur," basing its effrontery in the German-American vote, which began its agitation by threatening us with civil war if we dared to go to war with Germany. There followed the assassin, sea monsters and the airship campaign of murder.

"All the while we looked on with sheer simpering idocy or dazed apathy. Serbia? It was no affair of ours. Belgium? Why should we worry? Foodstuffs soaring, war stuffs roaring—everybody making money—the mercenary, the poor of heart, the mean of spirit, the bleak and barren of soul, could still plead the hypocricy of uplift and chortie, 'I did not raise my boy to be a soldier.' Even the Lusitania did not awaken us to a sense of danger and arouse us from the stupefaction of ignorant self-complacency.

"First of all, on bended knee, we should pray to God to forgive us. Then erect, as men, Christian men, to the flag and the fray, wherever they lead us, over the ocean, through France to Flanders, across the low countries to Koln, Benn and Koblenz, tumbling the fortress of Ehrenbritstein, into the Rhine as we pass, and damning the mouth of the Mozelle with debris of the ruin we make of it. Then on, on to Berlin, the Black Horse cavalry sweeping the Wilhelmstrasse like lava down the mountain side, the junker and the saberrattler flying before us, the tunes being 'Dixie' and 'Yankee Doodle,' the cry being 'Hail the French Republic, hail the Republic of Russia, welcome the commonwealth of the Vaterland, no peace with the Kaiser, no parley with autocracy, absolutism and the divine right of kings, to hell with the Hapsburg and the Hohenzollern."

DRESS WARM AND KEEP FEET DRY

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers to Take Salts and Get Rid of Uric Acid.

Rheumatism is no respecter of age, sex, colour or rank. If not the most dangerous of human afflictions it is one of the most painful. Those subject to rheumatism should eat less meat, dress as warmly as possible, avoid any undue exposure and, above all, drink lots of pure water.

Rheumatism is caused by uric acid which is generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which overcomes uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well.

Here Is Home Evidence From People You Know

Ask Them to Confirm Their Statements About Dr. Chase's Nerve Food —Then Put It to the Test in Your Own Case

Peterboro, Ont., March 5. — Still more people are coming forward daily with good words for Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. These letters are not from far-away, inaccessible post offices but from your friends and neighbors right here in Peterboro.

You can call on these people, and hear from their own lips just what was their condition and how they were benefited by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

When you have been convinced that this is no ordinary medicine but a bona fide restorative of exceptional merit put it to the test in your own case.

Mrs. J. Mealey, 490 George street, Peterboro, Ont., writes:

"Over a year ago I was in a nervous, run down condition—had no ambition, only a sort of languid feeling. My condition no doubt was due to the fact that I go out nursing at different times and after some severe cases I found my system in a run down condition. Some of my friends advised me to take some of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, so I procured a box and commenced to use them. I continued this treatment until I was greatly benefited, and am now much better.

My husband also finds great benefit from the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and the Linseed and Turpentine I have advised manny of my friends to use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and they have received good results, also."

Mrs. William A. Murphy 491 Elm Street, Peterboro, Ont., writes:

"I had been suffering from nervousness, sleeplessness and a run down condition of the system. I went to the hospital for my nerves, and while there the doctor told me he could do nothing for them. A friend persuaded me to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I did so, and all I am sorry for now is that I did not commence using them sooner. My head used to ache so at times I could scarcely stand it, and if I had not secured the Nerve Food when I did I don't know what would have happened. I can sleep well now and have none of those terrible headaches. From time to time I take some of the Nerve Food as a tonic—I would not want to be without them if they cost a dollar a box."

Nervous headaches, indigestion, sleeplessness and irritability soon disappear when Dr. Chase' Nerve Food is used to restore the system, 50 cents a box; a full treatment of six boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto. Do not be talked into accepting a substitute. Imitations only disappoint.

GREAT VICTORY FOR THE CANADIANS

LONDON, April 11th:---King George To-day sent this message to Field Marshall Haig. "The whole Empire will rejoice at the news of yesterday's successful operations." "Canada will be proud that the taking of the Coveted Vimy Ridge has fallen to the lot of her troops. I heartily congratulate you and all who have taken part in this splendid achievement."

BRITISH OFFENSIVE EXTENDING BATTLE IS ON A HUGE SCALE

To-day's Official Reports Show More Progress Made and a Widening of the Area of General Haig's Mighty Smash Against German Lines Huns Are in Great Danger of Having Their Flank Turned and a Retirement on a Wide Front is Hinted at in a Despatch From the Front---Berlin Admits Success of British.

A SUMMARY OF TO-DAY'S WAR CABLES

SPECIAL TO THE EXAMINER:

LONDON, April 10.—Field Marshal Haig's offensive to-day extended northward. A despatch received here to-day from his headquarters mentioned fighting near LaBassee. Actually the British are operating over a front of close to fifty miles. It was on a section of nearly fifteen miles' frontage that Haig yesterday struck his mightiest blows. A little further penetration of the German lines on this front, and the Germans will be in grave danger of having their flank turned. Indeed, front despatches to-day carried rumours of a vast plan of retirement by the Teutons indicated in the wholesale burning of villages from Lille to around Verdun. The Germans must keep their line straight. "Kinks" are dangerous when those twists are tied by the tremendous drive of the British offensive. They strain the whole line, and the Germans evidently realize that with the great resources in men and metal shown by Haig, a penetration to any distance would open a gap that would be fatal to their whole line.

LONDON, April 10.—General Maude's forces are still progressing in Mesopotamia, having captured Balad on the Berlin-Bagdad Railway line.

"We took possession Sunday of the left bank of the Shatt-El-Adhaim."

PARIS (French Official Communique), April 10.—South of the Oise we made progress east of the Tower Forest of Coucy. The artillery fighting was rather heavy in the region northeast of Soissons and especially severe in the sector of Laffaux. Counter attacks were repulsed everywhere.

London Papers Praise Canadian Victory

SPECIAL TO THE EXAMINER:

LONDON, Eng., April 10.—The big London papers are loud in their praises of the Canadians for capturing Vimy Heights, which have been held resolutely by the Germans as the great bastion fortress of the western front lines since the third month of the war. The Daily Express says to-day: "The victory of the Canadians under Sir Julian Byng is of great importance, and must have far-reaching results.

"The Canadians," says the Express, "surmounted many formidable obstacles."

(By Philip Simms, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES AFIELD, April 10.—There is every reason to believe that by to-night the great British smash will have netted Field Marshal Haig fifteen thousand prisoners and between fifty and a hundred guns. The driving force of the great offensive was undiminished to-day, even with bitter opposition from the enemy.

While these figures are unofficial they are based on careful calculations. To the south of Scarpel to-day British cannonading was attacking the last system of the German line, which is nearly opposite the famous "Hindenburg line." From this point the fighting front runs by Feuchy Chapelle to each to Neuville Vitasse and southwardly. All along in this section the troops are now facing the Hindenburg defenses. The fighting had not slackened in the slightest degree to-day.

The troops are immensely pleased to be moving again after the inaction of trench warfare. When the "push" started one could hear thousands marching through the blackness of the night singing and joking. The Canadian divisions, be it known, stepped along to the lively music of Canadian hymns and American ragtime, in the midst of a howling snowstorm.

Prisoners continued to pour back of the lines to-day. Most of them were Lemburgers, Hambergers and Bavarians. They appeared quite cheerful, even the officers seemed much relieved.

LEEDS, Eng., April 10.—The Independent Labour Party Conference to-day adopted resolutions unanimously urging the Government to prohibit the use of foodstuffs in the manufacture of intoxicants during the period of the war.

PETROGRAD, April 10.—The Provisional Government to-day announced the relinquishment of its claim for Russia of Constantinople as part of the price for peace as previously stated by the bureaucrats regime.

The proclamation specifically explains: "The Government deems it a duty to declare that free Russia does not aim at domination of other nations, nor the occupation by force of foreign territorys. Russia does not lust for the strengthening of her power abroad at the expense of other nations."

To-night's Temperance Meeting At Library

An interesting feature of the public temperance meeting to be held this evening in the Public Library hall will be the exhibition of moving pictures. The views were prepared for use at the recent big temperance congress held in Toronto but were not completed in time, but will be shown to-night. In addition to many slides showing the rapid growth of the temperance movement and the increase in temperance sentiment there will be a number of views of a patriotic nature, including Canadian soldiers at the front. Quite a few of these views were secured through Government auspices and are unusually fine.

The object of the meeting is to discuss the advisability of enacting national prohibition or submitting the question to the popular vote. In addition to Messrs J. H. Burnham, M.P., G. A. Gillespie, M.L.A., Mayor Duffus, a representative of the W.C.T.U. and the Ministerial Association, addresses will be given by Mlle. Vokes, chairman of the National Prohibition Committee and by a secretary of the Dominion Alliance, Toronto.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

At the Y.W.C.A. on Thursday afternoon, April 12th, a book shower for the Association library will be held by the Girls' Auxiliary, from 4 to 6 o'clock. Afternoon tea will be served and a musical programme will be given by the following artists: Miss Florence Scott, (soprano), Miss Laura Logan, (violiniste).

It is interesting to note that the Y.W.C.A. library has been used to the extent that nearly seven hundred books have been read by members of the Association during the past year. A TERRIBLE EXPLOSION

Baldwin Locomotive Munitions Factory Wrecked With Heavy Toll of Killed and Injured, This Morning

WAS A HUGE PLANT

SPECIAL TO THE EXAMINER:

PHILADELPHIA, April 10—Early reports, following three terrific explosions, in the Baldwin Locomotive Munitions Factory, at Eddystone, to-day, gave estimates of casualties ranging from ten to fifty dead and from 100 to 200 injured. In the excitement and confusion following the explosion, which occurred shortly after 10 o'clock, it was utterly impossible to get definite facts as to the number killed or hurt, or the full extent of the damage.

One report from the Fire Department headquarters at Eddystone stated that more than 100 men had been sent to the hospital at Chester, and that many of them were believed to be so critically injured that they could not recover. Reports direct from the scene said that "many must have been killed outright."

Philadelphia, April 10.—The official polpica estimates of the casualties in the Baldwin munitions explosion are fifty killed and two hundred injured. They were mostly women and girls. It is believed that German plots were responsible.

Many of the dead and injured are girls and women. It was stated this afternoon that eighty per cent. of the employees nearest the explosion were females.

"The Evening Ledger" this afternoon estimated that one hundred persons, mostly girls and women, were killed in to-day's munitions explosions at the Eddystone plant.

Band Instruments Are Stored Away

Unlike the Minstrel Boy of ancient Hibernia the members of the 93rd Band have gone to war without their harps. This morning Mr. F. Miller inspected the thirty instruments, found them in good condition and stored them in their cases away in one of the rookeries up under the roof of the City Hall. The music the boys bought out of their own funds, has been stored at Bandmaster Hughes' house. It must be an unanimous hope that the bandsmen of the 93rd will return to Peterborough to form the nucleus of a civic band after the war.

Trewern Cheese Factory Will Open

Trewern cheese factory, 8th line of Smith township, will open on Monday, April 16th, under the management of Mr. J. Chittick. The outlook is for a large list of patrons and a good year.

Canadians Capture the Much Coveted Vimy Ridge, Foe's Strongest Position On Line

Dominion's Troops Given the Place of Honour in Great Advance by General Haig's Forces—Canadians Take 2000 Prisoners on Their Front.

A GLORIOUS VICTORY

(By Stewart Lyon, Special Correspondent of the Canadian Press.)

CANADIAN HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE (via London), April 9.—The crest of the Vimy ridge has been carried. The strongest defensive position of the enemy on the western front has been captured by the army of Sir Douglas Haig, and the Canadian corps was given the place of honour in the great event, being strongly supported by some of the most famous of the British formations. The attack was preceded by a bombardment which continued for several days, and in which guns of the heaviest calibre, formerly used on only the biggest battleships, took part. The results, as revealed by aerial observation, were a repetition of the battle of the Somme. Airplanes, flying low, could find only shapeless masses of churned-up earth where the enemy first line had been.

By Saturday afternoon Thelus, the chief village held by the enemy on the ridge, and lying west of Neuville St. Vaast, was pounded out of all recognition, only two houses remaining. Prisoners taken told of heavy enemy losses. Even in the deep dugouts, where the Germans had hoped to be reasonably safe in that rain of death, no safety was to be found anywhere. In a desperate attempt to blind the eyes of the attacking army the Germans on Sunday endeavoured to destroy our observation balloons.

Saturday night our guns continued the work of devastation under conditions which made a spectacle that was majestic and awe-inspiring. A full moon in the east lit up the countryside with mellow beams on the horizon, while the flash of the guns made a continuous play like that of the Northern Lights in the Dominion, or distant sheet lightning. This was sharply broken now and again by a column of reddish-yellow flame where, on the ridge, high explosives were bursting.

The gunners, with tireless energy, continued the cannonade through Easter Sunday. On Monday morning came the supreme moment, that in which our infantry was called upon to go out and reap the fruit of months of preparation. They had endured, unwaveringly, the answering fire of the enemy, which, however, was not comparable to ours. Some, impatient to be at the foe, had gone out on small wars of their own, and it is recorded that in one of the individual encounters in No Man's Land a Canadian, meeting a German, pursued after emptying his revolver ineffectively at him. The Canadian cast about for some other weapon. The only one within reach was his steel helmet, and with the sharp edge of that he killed the armed German.

Such was the spirit of the infantry who, in the grey preceding the dawn, sprang from their shelters when the appointed time came. It was a great occasion, and greatly they rose to it.

The Case of the 93rd Band

Within a few hours of the time set for the departure of the last draft of the 247th including the physically fit members of the 93rd Band, the Review indulged in a farewell tirade last night against the ex-bandsmen who are going overseas to fight for the Empire. Incidentally there is a broadside directed against The Examiner which is styled the "apologist" for the band. The title is a misnomer. The Examiner has always taken the position that the 93rd Band required no apologist for its movements, for which as soldiers they were not responsible. The Examiner has endeavoured to point out that these men were ordered home to Canada by the Canadian military authorities at the request of the Speakers' Patriotic League, to aid in recruiting for the 247th Battalion. They came home under orders just as the 155th Battalion Band of Belleville, raised at the same time as the 93rd, remained in Canada under orders. We have not seen any Belleville newspaper call the men of the 155th Band slackers because the authorities kept them at home for recruiting duty instead of sending them overseas.

Now the physically fit men of the 93rd Band are on their way back as fighting men. Of course this does not mean the whole band, which at one time numbered 40 men. Of these twenty-one have been declared by the medical board as fit for infantry service, ten have been discharged outright since returning to Canada, and nine have been recommended for transfer into the non-combatant Forestry Draft, so that even when examined now with the greatly relaxed physical standards, only half the band are regarded as fighting material. Under the standard of a year ago this percentage would have been considerably less.

To all these three classes The Examiner maintains that the critics in Peterborough owe an apology. The men who have been discharged as unfit for further service, the older members of the band who will take up their duties in the Forestry Battalion, and the twenty-one who are going back to fight, have all been the victims of a campaign of abuse. And the boys who left early this morning on their way to the trenches as soldiers are surely deserving of something better from their fellow citizens than cheap sneers and alleged sarcasm from a newspaper which seems to be striving to emulate the reputation of a notorious Toronto weekly—famed for never saying a good word about anybody.

As a musical organization the 93rd Band have been a credit to themselves and the city they represented—as a body of men their conduct has been above reproach. You can search the orderly room files in vain to find any black marks on their conduct sheets. Wherever they have gone they have been soldiers and gentlemen, and when those who are considered physically fit get to the firing line the bandsmen may be depended upon to do their bit by the rifle as well as they have as members of the band.

Good luck to them all and a safe return.

ENTHUSIASTIC SEND-OFF TO ANOTHER DRAFT OF MEN FROM THE 247th

Quota Including Many of the Men of the 93rd Band Left Early This Morning For Ottawa Where They Will Be Incorporated With the 235th—Another Draft Yet to Go —To-day's Orders and General Military News.

Another draft of the 247th Battalion, including Bandmaster Hughes and twenty members of the old 93rd Band, left the city at 1.27 this morning, en route to join the 235th at Ottawa. The draft consisted altogether of thirty-four non coms. and men, in charge of Lieut. Gordon Shaw, and in spite of the inconvenient hour at which they left, got an enthusiastic send-off from a big crowd of citizens.

The men fell in at the Armouries at 1 o'clock, and when the roll was called there were no absentees, making a record for the day of not an absent man in any of the drafts. It was "all present and correct, sir" in each case, and every man warned to leave departed according to orders. A large crowd had gathered at the Armouries by the time the order to fall in was given.

Mayor Duffus, in saying an official farewell to the men of the draft, said that it was a privilege to be allowed to do so. Peterborough was proud of her sons who had already gone overseas and he was sure would be equally proud of the men of the 247th. He expressed the hope that the task upon which they were embarking would soon be completed, and remarked that the entrance of the United States into the war should hasten that result. They could count on Peterborough looking after the dependents and while there might be mistakes, His Worship promised that everything that could be done for the dependents would be done. In conclusion, he wished the men a speedy return and called upon the assembled crowd to give three hearty cheers for the departing soldiers.

Lt.-Col. Ackerman gave the draft the same advice as he had given the first drafts to leave, to keep in mind that henceforth they would be members of the 235th Battalion, and to carry on as splendidly as they had as members of the 247th. He regretted that it had not been possible to raise enough men to leave Canada as a unit, but as soldiers they had to bow to the exigencies of the situation. Lt.-Col. Ackerman said that they would not be leaving Ottawa as soon as had been anticipated, but would probably have a week in the Capital before taking their departure for overseas. He hoped to have the opportunity of seeing them all there in the near future.

The parade to the station was headed by the Temple Band, and a number of the bandsmen of the 57th Regiment playing "O Canada," "Keep the Home Fires Burning," and "We'll Never Let the Old Flag Fall." The men joined heartily in all these choruses while the men of the 93rd Band led in the singing of "Pack All Your Troubles in Your Old Kit Bag," and "The Long, Long Trail," incidentally taking advantage of the opportunity to pay their respects to a newspaper which has not been very friendly in its treatment of the bandsmen.

The members of this morning's draft were better known than those who left yesterday which accounted for the crowd at the station, and the warmth of the farewell. The boys were kept busy until train time, saying good-bye. There were many tearful farewells as the train pulled into the station. The draft entrained to the strains of "Auld Lang Syne," by the band, and left amid a volley of cheering.

The draft was composed of the following:

Lieut. Gordon Shaw.

171668. B.S.M. Edgar, Maurice Roy.

1063910. C. Q. M. S. O'Hara, Thos. Henry.

GREAT VICTORY FOR THE CANADIANS

LONDON, April 11th:---King George To-day sent this message to Field Marshall Haig. "The whole Empire will rejoice at the news of yesterday's successful operations." "Canada will be proud that the taking of the Coveted Vimy Ridge has fallen to the lot of her troops. I heartily congratulate you and all who have taken part in this splendid achievement."

BRITISH OFFENSIVE EXTENDING BATTLE IS ON A HUGE SCALE

To-day's Official Reports Show More Progress Made and a Widening of the Area of General Haig's Mighty Smash Against German Lines Huns Are in Great Danger of Having Their Flank Turned and a Retirement on a Wide Front is Hinted at in a Despatch From the Front---Berlin Admits Success of British.

A SUMMARY OF TO-DAY'S WAR CABLES

SPECIAL TO THE EXAMINER:

LONDON, April 10.—Field Marshal Haig's offensive to-day extended northward. A despatch received here to-day from his headquarters mentioned fighting near LaBassee. Actually the British are operating over a front of close to fifty miles. It was on a section of nearly fifteen miles' frontage that Haig yesterday struck his mightiest blows. A little further penetration of the German lines on this front, and the Germans will be in grave danger of having their flank turned. Indeed, front despatches to-day carried rumours of a vast plan of retirement by the Teutons indicated in the wholesale burning of villages from Lille to around Verdun. The Germans must keep their line straight. "Kinks" are dangerous when those twists are tied by the tremendous drive of the British offensive. They strain the whole line, and the Germans evidently realize that with the great resources in men and metal shown by Haig, a penetration to any distance would open a gap that would be fatal to their whole line.

LONDON, April 10.—General Maude's forces are still progressing in Mesopotamia, having captured Balad on the Berlin-Bagdad Railway line.

PARIS (French Official Communique), April 10.—South of the Oise we made progress east of the Tower Forest of Coucy. The artillery fighting was rather heavy in the region northeast of Soissons and especially severe in the sector of Laffauf. Counter attacks were repulsed everywhere.

London Papers Praise Canadian Victory

SPECIAL TO THE EXAMINER:

LONDON, Eng., April 10.—The big London papers are loud in their praises of the Canadians for capturing Vimy Heights, which have been held resolutely by the Germans as the great bastion fortress of the western front lines since the third month of the war. The Daily Express says to-day: "The victory of the Canadians under Sir Julian Byng is of great importance, and must have far-reaching results.

(By Philip Simms, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES AFIELD, April 10.—There is every reason to believe that by to-night the great British smash will have netted Field Marshal Haig fifteen thousand prisoners and between fifty and a hundred guns. The driving force of the great offensive was undiminished to-day, even with bitter opposition from the enemy.

While these figures are unofficial they are based on careful calculations. To the south of Scarpel to-day British cannonading was attacking the last system of the German line, which is nearly opposite the famous "Hindenburg line." From this point the fighting front runs by Feuchy Chapelle to each to Neuville Vitasse and southwardly. All along in this section the troops are now facing the Hindenburg defenses. The fighting had not slackened in the slightest degree to-day.

The troops are immensely pleased to be moving again after the inaction of trench warfare. When the "push" started one could hear thousands marching through the blackness of the night singing and joking. The Canadian divisions, be it known, stepped along to the lively music of Canadian hymns and American ragtime, in the midst of a howling snowstorm.

Prisoners continued to pour back of the lines to-day. Most of them were Lemburgers, Hambergers and Bavarians. They appeared quite cheerful, even the officers seemed much relieved.

LEEDS, Eng., April 10.—The Independent Labour Party Conference to-day adopted resolutions unanimously urging the Government to prohibit the use of foodstuffs in the manufacture of intoxicants during the period of the war.

PETROGRAD, April 10.—The Provisional Government to-day announced the relinquishment of its claim for Russia of Constantinople as part of the price for peace as previously stated by the bureaucrats regime.

The proclamation specifically explains: "The Government deems it a duty to declare that free Russia does not aim at domination of other nations, nor the occupation by force of foreign territorys. Russia does not hunt for the strengthening of her power abroad at the expense of other nations."

To-night's Temperance Meeting At Library

An interesting feature of the public temperance meeting to be held this evening in the Public Library hall will be the exhibition of moving pictures. The views were prepared for use at the recent big temperance congress held in Toronto but were not completed in time, but will be shown to-night. In addition to many slides showing the rapid growth of the temperance movement and the increase in temperance sentiment there will be a number of views of a patriotic nature, including Canadian soldiers at the front. Quite a few of these views were secured through Government auspices and are unusually fine.

The object of the meeting is to discuss the advisability of enacting national prohibition or submitting the question to the popular vote. In addition to Messrs J. H. Burnham, M.P., G. A. Gillespie, M.L.A., Mayor Duffus, a representative of the W.C.T.U. and the Ministerial Association, addresses will be given by Mlle. Vekes, chairman of the National Prohibition Committee and by a secretary of the Dominion Alliance, Toronto.

CANADIAN HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE (via London), April 9.—The crest of the Vimy ridge has been carried. The strongest defensive position of the enemy on the western front has been captured by the army of Sir Douglas Haig, and the Canadian corps was given the place of honour in the great event, being strongly supported by some of the most famous of the British formations. The attack was preceded by a bombardment which continued for several days, and in which guns of the heaviest calibre, formerly used on only the biggest battleships, took part. The results, as revealed by aerial observation, were a repetition of the battle of the Somme. Airplanes, flying low, could find only shapeless masses of churned-up earth where the enemy first line had been.

By Saturday afternoon Thelus, the chief village held by the enemy on the ridge, and lying west of Neuville St. Vaast, was pounded out of all recognition, only two houses remaining. Prisoners taken told of heavy enemy losses. Even in the deep dugouts, where the Germans had hoped to be reasonably safe in that rain of death, no safety was to be found anywhere. In a desperate attempt to blind the eyes of the attacking army the Germans on Sunday endeavoured to destroy our observation balloons.

Saturday night our guns continued the work of devastation under conditions which made a spectacle that was majestic and awe-inspiring. A full moon in the east lit up the countryside with mellow beams on the horizon, while the flash of the guns made a continuous play like that of the Northern Lights in the Dominion, or distant sheet lightning. This was sharply broken now and again by a column of reddish-yellow flame where, on the ridge, high explosives were bursting.

The gunners, with tireless energy, continued the cannonade through Easter Sunday. On Monday morning came the supreme moment, that for which our infantry was called upon to go out and reap the fruit of months of preparation. They had endured, unwaveringly, the answering fire of the enemy, which, however, was not comparable to ours. Some, impatient to be at the foe, had gone out on small wars of their own, and it is recorded that in one of the individual encounters in No Man's Land a Canadian, meeting a German, pursued after emptying his revolver ineffectively at him. The Canadian cast about for some other weapon. The only one within reach was his steel helmet, and with the sharp edge of that he killed the armed German.

Such was the spirit of the infantry who, in the grey preceding the dawn, sprang from their shelters when the appointed time came. It was a great occasion, and greatly they rose to it.

Victory in Half an Hour.

From the craters of the scarred front, which resembled the openings made in quarrying operations, the distance to the top of the ridge varied

UNCLE SAM AWAKE.

Uncle Sam took his time to "shy" his hat into the ring; but he is, apparently, making up for lost time—putting his whole soul and body into the work. Plans are prepared or preparing to have the United States navy work with those of the Allies, and even the big interests that have been making such big profits out of the war, are willing to sacrifice their gain to the the national and international cause. It is reported that the big steel manufacturerers have come to an agreement to supply the National Defence Council with steel, needed in the next few months, at half price. It is said that in order to furnish adequate supplies of steel, private contracts will be "side-tracked." All round, the United States is acting in earnest—in the provision of shipping, in her active naval mobilization, in the mobilization of land troops, and in her iron hand upon the traitorous and plotting elements, which unrestrained have the will and power to clog the machinery of preparation. Good luck and good good speed to our new Ally.

PETTING THE PLUTOCRATS.

The Ontario Government plumes itself upon its great statesmanship in increasing the taxation of the International Nickel Company. In the first place it deserves little credit in being forced to do the right thing. The Government did not of its own volition draw public attention—or its own attention—to the fact that it had made an illegal agreement with the International Nickel Company in fixing the taxation of its immense profits at the ridiculous figure of $40,000 a year. Had it not been for the insistence of the Opposition, in exposing this great betrayal and focussing public attention upon the injustice that was being done the province in the Government's treatment of our nickel interests, it's a pound to a penny that the Government would not have yet moved in the matter.

While the Government may take the technical credit of procuring the enacting legislation, it is to the persistent prodding of the Opposition, especially Messrs. Rowell, Dewart, and Carter, that the step was taken, and almost exclusively to that. What the action of the Opposition means is shown by the fact that the illegal flat rate of taxation of $40,000 a year, is increased to nearly a million dollars a year.

Mr. Rowell's contention is that even now the government is not making the Nickel Company pay enough. He contends that the plan of the Government to impose 5 per cent. on the first 5 millions of profits and increase taxation by 1 per cent., on every additional five millions of net profits, is not enough; the latter rate should be five per cent.

There is much to be said in favour of the higher rate. The International Nickel Company has been making immense profits from the war, and should surrender a large share of its "easy money" in the interests of helping finance the war. While the great mass of the people are making sacrifice, instead of profit, on account of the war, the many, besides the Nickel Company, that are making swingeing profits, are allowed to escape without paying a fair share of taxation. All the rest of our people are taxed to the hilt without having that taxation offset by huge excess profits.

They do things more justly in the Old Country. The British Treasury has in one year, ending March last, gathered the immense sum of 700 million dollars from excess profits. In Canada, on the other hand, we get our war revenue largely from customs taxation, which comes, not from the pockets of the plutonic profiteers, the people able to bear it, but from the poor. A writer contrasts the two methods—"Britain gets the bulk of its revenue from taxation of dividends, and war profits; in Canada it is taken out of wages."

In Canada the rich largely escape by government failure to impose income taxation, which both the British and the United States government impose; and the poor have to pay—every mother's son and daughter of them, especially in Ontario. In Ontario we have had imposed a direct tax on all ratable property of 1 mill on the dollar. This takes out of the people, rich and poor alike, some two million dollars a year. This direct taxation might have been spared the people if the Government for the past five years had imposed the new nickel tax. Instead of a paltry $40,000 a year, the International Nickel Company would have paid into the Ontario coffers about a million dollars a year. Then we should not have had to impose direct taxation for war purposes. This might have been easily done. The new nickel tax is retroactive—goes back to 1915, the nickel profiteers will hand over about three millions. If the Ontario Government during the past twelve years the commuted rate of $40,000 a year has been conceded, had acted in the people's interest, the Nickel Trust would have contributed in legitimate and equitable taxation, twelve million dollars, instead of a paltry $480,000—at $40,000 a year. The people are "soaked;" the plutocrats are spared.

SUNDAY WAR-TIME WORK.

The communication of a farmer, printed elsewhere in this issue, dealing with increased production, raises an important question. He points out that every plea and appeal, and every encouragement to increased production is urged, except one, and that is the permission of Sunday labour. He asks if the Lord's Day Act could not be suspended "from the time the land is ready to work until the last sheaf is safely in the barn?" There is much to be said on both sides of this proposal. As the correspondent states "the local wheat crop of 1915 was largely destroyed on account of the farmers being prevented by the law from housing the crop on Sunday; and, on the other hand, we have the divine command and the law of the land demanding a Sunday free from work. Is it not the case that Sabbath observance, as the observance of any other call to duty, depends for its merit upon the spirit and not upon the letter? While we have divine authority for refraining from work on the Sabbath day, we have divine authority for this requirement yielding to necessity. Our Lord, negatively approved of the action of His disciples plucking the ears of corn on the Sabbath day in the face of the objection of the "scribes, Pharisees"—and note this—"hypocrites." As to the law of the land, that is subject to suspension. Sometimes the habeas corpus act, one of the greatest safeguards of personal liberty, and aids to justice, is suspended in war time, under martial law and at times of crisis that make such a course desirable. The Lord's day act is suspended in the actions of war, and some of the most bitter battles are fought on the Sabbath day. While this may not be a work of necessity, so far as the attacking army is concerned, it becomes a work of necessity on the part of the assailed army. This is war time, and growing grain and producing other food is as much an act of war, in its way, as casting bullets or fighting battles; and if necessity or weather conditions make working upon crops a necessity, then Sunday labour seems to be justifiable—but only as a work of necessity, not as a precedent for general Sunday labour. As to that there is no doubt that Sunday labour is not only a moral wrong, but a physical wrong—a wrong to the moral and physical constitution of man, and a wrong to his beast. No man and no animal can do their best work, and maintain physical fitness without one day of rest in seven. The whole question of Sunday work on the farm, in the munition factory, and in active spheres of war activity depends upon whether the work can be regarded as a "work of necessity" that will come within the permitted exceptions of the divine and civil law.

ANOTHER PLEA FOR PRODUCTION OF MORE SPRING WHEAT

The farmers in our Northwestern States should use every available acre for wheat. Reports from the winter-wheat states are not encouraging. A small increase of acreage has promised harvest gains, but it is now known that a considerable part of the seeded area will yield but little or nothing. Kansas may not have more than half a crop. In two-thirds of the state the normal estimate has been cut down more than 50 per cent. Farmers in Southern Nebraska lose three-quarters of their acreage. They have been plowing up the seeded tracts and sowing oats because they did not get seed wheat. At a meeting of bankers and crop experts at Omaha last week a committee was apointed to find it for them. In other states plows are going through the wheatfields. A leading crop authority publishes an estimate which places the winter wheat yield much below that of last year, which was deficient. This bad news from the farms has raised the price of wheat at Chicago to only a fraction less than $2.00 a bushel, while corn is selling at $1.22, the highest figures in fifty years.

In foreign countries, where there was a large reduction of the wheat output last year, the conditions are unfavorable. Such estimates as have been made point to a greater shortage. In France the seeded area has been cut down by 15 per cent. A government officer said three weeks ago in the Chamber of Deputies that in the coming crop year the nation would need 127,000,000 bushels from abroad, and that the crops of all of the Entente Allies would be 560,000,000 bushels less than their requirements, while he could see a foreign exportable surplus of only 360,000,000 bushels. Exports to Europe from Argentina have recently been nearly 100,000,000 bushels a year, but an embargo there now prevents shipments. This year's crop was a failure, and much that survived the drought has been taken by the locusts. The reserves in our own country are small. It was recently estimated that not more than 60,000,000 bushels could be spared in the next four months. At the present rate of shipments all that we do not need will go out before the new crop comes.

There remains the sowing in our Northwestern Spring wheat States. Foreign nations, with which we are now associated in the war will need our wheat. They cannot get enough of it now. And it will be needed at home. No acre in those states where wheat will grow should be neglected. Patriotism calls for the widest possible cultivation. There will be ample reward in prices.—New York Times.

There is still another small draft of 247th men to leave for Ottawa, composed of the Coe Hill detachment of the battalion, the orderly room staff and several non coms., who are looking after details here. A number of 247th men have been recommended for transfer into the Forestry draft and others into the Special Service Company. It is not yet known when these will leave the city.

Further details have been received regarding the badges to be worn by the members of the Canadian Defence Force. These will be the regimental badges of their Militia unit. Officers of the Canadian Defence Force will wear rank badges on the shoulder straps as laid down in the dress regulations for Canadian Militia and not on the sleeve as worn by officers of the Canadian Expeditionary Force.

Bandsman Walter D. Harkness of the 93rd Band, is one member of the 93rd who will not go overseas with the 247th draft. He was slated to leave with the third draft, but yesterday morning was suddenly stricken with appendicitis and a quick operation was necessary. He was taken to Nicholls Hospital, where Majors Cameron and Eastwood performed the operation. Bandsman Harkness is doing nicely to-day. His home is in Millbrook.

The first night's recruiting for the 57th Regiment, C.D.F., did not produce many names for enrolment. The first to offer himself for the new unit was Sergt. John Coppock, who went overseas with the 39th Battalion and was invalided home from England. He is a member of the executive committee of the Great War Veterans' Association.

Guelph, April 9.—Three hundred and fifty of the young men of Guelph who signed the National Service cards several months ago received letters from the military authorities to-day that their services were required for overseas service, and asking them to report at once to Lieut.-Col. Mutrie, chief recruiting officer for Wellington County.

The receipt of these letters, which made it very clear that this was the last call which would be made for voluntary service, caused many of these men to think seriously about the matter, and a number of them have already presented themselves at the Armouries to go before the Medical Board. Some in the list received had already enlisted, while others hold certificates stating that they are physically unfit. The majority of them, however, are able-bodied men, who could easily pass the Medical Board, and the action which they will take will be watched with interest.

Major Walker and the members of the 64th Battery will go carefully over the names, and a full and complete report will be made respecting every man. If his reasons for not enlisting are unsatisfactory to the authorities there is not much doubt but that he will be compelled to join the colours. The citizens of Guelph regard this action on the part of the military authorities as a move in the right direction.

Special to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, April 10.—A large number of men serving time in the penitentiaries throughout the Dominion are to be allowed to expatriate their crimes on the battle fields of France and Flanders after the authorities have satisfied themselves that their crimes were not such as to forbid their mingling with their fellow men.

Sarnia "Russian" Facing Charge Of Aiding The Enemy

SARNIA, April 9.—John Chinsk, who claims to be a Russian, appeared in the police court Saturday morning charged with corresponding with alien enemies, in violation of the defence of the realm act, and was remanded for one week for trial, pending the arrival of the letters in the case, which are at present in the hands of the censor's department at Ottawa. Chinsk is alleged to have written a letter to the banking firm of T. W. Barasch, 77 Ridgee street, New York, containing information that he had been sending money to friends in Europe and also containing a list of names of persons in Sarnia who are Austrian citizens, according to Ottawa authorities.

Chief of Police Forbes was instructed to investigate the case and had Chinsk brought into custody. Through an interpreter Chinsk claims that the names contained in the letter are names of Russians who desire to deal with the New York firm in forwarding their earnings to relatives in Russia. He is at present held in custody, while friends in the city are endeavouring to raise $200 bail to secure his release until the time for trial comes around. Chinsk is an ordinary looking alien, of average intelligence, and it is believed in some quarters that he is entirely ignorant of the law.

EFFICIENCY.

Tune of the Rosary.

The hours I spend at work, dear heart,
Are as arithmetic to me.
I count my motions, every one, apart.
Efficiency, efficiency.
Each hour a task, each task a test,
Until my heart with doubt is wrung.
I conservate my darndest, but at best
The boss is stung.
O, theories that twist and turn,
O, frantic gain, O laggard loss,
I'll standardise and strive at last to learn
To please the boss.

GERMAN "EFFICIENCY" AND THE TRUTH ABOUT IT

(From the New York Sun)

German diplomacy was to induce Belgium to give the Teutonic forces an an undisputed passage into France. Belgium resisted, holding to her obligation, and the plan failed.

German statesmanship was to induce England to remain neutral. Another failure.

German military efficiency was to carry the Kaiser's armies across northern France in one dash and the fall of Paris was scheduled for the autumn of 1914. Another failure, despite Germany's years of preparation, and the fact that she pounced upon her intended victims with a surprise attack.

Germany was to bring Italy into the war as an ally of the Central Powers, although by the terms of the Triple Alliance Italy was bound to assist Austria and Germany only in the event that the Central Powers were attacked. The plan failed and Italy joined the Entente Powers.

The German armies were scheduled to be in Calais on a certain date, as revealed by German diaries picked up upon the battlefields, and Calais was was to be used as a base for the subjugation of England. German military efficiency failed again.

German military efficiency was to crush France in one swift campaign, and then the Kaiser's forces were to turn and put the Russians out of business before the French could recover from the first staggering blow. Another failure for the Pan-Efficients.

A fleet of Zeppelins was to make England cry for mercy before she was well prepared to go into the war on a grand scale. The Zeppelins hastened English recruiting and had much to do with making England realize the character of the struggle. A failure for the super-efficients in a military way and in the realm of psychology.

German intrigue at the Russian court was to have hampered Russian military operations, finally resulting in a separate peace. A failure for the apostles of efficiency-ueber-allies.

The pro-German propaganda in America was to have influenced the American people to depart from the letter and the spirit of neutrality to such an extent as to refuse to sell war munitions to the Entente Powers, since Germany herself could not get any materials from this country owing to her comparative naval weakness. The propaganda failed to do this.

The policy of frightfulness was to intimidate enemies and neutrals It only made the enemies fight all the harder, and alienated the neutrals. Another failure in efficiency for the Pan-Frightfuls.

German commercial submarines, in spite of Britain's actual blockade, were to establish regular trade schedules, and to take into Germany much-needed supplies, such as rubber, copper, etc. Another failure.

German efficiency advertised in the neutral press pretty extensively that it was going through Verdun like a hot knife through a pound of lard. The Crown Prince is wintering in the vicinity of Verdun again this year

German submarines were to interrupt the flow of men and supplies from Dover to Calais and cut off England from her continental ally. Efficiency stepped on itself again.

German agents were to invite Egypt to revolt against British rule. The Nile is not get on fire.

German efficiency declared that it was to be a short war. Military chiefs and economists agreed that with the food supplies already in storage and the material to be drawn from conquered territory and from neutral sources, no German need suffer want until a victorious peace was made. But before the war was eighteen months old we heard of German women and children being starved to death by the British blockade. The present submarine campaign against belligerents and neutrals alike is officially represented as a measure of reprisal called forth by England's policy of starving Germany. The military chiefs and the economists seemed to have failed in their efficiency once more.

Ireland was to have been invited to revolt. India was to have been invited to revolt. All Islam was to have joined against Great Britain. More failures for the efficients.

America was to have been alternately theratened and cajoled into becoming a German tool. This did not quite succeed. At last, diplomatic relations with Germany were—tardily enough—severed.

Mexico and Japan were to be united and brought into a war against America. But the efficient intriguers failed again.

Now England is to be starved by the new submarine campaign of ruthlessness. Various periods have been set for the consummation of this object. It is our own opinion that England will not be starved.

The outstanding feature with regard to the boasted German efficiency seems to us to be this: That after planning a war for many years, and descending to the very depths of deviltry in its prosecution, the Germans are going to be defeated in the long run by the people whom they found less ready and took by surprise. The Germans have won many victories and have performed many brilliant military feats. But we sometimes get a little tired of hearing them spoken of as if they were bound to be successful in all their undertakings. It seems worth while to point out now and then that they are really not more efficient than their enemies, after all in spite of the owlish solemnity with which they recite their own claims to superiority.

AN ONTARIO M.P.P's. ESTIMATE OF THE WORK OF THE SESSION

"Now that the third session of this Parliament of Ontario is drawing to a close," remarked Mr. C. G. Hurdman, the young and popular member for Ottawa and acting whip for the Liberal party at Toronto, "it may be of interest to the readers of this leading Montreal newspaper to consider the nature of some of the bills passed."

"In my judgment," said Mr. Hurdman, "many of the measures are important and of value, but some are valueless if not ridiculous.

"Woman's franchise has been before the House for years largely through the progressive spirit of Mr. N. W. Rowell, K. C., leader of the Opposition, and his advocacy of this reform placing the question in such a favourable light the Government could not do otherwise than adopt it. This measure gives to every Ontario woman of 21 years of age a vote for the member of the Legislature.

"The Teachers' Pension Bill followed a petition from a delegation of the teaching profession that filled the corridors of the Parliament buildings and stretched out in the walks of the Park. Their plea was granted in a bill which provides an annuity for ill and disabled teachers or those who retire after five years of service. When it is considered that the pay-roll of the teachers is nine million five hundred thousand dollars annually, and that the pensions will amount to $475,000 per year, half of which is given by the teachers and the other half by the Government, the measure is seen to be a far-reaching one. It is hoped to give greater interest and stability to the teaching profession. It is said that at present only 8 per cent. of those who enter remain permanently in the teaching profession.

This bill received the unanimous assent.

"An amendment to the Workmen's Compensation Act was introduced after delegations were heard from the labour organizations and the medical profession. It provides that first aid without cost to any employee and extending over thirty days shall be given. This is provided for by an increased levy on the manufacturers.

"The Temperance Act, which came into force in September, 1916, is amended by strengthening some of the weak spots found in the existing act, viz.: An "Indian list" is created whereby the action of any person who is importing too much liquor can be checked by notification to the transportation company. The transportation company are compelled to keep a list open to the inspection of the license commission of all shipments brought in by them and to whom they were consigned, so that the officials of this board can tell whether any individual is importing more than he can consistently need for his own use.

"The Farmers' Loan Bill," Mr. Hurdman declares, "is unworkable and valueless. It provides that the farmer may loan money, but he must apply to the Government via his township council. The rate is 1 per cent. higher than that which the Government pays. The loan must go one-half into permanent improvements and one-half into stock or implements. Again, the loan must be a first lien on the farmer's property, and the farmer cannot avail himself of the loan until the improvements are made therefore some one must carry his loan in the meantime.

"Another questionable measure is the Provincial Highways Bill, providing for a roadway between Windsor, Ont., and the Quebec border. This highway is to be constructed gradually out of revenue from the motor tax, which now amounts annually to $600,000.

"The Government," said the Ottawa member, "refused to give any details even of an approximate nature of the cost per mile, or when the project would be started."

Said Mr. Hurdman: "It looks like an election dodge."

"A measure to Preserve Forests from Destruction by Fire was passed. This measure should have been introduced five or six years ago, after the Porcupine fire. The passing of this bill was due to the fact that the Canada Forestry Association advocated it after going to great expense in formulating a plan which the Government adopted." In this connection the member for Ottawa paid a deserved compliment to Quebec Province. He said: "The private license holders of the Province of Quebec have been using scientific methods to prevent fires for years, and which have proved wonderful safeguards, and are a splendid example to the Ontario or any other Government."

"A bill which Mr. Rowell and his followers severely criticized was "a Measure to Amend the Municipal Act." This gives power to any municipality to establish and maintain a municipal fuel supply depot and food supply depot. They have power to issue debentures covering thirty years, purchase lands, plants and establishing offices and administration staff, and to go into business in competition with merchants of any municipality.

"The Liberal party claimed that the bill should restrict the sale of fuel to one ton to any person, and that competition on a large scale should not be allowed with a merchant who had an established business with money invested, and who regularly paid taxes for the support of the country.

"Leaving the question of bills," said the member for Ottawa, "the Government were profligate in their increases to civil servants. The increases amount to $129,000 per annum. And the chief beneficiaries are those with salaries of $2,000 per annum and over."

"The Liberal party did not object to civil servants with salaries under $2,000 getting an advance, but they protested against the bulk of the grant going to those whose incomes exceeded this amount, and even went so far as to say that servants of the government getting $2,000 per annum might be expected to live on that.

"Mr. George H. Gooderham, M.P.P., and chairman of the committee of the Toronto-Hamilton Highway, was given a hot time in explaining matters. An additional one million dollars was made to this project, which brings the total cost up to $1,000,000 or $35,000 per mile. He and his commission were charged with sheer wastefulness, and Mr. Gooderham grew very nervous under crossfire. This road is only 18 feet wide and costs approximately $35,000 per mile. The New York State road is 27 feet wide and much of it cost less than $10,000 per mile.

"For hydro-power development a vote of $8,000,000 was given to develop power at Niagara, called the "Chippewa Power Plant."

"The T. & O. Railway receives a vote of approximately $1,000,000, which, the Government states, is to be used in the purchase of new rolling stock."

Asked as to the possibility of an election in Ontario soon, Mr. Hardman said that no one could say what might happen. He declared that Mr. Rowell was cordially and unanimously supported by all his followers, and that the new member for South-West Toronto, Mr. Hartley Dewart, K.C., was giving the Liberal leader and party in the Ontario House splendid support.

WOMEN SILENTLY SUFFER

There are sufferings which only a woman knows and about one woman in every four goes about her household duties while suffering actual pain. If a man had to endure as much pain he would stay at home and let his work take care of itself. But there is nobody to do the work of a wife and a mother. Her household work cannot be neglected, and so she works on and and silently suffers.

In nearly every case her suffering takes the form of backaches and pains in the side. Her appetite is poor. And the least exertion leaves her breathless, and yet she heroically struggles on with her manifold daily tasks. The whole trouble lies in the blood, which is either scanty or impoverished so that the food she does take does not carry nourishment to the nerves, the brain and the body. Anaemic is the medical term for this condition and unless steps are taken to increase the blood supply the sufferer may pass into a hopeless decline. To enrich the blood and increase its supply there is no medicine equal to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Every dose helps to make new, rich, red blood, which fills the veins, strengthens the nerves, aids digestion, and stimulates the whole body. Through the fair use of these pills, backaches and sideaches and splitting headaches disappear, and the former sufferer has new energy and new interest in life.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by dealers in medicine everywhere or may be had by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50 from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Y. M. C. A's Hearty Support of Enlistment And National Service

While reports from all over Canada show an increasingly heavy drain upon the regular Y.M.C.A. membership and the staffs, through enlistment, the National Council have felt that an official announcement of their hearty approval and co-operation in the movement should be made. A resolution has been passed and is being sent out to the local secretaries, drawing attention to "the pressure being brought to bear by the Government on the manhood of the country for National Service" and declaring that the situation demands that the Y.M.C.A. "which is highly patriotic in thought and purpose, should take action in regard to the selection of its employed force to enlistment and National Service." They strongly recommend therefore to the Board of Directors of Canadian Associations "that every facility be given to the unmarried and eligible men on their staffs who feel that they should enlist and that each Board confer with its employed men with a view to discovering the most effective way in which all may best serve the Empire in this time of need." The resolution is made applicable also to the National Council staff.

Encouraging Financial Statement At All Saints' Easter Vestry Meeting

The annual Easter vestry meeting of All Saints' church was held in the parish hall last evening. The rector, Rev. R. B. Gosse, M...., took the chair promptly at eight o'clock and for three hours the large number present listened, with keen interest, to the reports of the year's work and discussed many matters of church business.

After the opening exercises, Mr. E. L. Davis, the people's warden read the financial statement, which proved to be one of the most encouraging in the history of the parish. There was an increase in the current collections of $461.33, exclusive of the annual Easter offering. This enabled the wardens, not only to meet all current expenses, but also to wipe out the current floating debt of the previous year. Much interest was aroused by the announcement that the Easter collection had amounted to $700.55.

The mission report was read by the rector's warden, Mr. Wm. Buller and showed that $354.62 had been contributed during the current year.

Mr. R. N. Jones read the building fund report, indicating that the building debt had been reduced to the extent of $1,672, four large accounts having been completely wiped out.

The Sunday School report read by the superintendent, Mr. C. E. Sissen, was very encouraging. At present there are 417 enrolled, not including a first roll of 51. The highest attendance for the year was 338. The treasurer's report, read by Miss Cairns, showed a balance of $88. The children's lenten offerings this year, amounted to over $33.

Mrs. R. E. Clarke presented the report of the Women's Guild, which, under the enthusiastic presidency of Mrs. R. N. Jones, has worked most zealously to reduce the church debt. The total amount raised by the ladies was $1011.25, not including the proceeds from the interest boxes, which amounted to $243. The Rector took occasion to thank the Guild for its efforts and congratulated the members on their splendid achievement.

Mrs. Beatty presented the report of the Woman's Auxiliary, and that of the Chancel Guild. The interesting item in the former was the sending of a bale to the Little Pine Reserve, valued at $43.95, and in the latter a balance of $2. The report of the Junior W. A., read by Miss Mott showed a balance of $11.

Mr. Chandler in presenting the report of the choir, mentioned that eight of its members were in khaki. The present membership of the choir is 38.

The Rev. R. B. Grobb in the course of his report referred to the honour roll of the church, which, at present, includes 129 names. Of these ten have been killed, eleven wounded and three are prisoners of war.

The Auditor's Report was presented by Mr. James Edgar.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

Rector's Warden—(Appointed by the Rector)—Mr. Edgar Worth.
People's Warden—Mr. Gray Copping.
Vestry Clerk—Mr. Roberts.

M. S. DONAGHUE IS SECRETARY

Peterboro Man Again Elected by the Master Horseshoers of Ontario

TORONTO, April 10.—The flag of the new ally was conspicuous in the decorations at the banquet of the Master Horseshoers of Ontario which was held last night at the Carls-Rite Hotel, and the 250 delegates who are attending the sixth annual convention of the association which opened here yesterday gave an enthusiastic response of loud applause when the toastmaster pointed to the Stars and Stripes which had been newly added to the scrolls of flags of the allies which were festooned around the hangering hall. T. R. De Geer, of Toronto, president of the association, was in the chair.

The banquet followed an open meeting of the convention in St. George's Hall, where the following members were elected to act on the executive of the association for the ensuing year: President, T. R. De Geer; First Vice-president, Jas. Wilson, of Toronto; Second Vice-president, J. W. Slack, Maryvale; Third Vice-president, Walter Roberts, Hamilton; Secretary, M. S. Donaghue, Peterborough; Treasurer, John Gardner, Brantford; Provincial Organizer, Geo. Church, Hamilton.

SPECIAL COMPETITION FOR COUNTY PLOWING MATCH

A meeting of the directors of the County of Peterborough Plowmen's Association was held Saturday afternoon, when it was decided to hold a special competition this year in addition to the regular plowing match. Five prizes will be offered for the best plowed field in stubble, of not less than five acres, and open to any make of plaw. The competition will be open to any resident of the county who joins the Association. It was also decided to make application to the township councils for grants of $5.00 each, which will be used in conducting this competition.

Entries for the special competition must be handed to the Secretary, Mr. Chas. Brown, by September 15th, and the plowing must be completed by October 15th. It is desired that the decision of the judges shall be ready for announcement at the time of the holding of the County Match. Further announcement about the competition will be made later.

Many Types of Car Will Be Shown At the Motor Show

An important aspect of the Motor Show is the fact that it will give Peterborough a more prominent place on the automobile map of this country. There is the possibility that by bringing this city before automobile manufacturers it may have the effect eventuallyy of securing an industry for this city. For the present at least it should attract a large number of car owners and prospective buyers and the officers of the League might be well advised to circulate a notice of the show among the newspapers of this district. Already places have been taken for forty cars, most of them of different manufacture. This fact is a fine promise of success from the display standpoint, but special efforts should be put forth to attract visitors from the buying public in and around Peterborough. The prospects for the show are exceedingly bright, and it will be remembered that the proceeds will go to the Red Cross.

$3,000 FOR NAME GROWS TO $12,000

Four Contestants Suggested New Name For Flashlight

Instead of $3,000 being awarded to one person for suggesting a better name than "flashlight" in the recent contest held by the Canadian National Carbon Company Limited of Toronto, Ontario, and the American Ever Ready Works of National Carbon Company, Long Island City, N. Y., special information has been received to-day to the effect that the winning name has been suggested by four different persons in four widely separated cities, each of whom is to receive the full $3,000 on April 5th, when the winning name was announced.

In giving out this information, the Ever Ready people said, "last fall in our announcement of this contest we stated that 'if two or more contestants submit the word selected, the full amount of the prize will be paid to each.' We have made our selection without regard to duplications. The winning name was submitted by four different contestants, to each of whom we are paying $3,00."

Many remarkable instances have been circulated regarding the magnitude of this contest. At its close on November 7th of last year the Company had received some 530,000 suggestions for a better word than "flashlight." So far did the number of suggestions exceed the manufacturer's anticipations that they were forced to take on special help and relinquish the idea of awarding the prize of December 25th as they had first planned. With fifty extra employees for sorting and filing the contest blanks, and the assistance of their salesmen taken off the road for the more important details, it has taken nearly five months at a cost of approximately $20,000 to reach the decision for which a half million contestants hopefully wait.

Hundreds of suggested names went out from Peterborough and vicinity, but no one was fortune enough to be a prize winner.

Big Surplus of Food In Russia Shown

Official data as to the amount of breadstuffs produced in Russia last year indicate a surplus of wheat, barley, buckwheat, rye, and other breadstuffs, of about 8,064,000,000 pounds over and above the amount needed for the sustenance of the people and for planting. This statement is made in the March issue of the Russian-American Journal of Commerce, the editor of which is S. Slonim, one of the best-informed men in this country as to conditions in Russia. This means, said Mr. Slonim, that Russia is still the great granary of Europe, and that if necessary she could feed all her allies as well as her own people.

The Journal prints two tables which give the amount of breadstuffs harvested in Russia last year, the totals being in millions of poods. A pood equals about 36 American pounds. The figures given in the Journal are from the preliminary report of the Russian Ministry of Agriculture, the periods covered are 1916, and the average production in the five years immediately preceding the war. The following table gives in million of poods the production in the years named:

Winter rye	1402.4	1186.5
Winter wheat	315.1	249.6
Spring wheat	422.1	581.9
Oats	807.4	786.0
Barley	437.4	435.5
Millet	139.7	113.7
Buckwheat	90.1	63.9

"As can be seen from the above table," adds the Journal, "the Winter rye crop in 1916 was 23.3 per cent. higher than the five-year average preceding the war. The Winter wheat has shown 26.2 per cent., oats 9.4 per cent., Millet 8.1 per cent., buckwheat 55.2 per cent. above the average for the same period. Barley almost the same as the average. And only Spring wheat shows a shortage of 27.5 per cent., as compared with the average for the same period, mostly in the southwest.

"Now, naturally the question arises, whether the harvest of 1916 was enough to satisfy the multitudinous needs of Russia. If we take as a basis the opinion of the Russian food experts that the normal of breadstuffs per capita should be about 650 pounds per year, and to this must also be added the necessary amount of seeds for planting, then we arrive at the conclusion that the forty-six provinces of European Russia produced 2,362,000,000 poods, and of this 2,137,000,000 poods are necessary for consumption and planting, leaving a surplus of 294,000,000 poods.

"Thus the surplus of the breadstuffs alone which can be requisitioned for the needs of the army amounts to 294.4 million poods. But into this account did not enter the 150 million poods of breadstuffs gathered in by the Province of Ekaterinoslav in 1914 also the production of the fertile Kuban province with its enormous normal crops of 200 million poods, the territory of Tersk, and finally Siberia, from where in case of need Russia could export 200-300 million poods. Besides all this there is a left-over from the previous year that according to Governmental data amounts to between 800-1,000 million poods.

"From this it can be seen that as far as breadstuffs are concerned they are plentiful in Russia, and if we hear from time to time about a shortage in bread, mostly in the northern provinces, which even in ordinary times have to exist on bread importations from the South of Russia, it is to be attributed to lack of transportation facilities."

There is one line in which overproduction never takes place. This is in corn.

PORCUPINE MINES PRODUCE CLOSE TO A MILLION A MONTH

Production at the Porcupine camp at the present time is running about $900,000 per month, compared with an average of $863,000 per month during the last quarter of 1916 and with $889,000 per month a year ago. Of this amount the Hollinger, Dome and McIntyre combined are credited with $750,000, which means that three of the seven producing mines are maintaining over 80 per cent. of the output.

An addition will be made to the list of producers within the next thirty days by the starting up of the stamp mill at the Newray. This property comprises 321 acres in the Hollinger-McIntyre area, and is one of the most extensive holdings in the camp. The mill will handle 40 tons of ore a day with its present equipment or at the rate of 1,200 tons per month. On $10 ore this would mean a monthly recovery of about $11,000 which would provide net earnings sufficient to meet the cost of development operations and general expenses at the mine.

It is probable that Newray will make extensive additions to its mill as time goes on, and the outlook is that this company will be numbered among the big producers of the camp in the comparatively near future.

SOME POINTS BROUGHT OUT AT THE GREATER PETERBOROUGH PUBLIC MEETING LAST NIGHT.

The enlistment in the Overseas Forces from Peterborough is the second highest in Canada in proportion to population.

Peterborough is situated in almost exactly the centre of the population of Canada, one half being east and the other half west of this city.

Peterborough has direct railway connection with all parts of the Dominion and is on the direct all-rail and rail and water routes to the Northwest.

The Trent waterway will this year give water communication with Lake Ontario, and in a couple of years with Georgian Bay.

Hydro-Electric power is delivered to the factories at a rate as cheap as any and cheaper than in almost every other municipality. Actual results show that 10-hour power has been delivered at the rate of $13.44 per h.p. per year.

The net debt of Peterborough is the second lowest per head of population of all the cities of Ontario, the lowest being $11.74 lower than in Peterborough and the highest $423.18 higher.

The taxes collected for municipal purposes is the third lowest of the cities of Ontario, the lowest being 61 cents lower and the highest $31.34 higher.

The combined municipal and school rate in Peterborough is the sixth lowest in the cities of Ontario, the lowest being $1.85 lower and the highest $33.76 higher.

Educational facilities in Peterborough are unsurpassed.

The summer resorts easily accessible from Peterborough, are among the most attractive and beautiful in the world.

SOME THINGS THAT PETERBOROUGH SHOULD LOOK FORWARD TO AND WORK FOR, AS BROUGHT OUT AT THE MEETING.

A national highway to connect with the national highway to be constructed along the front.

A national highway from Holland's Landing, which means Toronto, to Ottawa, by way of Peterborough, thus placing this city on two national highways.

A radial railway to Lake Ontario which will bring to Peterborough many people who have not now railway facilities, and will connect the city with the railways running along the front.

An electric railway to the north, connecting Peterborough with the territory to the north and giving quick communication with the summer resorts.

Upon the completion of the Canada Central Railway, which is to be constructed from Montreal to the Georgian Bay north of Stoney Lake, the continuation of the electric railway to connect with it will place Peterborough on another great railway.

A united effort by all in the district will accomplish these.

THE "TWO ORRS"—The funniest Comedians who have ever played "The Grand," and who will appear for a return engagement next Saturday, April 14. The seat sale opens Thursday morning at 10 o'clock.

CANADIANS CAPTURE VIMY RIDGE, ETC.

from twelve hundred yards to a little short of a mile. Thereafter the ground falls easterly toward the great plain of Cambrai. Up the ridge, amid the shattered Hun trenches, our men swarmed in successive waves. On the northern end a few trees along the skyline marked where the Wood of La Fere had been, and our troops advanced as through the remains of an orchard.

Within half an hour after the first German "S.O.S." rocket had been sent up, indicating a surprise attack, our objective was attained, with slight loss. The tanks which accompanied our advancing infantry had little to do, but were seen in action later near the crest of the ridge, on the extreme north of the line, at a point east of Souchez, where much fierce fighting took place in 1915, when thousands of men fell.

The enemy put up a stiff fight. Hill 145 had been provided skilfully with concealed machine gun positions, and soon after they had been driven from the surrounding ground with machine guns on the hill they continued to sweep points of approach to the hill with their fire. Encouraged by this show of resistance on what otherwise was a stricken field, the enemy began to send up reserves in trains from Lens, Douai and perhaps a greater distance, with the intention of launching a counter attack. The attack was never made. As reports came in from the front and from the aviators of this massing of the enemy beyond Vimy and the trenches in the vicinity a tremendous barrage was turned on by our heavy guns the range being too great for field artillery.

Probably for the first time in the war twelve-inch weapons were used for this purpose at very long range. The splendid co-operation of the artillery arm in preventing this counter-attack did much to lessen our casualties on a diff rent part of the front. On the southren end of the Canadian front the Germans yielded ground more readily than in the north. Many prisoners were taken and as for Thelus which had been strongly held before our guns hammered it to pieces. It did not long hold out. By 12.30, seven hours after the battle began, no organized body of the enemy remained on Vimy ridge, save the nest of concealed machine gun sections on Hill 145.

Even Up Old Scores.

Of the casualties it can only be said this moment that they are surprisingly light, especially in view of the importance of the ground won. The prisoners taken on the Canadian part of the front probably total close to two thousand. The British troops on the adjacent part of the front captured over three thousand. Our men were splendid, and proud that they have been counted worthy to furnish a striking force in so important an operation as the recapture of Vimy ridge.

No ground in all France is more dear to the heart of the French people than the front from which the Canadians set out to drive the enemy from his positions on the ridge of Vimy, the Chapel of Notre Dame de Lorette, Souchez, and the sugar refinery there, to conquer the crumbling ruins of which men died during the war in thousands. The Cabaret Rouge, Neuville St. Vaast, the Labyrinth, are names that will be forever glorious there.

In the spring of 1915, before the tremendous dramas of Verdun and the Somme had been conceived, the army of France made the first great attempt to drive the entrenched foe from his positions. The progress made, reckoned by miles, was almost negligible, but the French learned on the ridges and in the long shelterless slopes of this difficult terrain the lessons that enabled them and their allies to win at Verdun and the Somme.

TO-DAY'S WAR NEWS

NEW YORK, April 10. — Travellers from England declared that the British Navy is capturing from seven to fifteen submarines every week, and during one week twenty-three were destroyed at sea.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Colonel Roosevelt called on President Wilson at noon to-day to talk over war plans.

TORONTO, Ont., April 10.—The magnitude of the British victory in the battle of Arras as both sides are officially referring to the new British offensive, keeps growing. Due east of Arras, the British have advanced more than four miles and captured the Village of Fampouf. The new offensive front is twelve miles long, extending from Givenchy southwards to Henin.

The Canadians have been holding the front from the region of Loos to the region of Neuville and possibly beyond, so the divisions north of Givenchy if still there until now have been merely assisting their comrades in the great attack by machine gun and artillery fire, though probably waiting on tiptoe for orders to take advantage of the success obtained on Vimy Ridge. The progress made by the Canadians has not been as rapid, counted in yards and feet, as that made by the British troops on their right, but it is due to the immensely stronger positions they had to attack, and the fact that the enemy felt that at all cost he had to retain possession of this natural bastion in his battle line. The villages known to be captured include La Folie, Thelus, St. Laurent, Athies, Fenchy, Blangy and Neuville-Vitasse.

WASHINGTON, April 10.—The American liner New York struck a mine last night while outside Liverpool bar, but is now entering the dock under her own steam. The passengers were transferred to other vessels and landed. There were no casualties.

Passengers on the liner St. Louis just arrived, brought word of extraordinary German activity and daring in sowing mines off the entrance to Liverpool Harbour. It is to one of the set that the New York must have fallen victim.

Heavy Losses Are Admitted By Berlin

Special to The Examiner:

BERLIN, via London, April 10.—"The British, after several days' activity yesterday morning attacked us and succeeded in penetrating our positions on roads radiating from Arras," declared to-day's officials statement. "They did not succeed in breaking through. In stubbornly resisting an enemy of superior force two of our divisions suffered considerable losses.

VESTRY MEETINGS IN THE ANGLICAN CHURCHES

ST. LUKE'S.

The annual Vestry meeting of St. Luke's Church was held last night, and was attended by a large and representative gathering, including a number of ladies who exercised, for the first time, their right to vote.

Reports read by the Wardens were satisfactory and showed a healthy financial condition, with a balance to be carried over.

In the election Mr. Frank Adams was appointed Rector's Church Warden, and Mr. J. J. Turner, People's Church Warden.

ST. JOHN'S.

The annual Vestry meeting of St. John's Church was held yesterday evening and was attended by a large number of the congregation, Canon Cornish presided.

The financial statement for the past year was presented by W. R. Morris, the People's Warden, and adopted by the Vestry. Mr. Morris also reported that the Easter offering was practically sufficient to pay all indebtedness in connection with the new electric lighting system.

Dr. W. T. Holloway was elected People's Warden for the ensuing year, and Mr. W. F. Johnston was continued by the Rector, Canon Davidson, as his warden.

Reports were received from the various Church organizations, all showing earnest and faithful work, and a year of progress, and much appreciation was expressed by the Wardens and others of the work of the ladies of the congregation.

Appreciation of the work of Mr. R. J. Devey, organist, was shown by an increase in salary being unanimously voted him.

The following are the members of the Advisory Board for the ensuing year: Mr. J. A. Aylmer, Dr. Geo. Burnham, Mr. A. L. Killally, Mr. A. E. Coulthard, Dr. Halliday, Messrs. George Linton, J. J. Howden, W. J. Kent, A. Kingdon, H. W. Morphet, A. W. Turner and A. Stevenson.

Messrs. F. R. Yokome, G. A. Smith and H. Killally were appointed a Committee for the purpose of beautifying the church grounds and were authorized to expend up to $200.00 for the purpose.

Mr. G. A. Smith was appointed Chairman of the Missionary Committee with the power to name his own Committee.

The Lady Delegates appointed were Mesdames G. A. Smith, Hy Rush and J. A. Aylmer.

Canon Cornish formally announced his recall by the Bishop of Qu'Appelle to Yorkton and in connection with it stated his work with St. John's for the year past had been for him a most happy year of service. Upon motion a formal recognition of St. John's appreciation of Canon Cornish was entered upon the minutes and Mr. Johnston, for the congregation, thanked the Canon for his work and conveyed to him the deep appreciation of St. John's for his services and the esteem and affection in which he is held not only by the people of St. John's but of many of the citizens of Peterborough generally.

EARLY OPPORTUNITY FOR PETERBOROUGH'S NEW ASSOCIATION

One of the first activities of the Greater Peterborough Association will probably be a publicity campaign for the support of the Hunter street bridge by-law. It is early yet to suggest this undertaking, for the agreement between the city and the Quaker Oats Company has yet to be signed. But when the preliminaries are well under way the Association will have the opportunity of enlisting automobile owners to get out the vote and to otherwise assist in securing the passage of the by-law. This suggestion is not made from any doubt that the by-law will be warmly endorsed by the ratepayers, but merely as a safety-first measure.

Constitution Adopted By The Association

Public Meeting Held Last Evening in the Grand Opera House Was a Gratifying Success--Greater Peterborough Association Elect Officers.

THE ADDRESS

A representative gathering attended the public meeting that was held last evening in the Grand Opera House under the auspices of the Greater Peterborough Association. His Worship Mayor Duffus who presided, recalled the circumstances leading up to the inception of the Association and the subsequent efforts that have been made to complete the organization. Every man, woman and child is asked to participate in the development of the city, socially, commercially and industrially. The Mayor reviewed the work of the civic administration and stated that the present debenture debt of the city was due to the fact that Peterborough has, within the past few years, assumed the status of a city. He predicted a steady growth in the population and urged all present to show in a practical way, their willingness to aid the present rate of progress.

Mayor Duffus is a firm advocate of radial railways and he seldom misses an opportunity to publicly express an opinion on that score. Last evening was no exception to the rule. Mayor Duffus incorporated in his reference to radial railways a proposed scheme to construct a public highway by way of Lindsay to Toronto, and thence to Camp Borden. This would connect with a line to be built via Norwood, Tweed to Ottawa, with Peterborough as an important link in the chain of towns and cities that would be served by such a road.

The meeting was opened by a number of musical selections. The contributing artists were Mr. Walter Evans, Miss Ida Sanderson, Mrs. J. H. Renwick and Miss Mignon Telgmann. The latter responded to a hearty encore.

Mr. J. J. Hartley.

Following this Mr. S. R. Armstrong read a draft of the constitution as prepared by the committee named for that purpose.

Mr. J. J. Hartley made a strong appeal for the co-operation of every citizen. The Greater Peterborough Association was not designed in the interests of the Mayor nor of the members of the executive of the Association, but for the general welfare of the city and thereby for the individual citizen. The new responsibilities of the women through their enfranchisement gave them greater opportunities than they had ever possessed. They could help the new Association and anything they undertook was bound to succeed.

Mr. Hartley urged the individuals in the audience to discuss the Association and its objects with other citizens. There would be kickers who would attempt to discredit the movement but they should be won over. Mr. Hartley said he was confident the Association would bring good results to the city and would do all in his power to assist it.

Mr. S. R. Armstrong.

City Clerk Armstrong recounted some of Peterborough's advantages that invite the new Association to advertise and present them to prospective manufacturers and residents. Regarding power rates, he cited a textile plant working steadily 24 hours a day that paid $18.78 per h.p., an iron factory $17.50 per h.p. and a third establishment running 10 hours that paid $13.44 per h.p. Peterborough's power rates were lower than even those in St. Catharines and Welland. The debenture rate in this city was the second lowest of twenty-three of the leading cities in Ontario; the tax rate per capita for municipal purposes the third lowest of these cities, and the combined municipal and school rate the sixth lowest.

Mr. Armstrong pointed out that there was no membership fee for the Greater Peterborough Association, which stood open to every citizen. Its objects were not solely for a greater population and more industries, but also for the sanitary, educational, social and spiritual welfare of the city. Otherwise the Association would prove a disappointment in the scope that lays before it.

To secure a full measure of success the officers must attend faithfully to their work, the chairmen and all the members must give of their time and efforts and the body of citizens must support them. "We must divest ourselves of the tendency to look at the work from a personal, sectional and class standpoint and regard it only from the ground of the welfare of the entire city.

Rev. J. R. Webb.

In a speech that was illumined by ready wit and humour, guided by sanity of counsel and inspired by clarity of vision, Rev. Mr Webb dealt with the opportunity before Peterborough and appealed for unity of support for the Greater Peterborough Association. We should congratulate ourselves that we had to-day as enterprising and worthy a Mayor as Peterborough ever had. Like the Ford car, a city was not equipped with a self-starter. It needed dynamic force within itself. man energy behind it. It should be remembered that real service can be rendered by the most humble citizen. There was not a man or woman who could not make himself or herself an indispensable asset to Peterborough if they were anxious to do it. The individual should remember that while he is only one, yet he is one. We need and want absolute unity ch as we have never had before. The day was forever past when people seeing the seriousness of life and the opportunities for service could stand for a moment to quarrel over things that do not matter. Speaking of Rev. C. J Phelan who was on the platform, Rev. Mr. Webb said. "Father Phelan does not believe as I believe. I respect him as much as any man in Peterborough. I give him credit for his belief, as I feel he gives me credit for mine."

Continuing Rev. Mr. Webb urged the citizens to talk up the city to others. Discuss it with men on trains and elsewhere. Great results have come from seemingly unimportant things. It was the duty of the citizen at all times to say a good word for his city. Of all the military districts between British Columbia and Halifax only one gave a larger number of men than Peterborough. That was the district of Winnipeg. That fact was not mentioned often enough. Only two or three centres had done better per citizen than Peterborough in the gifts of money for patriotic objects.

Rev. Father Phelan.

"Like Mr. Hartley, I am a native of Peterborough. I have always been proud of it, but never prouder than to-night. We have a surrounding country than which there is none better. We have an agricultural community, a beautiful city, able business men and good citizens. We have the material, it is therefore up to all of us to make a greater Peterborough and I feel from the sentiment to-night we are goin gto have it.

"And when it comes to pass it will be an ideal city," said Rev. Father Phelan, who endorsed the statement that much good would come of the individual citizen's boosting. "If I can assist in any way I shall be glad to do so. Let us pull together that we may have peace, harmony and unity in every sense of the word."

MR. J. J. TURNER

The new president of the Board of Trade expressed his confidence that there was work before that body and that he hoped with the assistance of members to obtain good results.

Speaking of recent events he said he welcomed the news that the Trades and Labour Council intended to take a more active interest in civic affairs. Mr. Turner said he would be glad to nominate them if given an opportunity. He was disappointed in the reported resentment of Labour men over the Council's rejection of the petition for a free market. Mr Turner said he had read this announcement in the Review, but Mr. Hartley assured him that it was an erroneous report.

In conclusion Mr. Turner advocated a greater agricultural exhibition, efforts for a winter fair, co-operation for the success of the motor show and endeavours to attract excursions to Peterborough.

Production And Sunday Farm Work

Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,— The cry "produce" is now heard all over the Dominion. The government cry "produce" and are doing their best to get help for the farmers and are issuing bulletins on all kinds of crops showing how to grow them. The influential city people are shouting "produce" and are bringing forward wonderful schemes to help production, and will no doubt be ploughing up their lawns this spring to add to the food supply.

Daylight saving is being "boosted," in fact everything is being discussed that might in any way add to the 1917 crop. I said everything, but, more correctly, everything but one. Couldn't the Lord's Day Act be suspended, as far as farmers are concerned, from the time the land is ready to work until the last sheaf is safely in the barn? Will our worthy magistrates give us permission to work on Sundays? This would mean two days extra a month, for doubtless the farmer would want to go to church Sunday morning.

The local wheat crop of 1915 was largely destroyed owing to the fact that it was illegal to work on Sunday.

Let the farmer work on Sunday if he wishes to, but his hired man should be allowed to work or not, just as he felt.

I have no doubt that this plan would help production more than any other scheme put forward.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your valuable space.

A FARMER.

SACRIFICED HIS HAND SAVED FRIEND'S LIFE

LONDON,—It is difficult to imagine an act of more sublime self-sacrifice than that reported of a private in the Lancashire Fusiliers: "He put his hand over the muzzle of a trench mortar gun as it was fired, in order to save the shell from hitting a man who was inadvertently standing in front of the gun." Or this, told of a Lance-Sergeant in the York and Lancaster Regiment: "He seized a rifle grenade, the fuse of which was burning, and threw it away, tripped up another man who was working near him,, and lay on top of him until the grenade had exploded." The other four instances are of picking up live shells or bombs and throwing them out of trenches.

Here is another story of brave unselfishness, related of a private in the Worcester Regiment: "While under very heavy and close fire, seeing a man next to him was badly wounded, he placed the man into the hole he had already dug, and commenced to dig a hole for himself." Of dashing deeds in the field and the air there are many. An officer of the R.F.C. brought down two machines in one day; a captain of the Canadians, although wounded, continued to direct his men, and when attacked by a party of the enemy, personally accounted for two of them and took a third prisoner; a second lieutenant, with a patrol, crawled through a thick stretch of wire to the enemy parapet. And there are two thrilling stories of the putting out of action of German machine-guns. The first is told of a captain in the Canadian Infantry. "He single-handed killed or wounded the crew of a machine-gun which was opposing the advance of his men. He also destroyed a trench mortar. A corporal in the Border Regiment, with one comrade, is the hero of the other. The two men worked their way round to the rear of an enemy machine-gun, killed three of the team, and captured the remaining five.

OBITUARY

THOMAS FLOOD.

Thomas Flood, a highly respected resident of Ennismore for many years died suddenly yesterday at noon, aged 79, at his home Lot 2, Concession 8. Mr. Flood was born in New York State, but has resided in Ennismore practically all his life. He is survived by his wife and five children, Mrs. Eugene Murphy and Mrs. Patrick Murphy, Ennismore, Mrs. Michael Ross, Otonabee, John of Ennismore and Peter of Toronto.

The funeral will take place on Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock to St. Martin's church and cemetery, Ennismore.

EDDIE SAXBY.

A sad death took place last evening, when Eddie, aged 13, the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Saxby, passed away after a comparatively short illness.

The little fellow had been complaining for ten days or more, but was well enough to be out on Sunday, when he went to the hospital to see his mother, who was undergoing an operation. His father took him to see a doctor Sunday afternoon, and on Monday no thought of his death was entertained by anyone. The cause of his illness was not at all clear, but it now appears that he was slightly bitten by a dog about three weeks ago on the right eye and the opinion is now that this primarily was the cause of his death. The dog was shortly afterwards shot by the police.

Eddie was a bright little boy and had carried papers at the Examiner Office for quite a while.

Besides his father and mother, he has three brothers, Ernest in the 4th Mounted Battalion, William and Norman in the 21st Battalion, and one sister, Lottie, at home.

The funeral will take place from the family residence, 362 Smith street, on Thursday afternoon and proceed to the Little Lake cemetery.

$600 Fine On Howard Innis Now Wanted By Police Force

Yesterday it was the Orient, this morning the Occident that provided the offenders, almost in equal numbers, who paraded before Magistrate Dumble. Seventeen Chinamen on blue Monday and fifteen cases, every one white, on the police card this morning. And yet it is sapiently alleged that the Thompson force are mere clock punchers and that the good or probably bad old days of the big police court dockets have passed.

Magistrate Dumble sat through the dinner hour and remained on the bench until three o'clock when an adjournment was called until 4.30 o'clock to allow himself, Chief Thompson, and Messrs. G. N. Gordon and F. D. Kerr time for lunch.

Although the court was top heavy with cases, one group of liquor offences were dealt with. On two charges laid by License Inspector Stewart, Howard Innis, 285 Townsend street, was found guilty of keeping liquor for sale and was fined $300 and $7.00 costs on one count and $300 on the other, or six months in jail on each charge.

When Howard's name was called, its echo through the court room and corridors below was the only response. Detective Meagher swore that he had left the subpoena at the Innis home yesterday morning, but had heard that Howard had suddenly left the city. Mrs. Garnet Innis testified that she had received the subpoena but that Howard had not come home after leaving in the morning.

Garnet Innis was charged by Chief Thompson with keeping liquor for sale and the case was unfinished at the afternoon recess. It was admitted that from one to two cases of twelve quarts of whisky arrived at the Innis home weekly.

Seven cyclists have pleaded guilty to riding on the sidewalks. They were southenders for the most part and may prepare to part with $2 and costs.

SAYS HOT WATER EACH DAY KEEPS THE DOCTOR AWAY

Drink Glass of hot water before Breakfast to wash out the Poisons.

Life is not merely to live, but to live well, eat well, digest well, work well, sleep well, look well! What a glorious condition to attain, and yet how very easy it is if one will only adopt the morning inside bath.

Folks who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when they arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning, before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys, and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening, and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleanses out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the water and phosphate is quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells stomach trouble, rheumatism; others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store which will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced crank on the subject of internal sanitation.

Little Things Are Getting On Nerves Of Austrian Ladies

A lady member of the staff of the Vienna "Arbeiter Zeitung" endeavours to explain how it is that Austrian women are rapidly becoming capricious, nervous, and irritable. It is not the great events of the war which cause them to lose their balance, but the small things of life, the hindrances, worries, and nagging perplexities which meet them at every turn in their daily round of duties. And the lady proceeds to enumerate some of these.

"In peace times I lived with my household utensils in hearty agreement. They were obedient, always serving their purpose. Now it is the very devil. The scrubbing brushes which I now buy scratch and wound the hand, scrubbing cloths are made of a mysterious substance which threads energetically, declines to be saturated with water. These cloths cost exactly ten times what the good pre-war cloths cost, and they last no time.

"Under present conditions cleanliness and neatness are impossible luxuries, and men cannot understand the price we must pay if we are to keep up appearance in our domestic realms. Soap! The prices are high. This is not an original remark. Other cleansing articles have got beyond bounds. The polish for the floors is impossible. It makes more spots and smears than it removes. Metal polishes the same, and the price has been doubled. The scouring things are not made now of wood, but of paper. Matches! Of ten matches, five break when you try to strike them, three lose their heads and two scrape the emery paper off the box. Everything used for cleansing clothes is rubbish. Turpentine and benzine have disappeared long ago.

"A glass cloth costs 40 cents, and when one tries to replenish one's stock you spend as much as you would spend on a sucking pig or on an entire set of the piano works of Brahms. When your stockings want darning, and no one can wear a pair longer than eight days without holes appearing, the tiniest skein of darning wool costs 8 cents, and the needles are three times their former price. Mending cotton cannot be had at all and linen thread has reached an impossible price. Yes, they are all trifles, but they are very important, for they fill us women with rage, they torture us, they make us tired and dispirited, capricious, and irritable."

DOG LIVED SIXTEEN DAYS WITHOUT FOOD OR WATER

How long will a dog live without water or food? An accidental imprisonment of a family pet in a seaside cottage on the New Jersey Coast has established what is believed to be the American record in this sad and gruesome happening.

It was a most remarkable test of endurance and tenacity of life under the most distressing circumstances. The animal in question was a half-breed collie and St. Bernard bitch, "Beauty," the property of Mr. and Mrs. Wolf Ross of Manhattan, who have a summer home at Manasquan, N.J. When they returned to town last fall they arranged for the care of their dog with an Italian and his wife who lived in the neighborhood. About the first week of the present month Mrs. Ross made a trip to Manasquan to look over the cottage, and, unknown to her, the dog followed the owner into the house, and in the manner of family canines which fear they may be disobeying orders, the bitch secreted herself, so that Mrs. Ross remained in ignorance of her presence.

The inspection over, Mrs. Ross locked up the house and hurried off to the railroad station to take the first train for home. The dog was made an accidental prisoner and the scene was set for the near tragedy. The Italians missed the dog, but supposed Mrs. Ross had taken it with her to New York, while this woman, of course, was not worrying, as she had no knowledge that she had doomed the dog to solitary confinement.

Two weeks and two days elapsed before the dismal plight of the imprisoned dog was discovered.

Thomas Riley, a local caretaker for the closed summer cottages and bungalows, happened by the Ross homestead early one morning, and, looking in through a window, observed the form of an emaciated dog, which was vainly trying to raise up to the lintel and bark a greeting to him. Riley knew the dog well and also the story of her disappearance from the house of the Italians. He did not venture to break in the cottage to rescue the dog, although if this had been done the owners would not have blamed him, as they said afterward, but as the contents were of value the caretaker did not care to assume the risk of even an amateur burglary for humanitarian reasons.

As the next best thing to an immediate rescue, he telegraphed the discovery, and the doleful plight of the dog to Mr. and Mrs. Ross, who, with their son, hurried to catch the morning train for the seaside resort, and they arrived in Manasquan soon after midday. Chartering a hack the rescuing trio hastened to their cottage, but a stop was made on the way at a village store to buy some bottles of milk.

Although just sixteen days without any nourishment whatever, the dog was able to take milk in small quantities, and later ample drinks of rich broth. As marvelous in the exhibition of recuperative powers as in her endurance, in forty-eight hours the dog was fully restored to health and spirits, with the appetite of an entire menagerie.

Fewer Eggs are required with
ROYAL BAKING POWDER

In many recipes the number of eggs may be reduced with excellent results by using an additional quantity of Royal Baking Powder, about a teaspoon, for each egg omitted. The following recipe is a practical example:

Chocolate Sponge Roll

1¼ cups flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
2 squares melted chocolate
3 tablespoons melted shortening
¼ cup hot water
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 teaspoons Royal Baking Powder

The old method called for 4 eggs and no baking powder

DIRECTIONS—Sift flour, baking powder and salt together three times. Beat whole eggs. Add slowly sugar, then boiling water slowly; add next vanilla, melted chocolate and melted shortening, without beating. Sift in dry ingredients, and fold in as lightly as possible. Pour into large baking pan lined with oiled paper, and bake in slow oven twenty minutes. When done, turn out on a damp, hot cloth, spread with white icing and roll.

Destruction of Munition Plant Believed To Have Been Result of Plot

Eddystone Factory Was Only Recently Taken Over by Russian Government—Philadelphia Was Greatly Shaken—The Number of Dead Now Estimated at 100—80 Bodies Recovered.

DAMAGE NOT SERIOUS

CHESTER, Pa., April 11.—An official statement late yesterday afternoon from Coroner White, of Chester, said 101 were known to be dead. All the bodies had then been taken from the ruins.

70 Bodies Recovered.

Philadelphia, April 11.—The Evening Ledger this afternoon estimated that 100 persons, mostly girls and women, were killed in to-day's munitions explosions at the Eddystone plant of the Baldwin Locomotive Co. At the undertaking place of Coroner White there are 80 bodies, 70 being those of girls

Thousands of girls were employed at the plant, most of them coming from Philadelphia, ten miles away. They were attracted by the high wages paid.

Explosion Demolished Building.

The explosion occurred soon after ten o'clock in the pellet room of the shrapnel building, where about 100 girls were employed putting the finishing touches on shells. In a building adjoining approximately 30,000 were stored. A second explosion demolished this building and scattered the shells in very direction. Immediately calls were sent for outside aid, and physicians, firemen, and policemen from surrounding towns arrived in great numbers.

The buildings in which the explosions occurred caught fire, and, by strenuous work the flames, which burned two hours, were confined to these structures. Meanwhile charred bodies were being pulled from the wreckage, and injured persons were being picked up and taken to Chester, a mile away.

Whispers of Plot.

No official of the company was found who could tell anything about the explosion. There were whispers of a plot to destroy the plant if there was a plot no more effective spot could have been selected for the work. It was near the Delaware river bank and well isolated.

The plant was originally constructed soon after the European war started by Baldwin Locomotive interests. Recently it was taken over by the Russian Government which had been employing about 10,000 people making shells. The plant has been thoroughly guarded night and day and after dark immense searchlights made every portion of the ground as light as day. In addition, secret service men and detectives worked in the various departments disguised as munition workers.

Damage Not Serious.

Officials of the Eddystone Ammunitions Corporation this afternoon said the damage to the plant was not serious. Announcement was made that all departments of the concern will resume operations to-morrow morning with the exception of the box, packing, and base charging department. All departments, including these, will resume work on April 24.

Philadelphia Shaken.

The explosion was the most violent and the most horrible of any of the munition catastrophes that have occurred in America. Philadelphia was shaken as if by an earthquake. Three distinct explosions occurred before the till mass of the deadly material began popping off. A fire started at once, its flames engulfing the few who survived the stunning shock of the explosions. So many of the victims who survived are unconscious or delirious from their injuries and so many of the dead were literally burned crisp that it may be several days before a complete list is available.

Are stronger, healthier, and more vigorous since they have taken Bonized Phosphorus with Iron. Are you one of these? If you are not healthy your doctor will tell you that 90 per cent. of all the ailments of the liver, kidneys, heart and bladder are caused through impurities being in the blood and the weakest organ of your body suffers. Dr. Mainprise says he can take a person who is run-down, weak, anaemic or nervous and restore them to good health in 10 to 20 days by giving them one to three tablets of Bonized Phosphorus with Iron. This remedy is almost immediately absorbed by the system and you can feel the strengthening effects directly after taking it. This is an excellent remedy and owing to so many imitations it is only allowed to be dispensed by one druggist in each city. The agent for Peterborough is F. C. Weber, Charlotte street.

FIX FRENCH WHEAT PRICES; SACCHARINE FOR SUGAR.

PARIS, April 4. — The Chamber of Deputies have adopted a measure authorizing the government by decree to fix the price on wheat and other grain and substituting this law for a previous one by which the price of wheat, for instance, was made 33 francs for a metric hundred weight or approximately 220 pounds.

The Chamber also adopted unanimously a bill authorizing the use of saccharine as a substitute for sugar in baking or preserving.

SUBMARINE CREWS PAID HIGH SALARY FOR THEIR MURDERS

FIFTY PER CENT. OF CAPTURED SHIPS' VALUE AND TEN PER CENT. FOR TORPEDOEING.

AMSTERDAM, via London, April 10.—The frontier correspondent of the Telegraaf suggests that the recklessness shown by German submarines is due to the big financial rewards offered the crews by the German Government. The men who man the submarines get ten per cent., higher pay than those in any other branch of the national service and receive in addition substantial bonuses.

Fifty per cent. of a captured ship is distributed among her captors, five per cent. to the commander of the submarine, five to the chief engineer, fifteen to the remaining officers and twenty-five to the crew. Percentages for torpedoed ships are based on the insurance value of the vessel. In these cases the submarine commander gets one per cent., the chief engineer one, the remaining officers four and the crew ten. There are also extra rewards for special exploits.

FEW FOLKS HAVE GRAY HAIR NOW

Druggist Says Ladies Are Using Recipe of Sage Tea and Sulphur

Hair that loses its colour and lustre, or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless, is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even colour, that beautiful dark shade of hair, which is so attractive, use only this old time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture improved by the addition of other ingredients by asking at any drug store for a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which darkens the hair so naturally, so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell it has been applied. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite to impart colour and a youthful appearance to the hair. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

Was Anaemic
FOR OVER A YEAR

Anaemia, or blood turning to water, is caused by the heart becoming deranged, and if the heart becomes weakened it cannot pump the blood as it should. As a result the blood becomes impoverished, and it loses its nourishing qualities. The face becomes pale and thin, and the lips bloodless. There is a weakness, tiredness and loss of weight.

When those suffering from thin or watery blood start taking Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills they can see a change from the outset.

Every dose introduces into the blood those vital elements necessary to make it rich and red. The pale cheeks take on the rosy hue of health, the weight increases, and the whole being thrills with a new life.

Mrs. R. J. Grey, Fredericton, N. B., writes: "When I was a girl working at general house work I overtaxed my strength and became completely run down. For over a year I was very bad with anaemia. A friend told me to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills so I got a box and when it was done I decided to get six more. When I had taken them I gained not only in strength, but in flesh and colour, and best of all was good health."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box; three boxes for $1.25 at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Gas Blowholes in Ribs of German Ships Seized Here

NEW YORK, April 10.— Investigation into the condition of the German vessels seized by the government in Hoboken, at 135th street and the Hudson River and at Sixty-ninth street, Brooklyn, continued yesterday, and to-day scores of mechanics will be placed on all twenty-seven of the vessels and they will be gone over inch by inch.

The ribs of the largest ships, including the Vaterland, have been burned with acetylene, it was learned yesterday from a reliable source. It was said that the holes thus burned in the steel ribs were covered with paint and were not easily discernible. The effect, according to naval men, of this treatment of the ribs would be the crumpling of the steel if great pressure, such as heavy seas, were brought upon the ships. If acetylene were used to any great extent the vessels will not be fit for service for months. It is hoped that the damage in this respect will be slight.

Most of the smaller vessels can be made ready for sea service within six weeks, it was said, and they will probably be placed in the American coastwise trade.

One official who was recently below on the Vaterland was quoted last night as saying that apparently all the engines were in good condition. He added, however, that the government officers expected they would find certain of all the delicate parts out of order, with pistons and rods inverted or loose so that with steam pressure they would break or cause a jam in the engines.

All the blue prints of the ships were destroyed before the troops seized the ships, and many parts could not be replaced here, it was said.

The 1,098 German sailors who are prisoners on Ellis Island passed a quiet day yesterday. Ellis Island was as isolated almost as St. Helena. No visitors were permitted there, and no one except government officers on business were allowed to cross on the Immigrant, the ferry of the Immigration Department. Scores of persons went to the Barge Office at the Battery and tried to go to the prison, and when they were refused permission asked to send articles of food and wearing apparel to friends and relatives.

Passengers on the Staten Island ferry boats were amazed about church time Sunday morning to see on top of the detention building at Ellis Island what appeared to be about five hundred men "wigwagging." The prisoners were permitted to go on the roof of the building and exercise, and it was their "setting up drills" which attracted attention in the harbour.

LADIES FIRST.

A motorist on a mountain cow path met an old lady and her son driving to market. The horse took fright and began to prance around; the old lady leaped out and began wildly screaming at the top of her voice; the motorist instantly stopped his machine and offered to assist in controlling the horse. "No, no, thank you," returned the boy, who had remained composedly in the carriage. "That's all right. I can manage the horse. You just lead mother past."

A WEAK HEART.

When the heart is weak or irregular in action, when the blood is thin and watery remember the blood forming qualities in Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and by its use flood the system with rich, red vitalizing blood. This is nature's way of curing weakness and disease. It is the only way to ensure lasting results.

HIS RECOMMENDATIONS BOYS READ THIS

It Depends Greatly on Yourself How You Secure Your First Promotion

A merchant in one of our large cities had advertised in an evening paper for a boy to run errands; and early next day his office was crowded with little fellows of various sizes all anxious to secure the position. Many of them had letters of recommendation from former teachers, friends, etc., which the merchant merely glanced over and then handed back. His choice fell on a boy who had no letter and who said nothing until he was addressed. To all the questions put to him he answered in such a way as to impress his future employer.

When the other boys had all left and the 'news boy' had been put to work, a gentleman who was present at the interview expressed surprise that an applicant without a single recommendation should have been preferred to any of the others. "But he did have a number of recommendations," replied the merchant. "In the first place, he held his head up and showed a bright face and steady eyes. My attention was attracted to him the moment I saw him. He wiped his feet and closed the door after him, showing that he was careful. He took off his cap when he came in, and answered all my questions without hesitation. He waited quietly for his turn, instead of pushing and crowding, showing that he was honourable and orderly. While I talked to him, I noticed that his clothes were brushed, his hair in order, and when he wrote his name I observed that his finger-nails were clean. Don't you call those things letters of recommendation? I certainly do; and I would give more for what I can learn about a boy by observing him closely for a while, than by all the letters he can bring me."

WAR WILL BE WON BY FOOD, U. S. SLOGAN

WASHINGTON, April 9.—Food for the nation's soldiers and for those "left behind" as well, yesterday took a co-ordinate prominence with finance among the Government's first step to win the war.

"This war will be won on food," declared Herbert Quick yesterday, in a brief statement to the nation. As Quick was making his statement, the Secretary of Agriculture, Mr. Houson was disseminating through all news agencies an appeal to housewives dealing with conservation of all foodstuffs and elimination of waste in the households.

In the meantime, talk of Government supervision of food distribution continued in Governmental circles and among members of the council of National Defence. There was evidence to-day that appointment of a food dictator similar to those named in some of the European belligerent countries, will be fought. Some Government heads said to-day there should be no such step until intensive farming and home gardening projects such as described by Carl Vrooman, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, have been given fullest test.

"Mobilization of the country's agricultural forces," said Quick, Member of the Federal Farm Loan Board, "is as important as raising an army.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

ABOARD THE COUNTESS

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1916, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

The other day I saw a notice in a Liverpool paper to the effect that the courts had decided to rehear the case of the brig Countess. To the general reader these lines meant nothing. I do not suppose there are fifty people in all England today who can recall the case of the Countess, although the particulars were published far and wide and finally appeared in book form.

The Countess was a Bristol brig, owned in part and commanded by Captain Thomas, who was not only a thorough seaman, but a man of excellent heart. We were bound out to Georgetown, in British Guiana, with orders to call at Jamaica. This was my third voyage with Captain Thomas, the other two extending only to ports in Spain and return. I was an apprentice, or ship's boy, having nothing to do with the cabin, but living with the crew in the fo'castle and learning to be a sailor.

After we left port and got things shipshape I had opportunity to look over the crew and see what they were made of, and I was not long in making up my mind, boy as I was, that we had shipped a hard lot. There is always a leader in the fo'castle, and in those days it was the best fighter. Seamanship and education had to bow to brute strength. It wasn't three days before a big, burly fellow, who went by the name of Bristol Bob, but whose real name was Havens, had established himself as "boss." If he had had the good of the brig in view this would have been for her benefit, but it soon transpired that he had plans of his own.

One afternoon—it was on the fourth day, I believe—I was aroused from my sleep by a conversation between Bob and a man named Jackson. They knew I was in the bunk, but believed me to be sleeping soundly.

"This is the plan as I have thought it out," Bob was saying. "After we have got the brig we will cruise to the eastward for a spell. The island I am after is not down on the chart. It is northeast of Trinidad and maybe 200 miles away from here."

"Don't Milner know?" asked the other.

"Never heard of it, but this is his first trip this way."

The men presently went about their business, but I made the pretense of sleeping soundly until called to relieve the other watch. I was all in a tremble over what I had heard and had no idea of what course I should take. While it seemed proper for me to go to the captain or mate with my information, the reader must not overlook the difficulties in the way. I planned a dozen different ways to reach headquarters, and that I didn't put the captain on his guard was his own fault.

One night during our watch he called to me to bring something from his room. Bob and his friends were forward at the heel of the bowsprit, and as I came out of the cabin the mate was at the water cask. As I reached him I whispered:

"I should very much like to speak to you or the captain, sir."

"If you don't get forward I'll speak to you in a way you'll remember for a year to come!" he growled.

No doubt he imagined I had some complaint to make, but if he had permitted me to speak it might have prevented the tragedy which followed.

A few nights later Bristol Bob called the mate forward, and shortly afterward he came to me and said:

"Boy, run down and tell the captain that the first mate is ill."

I found the captain sound asleep, but as soon as I had told him what I had overheard in the fo'castle and what I suspected had just happened on deck it was wonderful how coolly he took the exciting news. As he reached for his pistols he ordered me to bolt the doors of the companionway. The men stood at the entrance, and as they caught sight of me they stepped back, supposing the captain was following. I slammed and bolted the swinging doors.

The fellows cursed and yelled, and, though we could hear them moving around the decks from that time until daylight, they made no attack. Finally we heard some one working with an ax on the cabin door, and the captain made ready to fire a bullet through it. By some carelessness the weapon was prematurely discharged, and he received the bullet in his throat, dying a few moments later. I was so overcome and frightened now that the captain was gone that I hid in his stateroom, and the mutineers no longer had any one to resist them.

The first thing I knew it was night, and it was so very quiet that I knew there could be no wind outside. I crept out into the cabin, but everything remained as I had left it. For two hours I listened for sounds from the deck, but heard nothing and finally fell asleep. I was aroused by men dropping into the cabin through the skylight. They belonged to the Scotch whaler Bruce, which was lying near by and had had us in view since daylight.

The mutineers had taken the longboat and abandoned the brig, which was driving at her own sweet will. And to this day no one of the men has ever been heard of. No doubt they met with some accident and all perished at sea.

Like most oriental cities, Bagdad looks her best from a distance. You miss the filthy, narrow streets where two horses can hardly walk abreast and behold a vision of luxuriant date groves, out of which rise little islands of green domes and graceful minarets.

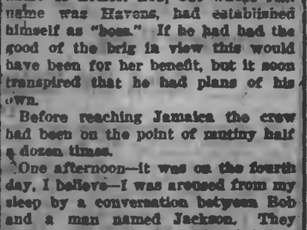
Women on Farms.

Girls and women have taken up work on the farms in several places in Australia in order to help to bring as great an area as possible under crop. Some have accomplished a tremendous amount of work, but perhaps the most remarkable record is held by a child living in the south of the Pinnaroo district, in South Australia. This season she has cultivated 300 acres and drilled 200. She spent her tenth birthday while drilling. She glories in her work, and is never happier than when among the horses. She is very independent, and always yokes her own team, although she is not tall enough to manage the blinkers.



WHY Does Your Head Ache?

Headaches, sick or other kinds, don't happen to people whose livers are busy and whose bowels are as regular as a clock.

Thousands of folks who used to have headaches say this is the way they removed the cause:

HELGOLAND.

They shaped you free, in a wild north sea—the trolls of the ancient day—
For a pirate war; and oft when Thor, athirst for a fiercer fray,
Had sailed at gloam from the fiords of foam, he sought Helgoland Bay!

He saw the fights, in the northern nights, where the tide-torn reefs were bare;
They gave him boot of a viking loot —of weapons fashioned rare;
And they built him fane—both Norse and Dane—on the blood-bought islet there.

And, drinking deep in the robber keep, the god of thunder swore—
By blistered bones on the altar stones!—that the harsh Helgoland shore
Should be the base of a pirate race to the great forevermore!

The Northmen slept where the wide winds wept above the barren beach,
But the ralder bands of other lands made port in the rocky reach.
While the driftwood burned to ash, you learned, again, of your mother speech!

And still, by night, when the reefs are white, there steals a predal prow
To surface rest on the harbour breast—for, such was the war-god's vow;
A pirate hold in the days of old and a hold of pirates now!

Says Cream Applied in Nostrils Opens Air Passages Right Up.

Instant relief — no waiting. Your clogged nostrils open right up; the air passages of your head clear and you can breathe freely. No more hawking, snuffing, blowing, headache, dryness. No struggling for breath at night; your cold or catarrh disappears.

Get a small bottle of Elys Cream Balm from your druggist now. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic, healing cream in your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage of the head, soothes the inflamed or swollen mucous membrane and relief comes instantly.

It's just fine. Don't stay stuffed-up with a cold or nasty catarrh.

NO SEPARATE PEACE.

The very first thing that we ought to do is to request the privilege of adding our national signature to the agreement of the Entente Allies to make no separate peace.

We ought to do this both as a matter of honour and fairness to them and as a matter of expediency and safety for ourselves. Consider for just one moment the desperate situation we should be in if, before we have an army or a day's supply of ammunition for our ships, Germany should offer the Allies everything they asked and England and France should make a separate peace. With Germany thus left free to deal with us who would pay her war cost of five or six billions and what would our Monroe doctrine be worth?—Rochester Express.

AUSTRALIA'S LLOYD GEORGE.

Another Welshman Who Rose by Persistence, Industry and Service.

The Lloyd George of Australia is the newly-elected premier, William Morris Hughes, a Welshman who went out to the big island 39 years ago and has just bee made Prime Minister of the province.

Until he was about 10 years old William Morris Hughes knew but little English, but when he had acquired a better knowledge of that language he became a devoted student of it through the medium of classic works—the Bible, Shakespeare and Dickens. Before he was 20 he was obliged to earn his living as a state school teacher and, his health having suffered from the strain, he went to Australia.

This step he took in 1884. For the next 10 years his life was a succession of struggles to find work, keep it, and retain his health. He was at various times a boundary rider or ranch hand, a railroad freight station hand, a shed-builder, a posthole digger, a vineyard helper, an employe in different capacities on coastwise steamers and a driver, and once he tramped 600 miles in search of employment, only to be disappointed.

An illness finally turned him to seeking his fortune in the city of Sydney, where he had to peddle books, mend umbrellas, and do almost anything else which came to hand. At this stage he became a Socialist and single taxer—the latter from hearing lectures by Henry George, who was then on a tour of Australia and reading Mr. George's work, "Progress and Poverty."

Upon the formation of the Labor party in New South Wales as a separate entity, Mr. Hughes threw his whole soul into the movement and he may quite properly be said to be a founder of the party as it exists in Australia to-day. In 1894 Mr. Hughes was elected a member of the New South Wales legislative assembly and he soon gained a reputation as a trenchant speaker and hard worker. It was during his service in this body that he introduced and had passed the Early Closing Act.

In 1901, when the first elections were held for the government of the forthcoming commonwealth, Mr. Hughes was elected a member of the House of Representatives by a constituency in Sydney which is composed mostly of wharf laborers. Mr. Hughes was admitted to the bar in 1903 and in 1904 he rose to cabinet rank. This was in Australia's first labor ministry—that of J. C. Watson. He was Minister for external Affairs during the short life of the Watson Government, but on the labor party's again coming into power, in 1908, he became Attorney General. This position he has held in every successive labor cabinet and he does not expect to relinquish it now that he has become Prime Minister by the action of the labor caucus, which is to say he will assume the duties of both offices.

Prisoners Who "Do Their Bit."

The war has brought about a decrease in crime in the United Kingdom.

There are not nearly so many people in prison now as there were in times of peace. Indeed, in August, 1914, no fewer than 13,580 people were behind prison bars; in March last there were only 9,188.

Even those who are left in durance vile seem anxious to do their bit for the country. Numerous articles were required quickly for the use of Tommy and Jack at the Front. The prisoners put their backs into the work, and turned it out in record time. As a reward the Government allowed them to be made acquainted with the progress of naval and military operations once a week.

From the outbreak of war up to May 1st last, 340 inmates of Borstal institutions who had previously served in the army were released to enlist. Thirty-five of these were later promoted to be non-commissioned officers, sixteen were killed or wounded, and only seventeen committed fresh offences.

Indian Tiger Superstitions.

In India the people believe in very many old fairy tales.

One of these is that the ghost of a man killed by a tiger rides on the head of the beast that slew him to warn him of danger and to guide him to new victims.

It is declared that Providence provides for the tiger's daily wants to the amount of one rupee (two chillings) a day; that is to say, if a tiger kills a calf worth six rupees he will not be allowed another victim for five days.

Eating the flesh of a tiger is supposed to give one great courage and alertness, but the whiskers must first be singed off the beast, or his spirit will haunt the man who fed off him, and he is likely to be turned into a tiger in the next world.

St. Bernard's at Gallipoli.

"The Red Cross St. Bernard dogs are a great help to us in finding the wounded, and it is remarkable how they know the dead from the unconscious. When they find a living man they give a low mournful howl to fetch us."

This is an interesting extract from a letter written by a nursing sister at the Dardanelles.

The letter continues: "We don't let them out till the battle is over, and sometimes we can't tell exactly where they have found the man, so when no one goes to them they come to us carrying the man's cap, which lets us know whether he is a Turk or a Britisher, and that lead us to the very spot."

Size of Cambodia.

Bishop Welldon, in his recently-published "Recollections and Reflections," tells the following:

"A governess once tried to give her pupils some idea of the relative size of distant countries by saying, 'Cambodia is about as large as Siam'; but when this information was reproduced in a written exercise, one of the girls put it in the words, 'She says Cambodia is about as large as she is.'"

Yesterday is gone; tomorrow may never come; today is short—get busy! —Youth's Companion.

Hatch Chickens Before May 1st

The poultryman makes his greatest profit from the chickens which are hatched before May 1. The early hatched cockerels are sold as broilers when the broiler market is at is best. The flood of late hatched broilers brings prices down and congests the market. The greater returns received from early hatched broilers go far toward defraying the cost of raising the pullets. These pullets in turn begin laying when eggs are bringing the highest prices and when there is the greatest shortage of strictly fresh eggs.

Still more important, early hatched chickens grow more rapidly than those hatched late in the season and are much less likely to become sick. The late hatched chickens always are the first to catch cold and spread disease throughout the flock. Chickens hatched late in the year will not mature before cold weather and usually will not lay until well into the winter or even toward spring. This means that they will have to be fed and carried over for several months at a constant expense, with no return, and this at a time when feed is at its highest.

The early hatched pullets can be developed to a large extent on range, and a saving in grain feed is possible in this way.

The highest producing pullets are those which begin laying early. To get into the 200 egg class a pullet must lay 60 or more eggs before March 1. In order to do this, pullets must be hatched before May 1, so that they will begin laying by November 1. In the section of the country north of the Ohio River it is advisable to begin hatching not later than March 1 and to continue hatching at intervals through March and April, so that pullets of different ages will be coming on and the broilers will not all be ready for the market at the same time.

The American breeds (Plymouth Rocks, Wyandottes, Rhode Island Reds, &c.) should be hatched earlier than the Mediterranean breeds, such as the Leghorns, Minorcas, &c., because they take about one month longer to mature. Pullets of the American breeds will begin laying at about 7 months of age and those of the Mediterranean breeds at about 6 months.

It is often difficult to get enough broody hens to set the eggs early. This may be partly overcome by setting the earliest eggs in an incubator and putting those eggs under hens a few days before they are ready to hatch. A hen usually can brood from one and one-half to two times as many chickens as she will hatch, so that additional chickens hatched in the incubators can also be given to hens which are hatching eggs at the same time.

Early hatching will produce more eggs in the fall and winter, while a larger proportion of hens will get broody early in the spring, thus completing the necessary circle for early fall egg production.

Early hatched chickens are by far the most profitable in every way.

DYSPEPSIA

MOST DIFFICULT TO CURE

BUT B. B. B. DOES IT

Dyspepsia is one of the most difficult diseases of the stomach there is to cure.

You eat too much; drink too much; make the stomach work overtime. You make it perform more than it should be called on to do. The natural result is that it is going to rebel against the amount of work put on it. It is only a matter of time before dyspepsia follows.

That forty-year-old remedy, Burdock Blood Bitters, will cure the dyspepsia, and will cure it to stay cured as we can prove by the thousands of testimonials we receive from time to time.

Mr. Neil A. Cameron, Kiltarlity, N. S., writes: "I am writing you a few lines to tell you what your great medicine Burdock Blood Bitters has done for me. I was troubled very much with dyspepsia for the past two years. I was recommended all kinds of medicines, but they did not help me any. At last a friend advised me to try a bottle of B.B.B. I took four bottles and was totally cured. I will gladly recommend it to all sufferers."

THE KING'S HOUSE ON FIRE.

LONDON, April 5. — A Cape Town despatch says: A special session of the Basutoland Council, convened to discuss the High Commissioner's appeal for native war labour overseas has been concluded satisfactorily. The appeal embodied a scheme for the recruitment of native labor controlled by the Basutoland Council. The Basuto Chiefs and Councillors offered their services, and the paramount chief ordered the other chiefs to tour the country, directing the natives to prepare for European service. Speaking in the council he dwelt on the prosperity of the Basutos, and declared:

"As King George's house is afire it is the duty of good firemen, including the Basutos, to quench the flame."

Twitching of the Nerves, Headache and Indigestion

Would Lie Awake For Hours Unable to Sleep—Cure Came With the Use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

Peterborough, Ont., March 7. — These are trying times on people who are naturally nervous and easily worried and excited. On every hand you hear of nervous prostration and nervous collapse. Sometimes the result of overwork and the worry of business cares and again on account of the depressing influence of war news and the anxiety for those who are in danger.

Never has there been so great demand for treatment to restore the exhausted nerves and never has Dr. Chase's Nerve Food so thoroughly proven its efficiency in this regard.

Mrs. C. French, 104 Lansdowne street, Peterborough, Ont., writes: "I was troubled with nervousness, sleeplessness, frequent headaches, and indigestion. For many years I was troubled with a twitching or fidgety feeling about my limbs after retiring, causing me much loss of sleep. If wakened up out of my first sleep, even had I been asleep only five minutes, I would lie awake for hours and could not get to sleep again. Any sudden noise or a door slamming would set my nerves going and I would fear that something dreadful was going to happen. I had tried different remedies for this trouble, but without success. A friend asked me one day why I didn't try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, so I thought I could at least give it a trial. I secured some and commenced using them, and found they benefited me so much that I have taken fully a dozen boxes. My nervousness or fidgety feeling in the limbs is entirely cured. I can now eat and sleep well. I can recommend Dr. Chase's Nerve Food strongly, and would advise any one suffering from nervous trouble of any kind to use them according to directions."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, a full treatment of 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Do not be talked into accepting a substitute. Imitations only disappoint.

BANANAS ARE DELICIOUS-BAKED

What fruit is it that's yellow when it's green? If the general public knew the answer to this conundrum the banana wouldn't have the reputation it has of being an indigestible fruit.

One of our surest and wisest food authorities, Professor Mendel of Yale, mounted the banana as a hobby, and rode up and down the platform briskly when questioned on the subject at a public meeting.

Two great mishaps befall the banana. Because it happens to be yellow when it is green non-tropical folk not accustomed to its home habits eat it when it is pretty, before its starches have turned to sugars. Then if starch digestion is difficult for them and especially in the case of children, there is trouble, although the banana is the king of fruit when it comes to providing solid food.

When you eat a pineapple you get 89 per cent. of water and 9 per cent. of starches and sugars, totalling about 200 units of heat and energy It is practically a wholesome beverage in disguise.

But the banana has about 14 per cent. more nutrition and over twice the fuel value, if you can burn it in your body-furnace successfully.

Wait for the banana skin to turn nearly black, says the expert. You can do it if you buy bananas by the bunch or "hand," keeping each banana in the sealed sanitary package that Nature made it. If you let the dealer twist off the single fruit and open up the "package," then decay may set in before the proper ripening takes place.

You can bake a banana when it is yellow and unripe with delicious and wholesome results; but if you are going to eat it raw wait till its complexion is ruined. And if you are going to bake them, try these recipes, taken from reliable sources:

BAKED BANANAS—1.

Remove skins from six bananas and cut in halves lengthwise. Put in a shallow granite pan or on an old platter. Mix two tablespoons melted butter, one-third cup sugar, and two tablespoons lemon juice. Baste bananas with one-half the mixture. Bake twenty minutes in a slow oven basting during baking with remaining mixture.

BAKED BANANAS—2.

Pull down a section of banana skin and loosen the pulp from the rest of the skin; remove all coarse threads and replace the fruit in its original position in the skin; bake half a dozen bananas, so prepared, in a hot oven until the skin is blackened and the pulp is softened. Take the pulp from the skins without injuring the shape and dispose on a serving dish in half circles, brush over with half-melted currant jelly, or a hot sauce and sprinkle with fine-chopped nuts. Lemon sauce is appropriate with this dish.

BAKED BANANAS 3.

Select rather underripe bananas; put them in a hot oven without removing the skins and bake until the skins burst. Serve at once in a folded napkin with butter.

The Biggest Problems in most homes are fuel and service. When the servant leaves and the fuel is low, happy is the housewife who knows Shredded Wheat Biscuit, the whole wheat food that is ready-cooked and ready to eat. With these crisp little loaves of baked whole wheat the housewife may prepare in a few moments a delicious, nourishing meal at lowest cost.

ISHMAEL OF THE FOREST.

Life and Death Secrets of Megaleep, the Wanderer, Told by a Hunter.

One of the most interesting of the larger animals ranging through our northern forests here in Canada is the caribou. His Indian name, Megaleep, means the Wandering One, and it is rightly given. Of all baffling, uncertain creatures of the wood to mislead a frantic hunter Megaleep seems to be the most adept in the art among the big fellows. This is not so much due to his instinctive sense of cunning as to his apparently aimless wandering nature. He is here, there, everywhere, except where the hunter expects to find him. Then, too, he is as changeful as he is restless in his disposition. At once, he is shy and bold, solitary and gregarious; restless as a cloud, yet clinging to his feeding grounds, in spite of wolves and hunters, until he leaves them of his own free will; wild as a bird, yet impelled through curiosity to approach closely, even to his undoing—truly, Megaleep is the most fascinating and the least known of all the deer family.

Among the few who through very love of it have made a special study of the habits of such wild animals in their most remote haunts is William J. Long, who tells in a charming way the secrets of Megaleep's life and death, especially the latter, which is so peculiar as to excite one's greatest amazement. Mr. Long writes in part as follows:

Megaleep belongs to the tribe of Ishmael. Indeed his Latin name, as well as his Indian one, signifies The Wanderer, and if you watch him a little while you will understand perfectly why he is so called.

There is another curious habit of Megaleep; and this one I am utterly at a loss to account for. When he is old and feeble, and the hitherto tireless muscles will no longer carry him with the herd over the wind-swept barrens, and he falls sick at last, he goes to a spot far away in the woods, where generations of his ancestors have preceded him, and there lays him down to die. It is the caribou burying ground; and all the animals of a certain district, or a certain herd, will go there when sick or sore wounded, if they have strength enough to reach the spot.

All animals, when feeble with age, or sickly, or wounded, have the habit of going away, deep into the loneliest coverts, and there lying down where the leaves will presently cover them. That is why one rarely finds a dead bird or animal in the woods, where thousands die yearly. Even your dog, that was born and lived in your house, often disappears when you think him too feeble to walk. Death calls him gently; the old wolf stirs deep within him, and he goes away, where the master he served will never find him. And so with your cat, which is only skin-deep a domestic animal. And so with your canary; in death alone he would be free, and beats his falling wings against the cage in which he lived so long content. But these all go away singly, each to his own place. The caribou is the only animal I know that remembers, when his time of separation comes, the ties which bound him to the herd, winter after winter, through sun and storm, in the forest where all was peace and plenty, on the lonely barrens where the gray wolf howled on his track; so that he turns, with his last strength, from the herd he is leaving to the greater herd which has gone before him—still following his leaders, remembering his first lesson to the end.

How was his resting place first selected and what leaders searched out the ground? What sound or sigh, what murmur of wind in the pines, or lap of ripples on the shore, or song of the veery at twilight made them pause and say, "Here is the place?" How does he know, he whose thoughts are all of life and who never looked on death, where the great silent herd is that no caribou ever sees but once? And what strange instinct guides Megaleep to the spot where all his wanderings end at last?

A Drastic Optimist.

An English lord, well-known from some years residence in Canada and now at the front, is the author of one of the brightest and most comprehensive war sayings of any on record. This young lord—whom we shall not name, though he is personally known to many in this part of the country—wrote a letter not long ago to one of his relatives in this country. He is with one of the Guards regiments and therefore cannot be suspected of writing war "bon mots" in an arm chair in somebody's villa behind the lines. More than likely this lithe-limbed young aristocrat, with the pink cheeks gone to a bronze hue, was sitting on a cracker box when he penned or pencilled the following terse observation that is worth crystallizing into a song:

"Well, if we keep on killing the Huns as we've been doing of late, I hope the war will last a jolly long while, for we shall do the job all the better before we finish."

There is a philosophy of optimism born of experience in this sentence that should be copied into every recruit's scrapbook.—Canadian Courier.

Ahrens Picture for Patriotic League.

Mr. Carl Ahrens, the gifted Canadian painter, has given his beautiful picture, "The Willows," to the Toronto Women's Patriotic League to be disposed of for the benefit of the objects they have at heart. The gift is made jointly with Mrs. Ahrens, and is their way of doing "their bit." "The Willows," which is 24 x 32 inches, was to have been taken to Belgium with the Mercer collection of Mr. Ahren's works, for exhibition there. It had been intended by Brigadier-General Mercer, before war intervened, to exhibit this collection in England, Holland, France, and Belgium. "The Willows," which shows this exquisite painter of landscape at his best, was originally valued at $3,000, and should yield a large return to the Patriotic League.

Beware so long as you live of judging people by appearances.—La Fontaine.

EDUCATION OF CHILDREN.

New York Commercial: When the sight of a young mother with her child in her arms ceases to please the eyes of men the human race will have entered its last generation. The New York Commercial is not a proper or a convenient form for the discussion of sex problems, but nothing can change the injunction to multiply and replenish the earth. If it be true—and the evidence is all that way—that the graduates of our higher institutions of learning, especially those for the female sex, do not reproduce themselves, these echoes are unworthy of support. The welfare of the nation and the race will not be advanced by the development of super-educated neuters.

If Stomach Hurts Drink Hot Water

"If dyspepsia, sufferers from gas, wind of flatulence, stomach acidity or sourness, gastric catarrh, heartburn, etc., would take a teaspoonful of pure bisarated magnesia in half a glass of hot water immediately after eating, they would soon forget they were ever afflicted with stomach trouble, and doctors would have to look elsewhere wor patients." In explanation of these words a well known New York Physician stated that most forms of stomach trouble are due to stomach acidity and fermentation of the food contents of the stomach combined with an insufficient blood supply to the stomach. Hot water increases the blood supply and bisarated magnesia instantly neutralizes the excessive stomach acid and stops food fermentation, the combination of the two, therefore, being marvelously successful and decidedly preferable to the use of artificial digestants, stimulants, or medicines for indigestion.

THE CENSOR'S HUMOR.

Manchester Despatch: A soldier recently writing home to his people described ho who had been buried alive for a couple of hours in a demolished dug-out but eventually he was extricated by his comrades. He added by way of consolation: "I had the satisfaction of sending five of the Germans to H——." The Censor in passing the letter, had drawn a line through the sentence, but wrote underneath: "It is not permitted to refer to the whereabouts of the enemy."

THE BRITISH ADVANCE STEADILY CONTINUES

CANADIANS STILL IN THICK OF FIGHTING

British Smash Is Unchecked Canadians Are Still Advancing

Field Marshall Haig's Official Statement To-day Reports Further Progress--Big Push is Going On Over a Front of Fifty Miles and Attack on Apex of German Line Has Already Penetrated Five Miles East of Arras---Canadians Repulse Counter Attacks.

WHOLE OF VIMY RIDGE FIRMLY HELD

SPECIAL TO THE EXAMINER:

LONDON, April 11.—Field Marshal Haig's smashing blows carried him still farther forward against the Germans to-day. The capture by British forces of the Village and Heights of Monchy Le Preux and La Bergere was announced in an early despatch from him to-day.

"Satisfactory progress is being made elsewhere," General Haig declared. "The battle front situation is developing generally in accordance with our plan."

Monchy Le Preux lies at the southern extremity of Vimy Ridge, and the Heights of La Bergere are just adjacent. The smash by which these new positions were gained puts the British line another half-mile southeast of Arras in the direction of Cambrai. The territory northeast of St. Quentin is being swept clean of German forces as the British encircling movement goes on.

(By Perry Arnold, United Press Foreign Editor.)

NEW YORK, April 11.—Vimy Ridge, the prize of the Canadians in the Haig spring offensive, was still more firmly clenched in the fist of the British blow at the German line to-day. Battle front despatches, official and unofficial, gave hint of tremendous effort by the German commanders to dislodge the British from this position of dominating strength. They likewise indicated complete success by the British in repelling these attacks and a hint of the tremendous power in the British offensive was evidenced by the continued advance to north and south of the slope itself in face of this violent German defence. The British line, according to Field Marshal Haig's report, and the United Press front despatches, has now reached a point five miles to the east of Arras, where it seriously menaces the German grip on the Lens-Arras-Douai coal field. The depth of this penetration of the German line hints at the actual breaking of the German line.

CANADIANS TOOK 3,600 PRISONERS ON RIDGE

Bag of the Maple Leaf Army Corps Included 720 Officers, 23 Guns, 70 Machine Guns and 40 Trench Mortars—Are Steadily Advancing

SPECIAL TO THE EXAMINER:

(By William Philip Simms, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES AFIELD, April 11.—In freezing blustry weather, with bursts of blinding snowstorms, the British smash continued to-day, attacked by fiercest resistance from the enemy.

On the blood-soaked crest of Vimy Ridge alone it was established by count to-day that the Canadians had taken 3,600 prisoners including 720 officers and 23 guns. Included in this number were nine guns of heavy calibre. The booty from the defeated Germans also included seventy machine guns and about forty trench mortars.

Elsewhere along the line where General Haig smashed his men forward three corps of British troops took 7,294 prisoners, including 170 officers. They also seized 86 guns, 18 trench mortars and 84 machine guns.

The top of Vimy Ridge is now attained and firmly held. The British were systematically clearing out the snipers. In the villages farther ahead on the lower steps the steady pounding of field guns searching out such nests of the enemy continued instantly. Bad weather made no difference to-day to the strength of the "big push." Elated by their victories, confident of their superior strength, and secure in the perfect co-ordination of all arms of the service, the British and Canadians poured forward in waves, steadily encroaching on the German-held land, and as steadily eating it away from the enemy.

The Canadians' hold on Vimy Ridge of bloody memory grows stronger each hour despite the desperate effort of the enemy to dislodge them. Counter attack after counter attack was repulsed during the night and to-day. Through the whole forest covering the northern slope of the ridge to-day British patrols were actively pressing on. From the plain beyond the ridge the Germans feverishly served their guns, directing shells at all parts of the forest in the hope of checking the onward rush of the Maple Leaf army corps. Field Marshal Haig's crimp in the German line reached a depth of five miles east of Arras to-day. With this sweep forward the strength of the British offensive increased with each battering of the enemy line. The push to-day was pressing along the entire fifty miles of battle front.

BUENOS AIRES, April 11.—Argentine to-day formally "recognized the justice" of America's declaration of a state of war against Germany, but announced her strict continuance as a neutral.

PARIS, April 11.—The War Office to-day decided that the Lafayette Air Squadron, composed almost exclusively of American aviators, in the future will be permitted to wear the American army uniform, and on their airplanes will be painted the American flag.

LONDON, April 11.—Foreign Secretary Arthur J. Balfour is about to leave for Washington on a special mission, according to official announcement to-day. During his absence Lord Cecil will act as Foreign Secretary.

WASHINGTON, April 11.—The House Naval Committee to-day reported favourably a bill giving the President authority to take over all ships in time of war. Married men serving in the National Guard, having families depending upon them will be discharged whether they wish to serve or not, according to an order issued by the War Department to-day. This probably means a gradual conscription of all single men without dependents.

BERLIN, via London, April 11. — Repulse of British attacks "with heavy losses" to the enemy on both sides of the Arras-Cambrai road, was claimed in to-day's official statement.

TO FEED ALLIES WILL BE AMERICA'S FIRST WAR STEP

Millions of Acres Will Be Cultivated and Hundreds of Ships Built, While in the Meantime Hundreds of Thousands of Men Will Be in Training For Action in Europe

TO USE FOE'S SHIPS

Special to The Examiner.

(By Robert J. Bender.)

WASHINGTON, April 11.—"Feeding our allies" is to be this country's part in the great war for the present.

The mobilization of foodstuffs and providing arms by full naval co-operation for delivering them at the ports of Britain and France, is to be the extent of America's physical effort just now.

Meantime hundreds of thousands of men will be trained for action on European fronts as soon as they are fit and as soon as transportation facilities are available.

Millions of acres of land not now under cultivation are to be immediately put into use. Hundreds of ships will be built to carry foodstuffs to Europe. The German and Austrian ships taken in American ports will be hastily repaired for use, and while these supplies go forward to keep up the strength of the Allied fighters in the European trenches, America is to build and train her men later to relieve her fellow-fighters and help to drive home the victory. This will probably be six months hence, but it may be sooner.

Artistic Showing of Living Room Furnishings

A Beautiful as Well as Seasonable Window Exhibit by Richard Hall & Son

One of the most artistic groupings of living room furnishings ever shown in Peterborough is now on display in the large south window of Richard Hall & Son's. The window decorator has not only assembled every article in the window to best advantage, but has kept in mind the most perfect colour harmony throughout the whole window trim.

The handsome Anglo-Persian rugs, the rich velvet hangings in tans and Persian blue, and the luxuriously all-over upholstered furniture which is the work of the expert upholsterer employed by Richard Hall & Son—give an air of elegance and refinement to the tout-ensemble.

The two models, one with a silk jersey coat in beautiful shade of gold, the other in coral wool jersey, with with band of beige plush, are harbingers of the stunning styles of the spring and early summer fashions. There is also shown a luxurious Chesterfield and arm chair, done in invisible stripe shadow cloth, and another in a tobacco brown shade, attractive enough to add farther distinction to the tasteful display.

At this season of the year, when thoughts of early spring and the refurbishing thereof possess the mind of the householder, such window demonstrations draw attention, not only to the early spring fashions, but what the services of a skilled decorator can do to brighten the living rooms of the home. Richard Hall & Son undertake any manner of home decorating, and if you request a man will be sent to your home to offer suggestions and submit an estimate of cost.

1,500 ESTIMATE OF THE CANADIAN LOSSES

OTTAWA, Ont., April 11.—Eighty-nine Canadian officer casualties were sustained in the first day's fighting of the Canadians for the famous Vimy Ridge. This includes dead, wounded and missing, and the Canadian losses as indicated by the officer losses are considered here to be unprecedently light in view of the importance and nature of the action. The ratio of dead to wounded and missing is usually about one to five.

The number of casualties among the rank and file is not yet available for publication. Usually the rate of casualties among the men to casualties among the officers is about 20 to one.

It is estimated that the total casualties among the men for the first day does not much exceed 1,500. The wonderful artillery preparation is considered to be responsible for comparatively light losses. The names of those who have fallen in this splendid victory will be made public in the usual way, and the relatives or dependents will first be notified.

247th BATTALION MEN RECEIVED WARM WELCOME AT OTTAWA

Were Cheered by Their New Comrades on Their Arrival in the Capital and Are Now Comfortably Quartered and Making Friends---Final Draft to Go Saturday---To-day's Orders and General Military News.

Reports from Ottawa state that the drafts from the 247th Battalion were warmly received by the officers and men of the 235th on their arrival in the Capital, and are already comfortably quartered and busy in making friends with their new comrades. The first draft which reached Ottawa on Monday evening were heartily cheered by the 235th and the second draft which got in yesterday morning was also made to feel at home. The 235th have a good band and the members of the old 93rd band were warmly received by the musicians, who were overjoyed at the opportunity of securing such capable players who will be a source of strength to them, particularly as the band of the 235th has not had its final medical examination yet and will likely lose a number of its men when they are boarded. Only bandsmen who are physically fit for the front will be taken overseas, as when they reach England, now hands are broken up and the men become fighting material.

TO-DAY'S ORDERS.

Daily Orders by Lieut.-Col. C. H. Ackermay, Commanding 247th O. S. Bn., C. E. F.

Orders for Wednesday, April 11th, 1917:

SUBSISTENCE ALLOWANCE.—

Commencing April the 1st, 1917 subsistence will not be paid to Officers, N.C.O's and Men for the period they are absent with leave, (except sick leave). Auth: 3D. 26-5-14, April 5th, 1917.

Strictest attention is to be paid to this matter, in order hat no overpayments may arise.

DUTIES.—

Orderly Officer for Wednesday, April 11th, 1917—Lieut. R. W. Boyce.

Next for Duty, Thursday, April 12th, 1917—Lieut. F. J. Hayes.

A. E. BRITTAIN, Lieut. Adjt. 247th O. S. Battalion, C.E.F.

Pte. Norman Young, who was yesterday reported wounded, was a well known member of the 8th Canadian Mounted Rifles, leaving Peterborough on March 6th, 1915, with B squadron under Major Medd. Before the war Pte. Young was a member of the 3rd Prince of Wales Dragoons. He is the son of Mr. T. A. Young, of Smith, and is widely known.

Lieut. Milburn's Death.

The news that Lieut. G. Noble Milburn, late of the 93rd Battalion, and son of Mr. T. T. Milburn of Smith, had met his death at the front, was received with deep regret Thursday. Lieut. Milburn was the last officer of Lt.-Col. Johnston's unit to lay down his life in France. He was a most popular with the officers and men of the 93rd and by none was held in higher esteem than by the Chemong Indians, who were members of his platoon. Lieut. Milburn, who was born in Smith, was living in Calgary when he heard the call of King and country, and decided to join the colours with the battalion from his home county. He qualified at the School of Infantry, Kingston, at the same time as Lieut. Payne, who also joined the 93rd and was drowned in the Otonabee river last May. The two joined the 93rd Battalion at the same time and Lieut. Milburn was sent to Lakefield, where he did successful recruiting duty under Capt. Bygott. He was a keen, zealous officer, anxious to get to the front and to play his part in the big adventure there. When the 93rd reached England Lieut. Milburn was transferred to a Western Ontario battalion at the front. He had been in France about six months when he met death.

The bereaved family will have the sympathy of a wide circle of friends.

Special to The Examiner:

OTTAWA, April 10.—The names of "military prospects" throughout the Dominion to the number of 100,000, have already been substituted to the Militia Department by the National Service Commission. These "prospects" do not include millwrights, tool setters, miners or farmers, nor men with more than three dependents. The majority are unmarried men or widowers without dependents. The names are sent by the Militia Department to the various local headquarters. Recruiting officers are then at liberty to approach the men designated and to urge them to recruit. It is pointed out here, however, that there is no compulsion attached to these notifications as voluntary service is still in force, but it is believed recruiting will be facilitated.

Sergeant-Major Calladine, of the 93rd Battalion, wishes to thank the ladies of St. Andrew's Church for the parcel he received on March the 19th, and also the pair of socks.

Sergt. T. C. Jay of the 93rd Battalion has arrived home on a short furlough here, having been sent to Canada as an escort for a number of invalided soldiers. His many friends were glad to see him again.

The last draft of the 247th Battalion will likely leave for Ottawa on Saturday. The Coe Hill detachment arrived last evening and they will go down in Saturday's draft along with the orderly room staff and other details. A medical board is being held at four o'clock this afternoon.

ARRAS VICTORY A STAGGERING BLOW

Teutons Sustained Tremendous Losses in Men, Guns and Positions—Over 11,000 Prisoners and Over 100 Big Guns Taken

CANADIANS' TRIUMPH

War Correspondents' Headquarters, April 10.—The Battle of Arras is the greatest victory we have yet gained in this war and is a staggering blow to the enemy. He has lost already nearly 10,000 prisoners and more than half a hundred guns, and in dead and wounded his losses are great. He is in retreat south of Vimy ridge to the defensive lines farther back, and as he goes our guns are smashing him along the roads. It is a black day for the German armies, and for the German women who do not yet know what it means to them.

During last night the Canadians gained the last point, called Hill 145, on Vimy ridge, where the Germans held out in a pocket with machine guns, and this morning the whole of that high ridge which dominates the plains to Douai, was in our hands, so there is removed from our path the great barrier for which the French and ourselves fought through bloody years.

Enemy Wiped Out.

Yesterday, before daylight and afterwards, I saw this ridge of Vimy all on fire with the light of a great gunfire. The enemy was there in strength, and his guns answered ours with a heavy barrage of high explosives. This morning the scene was changed as by a miracle. Snow was falling and blowing gustily, across the battlefields and powdering the caps and helmets of our men as they rode or marched forward to the front, but presently the sunlight broke through the storm clouds and flooded all the countryside by Neuville-St. Vaast and Thelus and La Folie Farm up to the crest of the ridge, where the Canadians had just fought their way with such high valor. Our batteries were firing from many hiding places, as was revealed by short, sharp flashes of light, but few answering shells came back, and the ridge itself, patched with a snow drift, was as quiet as any hill of peace.

Deadly Menace Ended.

It is astounding to think that not a single German stayed up there out of all those who held it yesterday, unless some poor wounded ones still cower in the great tunnels which pierce the hillside. It is almost unbelievable to me, who have known the evil of this high ridge month after month and year after year, and the deadly menace which lurked about its lower slopes, yet I saw, proof below, where, of all the Germans who had been there at dawn yesterday, thousands of them were now in our lines, drawn up in battalions, marshalling themselves, grinning at the fate which had come to them, and spared their lives.

Canadian Attack Astounding.

The Canadian attack yesterday was astounding, successful, and carried out by high-spirited men, the victors of Courcelette, in the battles of the Somme, who had before the advance an utter and joyous confidence of victory. They went away at dawn, cheering and laughing, through the mud and rain which made scarecrows of them. They followed close and warily to the barrage of our guns, the most stupendous line of fire ever seen, and by 4.30 they had taken their first goals, which included the whole front line system of German trenches above Neuville - St. Vaast, by La Folie Farm and La Petite Wood, and up by Thelus, where they met with fierce resistance. The German garrisons were for the most part in long deep tunnels, pierced through the hill as assembly ditches. There were hundreds of them in the Prinz Ar-

BOARD OF EDUCATION MEMBERS ATTENDED TRUSTEES' CONVENTION

Once More Reminded of the Government's Encouragement to Technical Schools—Hamilton's Experience

VITAL QUESTION HERE

With renewed impressions of the importance of vocational training Messrs. Vincent Eastwood, A. A. Fowler and Dr. Neal of the Board of Education returned last night from the annual convention of the Ontario Trustees Association held in Toronto. At the University buildings yesterday afternoon, they listened to an address on this subject by Mr. D. L. Sprague, Principal of the Hamilton Technical School. He related the results of the work in that city and of its growing importance in the providing of boys, and girls, too, who have taken the vocational training work. In the schools they are fitted practically to step into the work shops. Boys and girls between the ages of 14 and 17, who are working in factories, can be compelled to give half their time to technical schools in cities that have opened them. Advocates of vocational training deplore the fact that in the public school curriculum practically the entire day is devoted to mental work with a result of leaving the children dull and less interested than they should be.

It was once more urged yesterday that municipalities of the Province are not taking advantage of the Government's inducement to the establishment of technical schools. The Provincial Board of Education will pay for the equipping of an industrial school and also half the salaries of the teachers. In the discussion following the address Mr. Eastwood suggested that this opportunity should be made compulsory instead of remaining optional to local Boards.

It is known that the Peterborough Board of Education will be visited by a delegation in the near future to urge the provision of facilities for vocational training in this city.

Evidence Of A German Plot

Four Arrests Have Already Been Made in Connection With Eddystone Explosion

SPECIAL TO THE EXAMINER:

TRENTON, N.J., April 11.— Mrs. Annie Keating of this city, this afternoon gave the Federal authorities information which on its face apparently proved that the great Eddystone munitions disaster was caused by a carefully laid plot. On March 14, while en route to Pottsville, Pa., she saw a man drop an envelope in Broad street station, Philadelphia. He was lost in the crowd before she picked it up, found it unsealed and discovered inside a note: "All ready to blow up Eddystone. Send us help." On a sheet of white paper enclosed was a sketch of League Island navy yard and a rough drawing plan of Chester, Pa. Four arrests have already been made.

A RESOLUTION OF CONDOLENCE

The Executive committee of the West Peterborough Conservative Association met last evening and among other things completed arrangements for the mass meeting that will be held in Peterborough on April 17th. A resolution of condolence to Mr. T. T. Milburn, of Smith township, whose son, Lieut. Milburn, was killed in action, was adopted at the meeting. Mr. Milburn is a member of the Executive committee.

THE HOME ARMY.

The many young men who have not felt a call to overseas military service, or were prevented by deference to the claims of home responsibilities, or other legitimate considerations, now have a chance to take a part in the war, if only by proxy, by enlisting in the Home Defence forces. This will not entail going out of the country, nor into the stern life of fighting on the battle front. We are now sending a large proportion of our enlisted soldiers overseas for active service; and they and others already in the fighting ranks will feel better towards their countrymen at home if they know that the latter are taking their places in the home defence lines. We have, since the war, had an adequate number of home defenders, in the enlisted regiments of whom several thousands were from time to time always in the country, and could have been called upon in case of emergency to fight at home.

While a home defence force in that form or some other has been necessary since the war began, it is now more than ever necessary. For two reasons: Because of the departure of expeditionary forces from the country, and because of the added menace arising from the entry of the United States into the war, a circumstance which will arouse the large element of alien enemies in that country, who if they are sternly repressed there, may seek an outlet for their malignity in raids upon Canada. By enlisting for home service, young men who are for, perhaps, legitimate reasons, prevented from enlisting for active service, will be virtually doing so, because the mobilization of an effective home defence force, will permit of sending every soldier enlisted for foreign service overseas to take his place in the fighting ranks. The home service presents attractive conditions. The young married men who enlist gain separation allowances for their wives the same as if they had joined the expeditionary forces. Every member of the home defence army will be as real a soldier as if he were fighting in the strenuous battles now raging on the western front. When we read of the gloriously gallant work done, and now being done, by our Canadian soldiers on the front, when we hear the highest military authorities, the best judges of good fighting, applaud the courage, dash, steadiness and winning work of Canadian soldiers, we should have a new pride in the country that produces such men and feel it a duty and an honour to share in its defence—to share its defence for the Canadian soldiers now winning victories in France are as virtually defending Canada's highest interest as will be the home guard that enlists to defend its actual soil.

ACTIONS, NOT WORDS, NEEDED.

The public temperance meeting held in the Public Library last night was, or should have been, unnecessary. The meeting was, as announced, held "to discuss the advisability of enacting national prohibition or submitting the question to the popular vote."

It was unnecessary, because the advisability, the wisdom, the duty, the righteousness of enacting national prohibition of the liquor traffic is indisputably self-evident. Since Canada with all its soul entered into this war, the government and people's representatives, and the people solidly behind them, have applied or sanctioned and approved every measure to contribute to the highest efficiency of Canada's participation in the war—except the main means, the prohibition of the liquor traffic. This, by deterioration of the national physique and morale goes far to neutralize the preparation represented by the expenditure of many millions, besides with-drawing millions from employment, by the waste of food articles and manhood, which might be profitably employed to provide real material and moral efficiency.

In this view the Government should not have hesitated a moment—should not now hesitate a moment to adopt prohibition of the traffic, if only as a war measure. It should do this because it is a right thing to do—if Canada is to do her best. We do not need a plebiscite on the question; nor need to defer to public opinion, which, judging by its expression in the form of prohibitory legislation in the most of the provinces would approve of Dominion-wide prohibition. Besides, the government could adopt general prohibition on the same principle Ontario has done—as a war measure—leaving it to popular judgment when the war is over or likely to be ended.

The government has no more need to wait for expression of public opinion in a plebiscite, than it had in adopting any of the vigorous war measures it has done, independently of concretely expressed public opinion—by government fiat or by vote Parliament. The country needs general prohibition of the liquor traffic now, without waiting for the prolonged work of taking a national referendum. The government knows its duty and temperance meetings to bring pressure to bear upon the government to do its duty, would be very much to the point. Wasting time and complicating them in discussion of settled and acknowledged facts, and accepted principles, tends to emphasise or create the shiftiness, the subterfuge, the evasion, the delay and main fides that characterize the crookedness of German diplomacy. What is needed, in the interests of Canada, in the interests of the cause of Canada, the Empire and the world as represented by the meaning of the war in actions, not words.

HOW TO GET GOOD HIGHWAYS.

Yesterday the fourth annual Canadian and International Good Roads Congress opened in Ottawa, and was attended by scores of prominent good roads enthusiasts. Although, apart from the material exhibits of road-making machinery, etc., the proceedings will consist necessarily of talk, yet this is one of the most important gatherings possible, and affects the greatest and gravest interests of the country, good vehicular transportation; more important than railways, steam or electric, for they are merely the clearing house for country highways.

While there will be much constructive controversy, there will be no necessity of arguing the importance of good roads as a municipal or provincial or national asset of incalculable value. The best that can come out of such congress is to arouse the spirit of action and get things going in the way of doing practical work.

It is to be hoped that Ontario will be stimulated to greater road construction. We are fond of belittling Quebec in the matter of recruiting, and other things; but Quebec shows the way, Quebec holds the record in Canada for good roads. That province has spent more than 17 million dollars in building highways, and this year 5 million dollars have been appropriated for maintenance. Quebec has built over 2,600 miles of permanent roadways, and in regard to her highways generally she excels any other province in her possession of one of the highest tests of civilization—good roads.

If we could get at the figures of the amount spent or misspent on alleged road construction in Ontario, we should be astounded at the aggregate amount as well as the immense waste that contributes such barren results as are shown in the general character of the highways of the province.

The chief cause of this waste is the prevalent statute labour system which, on the lucus a non lucendo principle, chiefly owes its title as a system to its utter and wasteful lack of system.

What is needed is more concentration of executive authority in the matter of highways. The present government Highways organization is good as far as it goes, but it does not go far enough; its function is too restricted, its scope of operation too limited, the amount of money it spends is too small.

We shall never get the best results in provincial road construction till we have the work systematized, and made a part of the public service—exclusively under proper conditions of plan and control.

The government or a properly constituted commission might take charge of the construction and maintenance of highways. The government has the responsibility of the construction of colonization roads; why not in a modified form, extend its responsibility to all, or at least, the principal highways of the province?

The application of a consistent principle and the adoption of a constant standard for highways, can only come from a properly constituted and financed central authority.

And the financial part of such a general scheme would be comparatively easy. We are paying one mill on the dollar war tax; that yields about two million dollars a year. This tax is not felt to be burdensome, and would be less felt generally, if it took the place of statute labour or commuted statute labour. Two million dollars a year would build 500 miles of first class permanent highway —at $4,000 per mile; and if a similar amount were added from the general revenue of the province (Quebec votes 5 millions a year for maintenance money 4 millions would insure construction of 1,000 miles of first class highways every year.

This is a matter that seems entirely practicable and feasible. We should, with the suggested provincial system, spend less money and get better results; for money would be systematically, scientifically and efficiently expended.

The prompt adoption of such a policy would not only bring big results but if promptly adopted help solve the problem of finding employment for the large numbers of men who at the close of the war will be seeking a place in the ranks of the labours of peace.

1000 BELL TELEPHONE POLES WENT DOWN

Good Friday's storm of wet snow followed by a gale of wind and rain provided just the combination to give the telephone and telegraph companies a maximum of trouble. From a few miles west of Toronto, northward to Lake Simcoe, eastward to Napanee along the front and also via Peterborough and Lindsay to Ottawa the havoc to telephone circuits was terrific. In the neighborhood of a thousand poles were down carrying with them their heavy copper circuits. Near Napanee there was one stretch of five straight miles where not a pole, loaded as they were with wet snow, could resist the fury of the storm.

Although telephone gangs from Toronto, Montreal, Ottawa and other centres were quickly on the ground the work of repairs, owing to the great congestion of express and freight traffic, has been very difficult. Materials of all kinds were never so scarce, but fortunately the Bell Telephone Company carries a big stock of such emergency supplies as rubber cable, copper wire, et ceters, so that the work of restoration has been speeded up as much as possible. But the storm has been an expensive one for the Telephone Company, whose chief concern has been the inconvenience to patrons.

SAVE but HOW?

You are daily admonished by Bankers, Cabinet Ministers, Judges, and by all the Press of the Country to save and be thrifty. In fact the stamps on our letters are cancelled by the admonition to "Save, Save, Save, etc."

Outside of the Bankers' Association who have recommended the Banks, very few other suggestions have been made.

Why has no person suggested or recommended the greatest thrift producer and the greatest anti-poverty Institution known to the Public?

For instance let us suppose two thousand men at say age 25 propose to test this principle for say twenty years and one half of them invest a small sum annually in a bank and the other thousand deposit an equal amount annually with this anti-poverty institution. Now if I can show you that those who deposited with the anti-poverty institution not only received more than those who deposited in the bank, but that the anti-poverty institution paid to the beneficiaries of the unfortunate depositors who were unable to continue their payments the large additional sum of $150,000.00 which the banks kept for their stockholders, would that interest you?

The banks are all right, but if I can show you that this anti-poverty institution not only gave better security and actually gave better returns, but in addition they gave a Bond that if anything unforeseen such as death, happen you, they would protect you and your estate to any extent desired, would it interest you?

The above facts can be verified to you by calling at, 'phoning or writing the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, 403 Water Street, and such action on your part places you under no obligation whatever

PRESERVE OUR REST DAY

Rev. R. G. Peever Appeals For the Preservation of the "Rest Day"

Mr. Editor,—I was greatly surprised by your Editorial, "Sunday War-Time Work," and the article in your issue of last evening, on the subject, "Production and Sunday Farm Work", by Farmer.

I do not wish newspaper controversy, but I submit your teaching is unwise and wrong when you plead for more work on farm or in factory, on the Lord's day. This is protected as a rest day by the Lord's Day Act, as given to the Canadian people by the law of Canada.

I may say I know farm life, its rush, demands and hardships thoroughly. I take issue with "Farmer" and deny that the wheat crop of 1915 was largely destroyed owing to the fact that it was illegal to work on Sunday. True, there was difficulty and some loss in some parts in saving, due to the wet season, just as last year I saw hay unsaved in the fields in August, because of the very abundance of the crop. Moreover I know of certain farmers who in 1915 went out in fear and drew in grain on Sunday afternoon, whereas on Monday and Tuesday they had the very finest harvest weather. There is always a measure of gain or loss to the farmer, just as there is to the business man.

The plea of increased production on farm or in factory does not obtain, when it runs contrary to great fundamental laws of life, being and production itself. It is a physiological and scientific fact that neither man, beast nor machinery can produce continuously above a certain limit, without the rest of the night and the Sabbath. And it is proven that when man violates these laws, in himself, or through beast or machinery, his efficiency fail; the result of his labour is decreased instead of being increased, and loss instead of gain is the net outcome.

Mr. Editor, you admit this fact when you state that "no man and no animal can do their best work and maintain physical fitness without one day of rest in seven," and your excuse for "work of necessity" can not apply, when you defeat the very purpose of your effort by this supposed work. I am not pleading for men to go to church and worship, though that is a fundamental of life, but I am pleading for the "Rest Day," which is in keeping with the highest and best in every man in giving him a chance to produce. I am pleading for the law of the land, which is a law of God. I have seen the open Sunday in the United States and Europe, in which every man largely becomes a law unto himself; interpreting the Sabbath on the ground of his own expediency and personal necessity, and I hope "God save our land from losing our Sabbath law, even under the stress of war conditions!"

"Farmer" amusingly suggests that "the hired man can rest on Sunday while the farmer works." Yes, it was said in the Parliament of Toronto last week, in the discussion of the very question of increased farm production, that "hired help" now go to the farms for "rest cure," while the farmer toils from 4.30 or 5 a.m. to dark. Can he do more? I know that the statement "war emergency" has its place, but I maintain that this very statement, as a cover, is to-day hiding a multitude of sins, which even already are coming forth to rebuke us as a people, and the people that are forewarned will be forearmed. If the war profits, above 6 p.c. on capital invested, were taken over by our government as they ought to be, there would be less Sunday work and greater output. If Lloyd George in England nearly two years ago, commanded that all government munition factories close on the "Rest Day," because he found that it meant a better feeling and efficiency among the workers, and greater output in production, surely in Canada the cry of "war emergency" cannot obtain as a cry argument for increased Sunday labour.

There are hundreds of good honest men working against their conscience every Sunday, under the supposed pressure of "necessity for increased production," whereas in fact it is in obedience to the gain and greed of man for war profits.

Winning the war is more than raising more potatoes, or more hogs, or even piling up munitions. We are in this war to the death, because of the moral ideals of life, humanity and future civilization. Because war is hell and our armies fight at the front on the Sabbath, is no reason why we should let loose "hell" at home.

All our people need greatly, in these times, the emphasizing of spiritual values, and the question is when this war is over, shall we have saved the soul life of our people out of the wreck for future moral reconstruction.

And, Mr. Editor, I for one, will object to Magistrate, Press or Church advocating the cancelling of the "Lord's Day Act," especially when such action will defeat the very object we seek to attain.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

DOMINION WIDE PROHIBITION AS A WAR MEASURE ASKED OF THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT

Local Temperance Works Are Linked Up With Great Movement That is Developing For the Suspension of the Traffic While the Country is at War—Resolution to Government.

A resolution urging the immediate enactment of Dominion wide prohibition or an early referendum on the question before June 1st was unanimously passed at a largely attended meeting of the city's most active temperance workers in the Public Library assembly hall last night. Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., stated that he was greatly disappointed at the attendance. He had hoped to get the opinion of a large number of the citizens. In other words he desired objective evidence of their demand. "From this attendance I certainly cannot consider that a mandate has arisen," he said.

Immediately the fighting spirit of the temperance lieutenants flared up in resentment of what they regarded a depreciation of their representation. Mr. H. B. Cowan, Rev. J. R. Webb and other members stated that the meeting of temperance workers was one of the largest in their experience in Peterborough. It was pointed out that during the local option campaign the meetings had been no larger than this, but they had expressed and they knew they were expressing the temperance hopes of the majority of citizens.

The assembly hall was more than two-thirds occupied by the most earnest and active spirits in Peterborough's temperance forces. They are now linked up with the Dominion-wide movement for prohibition throughout the whole of Canada and behind them in Ontario is a greater appreciation of the benefits of liquor prohibitory legislation than there existed previous to the passing of the provincial law. It was strongly stated last night that in view of the scarcity of food stuffs, for the success of the present legislation and for the further safeguarding of the resources of this country during the period of the war that the Dominion government should not hesitate to provide, at once, Dominion-wide prohibition or enable the people to express their desires through a referendum.

Mr. Burnham reminded the audience of the condition of provincial autonomy within the Dominion, and of the objections to interference from Ottawa. Confederation was formed on the understanding that provincial rights were to be conserved in provincial matters. The Dominion government has said to this province that it can have everything that will strike at the existence of liquor if the people want it, Mr. Burnham said. If they want to interfere with the other provinces they can do so on one condition that the people of those provinces want it. "We have kept saying to the temperance people, 'why don't you get the provincial legislature to go as far as they can and when they have expressed the opinions for those provinces we at Ottawa will see what is necessary for us to do to supplement the provincial measures and make them work out perfectly.'"

"No one objects to a referendum," continued Mr. Burnham, "but the Dominion government does not want to act unconstitutionally. The government of Ontario had recently insisted two resolutions without consulting the people, apparently showing that the people do not want to be consulted."

In conclusion Mr. Burnham indicated his attitude when he [illegible] discussion of provincial rights and federal interference, "If all you want is a referendum, I'll say no more. I'll vote for that."

Question of Attendance.

Mr. G. W. Powell stated that Mr. Burnham would receive many petitions from the temperance people of this city which he should consider apart from the attendance at this meeting.

"Of course if this were a hockey meeting it would be largely attended," was Mr. Burnham's comment that caused the passing contretemps.

Rev. R. J. Webb remarked that this was but one of a large number of meetings that were being held.

Mr. Burnham said he regarded it a failure.

"If Mr. Burnham chooses to call this meeting a failure his judgment is not the judgment of this meeting," retorted Rev. Mr. Webb, evoking a round of applause from the audience.

Mr. Wm. Leader asked Mr. Burnham if he regarded it as advisable in view of the shortage of food to conserve the grain that is being wasted in the manufacture of liquor.

Mr. Burnham answered that he favoured the suggestion if it were an emergency.

Mr. Joseph Wearing, Mr. H. B. Cowan and Mr. A. B. Cunningham supported the statement that the meeting was a large and representative one. Said Mr. Cunningham: "How can a man go from this meeting, this community and this province and not demand that something vital be done. The legislation we ask for is a war measure. Parliament has the power to act on a war measure. We would rather not be represented at all than be misrepresented. There is no question where public opinion stands on this question. We don't want everything else to stand still while the Provincial Parliament is moving. It is up to Mr. Burnham apart from what he thinks to go down to Ottawa feeling that this city and province wants a war measure enacted that will give the people of the Dominion prohibition while the war lasts."

Rev. R. G. Peever.

"There is a desire to keep the prohibition question out of Federal politics, but in my judgment it can't be kept out," said Rev. R. G. Peever, representing the Ministerial Association. "But we got to the door of the Legislature and were going to knock at the door of Ottawa. We will not be content until there is absolute prohibition of the liquor traffic in Canada. There is a clause in every provincial act in Canada that refuses to touch the manufacture in and importation of liquor into the province. It admits that the province has not that power. But the Doherty Act clearly states that the province has that right to prohibit manufacture and importation and that the Dominion government will protect the province. But expert legal opinion differs on both sides. If the province went the whole way it would doubtless be held up by two or three years of litigation." This was one of the principal reasons, Rev. Mr. Peever stated, for appealing to Ottawa for a war measure of Dominion wide prohibition.

"Many of us are wondering when the liquor contracts in the Review are going to run out. It is time they ran out. The churches are asking this, and some of us are wondering if something was not "put over us." We thought there were no liquor contracts when the paper went under the new management. We want the Conservative press to get in line with the party."

Mr. G. A. Gillespie.

"I have at all times cast my vote in favour of temperance and as far as the government could go," said Mr. G. A. Gillespie, M.P.P. As your representative I will do all I can to bring about total prohibition in Ontario. There is not a man who would ask that the bars be re-opened when he sees the improvement that has developed."

The Resolution.

The following resolution, moved by Mr. H. B. Cowan and seconded by Mr. Geo. W. Powell, was passed unanimously:

That whereas the Dominion Prohibition Committee of Canada having waited upon the Government at Ottawa for the purpose of securing a Federal Prohibitory Law on the following lines—

Re Dominion Prohibition

(1) As a war measure. Legislation which will prohibit the manufacture in, and the importation into the Dominion of Canada of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes, and the sending or carrying of any such liquors into and the delivering or receiving of any such liquors in any province or area in which the sale of such liquors for beverage purposes is prohibited; or

(2) The alternative. If it is deemed desirable to have a vote of the electors on the question, such Act shall, if approved by the majority of the electors voting, be passed to come into operation within three months thereafter, such voting to be at the earliest possible date, and in any case before June 1st, 1917.

Re Interprovincial Trade.

And whereas the highest legal opinion states that under the British North America Act the Provincial Legislatures are unable to enact a prohibition act which would interfere with interprovincial trade, and whereas each of the eight provincial legislatures has safeguarded its prohibition act by the insertion of such a clause which permits such trade, and whereas the opponents of prohibition have taken advantage of this clause and prevented the act having the greatest possible success. Therefore we believe that earnest efforts must be made through the Parliament of Canada to amend our laws in this direction.

And whereas the Doherty Act was enacted in aid of provincial legislation prohibiting or restricting the sale or use of intoxicating liquors, therefore we suggest the amendment of the same to meet the present need along the following lines.

(1) The discontinuance of the privilege of the mails to carry liquor circulars into homes in provinces where the beverage sale of liquor is prohibited.

(2) The making an offence of newspaper advertising of liquors by firms outside a province under prohibition in papers of that province.

(3) The proper addressing and labelling of packages containing liquor for persons in a province under prohibition and forwarded by any common carrier must be specifically required under our laws.

Mr. C. H. Shields, representing the W.C.T.U.; Mr. Kittlewell of the Dominion Alliance and Mayor Hall were included among the speakers.

Arras Victory A Staggering Blow

nault tunnel, and hundreds more in the great Volker tunnel; but as the Canadians surged up to them, with wave after wave of bayonets, the German soldiers streamed out and came running forward with hands up. They were eager to surrender, and their great desire was to get down from Vimy ridge and the barrage of their own guns. That barrage fell heavily and fiercely upon Tuqo trench, but too late to do much damage to our men, who had already gone beyond it.

Canadian Losses Light.

The Canadian casualties are not heavy in comparison with the expected losses, but the German prisoners are glad to pay for the gift of life by carrying our wounded back. The eagerness of these men was pitiful, and now and then laughable. At least the Canadian escorts found it a great laughing matter, in the enormous numbers of men they had to guard, and in the way the prisoners themselves directed the latest comers to the barbed wire enclosures and with great satisfaction acted as masters of ceremony to their own captives.

I have never seen such cheerful prisoners, although for the most part they are without overcoats, and despite the cold blizzard of snow, they were joking with each other, and in great humour because kite, with all its hardships, was dear to them, and they had the luck of life. They were of all sizes and ages and types. I saw elderly bewhiskered men with big spectacles, belonging to the professor tribe, and young lads who ought to have been in the German high schools. Some of their faces looked very wizened and small beneath their great shrapnel helmets. Many of them looked ill and starved, but other tall, stout, hefty fellows who should have made good fighting men if they had any stomach for the job. There were [illegible] officers, standing apart. The Canadians took over 200 of them, among whom were several forward observing officers, very bad-tempered with their luck, because the men had not told them they were going to bolt, and had left them in the front positions.

All the officers were disconcerted because of the cheerfulness of the men at being taken. I talked with some of them. They told me of the horrors of living under our bombardment. Some of them had been without food four days, because our gunfire had boxed them in. "When do you think the war will end?" I asked one of them. "When the English are in Berlin," he answered, and I think he meant that would be a long time.

Another officer said, "In two months," and he gave no reason for his certainty. "What about America?" I asked one of them. He shrugged his shoulders and said, "America can't send an army across the ocean." At this statement the Canadian soldiers standing around laughed loudly and said, "Don't you believe it, old sport. We have come along to fight you, and the Yankees will do the same."

Canadians Do Quick Work.

By 3 o'clock in the afternoon yesterday the Canadians had gained the whole of Vimy ridge except the high, strong post on the left of Hill 145, captured to-night. Our gunfire had helped them by breaking down all the wire, even round Heroes' Wood and Count's Wood, where it was very thick and strong. Thelus was wiped utterly off the map.

This morning Canadian patrols pushed in the snowstorm through Farbus Wood and established outposts on the railway embankment. Some of the bravest work was done by the forward observation officers, who climbed to the top of Vimy ridge as soon as it was captured, and through a sea of heavy barrage reported back to the artillery all the movements seen by them on the country below. In spite of the windy day our flying men were riding the storm, signalling to the batteries, who were rusing up their field guns.

"Our 60 pounders," said a Canadian officer, "had the day of their lives." They found many targets. There were troops massing on the sloping ground, and they were scattered. There were guns and limbers on the move, and men and horses were killed, in addition to all the prisoners taken yesterday by the English, Scottish and Canadian troops.

Enemy's Losses Frightful.

The enemy's losses were frightful, and the scenes behind his lines must have been and must still be hideous in the slaughter and terror. I have not time to-night to tell the full story of the battle of Arras, of all the great fighting on the right, where it was very hard, in Blangy, and onward toward Feuchy. On this side the Germans fought most fiercely, and our men were held up at Chapeel redoubt and other strong points until our gunfire knocked out these works and made way for them. Fifty-four guns were taken here on the east side of Arras, and to-day the pursuit of the beaten enemy continues.

London, April 10.—To-night's British official report reads:

"Our operations have been continued energetically to-day in spite of heavy snowstorms and generally unfavourable weather. We have reached the outskirts of Monchy-le-Preux, five miles east of Arras, and have cleared Farbus and Farbus Wood.

"Hard fighting took place again this afternoon on the northern end of Vimy ridge, in which we gained further important positions and took a number of prisoners and machine guns.

"In the direction of Cambrai we advanced our line north of the village of Luvereal. Such counter-attacks as the enemy attempted at different points along our front met with no success.

Great Booty Captured.

"The number of prisoners taken since the opening of our attack yesterday morning now exceeds 11,000 including 235 officers. We also captured over one hundred guns, among them a number of heavy guns up to eight inches calibre; sixty trench mortars and 163 machine guns.

"Our aeroplanes performed valuable work yesterday in cooperation with our infantry, and, in a number of cases, inflicted casualties with machine gun fire on hostile reinforcements. Bombing expeditions were also carried out, in which a number of hits were obtained upon a large railway station utilized by the enemy.

"As a result of the air fighting three German aeroplanes were destroyed and four others were forced down. One of our machines is missing."

Life Insurance And Farmers' Credits

The farmer's need of insurance is indicated in the following remarks of Mr. Vere Brown, Superintendent of the Canadian Bank of Commerce for the Central Western Provinces:

"Practically every farmer admits the necessity for insurance against fire, and yet it happens altogether too often that farmers suffer serious losses through neglect to take out a fire policy.

"There are still many farmers who are unwilling to insure against hail, but as experience has shown that practically no district in the Prairie provinces is immune from hail, it is now becoming the practice of banks to stipulate for hail insurance when lending money for grain growing.

"Life Insurance, however, is rarely carried by farmers, notwithstanding that the welfare of a farmer's family is quite dependent on his life, as is the case with a business man. The farmer bankers who go a step farther and make a moderate amount of life insurance a condition of credit will be a benefactor to the farming community."—Insurance Chronicle.

CHILDREN SAW UNCLE TOM

Your Ladies' Auxiliary wish to extend the thanks of this Society to Mr. Webber Turner, manager of the Grand Opera House, for having treated the orphan children to reserved seats to Uncle Tom's Cabin this afternoon. Will the Secretary kindly acknowledge.

Yours respectfully,
MRS. W. H. GIBBS.

QUESTION OF POLICY.

Mr. Spence opened the way to a discussion of the method of procedure in the admission of children to the Shelter. Speaking as the Agent for the Society he said there was a difference of opinion regarding the operation of the Child Protection Act. The reception of children who were termed "boarders" was not a procedent of his creation. In 1916, 60 per cent. of th echildren were not "neglected." Twenty-one out of forty-six had been accepted on account of the illness of their mothers. In 1914 fifty per cent. were not neglected. Mr. Spence stated that he had repeatly sent a neglected child to the Shelter but it had been refused by the matron on the authority of Chief Howard.

According to the Act, Mr. Spence continued, after a child had been sent to the Shelter by the agent it had to be kept there one week. It should then be returned to its parents or taken before the Magistrate for the purpose of being made a ward of the society. In this case the mother was an unmarried girl who couldn't support her baby. "What else can I do when I see a child is neglected? In the eighteen years that Mr. and Mrs. Henry had charge of the Shelter a child was never turned away." Mr Spence added that not only was the child to be considered, but in this case the mother also.

"The Act does not define the age of neglected children. Are we to be unique in that respect and place an age limit on them?" Mr. Spence stated that in 1914 a baby, six months old, had been admitted.

He cited the Society at Sault Ste. Marie which he said received illegitimate children. "It is the duty of the Children's Aid Society to see that these children are cared for, whether we like it or not." Mr. Spense added that he was supported in this opinion by Mr. J. J. Kelso, of Toronto.

A RULE OF THE SOCIETY

Chief Howard explained that four years ago the Society had passed a resolution that no child under two years of age should be admitted. The last two matrons had been engaged on that understanding. A provision of money had been made to the girl. Mr. Spence referred to, and besides she was at home with her parents, hence it could not be said that this child was neglected. "Why should we load the Shelter up to the roof with children who can be properly cared for," asked the Chief.

The Society's funds were low and should be restricted to the care of children who were actually neglected.

Mr. Spence replied that probably he sought an ideal condition, but he could trust the Almighty to see that the Society, having regard to the nature of its work was not short of money. If children under two years were not received the only course was to open a new home for these babies.

Rev. Mr. Peever and Rev. Father Phelan suggested that a decision for future guidance should be arrived at in order that there should be no misunderstanding in these particulars.

"The less severe the rule the better it should be" advised Rev. Mr. Peever who added that he did not regard the Shelter as the foundling home.

Mr. Wearing—It is not a home for illegitimate children. That is up to the municipality.

Mr. Spence—The man in this case gave $100 to the girl to prevent criminal proceedings, but it was soon spent. It remains with the Magistrate to decide whether the child should remain at the Shelter or not. Mr. Kelso said that the Society was held responsible for the mother and child. "He blamed me for not taking in both the mother and the child," said Mr. Spence.

Adjutant McElhiney remarked that in the past the Agent had always received his instructions from the Secretary.

Mr. Peck—We have the right to say who shall be admitted to the Shelter, and by whom. Mr. Spence feels that he should be allowed send them there without further consideration. If he were not to have a free hand then to whom should he be responsible.

Adjutant McElhiney submitted that the method adopted in the past and regarded as a precedent held the Secretary responsible to the Board and the Agent responsible to the Secretary.

Dr. King referred to recent experiences in his practice as a reason for the Board's defining its future policy, especially in regard to young babies.

Rev. Father Phelan moved seconded by Mr. Edgar that the President name a special committee to discuss this question and report back to the Board.

TO-DAY'S WAR NEWS

LONDON, April 11. — Stewart Lyon, special representative of the Canadian Press in Flanders, cabling to-day, says: The victory of the Canadians in the battle for Vimy Ridge is much more complete than the first reports indicated. The only point which remains obscure this (Tuesday) morning, is the position on Hill 145, for the retention of which the enemy fought with the utmost determination on Monday afternoon. The final total of prisoners may reach 4,000 prisoners to the Canadian troops alone.

To a young Texan who came to Ontario to enlist and who is now lying wounded in the hospital belongs the honour of first carrying the American flag into battle in the European war, into which the United States as a belligerent has just entered. He went up to the assault carrying the Stars and Stripes on his bayonet and fell thus.

PETROGRAD, April 11. —Russian troops beat back German attacks at two points on the eastern front, the War Office announced to-day.

"During the night," the statement said, "a big enemy party dislodged a patrol guard in the region of Vulka Porskaia, occupying our front trenches. We drove them out.

"In the region of Herchkoves after artillery fire, the enemy forced his way into the trenches of our patrol guards but was unable to hold the positions.

New Arrest in Murder Case

Special to The Examiner:

CORNWALL, Ont., April 11. — A fresh arrest in the St. Pierre murder case was announced when the trial of Emerson St. Pierre, on charge of shooting his father, an Osnabruck township well digger, on Feb. 8th, opened before Justice Lachford this morning. Mrs. William St. Pierre, widow of the murdered man, will be charged with being accessory after the fact. R. A. Pringle, K.C., Ottawa, in his address to the jury, said Mrs. St. Pierre was present when the body was buried in the cellar. He also hinted that Nettie Richmire, charged now with being an accessory after the fact, might be included as principal. The Crown, he said, would produce a witness who would swear Nettie had said that to save the neck of Emerson she would plead guilty to the murder, as she would stand a better chance of getting off than her lover. Emerson St. Pierre pleaded not guilty.

"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN."

Large audiences witnessed the afternoon and evening presentation of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," which was given yesterday afternoon and evening in the Grand Opera House. The afternoon matinee crowd was one of the biggest of the season, while the gathering in the evening was equally large and appreciative. "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is about as popular as a threering circus. Yesterday's performances were enhanced by an unusual galaxy of star performers. From the opening scene to the closing tableau the play presents one long round of interest. The specialties were excellent, and thoroughly in keeping with the high standard of the performance.

Don't Spoil Your Hair By Washing It

When you wash your hair, be careful what you use. Don't use prepared shampoos or anything else, that contains too much alkali, for this is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is just plain mulsified cocoanut oil, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap, and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

A LETTER FROM PTE. S. McCABE

Mrs. E. McCabe, 613 Union street, has received the following letter from her son, Private Sidney McCabe, who is now in France:

Dear Mother—Received your letter and was glad to hear from you. Everything is going Jake over here so far. How are things in Peterborough. The weather is fine over here. It is just like summer (the letter is dated May 10th.) I got a letter from you the other night which was written on October 9th. It was some time coming, wasn't it? I got about six letters this week. I received the box with the apples in.

They say the States is going to get into it. I hope they do; they might help to shorten the war. They all say we will be home for next Christmas. I hope so, for I am sick of France. Well, I guess I will close.

Your loving son,
SID.

Addresses were given by President R. A. Falconer, Hon. Dr. Pyne, Minister of Education for Ontario, and Principal Hutton, the outgoing president.

Dean William Pakenham was born in Ontario in 1866 and spent his early years in Peterborough. He is a gold medal graduate of the Ottawa Normal School, and an honour graduate in modern languages of the University of Toronto. For a number of years he was a public and high school teacher and between the years 1902 and 1908 was principal of the Technical School. The little motherless children thoroughly appreciated the kindness, and on account of the nature of the play returned very much subdued and thoughtful, living the play over in their minds ever since. The Sisters of the Orphanage have heard of nothing but the play from the little ones to-day, and the children of the Shelter were equally impressed.

FOWLER'S PEBLO GLASSES

NO MORE LOOSE GLASSES

When your eye-glasses are set in a pair of Dr. Fowler's screwless mounts, the old trouble of screws coming loose is done away with, and the danger of a lens falling out and breaking is avoided. In the screwless mount the lens is both locked and cemented firmly in place, and makes a strong, satisfactory job that gives permanent satisfaction.

Ask Dr. Fowler to show them.

Sugar, Lard And Potatoes Advance

Sugar advanced again yesterday, this time covering thirty cents. The general price is now about $8.75, but this is based on the present wholesale price, and not on what the grocers paid months ago. Having bought in at lower prices, many of them will give the advantage to consumers who won't appreciate it. If a grocer bought at $7.50 per cwt., and sold at $8.75 there might be more profit in the business than there is to-day. But if there were any who laid in a supply at $7.50, the majority of them may be depended upon to retail it on that basis and not on the advance.

Lard is up 1 1-2c wholesale and while selling at 30c now it is expected that the price will soon go to 35c. Corn Flakes, formerly 10c a box and often three for a quarter are now two for 25c.

Potatoes are firming up according to reliable advices. The passing of the season of frost has brought no greater shipments apparently. Strange, indeed, that frost did not hold up the countless bags of Canadian potatoes that were carried by rail and boat into the United States and Cuba. After all Barnum had the right idea and the dear old public remains the same fatuous, helpless, ununited mob that it was in his heyday—delighted to be humbugged. Instead of Barnums we have politicians in the places that both man and the Almighty intended for statesmen.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving remembrance of Robert E. Shera, who died April 11th, 1916.

A voice we loved is stilled;
A place is vacant in our home,
Which never can be filled.

GET GARDENS PLOWED NOW

It has been suggested that householders who intend to have their gardens plowed should arrange now with plowmen and get the work completed early. In other words avoid the rush that will begin in a week or more.

About being carried away with enthusiasm the worst feature is that we always have to walk back.

British and Germans Are Fighting a Fierce Battle in Open

The Hindenburg Line Is Strongly Reinforced

The British Forces Have Thrust Forward Two Formidable Wedges

Germans Are Counter-Attacking in a Desperate Effort to Stem the Advance—Tremendous Success Achieved by the Communication and Supply Services—Speedy Advance Has Not Out-distanced the Supply Transport.

GERMANS MASSING RESERVES

SPECIAL TO THE EXAMINER:

LONDON, April 12.—Stumbling forward over slippery hummocks or sticky mud holes in the most wintry April weather France has ever known, British troops were nevertheless, ramming their line further and further forward against the Germans to-day. The most desperate of all the bitter fighting that is marking the great push was apparently centring to-day north and south of the Arras-Cambrai high road. At Monchy Le Preux, to the north, and around Bullecort, to the south, the British have thrust forward two formidable wedges. To-day they were bringing enormous pressure to bear on the sides of these wedges to sweep the foe out of the intervening ground. It was against both these wedges also that the German troops were being thrown in constant counter attacks. The Germans apparently realized the danger in the wedge and the sweeping arm tactics under way by Field Marshal Haig.

One source of great pride in England to-day in the tremendous success so far achieved in the drive, was the extraordinary perfection of the British communication and supply services. Front despatches agree that despite unprecedented snows, high winds and bitter cold weather, the troops even in sections of their most speedy advance, had not out-distanced the supply transport.

Despatches to-day indicated the Germans were desperately draining other sections of the line in massing reserves to oppose further advances by the British.

Ontario Officer Killed in Action

SPECIAL TO THE EXAMINER:

LONDON, April 12—Lieut.-Col. E. Woodman Leonard, of the Canadian artillery of this city was killed in action in France.

BIGGEST JOKE OF SEASON.

Thus London Describes Kaiser's Easter Message.

LONDON, April 11.— The Kaiser's message urging the democratizing of Prussia after the war, is called one of the biggest jokes of the season. The British public does not see why it will be needed if Prussia is victorious, and knows that she will be unable to accomplish it if she is defeated.

A good listener learns constantly—and at the same time, impresses his associates with the idea that he knows more than he really does.

Release a Man to Fight in France by Enlisting in the

CANADIAN DEFENCE FORCE

"Of the troops which have volunteered for service overseas there still remain in Canada approximately 50,000. It is necessary that the country should not be left without an adequate force for home defence in case of emergency.

Canada has every reason to be proud of her sons who have taken such a noble part in winning the war, and their deeds of valor have been recounted time and time again, and now, when the British Empire is struggling to maintain its existence and to secure Liberty and Justice for the world, it is Canada's duty to do still more.

In order that the 50,000 troops of the Canadian Expeditionary Force, at present serving in Canada, may be released for active warfare, an appeal is now made to the manhood of Canada for an equal number of men to volunteer for home defence by joining the active militia. An opportunity, is, therefore, now afforded to those who have been prevented from undertaking service overseas to join this movement of active service for home defense."

SIR EDWARD KEMP,
Minister of Militia and Defence.

The men of the Canadian Expeditionary Forces held in Canada as an adequate safeguard, are needed NOW in France for what Sir Robert Borden says is "the most critical period of the war".

To release them Canada calls for men, physically fit, who for any reason cannot go Overseas, but are willing to serve at home.

Enlistment in the Canadian Defence Force is for One Year—or for the period of the war and six months after if required. Clothing, equipment and rations provided as in the C. E. F. Pay the same as that for Militia on active service, with Separation Allowance for married men.

Here is your opportunity to add one to the strength of our army at the Front by enlisting for service here at home. For full particulars enquire at Armories of the Regiments listed below.

MEN STILL REQUIRED FOR OVERSEAS IN THE CANADIAN EXPEDITIONARY FORCES.

More men are required for reinforcements at the Front. Those who desire to volunteer for Overseas service may enlist through one of the regiments ordered to mobilize for Home Defence.

NO LACK OF EVIDENCE RIGHT HERE IN PETERBORO'

To Prove the Remarkable Upbuilding Influence of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food—Two Good Reports To-day

PETERBOROUGH, April 12.—Day after day we are printing in this paper reports from Peterborough people who have been cured by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

There are in the meantime hundreds of other cases of which we never hear. But you will find that your friends and neighbours know about this great restorative treatment and have something good to say about it.

If you are skeptical, ask them what you may expect from its use. Then put it to the test. Use the Nerve Food regularly and you will soon find that weaknesses and disease are giving place to strength and vigor.

Mr. George Lee, 767 Water Street, Peterborough, Ont., writes: "I used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food some time ago when I was in a run-down condition, and found them to be just what I required to build up my system. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food also worked wonders for my wife. She had been suffering from nervousness and could not get a good night's rest. She would wake up at different times during the night, sometimes jumping right out of bed. She tried doctor's medicine without success and finally commenced taking Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. The first box helped a little, the second box benefitted her more, so she kept on taking them until she grew strong and healthy. She has recommended this treatment to many of her neighbors."

Mrs. Wm. Herron, 11 Conger St., Peterborough, Ont., writes: "I suffered from nervous, run-down condition, and was unable to get a good night's sleep. The least noise would waken me and then I would lie awake for a long time. Trivial matters used to worry me, and I did not seem to be getting any better. Through a friend, I was persuaded to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I commenced using this treatment, and am now feeling much better. I can get a good night's rest, my appetite has improved; the Nerve Food strengthened my nervous system and now trivial matters do not worry me as they used to. This medicine has done me so much good that I cannot speak too highly of it."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50c a box, a full treatment of 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Do not be talked into accepting a substitute. Imitations only disappoint.

Few People Know This

Large doses of pills for the liver are not as efficient as small doses.

The big dose purges its way through the system fast, but does not cleanse thoroughly.

The small dose (if right) acts gently on the liver, and gives it just the slight help it needs to do its own work, and do it well.

Take one pill regularly, until you know you are all right.

TO DEVELOP OIL FIELD.

D. A. Thomas Has His Eye on Great North-western Fields.

That shrewd fellow countryman of his whom Lloyd George sent over to Canada, to represent him in the buying of munitions of war, has other interests here that will mean a good deal for the Dominion, and, if everything goes well, for the Empire. D. A. Thomas, known in the business world long before the war as the coal king of Wales, has had his business eye upon Western Canada for several years past, and to such good purpose that developments are even now afoot from which much is expected.

The part of Canada in which D. A. Thomas is specially interested is the coal and oil belt of the Peace River and Athabasca countries. Some time ago he bought up a large block of land along the Peace River, comprising some of the best oil prospects in the whole north country, and the developments now under way are the second chapter of the story of which the skilfully-conducted negotiations for purchase of the areas were the first. Careful investigation had previously been made, of course, as to the nature of the lands and the probability of finding oil in them in paying quantities.

Five carloads of drilling machinery went to Peace River Crossing last August, and as soon as it was put together the drilling of three test holes was begun near the chutes on the north bank of the river. The plant has a drilling capacity of 2,000 feet, and well within that distance, it is expected, a good flow will be struck. As far back as 1875 Prof. Macoun, of Ottawa, made a favorable report on the oil riches of this district, and at various times since, in different parts of the adjacent country, promising discoveries of oil have been made.

It would be good business for the Thomas interests to develop their holdings in this oil belt of the north purely for the commercial possibilities in them; but there is another motive behind it all. Naturally enough, D. A. Thomas has not taken the general public very much into his confidence as to what he intends doing up there, but the general public knows several important facts, to begin with, and is free to draw its inferences.

For instance, it is known that Coal King Thomas had a contract with the British Admiralty to supply Britain's warships in the North Sea with coal. It is also known, as a matter of modern science, that the substitution of fuel oil for coal as the motive power on warships is being seriously considered nowadays, and that the new fighting ships will probably be built with oil tanks instead of coal bunkers. When this change is made it is reasonable to assume Mr. Thomas, as a good business man, will be desirous of holding his contract, and will wish to be ready to supply the new fuel when the demand for his coal has ceased. Therefore his present interest in the Peace River country, in and around which is one of the richest oil fields in the world.

Tumbling Spire in Wake of Retiring "Fighting Parson"

SIGNS, PORTENT AND EVIL OMENS FOLLOW ON THE RESIGNATION OF CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH PASTOR.

GREENWICH, Conn., April 10—That a bad omen is hovering over the Second Congregational Church, the wealthiest and oldest edifice here, because its pastor, the Rev. C. F. Taylor, better known as the "Fighting Parson," severed pastoral relations with the church January 1, is the opinion of some of its members today.

After a fire which destroyed twenty-five of the old church sheds on Tuesday, the eight thousand dollar scaffolding around the sixty thousand dollar church spire was blown down last night about midnight, causing damage to costly monuments and tombstones in the cemetery near by. One of these, a monument erected to the memory of the late Frederick Mead, which was designed by Stanford White, who took three years to complete it, is valued at $4,000. Other monuments and tombstones in the Mead and other plots buried under the debris are said to be ruined beyond repair. One corner of the church roof also is damaged.

The crash could be heard more than a mile distant, and residents living in the vicinity of the church were greatly alarmed.

Charles T. Wills, Inc., of New York had the general contract for taking down the spire, which was declared by experts to be unsafe. The work of dismantling was to cost $22,000. The Cheesebore-Whitman Company, of New York, are sub-contractors and will be responsible, it is said, for damage done. The spire had been removed as far as the bell deck.

This church stands on the highest point of land between London and New York. Its spire, 250 feet in height, has been a guide for seafaring men for more than half a century.

HAD AWFUL ATTACKS OF HEART TROUBLE
For 5 or 6 Years

Diseases and disorders of the heart and nervous system have become frightfully prevalent of late years.

One can scarcely pick up a paper but he will find recorded instances of sudden deaths through heart failure, or of prominent men and women unable to prosecute their ordinary business or profession on account of a breaking down of the nervous system.

We do not desire to unnecessarily alarm anyone, but to sound a word of warning.

When the heart begins to beat irregularly, palpitates and throbs, has shooting pains through it, it is time to stop and think.

To all sufferers from heart and nerve troubles Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills can give prompt and permanent relief.

Mrs. Frank Arsenau, Newcastle, N. B., writes: "I had awful attacks of heart trouble for the past five or six years, and as I had tried many kinds of medicine without getting any better I decided to give Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills a trial, and to my surprise I found ease from the second dose. I continued taking them until I had used six boxes, and now I feel as well as can be.

"At the present time my sister is using them for nervousness and finds great comfort by their use."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c or three boxes for $1.25 at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

382 YEARS AGO TO-DAY

To-day his descendant, Mr. J. Cartier of 2912 Clarke Street, Montreal, has been cured of eczema by essences of roots and herbs. These, however, instead of being crude as used by his ancestor, were prepared for modern use and put up in the form of Zam-Buk. Mr. Cartier, who is Justice of the Peace and Assistant Clerk of the Circuit Court of Montreal, says there is nothing that can compare with Zam-Buk for the treatment of skin diseases. He goes on:

"Allow me to express to you my gratitude for the benefit I derived from the use of Zam-Buk. It is the best remedy obtainable for eczema. I always keep it in the house as our family doctor; its healing and curative power is immense. I have no objection to my testimonial being published, as I wish everyone to know the high quality of Zam-Buk.

Zam-Buk is best, not only for eczema, but also for ringworm, ulcers, abscesses, running sores, old wounds, blood poisoning, boils, piles, burns, scalds, cuts and all skin injuries. All druggists or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, 50c. box, 3 for $1.25.

WRESTING CHAMP.

Alex. Charles Lovell, Agassiz, B.C., writes: "Seven of our nine children had whooping cough the same winter, but we soon put their cure to Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. We always keep it in the house, and recommend it as the best. I am a wrestler, and was formerly severely cursed of contracting piles by using Dr. Chase's Ointment."

"It's a great proposition," replied Mr. Meekton. "It has smashed all the arguments Henrietta used to give me about the precious hours I spent talking politics."—Washington Star.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

A Strange Revelation

By ELINOR MARSH

When John Dowling retired from the police, at a dinner given him he told the following story:

"Most of you will remember the Charnley murder case. After a month had passed and we had given out every day or so that we were on the track of the murderer and would get him sure the public began to lose confidence and the papers were full of scathing remarks about the police. An election for city officers was coming on, and the chief told me one day to drop everything else and work on the Charnley case, intimating that the administration's control depended on my discovering the murderer.

"I did a hard lot of thinking on the problem. Indeed, I began to fear that if I kept on I would run into monomemania. I walked the floor nights trying to put this and that together to construct a theory of the murder. So my wife put me in a room by myself where I could prowl without waking her or the children.

"One night after the usual brain racket I fell into a slumber. I don't know how long I slept, but I think it was about an hour. Then I woke up and started at seeing a man standing by my bed.

"'Come with me,' he said, 'and I'll put you on to an explanation of the Charnley murder.'

"I jumped out of bed, hustled on my clothes, strapped on my revolver—for despite my anxiety to get the information he promised I did not forget that he had come into my house without being admitted, and I was somewhat suspicious of him—and followed him downstairs. A horse and buggy were standing at the door. We climbed into the vehicle, the fellow whipped up the horse, and off we went.

"I was so impatient and curious to know what was coming that I tried to pump it out of him, but his mouth was shut like an oyster, and never a word did he speak from the time we started till we pulled up in front of the house in which Charnley's body had been found the morning after the murder. I knew it was that house, though I didn't know any one of the family of the murdered man. It had been shut up since the tragedy, but now there were lights in every part.

My companion signaled me to the house and, opening the front door for me, bade me enter. What became of him after that I don't know. I didn't see him again, unless one of the persons about whom I am going to tell you was he.

"Hearing voices mingled with sobs upstairs, I ran up and stood in an opening on the second floor, looking into a bedroom through an open door. On a couch lay the figure of a man, but a number of persons were crowding about him so that I could not see his face. A young woman was on her knees beside the couch, hysterically clinging to the body, while another woman was trying to draw her away. A man was standing apart, wringing his hands. I stepped into the room, and the moment he saw me he collapsed. The woman trying to draw the girl away from the body turned and, seeing me, uttered a shriek. Then she dropped on her knees before me, and between her sobs said:

"'Don't take him! He made a terrible mistake. Oh, why didn't I confide in him? Let me explain, and when you know how we suffer at what has occurred I am sure you will not add to our misfortune. This is my intimate friend'—pointing to the girl beside the couch. 'She was married clandestinely to the man who lies there. The marriage could not be published because her father would disinherit her. I permitted them to meet here. My husband was away and did not know. Hers was here this evening, and she was expected. My husband came home suddenly and found him here with me, waiting for her. Mad with jealousy, without giving us time to explain, he seized a heavy glass ornament and brought it down on the victim's head. Please go away from here and say nothing. We are the only ones who know of the tragedy.'

"I was thinking what I could say to the woman to make it easy for her—for I felt obliged to report the matter—when the lights went out and left me in darkness.

"I was awakened in the morning by my wife in my own room from a heavy sleep or stupor. I don't know which. She could only get me up by telling me it would be late in reporting. I managed to get into my clothes, swallowed a cup of coffee and went to headquarters.

"I thought the matter over that day and the next told the chief that I had failed to find a clew to the Charnley murder and advised him to keep feeding the public with stories of clews till after election and then let the matter drop. Now that I have unburdened myself I wouldn't mind hearing what you think about it."

"Who do you think was the man who took you to the house?" asked one.

"I don't like to say, but my suspicion is he was the murdered man."

"Did anything ever come out about the murder?" asked another.

"Not that I ever heard."

The consensus of opinion was that Dowling had thought so much about the Charnley case that he had dreamed it all.

A few years later a man on his deathbed confessed that he had killed Charnley by mistake through jealousy which was uncalled for.

DANDRUFF SOON RUINS THE HAIR

Girls—if you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

Directory First!

WHEN you call a telephone number from memory or when you guess at it you are apt to be wrong.

¶ The mind has a trick of transposing figures—instead of "1263" you are quite likely to say "1623."

¶ Also, telephone numbers, firm names, etc., are frequently changed.

¶ And when you thus ask for the wrong number, you waste your own time, the operator's, and the time of the person called through your error.

¶ Directory first is a good principle. In the end it saves time and temper to first consult the latest issue of the telephone book.

SERBIAN TOWNS FAVOUR REPUBLIC

President of American Russian Chamber of Commerce Tells of People's Joy.

NEW GOVERNOR GETS SHOCK.

PETROGRAD, April 4.—Charles H. Boynton, President of the American-Russian Chamber of Commerce, who arrived here today after a journey across Siberia, said that the revolution had been greeted with enthusiasm at every town through which he had passed. Twenty returning exiles, chiefly Socialists, were on board the train, and were welcomed by immense crowds at the various railroad stations. Military bands were parading everywhere, and speechmaking by revolutionary orators went on day and night.

Mr. Boynton said that the greater part of the crowd was composed of soldiers wearing the red badge of the revolution.

"I was impressed," he continued, "by the extraordinary unanimity of sentiment, expressed on every scale in favour of a republic. The news of the arrival of the exiles seemed to precede us, and at every station crowds clamoured for a sight of them and demanded speeches. One of the exiles, named Anisimo, a former member of the Duma, who had been ten years in the mines, responded most frequently, and, in fact, spent most of his time on the platform. The speeches of all the exiles breathed loyalty and patience. They asked everybody to turn in and help defeat the common enemy.

"An amusing story was told on board the train with regard to a former Governor who was also a passenger. He was a new appointee, and had just arrived at his post at the moment of the triumph of the revolution. He was met by a delegation which he supposed intended to welcome him. The Governor launched into an address declaring his intention to enforce the law strictly and rule with a firm hand. The delegation finally succeeded in interrupting him and informing him that he was under arrest in the name of the new Government. The Governor later pledged his allegiance, fastened a red badge in his coat and was on his way to rejoin his regiment, but apparently still failed to appreciate the new order of affairs.

After passing Ekaterinburg we entered the Government of Perm. I was struck by the fact that here the demonstrations ceased. I learned later that the Governor of Perm was a rabid reactionary and had suppressed the news of the arrival of the exiles."

Mr. Boynton reported that travel conditions were excellent and food abundant. He said that he had been told that an improvement was noticeable immediately the new Government took control.

WILLARD TO BE A LIEUTENANT

CHICAGO, April 10. — Jess Willard, the world's champion heavyweight pugilist, who in the opinion of his ring opponents, is an army in himself has sent the following telegram to President Wilson:

"I will fight; when do you want me?"

Immediately after Willard's patriotic offer became known in Chicago, Captain F. R. Kenny, the local recruiting commander, dictated a letter to "Big Jess" offering to aid him to obtain a lieutenancy in the officers' reserve corps in the United States army. Willard is now on his way to Norfolk, Va., but it is expected that he will be informed of Captain Kenny's offer en route.

WASHINGTON, April 9. — The Senate had its first taste of real war activity to-day. When Vice-President Marshall was signing the resolution which proclaimed the existence of a state of war between the Imperial German Government and the Government of the United States, some observers noticed two young ladies busily engaged in knitting military socks in the gallery reserved for the families of members of the Senate.

Investigation proved them to be Miss Elsie Calder, daughter of the Senator from New York, and Miss Sarah Murphy of Brooklyn, who was her guest. It was probably the first knitting that has been done in the Senate Chamber within the memory of the present members.

Had Bronchitis FOR YEARS

Bronchitis comes from a neglected cold and it, if neglected, will surely turn into pneumonia. The first symptom is a short, painful, dry cough, accompanied with rapid wheezing and a feeling of oppression or tightness about the chest.

The phlegm raised from the bronchial tubes is at first of a light color, but as the disease progresses it becomes of a yellowish or greenish color, and is very often hard to raise.

Dr. Wood's Norway is just the remedy that you require as it loosens the phlegm and heals the lungs and bronchial tubes

Mrs. Chas. Brean, Amherst, N. S., writes: "I was troubled for years with bronchitis, and could not find any relief. I was especially bad on a damp day. I went to a druggist and asked him for something to stop the constant tickling in my throat. He gave me a bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, which I found gave me instant relief. I think it is the best remedy for bronchitis that I know of. I now take care that I always have a bottle on hand."

"Dr. Wood's" is the genuine, put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark, price 25c and 50c.

LOCAL WEEKLY MARKET REPORT

Recent momentous changes in their position with regard to the war, coupled with pessimistic reports of the fall wheat crop in the United States, have excited the wheat and flour markets this week.

Fall wheat in Toronto was quoted at $2.02 as compared with $1.90 of a week ago.

The crop acreage in Ontario is reported to be 40 per cent. less than last year.

The farmers will also note that sugar has touched a new high level at a period that is usually marked by low prices. The entry of the United States into the war has thus far affected various commodity prices upward—and the end is not yet.

Eggs have slumped, touching 30c., and butter is easier.

The Toronto Sun discusses the dairy prices as follows:

MILK AT TORONTO.

Toronto dairies are experiencing a surplus of milk at this season and are said to be turning back shipments that come to them in excess of what their contracts call for. The dairies are not exactly cordial towards the proposal of milk production to sold out for $2 per can claiming that they can go beyond the district covered by the Association and buy at $1.80, in this way forcing nearby farmers to come down to their figures

BUTTER AT TORONTO.

This week a further reduction of 1-2 cent is to be noted in creamery butter at Toronto while separator butter remains firm. Good dairy butter is scarce but a considerable amount of storage creamery has been showing up. A year ago butter was scarce in April and prices were high. This year holders of storage butter have apparently been expecting repetition of the same situation and held butter to take advantage of the strong market. This has failed to materialise and now the storage butter is forcing the price down unexpectedly. Had the butter which has been held this winter and is now being released, been let out during the winter when it was scarce the cry for oleomargarine would have had less reason behind it.

HOGS, $15.50.

Matthews-Blackwell quote $15.50 locally for live hogs.

Beef hides, per lb.	19c to 20c

Sheep skins	$1 to $3
Tallow, per lb.	7 to 8 1-2c
Washed wool, per lb	42 to 46c
Unwashed wool, per lb	33c to 34c

AN EASY WAY TO GET FAT AND BE STRONG

The trouble with most thin folks who wish to gain weight is that they insist on drugging their stomach or stuffing it with greasy foods; rubbing on useless flesh creams, or following some foolish physical culture stunt while the real cause of thinness goes untouched. You cannot get fat unless your digestive tract assimilates the food you eat.

There is a preparation known to reliable druggists almost everywhere which seemingly embodies the missing elements needed by the digestive organs to help them convert food into rich fat-laden blood. This modern treatment is called Extract of Native-Roots and has been termed one of the greatest medicines of its kind.

Native-Roots aims through regenerative, re-constructive power to coax the stomach and intestines to literally soak up the fattening elements of the food and pass them into the blood, where they are carried to the starved, broken down cells and tissues of the body. You can readily picture what result this amazing transformation should produce as with increased weight the cheeks fill out, hollows about the neck shoulders and arms disappear, and pounds of solid, healthy flesh are added to the body. Native-Roots is inexpensive and Warne Drug Co. and other leading druggists have it and recommend it. Start the treatment to-day.

CHANGE IN AMERICAN RIFLES.

To Make Them Uniform With the British For Ammunition.

LONDON, April 10.—It is the belief that any United States expeditions should be re-equipped with rifles, discarding the present Springfields for the style used generally on the western front.

This is necessary to make the Americans always effective in the event of detachments becoming separated in the fighting and cut off from ammunition and supplies. The uniformity will permit the use of British and other ammunition.

The present rifles could be used at home. The Canadians, who had Ross rifles, had the same experience at the beginning of the war.

Removes Hairy Growths Without Pain or Bother

(Modes of To-day)

It is not necessary to use a painful process to remove hairy growths, for with a little delatone handy you can keep the skin entirely free from these beauty destroyers. To remove hair, make a stiff paste with a little powdered delatone and water. Spread this on the hairy surface and in about 2 minutes rub off, wash the skin and the hairs are gone. To guard against disappointment, be careful to get real delatone.

IF KIDNEYS AND BLADDER BOTHER

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys and Neutralize Irritating Acids

Kidney and Bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in avoiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying, and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink, which quickly relieves bladder trouble.

NEW SHOES WON'T HURT AFTER THIS

Ouchs! ? ! ? ! ! This kind of conga talk will be heard less here in town if people troubled with corns will follow the simple advice of this Cincinnati authority, who claims that a few drops of a drug called freezone when applied to a tender, aching corn stops soreness at once, and soon the corn dries up and lifts right out without pain.

He says freezone is a sticky substance which dries immediately and never inflames or even irritates the surrounding tissue or skin. A quarter of an ounce, which will cost very little at any drug store, is said to be sufficient to remove every hard or soft corn or callus from one's feet. Millions of American women will welcome this announcement since the inauguration of the high heels.

EXAMINER PATTERN SERVICE

LADY'S WAIST.

By Anabel Worthington.

Appearing to break through the winter's cocoon and cast the shirt waist becomes, more than ever, the garment of importance in the average woman's affections. As with dresses, simplicity, of course, rules the new designs, but for all that the novelty effects are many. Sometimes the collar shows novel treatment, again the cuffs, or some striking feature of the front of the blouse may claim attention.

In the illustration you see a waist such as one spoke of, one of truly distinctive character, cut with simple fulness and having the front and back gathered to yoke. An inset vest of contrasting goods, outlined by satin or other material in opposing color, is the striking feature of this model. The covered buttons augment front closing, but in reality the blouse slips on over the head. The high roll collar and neck revers lend further attractiveness to the model. For full length sleeve a smart cuff is another detail with charm.

Foulard silk and net, crepe de chine, silk and lace, voile also in combination, and linen in two colors are a few suggestions for copying the model. The way of the pattern is the surest way to comfort and style at small cost.

The waist pattern No. 8,178 cuts in sizes 36 to 42. To make in size 36 requires 1¾ yards of 36 inch material and ⅝ of a yard of contrasting goods, or 2¼ yards all one material.

To obtain the pattern send a — to the office of this publication.

When ordering remember to give your name and address as well as the number and size of pattern required, and age of a child.

Price 15 cents, or 2 for 25 cents.

NEW GAINS FOR THE CANADIANS

ADVANCE ALONG THE SOUCHEZ RIVER

Canadians Earn New Honours In Storming Advance To-day

Dash Forward On Both Flanks of the Vimy Ridge ---A Mile of Trenches Near Farbus Wood Taken By the Dominion's Troops Whose Gains Are Beginning to Crumple the Lens Salient---All Four Canadian Divisions Are Engaged in Arras Battle

GENERAL HAIG'S ADVANCE CONTINUES

SPECIAL TO THE EXAMINER:

(By William Philip Simms, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES AFIELD, April 12.—Canadians earned new honours to-day in a storming advance on a mile front south of the Vimy Ridge.

Dashing forward impetuously, they stormed and took nearly a mile of German trenches running south from the German commandant's house near Farbus Wood.

It was along this line of defense that the German forces have been clinging desperately since the first sweep forward of the Canadians cleared the top of Vimy Ridge.

Headquarters reports to-day showed eleven more German guns captured between Crosilles and Roeux. It was over ground inches deep in snow and slush in cold wet weather that the British and Germans battled man to man to-day with the best man steadily winning. The British advance still continued. Stiffening resistance along the line from Lens to St. Quentin showed that the Teutons were desperately striving to stop the encroaching wave of the British advance. The British artillery superiority was also marked to-day. The German marksmanship was bad.

Fighting in the British offensive was apparently spreading northward this afternoon. In that direction a strongly defended hill near Givenchy, known as Piople, was taken. Boisenbache, a mile further northward, was also captured.

To the south the Canadians to-day advanced to the crest of Hill 145.

Thus far the Canadians have captured four eight-inch guns, five 9.5 guns and twenty field pieces.

New successes by the Canadians are reported to-day. On both sides of the Souchez River they have moved northeastward from the direction of the Village of Souchez threatening to break between Angres and Givenchy. This is the first indication of the crumpling of the Lens salient to the north of Vimy Ridge, and as on the north side of the river the Canadians have taken high ground that enables them to threaten the retreat of the Germans at Givenchy, the evacuation of the adjacent territory will be hastened. The Canadians by means of machine gun fire only, repelled two strong German attacks on the ridge last night and inflicted heavy losses.

Unofficially we are told that to-day they made an advance of a mile near the southern end of the ridge towards Willervil and Dailleul.

As a result of the advances of the Canadians on both flanks of the Vimy Ridge, Vimy, Givenchy and Angres are seriously imperilled.

ALL FOUR DIVISIONS WERE IN BATTLE

SPECIAL TO THE EXAMINER:

LONDON, Eng., April 12.—The war critic of the London Standard says he understands all four Canadians divisions are engaged in the present battle of Arras, and that all four went over that famous Vimy Ridge on Monday morning. The Standard says that the capture of this position was not a matter of luck, but purely a reward of skilful preparation by leaders backed by incomparable troops

Bitter Fighting on the French Front

SPECIAL TO THE EXAMINER:

PARIS (French Official Communique), April 12. — Violent fighting along the French front was reported in to-day's official statement indicating the possibility of the start of a joint French offensive with the British "push." "Important points" were carried after the most bitter kind of fighting southeast of Coucy Forest, the War Office declared.

"East of Sagigneul the French drove the enemy out capturing trenches which had been taken by the Germans.

"In the Woevre a French raiding party inflicted losses on the enemy.

"Between the Somme and the Oise there was violent artillery struggle during the night. French troops pushed the enemy from the southeast border of Coucy Forest after violent fighting, carrying important points in the face of a heavy resistance. The Germans lost heavily.

"In the region northeast of Soissons French reconnaissances penetrated the lines at several poines, imprisoning forty of the enemy."

DIO DE JANEIRO, April 12. Serious outbreaks in Sao Paulo marked the continued public insistence on war with Germany to-day. The proponents of war attacked the house of German-born residents of Sao Paulo and toserves of the police were called out.

Reports received here early to-day asserted a number of citizens had been killed and wounded in resisting the guards. A break with Austria was momentarily expected to-day.

Chancellor Mueller, who is also Foreign Minister, to-day cabled Sylvino Amaral, Brazilian Minister at Berlin, to request his passports.

LONDON, April 12.—Field Marshal Haig to-day jammed his forces still farther north of Vimy Ridge. "Larly this morning," he reported, "we captured two important positions of the enemy lines to the north of Vimy Ridge. Astride the river at Souchez a number of the enemy were taken prisoners."

"Two hostile attacks against our new positions at the northern end of Vimy Ridge were driven off by machine gun fire which inflicted heavy losses on the Germans. We made some progress south of the Scarpe River."

WASHINGTON, April 12.—It was officially denied that the United States had received or would consider any offers of a separate peace with Germany.

LONDON, April 12.—Reports from a Swiss source have been received in Rome that the Bulgarian Minister at Berne has made overtures to the Entente Ministers with a view to the conclusion of a separate peace, says the Exchange Telegraph's Rome correspondent.

ROME, April 12.—Austria is pressing Pope Benedict to move for peace among the European belligerents, according to an authentic report in Vatican circles to-day.

UNITED STATES TO BUILD 3000 SHIPS TO CARRY SUPPLIES

Fleet of Wooden Vessels Will Bridge the Atlantic by Means of the Most Tremendous Ship Building Programme Ever Undertaken

LLOYD GEORGE'S ANSWER

SPECIAL TO THE EXAMINER:

(By Robert J. Bender, U. P Staff Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, April 12. — To smash Germany's U boat blockade, the United States will virtually bridge the Atlantic. Plans for the construction of 3,000 wooden boats, the most tremendous merchant ship building programme ever undertaken, have been completed and approved by the President. The boats will be used to transport food and supplies to the Entente ports.

This is America's answer to Lloyd George's appeal for tonnage. The government shipping board has sent out a call for 150,000 lumbermen and wood-workers to begin the task at once. Congress has been authorized to start the programme and will be asked for $300,000,000 more. The first thousand ships are to be completed within eighteen months and immediately thereafter 2,000 more will be ordered. Each vessel will be of 3,000 tons, with a speed of ten knots. Each ship is to be manned by a trained crew and equipped with anti-submarine guns and wireless. Commencing Nov. 1, three ships a day will sail into service.

BATTERIES NOW NEED ATTENTION

Your battery may soon have spring fever—unless you're "Battery Wise."

This is the season of the year when it is wise for the automobile owner to overhaul his storage battery.

All winter he has run his car with no more battery protection than B. V. D's., and the chances are ten to one that a general inspection and overhauling will save him the cost of a new battery a few months from now.

The Grant & Thorpe Company of 418 George street, local agents and service station for Willard Batteries, have this advice for the owners:

"Have a service station look your battery over now—and often. They are glad to be of service to you. Let them charge your battery if it is run down — then you charge and keep it charged. Don't forget the battery—add water to offset evaporation.

"I CAN SEE REAL PEACE COMING NOW"

—Lloyd George

LONDON, April 12.—"I can see peace coming now, not peace which is the mere beginning of another war, but real peace," was the salutation which Premier Lloyd George sent to America as part of the tribute which England's Prime Minister paid to the United States in a tumultuously demonstrative meeting to-day of the American Luncheon Club. Scores of British notables were there and American Ambassador Page presided. "I'm glad not merely because of the tremendous resources that your great nation render to succor the alliance, but rejoice as a democrat that the advent of the United States gives the final stamp and seal of the character of the conflict. We rejoice that American has won the right to be at the peace conference table when the terms are fixed. The Kaiser promised that Prussia would be a democracy after the war. I think the Kaiser is right. The United States have noble traditions that they have never been engaged in war except for liberty. This is the greatest struggle for liberty on which they have ever embarked. America's entrance means something more than waging an effective war. She will ensure a beneficial peace."

247TH BATTALION MEN ARE BEING KEPT TOGETHER AT OTTAWA

Drafts From Local Unit Are Under Their Own Officers and N. C. O's and Are Well Satisfied With Their Treatment Lt.-Col. Ackerman Reports—Pte. Hardman of the 93rd Battalion Wounded—To-day's Orders and General Military News.

Lt.-Col. Ackerman returned this morning from Ottawa where he has been arranging some details in connection with the transfer of the 247th to the 235th. He reports that the men of the 247th are delighted with their treatment at Ottawa. All the 247th men are being kept together in one company with their officers, Lieuts. Shaw, Strickland, Cameron and Latimer and all their own non-commissioned officers over them. In the matter of appointments to the Peterborough men are being well treated. Sergt. Hughes is being appointed bandmaster of the 235th band and Sergt. W. A. Primeau has been made sergeant cook of the 235th. Lt.-Col. Scobell is delighted to receive the men of the 247th and they have apparently fallen into good hands.

PTE. HARDMAN WOUNDED

Another member of the 93rd Battalion is reported in to-day's casualty list. Pte. T. W. Hardman, one of the first to join the Peterborough Battalion is officially reported seriously ill and wounded. He went overseas as a member of the No. 2 Platoon A Company and was transferred to another Canadian Battalion at the front. Pte. Hardman was one of the 93rd's crack football players. He was married soon after enlisting here with the battalion.

Seven members of the old 93rd band who failed to pass the medical examination for the infantry are being transferred from the 247th to the Canadian Army Medical Corps at Kingston and will leave for there in that city in a short time. The seven are Sergt. Naples, Sergt. Barnes and Bandsmen W. Dyer, R. A. Browne, W. Layfield, A. Briscoe and H. Wood. Three other members of the band are recommended for discharge, making a total of ten bandsmen who have been discharged since the organization left for overseas last summer.

Lieut. Nugent who has been attached to the 247th Battalion is being transferred to the Forestry Battalion.

Mrs. W. Stanley of the Soldiers' Wives' and Mothers' Club has received the following letter from Pte J. Jinks of Peterborough:

Somewhere in France, March 11.

Dear Mrs. Stanley,—Just a few lines to thank you for the socks that I received to-night with your address and a package of gum in the toe of one, and I assure you that they have just arrived in time as they were what I most needed just now, and I am sure the boys of the 1st Battalion, Canadians, appreciate very much what the Soldiers' Wives' and Mothers' Club are doing for the boys in the trenches. We are having a little rest out of the trenches just now, so we can be prepared for what is to come soon. We are having beautiful spring weather here now, after the hard winter we have passed through. I must close now, as we have to turn out soon. Again thanking you, Mrs. Stanley, for your kindness, I remain,

Respectfully,

Home Defence.

Two weeks ago the Department of Militia and Defence at Ottawa issued an outline of the plan which had been drawn up for the raising of a force of 50,000 men in Canada for the Home Defence Force. Sir Edward Kemp, Minister of Militia and Defence, in sending out the memorandum, said: "It is necessary that the country should not be left without an adequate force for home defence in case of emergency."

In time of war no one knows when an emergency may come. In time of war all possible safeguards must be taken. In the course of a few weeks all the members of the Canadian Expeditionary Force will have left the shores of Canada to go to Europe to take their places on the firing line. Emergencies may arise in Canada. Canada must be prepared.

It is in order that the Dominion will not be found asleep that the Government has issued this call for 50,000 men. These men will be trained in military arts under the control of serious men. They will be educated in the needs of the time, and will be physically trained so that their bodies may be fit to bear up the spirit which is in all Canadians so that they may perform to the end their duties as citizens.

The officers of the militia regiments throughout the country have been giving deep consideration to the scheme; the staffs have been partially appointed for the Home Defence battalions, and by this time most of them have their plans laid for enrolling men.

The term of enlistment, training, clothing, equipment and subsistence are the same as for the Overseas Forces. Separation allowances are given to married men in addition to their pay, and it is hoped that of the many thousands of men in Canada who want to serve the Empire in the present struggle but cannot for some reason or other go overseas, will take this opportunity of doing what they can.

The 57th Regiment is now receiving the names of recruits. The recruiting office at the armouries is open every night from 8 to 10 p.m.

WILL USE ALL RECRUITS.

KINGSTON, April 10—It is understood that men who signed for overseas service only and are disqualified owing to physical defects, are no longer to be discharged, but will be passed on to the special service company.

TRAINING RETURNED SOLDIERS

KINGSTON, April 10—The Kingston Veterans' Association has been anxious to secure some kind of vocational training for the soldiers who are coming back from the firing line and are unable to take up their old positions. The authorities have been

STRAY CURRENT CAUSED DEATH OF ALLEN CASSAN

Fanatic Blamed For 116 Deaths

CHESTER, Pa., April 12.—A statement by a high official of the Eddystone Ammunition Corporation placed the blame of yesterday's disastrous explosion, the worst in the history of the State, on a disloyal employee who is thought to have sacrificed his life with 116 known dead, most of whom were girls and young women.

This amazing development late today spurred on the investigations of the catastrophe already under way by Federal State, county, local officials and officers of the company.

Numerous suspects were rounded up here, in Philadelphia and Villano, Pa., and in Camden, N.J., and in each case the disposition of the prisoners was placed in the hands of agents of the Department of Justice at Philadelphia. The arrests so far, however have apparently furnished no tangible clue to the perpetrator of the alleged plot.

"A Diabolical Plot."

The statement of the company's responsible representative, who declined to permit the use of his name, said the tragedy "was the result of a diabolical plot conceived in the degenerate brain of a demon in human guise," and that the triple explosion was due to a bomb manufactured from a shell by one of the employees. Beyond this information the official refused to disclose further details which would tend to more thoroughly clear the exact cause of the disaster.

A German Involved?

Of the arrests made to-day the most alarming on the face of it was that of Frank Miller, a German, 45 years of age, in Camden, N.J. He was taken into custody by the police after a conversation he had held with a waitress in a restaurant was overheard by former Judge French and Judge Lloyd. They understood Miller to remark that he was a German inspector employed at the Eddystone plant, and that "It was a shame for the German-Americans to be blamed for the explosion."

Mrs. Annie Keating of Trenton, N.J., told Federal officials in that city that she had found in a railroad station at Philadelphia on March 14 a letter addressed to "N. K.," in which the writer said: "All ready to blow up Eddystone. Send us help." On a sheet of white paper, she said, there was a rough sketch of the Philadelphia navy yard and the Delaware river and a plan of Chester, Pa. The notes contained the signatures of two foreigners Mrs. Keating said.

Former Peterboro' Girl Loses Husband and Baby Within Week

A lifetime of tragedy, crowded into one eventful week, was the distressing experience of Mrs. George Smith, of New York city, formerly Miss Jane McDonnell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. McDonnell of this city, and sister of Mr. E. J. McDonnell, grocer, at the corner of Lake and Aylmer streets. First her baby died and for a time Mrs. Smith's life was despaired of. In the meantime Mr. Smith was struck down and killed by an automobile. It is understood that he was on his way home from the hospital after a visit to his wife. A recent letter from Mr. Chas. McDonnell who with his wife, have been with their daughter during her illness, states she is progressing favourably and will recover. Mr. Smith was buried on March 31st.

Evidence Submitted at Inquest Held Last Night Failed to Reveal Origin of Current Which Caused Lineman's Death—Plugs Were Removed From Poles and Wire Was Supposed to Have Been "Dead."

THE EVIDENCE

That Allen Cassan was killed by a "stray current" was the opinion expressed by witnesses who last night gave evidence at the adjourned inquest which was held in the Police Court with Coroner Dr. Greer presiding. Cassan, it will be remembered, met his death last Saturday morning while working on a power line on the premises of the Peterborough Lock Company plant on Simcoe street. Crown Attorney Hatton conducted the examination for the Crown, while Mr. E. H. D. Hall was present in the interests of the Utilities Commission with whom Cassan was employed at the time of his death.

The evidence submitted failed to reveal the origin of the current that caused Cassan's death. The line on which he was about to operate was supposed to be "dead." In fact it was handed by the foreman of the gang a couple of minutes before Cassan met his death. The foreman in question picked up the line in his bare hands and after twisting it a few times, broke it in two. He then instructed Cassan to put in a new piece. Cassan went into the lane where the line was hanging, picked up the broken end and the moment his pliers touched the wire he toppled over. Death was almost instantaneous.

Later, other members of the repair gang returned and completed the repair. The reason that the foreman broke the wire is because he found a blister at that particular point.

Intermittent Current.

Mr. H. O. Fisk, manager of the Utilities Commission, produced a number of sketches showing the layout at the scene of the accidents. He also produced the plugs, which all the witnesses agreed were removed from the pole before the men started to work on the line. Cassan was the man who removed the plugs. Mr. Fisk said he had a theory that the accident was due to an intermittent current that came in behind the plugs and charged the wire on which the deceased was working.

Crown Attorney Hatton, addressing the jury said that in cases of motor car accidents and accidents such as the one before the jury, an expert should be brought in and an independent investigation made before repairs were made or operations were continued. He left it to the Jury to decide whether or not it would be advisable to bring in an expert to investigate the case in hand.

Mr. Fisk said that the services of an expert would be of little use now as the conditions existing at the time of the accident had been removed. On the day in question there was slush, leakage to earth in various places, and telephone lines

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

THURSDAY, APRIL 12, 1917

A WARRIOR PROPHET.

Major-General Maude, who belies the effeminacy of his name, who is trouncing the Turks and bagging Bagdad and other important points in the eastern war zone, is not only a successful fighter, but a prophet whose predictions, facts do not belie. In 1907—ten years ago—in a book, "War and the World's Life," he forecasts what has been virtually fulfilled, only a decade after its deliverance. Here is one extract:

"Our peace - at - any - price party and Hague conference enthusiasts will have much blood to answer for before many years are over."

In another place he says:

"Our war will follow the American model, and its prototype, the Cromwellian epoch. First, a series of defeats, which will eliminate the incompetent; then will arise a surging wave of national indignation, and at the psychological moment will come the emergence of some great Leader or Leaders. These, like Cromwell, Grant, and Sherman, recognising that War is Hell, will throw overboard the pitiful sentiment "If we fail we cannot lose many men" and by sheer hard fighting will win all along the line as great captains have always done."

CANADIAN VIM AT VIMY.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier a few years before the close of the last century declared that "the twentieth century belonged to Canada." And Canadian soldiers in France are doing a big part in making good his prophecy, in the way of glory and credit and accomplishment. It's no wonder that, after the splendid success of Canadian arms at Vimy Ridge, Sir Robert Borden could confirm the fulfilment, in great part of prophecy of Canada's grand old man, and should tell the "Canadian press" in London, speaking of the successful fulfilment of "the tremendous task" of carrying Vimy Ridge, that,

All Canada will be thrilled with pride by this glorious achievement of our expeditionary forces.

Not only will "all Canada be thrilled" by this one outstanding achievement, but all Canada will win world-wide honour. The New York Times, a journal of our new ally, the United States, pays this term, but telling tribute to Canadian valour.

"Canada has a new reason for pride. It was a great good fortune for her that the taking of Vimy Ridge, for which the allies had poured out so much of their blood, fell in the long run to her. April 9, 1917, will be in Canada's history one of the great days, a day of glory, to furnish inspirations to her sons for generations. Her nation ally salutes her and rejoices with her."

We are proud of all this praise, for two reasons, because our gallant lads and the Canada they so splendidly represent, thoroughly deserve every word of it, and more. Those of our soldier boys, who do not leave their bones in the battle field, those who come back safely, will have a story to tell, they need not blush to relate. We wonder in after years how some of our able-bodied young men of today will listen to the tale of glory, in which they had no share. If anything should put red into their pallid blood, it is the example of the brave Canadians who have done so much to deserve the praise and plaudits Canadians and civilized humanity pile upon them.

CONCERNED FOR THE TREES.

A citizen has spoken to The Examiner, with much concern, for the good of our street trees, of the maple variety.

He says that employees of the Utilities Commission and other linemen have cut the limbs off street trees at a time when there is danger of them "bleeding to death." This laudable concern and the fear of injury to the trees arising from it, are considerably unjustified and unduly alarming.

There does not seem to be much danger of trees "bleeding to death." In maple orchards we see huge, robust trees, flourishing in stately grandeur, and in "full bloom" of apparently vigorous growth, that have been "tapped" year after year, yielding tremendously large flows of sap, without having been injured in the operation.

There is some process we cannot understand, some changes wrought in the alchemy of Nature in the interior of the tree. At the proper season, when the sap of the tree is not needed for growth—in the autumn as in the spring—the sap begins to rise and circulate through the whole system of the tree, from trunk to twig. This sap movement does not seem to be of any economic use to the tree—except as preliminary training for its work during the season of growth. The fibrous rootlets begin to pump up the moisture from the earth, and they or something else, send it flowing through the whole tree, and in the process the wonderful chemical laboratory in the tree gives it the saccharine quality that distinguishes maple sap, and makes it of so much use to man, while it has no other use.

We don't know how this is done, but it is done. This process, the flow of sap for a few days in spring and fall, and the change from water to sugar, we cannot explain.

But it does not last long; only long enough to be, with prompt action, made use of by man, and that seems to be the chief use of it. It seems so far as we can see to have no other raison d'etre.

It is not needed for growth; for the moment the swelling buds begin the process of growth the flow of "sap" ceases—it has work to do "at home"—in the internal economy of the growing tree.

From what we can see the sap that flows from a maple tree cannot be regarded as "bleeding" in the sense as flow of blood from a punctured vein; it seems to serve no other purpose, is not needed till buds begin to open and growth takes place, so that the loss of it cannot injure the tree. When the tree itself needs its sap it keeps it—it will not flow, and the tree cannot "bleed."

Though the citizen, who spoke of the mutilation of our trees by linemen and the resultant "bleeding," is to a large extent unnecessarily alarmed, his interest in the preservation of the trees shows a noble concern; and suggests a real danger.

Linemen seem to act as if the street trees had no "right of way"; that they had no rights to be respected. Trees are hacked, slashed and mutilated in the most injurious way. The cutting and slashing is not pruning; a limb is lopped off at any point where its removal will suit the wire or cable—not with any consideration of benefit to the tree, that comes from proper pruning; or of improvement of its symmetry or shape for its purposes as a shade tree.

The law of the land protects our shade trees and judicial decisions have shown that no lineman of any company having wires on the streets, has a right of his own volition and authority to injure a single twig of a street tree.

Our street trees by law have the right of possession and place. If they interfere with wires or cables of any kind, shift the wires or cables, but don't mutilate or shift the tree in whole or in part.

That is the spirit of the law—it is the spirit of civic beauty, civic comfort, and esthetic interest.

Of course there can be common sense, and moderation exercised in adjusting the relative convenience of wire-owning companies to the integrity, beauty, safety and conservation of our shade trees.

These companies are not the only tree enemies we have to fear. Our tree foes are sometimes those of our own household — the men our civic authorities sometimes turn loose upon our street trees, with axe and saw as their only equipment—with no sense of sympathy with tree beauty, with no appreciation of tree value and no more knowledge of the proper way to treat or trim trees than they have of the integral calculus or Newton's fluxions.

Trees as much as children need training and care from their earliest growth. We shall never have the best results from our beautiful tree growth till the public and our authorities come to understand trees and regard them as something to be cherished and protected; and not left to be cut and hacked and mutilated, and allowed to "tumble up" anyway like a knocked-about street arab, and with as satisfactory results.

OUR YANKEE COUSINS GENEROUSLY JEALOUS OF CANADA'S WAR WORK

In a lengthy editorial, under the heading, "Well Done, Canada!" The New York Tribune Wednesday morning says:

Every American will feel a thrill of admiration and a touch of honest envy at the achievement of the Canadian troops about Arras on Easter Sunday and the following day.

The glory of the Canadian fight at the Ypres salient has been too little appreciated on our side of the northern frontier. Rarely in history have troops, volunteer troops, suddenly exposed to a flank attack through no fault of their own, but by the collapse of their neighbours, had to bear a more terrific blow than that which followed the first gas attack. Yet in the midst of confusion, assailed by the appalling poison of German making, the Canadian volunteers stood and died as the British regulars had stood and died in the greater battle of Ypres of 1914.

And now the Canadians have swept up the famous Vimy Ridge, which halted the French veterans of Foch and proved too great an obstacle for the genius of the greatest offensive fighter France has yet produced in the war. After long months of waiting the Canadians have had their hour. They have had a chance to avenge their comrades, crucified by German brutes in Flanders; they have had the opportunity to write the name of Canada upon the war map of Europe, and their imprint will be remembered — in Germany quite as much as in America.

A Lasting Value.

We shall know later at what price this achievement was accomplished, but no price will be too high, and for Canada this day of victory will have a lasting value. For Canada, too, its value will be no less than for the British Empire.

Nearly three-quarters of a million of Canadian and Australian troops have responded to the call of the British Empire, more than half of them wearing the Canadian maple leaf. German plotting, German scheming, the plans of the professors on paper and of the German soldiers on the map, have been answered in the only fashion in which it is possible to speak to Germans now.

Americans will feel a certain envy in the thought that Canada has outdistanced us in reaching the battle line, which is the frontier of our common civilization. We shall take what comfort we may from the knowledge that among the Canadian forces are a considerable contingent of citizens of the United States, an unofficial vanguard, we shall trust, of that American army which is, in due course, to take its place along the French front. They are serving in worthy company.

No Praise Excessive.

No praise of Canadian achievement can be excessive. From the plains and from the mountains, from the cities and from the prairies, Canada has poured out her thousands and her hundreds of thousands; she has sent across the ocean an army greater than Napoleon ever commanded on any battlefield; her volunteer regiments have shown the same stubborn and tenacious quality which is the glory of the British army.

Canada's sons have won for liberty not merely a few square miles of French territory, but a victory which makes answer to the German idea that the world can be reconstructed without regard to the spirit of man; merely by material force.

Our entrance into the war should make a new bond between the Canadians and ourselves.

FIFTEEN NATIONS IN.

Many people are seriously disposed to consider this war the Armageddon of the Apocalypse, the battle of "the great day" in which "the kings of the earth and of the whole world," were to take part. There seems to be some warrant for this view. We make the fifteenth nation to enter the war, and the populations of these states and their colonies aggregate, now that China has come in, over 1,400 million people on the side of the Entente Allies. Against them the Central powers and Turkey are estimated to have 156 millions. Holland and other European states have been forced thus far to call themselves neutral, though they are suffering exceedingly, and some of them have their armies mobilized and ready to act. Aside from these, only Spain and Spanish America remain out of the conflict; and some or all of these states are more than likely soon to align themselves with the Allies.

This is thus so nearly a war of the whole world that it seems improbable that such an overwhelming proportion of earth's inhabitants can ever again take part in a conflict. If this is not that war that was to end a dispensation and bring improved conditions to mankind, an even more terrible calamity than this must lie ahead of the world if the prophetic writings are true.—Rochester Post-Express.

down all over the city. These were some of the conditions that had been removed.

The Verdict.

The Jury's verdict was as follows:

"We, the jurors summoned to determine the cause of the death of one Allen Cassan, find that he came to his death on Saturday, April 7th, 1917, on the premises of the Peterborough Lock Company, and have agreed that death was caused by an electric shock from a source unknown according to the evidence submitted, and we would recommend that in future, any accident of a similar nature be investigated thoroughly and ascertain where the current came from before repairs are made or operations resumed."

Signed by the Jury.

The jury consisted of J. S. Knapman, A. Clysdale, R. Turner, J. O'Toole, D. Fleming, Frank Young, J. Crowe, W. G. O'Brien Frank Turner and J. T. O'Connell.

The Evidence.

Frederick Whaley was the first witness called. He said that he was a foreman in the Peterborough Lock Works. Witness was one of the few eye-witnesses of the accident. He described the circumstances leading up to Cassan's death. The deceased held the end of the wire in his left hand. The wire sagged from one pole to another. When Cassan applied the wire-cutter to the wire with the apparent object of making the repair, he fell back. Deceased tried to rise up but fell back and expired in a few minutes. Deceased had on a pair of leather gloves. Beatty came in first and cut the wire. Cassan then came along and was about to make the repair when he collapsed. The pulmotor arrived first. Doctor Greer arrived a few minutes later. Witness would not say that Beatty had gloves on. He identified the gloves and repair outfit which was produced, as belonging to Cassan.

In reply to a question asked by Mr. E. H. D. Hall ,witness said that deceased had hold of the wire leading from Simcoe street. Witness did not know if the plugs had been taken out of the pole. To Mr. Hall witness said that Beatty took hold of the wire with his hands. Beatty had rubber boots on.

Saw Cassan Fall.

A small boy by the name of Herbert Croft, who is employed at the Lock Works, was another eye-witness of the accident. Witness was returning from the foundry and was about three yards away from Cassan when he was killed. He saw Cassan about to cut the wire. Deceased fell back as soon as his pliers touched the wire. Witness shouted for help and a few minutes later the pulmotor arrived. Croft described how Cassan was dressed. He wore leather gloves and boots. The wire which Cassan was handling at the time of his death led from the street. Later a man came along and removed the wire with his bare hand. Witness broke down at the close of the examination.

Removed the Wire.

Hedley Strudley, another youth employed at the Lock Works, was standing with Croft when Cassan was killed. Strudley said the wire was cut and Cassan was about to trim the end of the wire when he fell back. He groaned but did not speak. Jack Wiltman came along and removed the wire from under Cassan. This he did with his bare hand, grasping the wire about three feet from the end.

The Post Mortem.

Dr. C. H. Amys assisted Dr. Eastwood in performing the post mortem examination on Cassan. This revealed a burn on the palm of the right hand. There was a slight scratch on the upper eye-lid. In the opinion of the witness the scratch on the eye-lid had no connection with the accident. There was no mark on the feet. Paralysis of the heart was the cause of death, due to an electric shock. The chambers of the right side of the heart were full of blood. Cassan wore heavy nailed soled boots, somewhat worn. Witness considered that the contact was pretty general.

Dr. Amys identified the gloves worn by the deceased. The right hand glove had a hole in the palm corresponding to the burn on the hand. In the opinion of Dr. Amys the feet of the deceased were damp and the contact was general, so that a burn on the feet was not in evidence. Witness had no idea of the amount of current required to kill a man. Some men required a good deal more current than others to cause death. Dr. Eastwood corroborated the evidence of Dr. Amys.

Insulation Useless.

Mr. H. O. Fisk, manager of the Utilitiles Commission, was the next witness. Mr. Fisk produced a number of sketches showing the location of wires and poles concerning the case in question. Witness described deceased as an "ordinarily good lineman." Mr. Fisk arrived on the scene thirty or forty minutes after the accident. The body had been removed. The wires were down due to the breaking of an arm on a pole in the yard of the company's plant. The reach was sixty or seventy-five feet long. Witness did not know how long the pole had been up, but he described it as a good, sound pole. The broken arm showed a defect. The normal voltage at that point is 2,200 volts. Mr. Fisk was of the opinion that the voltage was low owing to the excessive leakage all over the system. The current had been cut off the branch where the deceased was working. This would have the effect of disconnecting the wire from the source of supply. Mr. Fisk produced the pluge, which he said had been removed. The removal of the plugs makes a break of at least two and a half inches.

Mr. Fisk could not account for the accident.

"How long have you been in the service?" asked Crown Attorney Hatton.

Mr. Fisk—"About thirty years."

"Did you ever have an accident like this?"

"We have had several accidents much the same."

To the surprise of Mr. Hatton the witness stated that the insulation on the wire was of little value as a protecting agency.

Public Opinion.

"It satisfies public opinion," said Mr. Fisk. "Ten years from now they won't be using insulated wire."

Mr. Fisk said that the man was depending absolutely on the fact that the plugs were out. "If he had thought that the wire was dangerous he would probably not have handled the wire the way he did," said Mr. Fisk.

The wire which Cassan handled was lying across a wire belonging to the watchman's clock line of the Lock Works. The system is operated with a few dry cells. Mr. Fisk produced a diagram showing the wire running through a window sash. The hole through which the wire passed was charred. Witness said that he had been unable to clear up the situation He was of the opinion that a foreign current had charged the wire.

Mr. Fisk said that rubber boots would have afforded Cassan some protection. Rubber boots or gloves two years old would be useless, as the rubber becomes oxidized in time. That is one reason why the insulation on the wire is of little use. Speaking of the wire on which Cassan met his death, Mr. Fisk said that he did not believe the insulation on that particular day was of any use, as it had been saturated for several hours previous to the accident.

A Stray Current.

"It seems to me that a stray current must have come from somewhere," said Mr. Fisk.

"Do you think it is a safe condition to have primary wires running into private property?" asked Dr. Greer.

Mr. Fisk—"I think so."

Mr. Fisk did not think it was practical to have a general system of having all primary wires on the street. He believed it better to have them on private property.

Mr. Harry Beatty, line foreman of the Utilities Commission, with nine years' experience on line work, was the next witness called. Considerable trouble was experienced during the recent storm. Witness estimated that there was between two hundred and two hundred and fifty breaks. Beatty, with a couple of men, started out to repair the breaks about three o'clock Friday morning. Witness cut the primary wire leading into the Lock Works so that it would not menace pedestrians. The wire was cut close to the top of the pole. Next day, Beatty returned with a number of men to make the repair.

Removed Plugs.

Cassan removed eight plugs and came down to the ground. After this Beatty went into the lane to ascertain the condition of the wire. He noticed a blister on the wire and grasping the wire in both hands, broke it in two. Cassan then came into the lane, and Beatty said that a new piece would have to be put in. Beatty then left for the shop to get a new cross arm. Beatty had rubber boots on when he handled the wire. He said that it was just a chance that he had rubber boots on as it was the first pair he had used in two years. Witness was of the opinion that a pair of rubber gloves was of some use. He did not think they would have prevented him from feeling something in the wire had it been charged, as it evidently was a few minutes later. He considered that once the plugs were removed a man was safe working on the line. Witness did not feel a thing when he handled the wire. He was certain that the plugs were out before he handled the wire.

Mr. Joseph Crowe, a juryman, asked Mr. Beatty if it would be dangerous for a man equipped with rubber gloves and boots to pick up a live wire on the street. Mr. Beatty said he did not think so.

Would Not Jump.

To Mr. Turner, witness said he did not think that the current would jump the gap in the plug.

Witness taking up the pliers used by Cassan, showed the jury the insulation on the handles, which was said to protect the user to the extent of five thousand volts. Beatty said he did figure anything on the insulation on the wire or on any of the tools used.

Joseph Daignault was working on a pole when the accident occurred. He was certain that the pluge were all pulled. Witness did not place much confidence in insulation. "It might be all right in dry weather," said Daignault.

"How is is that birds and squirrels can run along the wires without getting injured?" asked Mr. Crowe.

"Lots of them do," replied witness.

William Smith.

William Smith was working on the pole in the lane when Cassan was hurt. His attention was first drawn to Cassan's condition by two employees who rushed out of the Lock Works. Smith summoned the pulmotor and the doctors. Smith knew that the plugs were out. He helped to repair the wire after Cassan's death.

Independent Witnesses.

Crown Attorney Hatton in addressing the jury said that he was strongly of the opinion that in motor car accidents and such accidents as befell Cassan, an outside expert should be secured who would endeavour to take charge of the car or line involved and endeavour to ascertain the cause of the accident. "It is seldom that we are able to get at the bottom of these cases," said Mr. Hatton. "It might be a means of preventing future occurrences."

Mr. Fisk was recalled to answer the question of a juryman respecting the amount of power indicated at the power house at the time of the accident.

Needle Was Jumpy.

Mr. Fisk said that it was difficult to ascertain the voltage at the particular time as the needle was off the chart about half the time owing to the abnormal condition of the service. Speaking of insulation, Mr. Fisk said that the man who went to work on the wire following Cassan's death wore rubber gloves. "Rubber boots are rubber in name only," said Mr. Fisk.

Coroner Dr. Greer said he did not think it would be any use bringing in an outside expert at this late date. No evidence had been offered to show where the current came from.

Joseph Crowe was of the opinion that the plugs should have a distinguishing colour such as red or blue, which would better indicate to the man on the ground whether or not they were out.

The jury was out for nearly an hour.

The funeral was under the auspices of Lindsay Lodge No. 100, I.O.O.F.. The pallbearers were all veterans of the Lodge, and old friends of the deceased:—Bros. Thos. Stewart, Geo. A. Matthie, Geo. Mills, John W. Anderson, Alderman Robt. Chambers and G. H. Wilson.

Among the beautiful floral tributes were noticed the following:—Red Cross, Royal Black Preceptory and L.O.L. No. 720, St. Catharines; wreath, J. W. Shelly, Calgary; pillow, Capt. and Mrs. H. Boyle, St. Catharines; wreath, Welland Avenue Methodist Church, St. Catharines; three links, Lindsay Lodge No. 100, I.O.O.F.; wreath, Jos. Brown and family; tent, Guiding Star Encampment No. 22, Lindsay; spray, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brown; wreath, Mr. and Mrs. A. Flack and Mr. and Mrs. Will Brown; spray, Mr. Will Vickers, St. Catharines; sheaf, Mr. Aaron Comstock, Peterborough.

The service at the house at 2.30 was conducted by Rev. A. H. Going of the Cambridge Street Methodist Church, who spoke very feelingly of the departed, and particularly of his bright Christian life.

Among those from a distance who attended the funeral were:—Mrs. J. W. Shelly, Calgary; Mr. and Mrs. Manson Comstock, Peterborough, Mr. Aaron Comstock (brother), Peterborough, Manson Campbell, Chatham; Baron, Will and Jack Comstock, of Chatham; Mrs. McIntyre, Mrs. Bailey, Mrs. Johnston, of Peterborough, and Mrs. Snell, Hastings.

The flag on the Town Hall was at half-mast during the day, out of respect to the memory of one of Lindsay's old citizens and aldermen.

Something for nothing is impossible. If a thing comes without cost today it must be paid for with compound interest at a future date.

Anybody can talk. It takes a wise man to say something.

THE FUNERAL OF BOMBARDIER FINNIE

Death of Peterboro' Boy Was Greatly Felt By the Officers and Men of the 52nd Canadian Battery.

A LETTER OF SYMPATHY

Mrs. Edward Finnie, 211 Barnardo avenue, has received the following letter of sympathy in regard to the death of her son, Bombardier George Finnie, who left Peterborough as a member of the 52nd Battery, C.F.A.

Milford Camp, Surrey,
March 14, 1917.

Dear Mrs. Finnie,—Formal expressions of sympathy only too often fall very short of the spirit which prompts them, but I feel that I must take this poor method of letting you know that your recent severe loss is also the loss of the officers and men of the 52nd Battery. And perhaps it may help a little for you to know that in all the thirteen months of my acquaintance with Bombardier Finnie, and during which time he was connected with this battery, he made for himself a very enviable reputation for steadiness, reliability and uniform cheerfulness under all the trying conditions of military training. And I need hardly say that he was universally admired and respected. It may be quite unnecessary for me to say this to a mother but of very few of us officers, N.C.O.'s and men can the same thing be as truthfully said.

This loss is the first that the 52nd Battery has had since its organization and the first in the brigade since it landed in England, and the battery and the country can ill afford to lose men of your son's calibre. I am quite sure that every man in the unit joins with me in sincere sympathy with you and his father.

His last resting place is a typical English graveyard situated or a slight hill overlooking the artillery lines in this camp, and directly alongside of the Gun Park, where he has spent so many faithful hours in training for the big adventure in France. And though in crossing the last Great Divide, he has missed playing his part there, he has encountered the biggest adventure of all, and I feel quite sure that if George could have had his choice he would have chosen no more suitable last home.

The funeral was held this morning and was attended by every available man in the battery. The service, conducted by the Brigade chaplain, assisted by Rev. Capt. Dodds, was held in the Congregational church in the neighbouring village of Milford and from there to the cemetery, where full military service was held.

The Rev. Capt. Dodds, who I am glad to hear was an old friend of your family, has doubtless written you direct telling you many of the things a mother would most wish to know. But if there is anything further, please write and everything possible will be done here. The personal effects will be sent forward through the record office in London.

Yours with all sincere sympathy,
W. E. Lawson, Capt.,
52nd Battery C.F.A.

The Funeral.

A Peterborough boy in the 52nd Battalion has written the following description of the funeral,

Poor George Finnie was buried today. They brought the body from the Bramshott last night and kept it in the church at Milford with a guard all night. Bombardiers Yelland, Gray, Miles and Stenton of Peterborough, and Bombardiers Rorritt and Grant from his sub, drove the gun team, and Sergts. Sutherland and Thorpe from Peterborough, and Sergt. Rowley frim his sub, drive the gun team. They used the gun that George used to work on to carry the body. We put a large Union Jack on the coffin and over that a star-shaped wreath from the battery a gun-wheel wreath from the officers, and his cap, spurs and bandolier. The wreaths were very nice, made of white lilies and each having "52" in the centre of violets.

Capt. Dodds, who is a minister from South Monaghan, was with him when he died, and he spoke very nicely at the church of George's last few hours.

The hardest part was after the coffin had been lowered into the grave and the buglers sounded "Last Post." It sure hit the boys hard. The officers then saluted in turn, and they felt pretty bad. We were all a pretty blue bunch and there was very little talking at noon to-day when we got back. Nobody felt like it.

The whole battery turned out and we had a band from the infantry. This is the first military funeral I ever took part in and believe me I am not anxious to try another one. Here most of us have been together a year in close association and it sure comes hard when one goes. You may feel sure everybody felt it and weren't ashamed to show it. Even the officers who have come back from the front, where they must have seen a lot of it, were touched. They were having just as hard a time as we were."

A Chaplain's Tribute.

Capt. Thos. Dodds, chaplain with the C.E.F., has written the Examiner as follows:

C. A. S .C.,
Bramshott, Hants.
March 21st, 1917.

Examiner, Peterborough:

Dear Sir,—On Saturday, March the 10th, at 10.50 a.m., George Walter Finnie passed away at Bramshott Military Hospital at the age of 31. Some such message flashed across the ocean to anxious friends. I had been with him all through the three or four weeks' illness, having met him by accident, and being an old Bensfort boy myself, I became his self appointed chaplain, and many a long talk we had. Although fully assured of Heavenly rewards he still insisted his work was not to be upon a bed of sickness, but he came over to fight for King and freedom. I was greatly impressed with his high ideals and his fine sense of duty.

After the first severe illness was over, he was very bright and so hopeful, "he would do his part yet" he said but the lung trouble set in again, then special doctors and nursing sisters were appointed on the case, but to no avail. I was with him to the last. He passed peacefully away to worlds more glorious. And made more wonderful because Bombardier Finnie was not dead to the call of chivalry or dead to the trumpet blast of truth and justice. He heard the call for men and answered it, but he heard the sigh and cry of those who had been wronged in this war, and he could not contemplate such barbarities, and remain in self satisfied security. "Well done, it was good that thou had'st it in thy heart."

I went over to Witley, to be present at the funeral, passing Hindhead, Gibbet Hill on the right, the Devil's Punch Bowl on the left, over the Surrey hills, amidst a terrible fog, I could not help but think that it was dark days for the old world when our best and strongest must be given up and die, so far away from home and dear ones, to drive back a nation gone mad in lust for world power. But we must suffer for the greed of others, and Canada and the Canadians must become world protectors. God is counting on us, the Canadians have done nobly already, but even more is yet required

When I arrived at Witley, at the 52nd Battery, and from there to the Congregational church, where arrangements had been made for the funeral, his soldier comrades had provided wreaths, his officers had done the same, I found everything was being done to show the deep love and respect that is in the hearts of soldiers for their fallen comrades.

The escort and bearers, and men from the battery, filled the church, the band and firing party were at the door, also the gun carriage. Captain Harrison, chaplain of the battery, presided. I spoke a few words from Isa., 49-16. The body was carried out upon the shoulders of the bearers and placed on the gun carriage, the procession formed, the band playing "The Flowers of the Forest"; we marched up the streets of the little village of Milford to the cemetery, where we reformed, the band (the 202nd from Winnipeg), again rendering sweet, sad music as in slow march we wended our way to the graveside.

The day was still cold and misty, but there at the grave the deepest sorrow was shown. What a splendid tribute to any one to see men already in the war game, stand in tears as the body was lowered; but that was not all, a little bird is heard; it is the sky lark; it is the first of its songs heard in the north, as if it had hurried back to bring a message to us, and as if the words "dust to dust" had not all the truth. The sky lark soared away upwards as if carrolling at heaven's gate. I stood back among the men, and said look up. Sorrow here, but up yonder songs of triumph.

Yours truly,
THOS. DODDS, Capt.

Alleges That Many Children South of Lansdowne Street Are Not Attending School

That a considerable number of children residing in that section of North Monaghan, south of Lansdowne street, are not attending school was the statement made by a ratepayer of that district. He further asserted that between the neglect of the city and the township there was absolutely no accommodation for the children of that part of the township, and he added that he was confident that an investigation would substantiate his assertion.

May's school is too remote, especially during the winter and moreover it is practically crowded with children. The King Edward school is sufficiently near at hand, but it has already an enrollment that taxes its accommodation to the limit. Besides township parents claim that the city has raised too high a fee for the attendance of their children at the King Edward school. But the gentleman in his allegation states that there are few children from the township attending that school. He claims that there are children in his neighbourhood who have been home all winter, and there is no prospect of them beginning anywhere now. In his opinion the situation is a serious one.

A member of the Board of Education stated this morning that if there was a problem in that district it was clearly the duty of the township to handle it. That part of North Monaghan, he said, should be annexed to the city in order that the residents would receive city care and supervision. The section is largely settled, has a very considerable and increasing population, and from a casual consideration it was likely that there were children who were unable to attend school because of the inadequate in fact almost lack of, accommodation.

Because of the reliability of the source of the above information this allegation seems to warrant publicity and particularly demands the attention of the North Monaghan officials.

AN UNFORTUNATE AFFAIR.

"Look here," yelled the infuriated bridegroom of a day, dashing wildly into the editor's room of the country weekly; "what do you mean by such an infernal libel on me in your account of our wedding?"

"What's the matter?" asked the editor calmly. "Didn't we say that after your wedding tour you would make your home at the Old Manse?"

"Yes," howled the newly-made benedict, "and just see how you've spoiled it."

And the editor looked and read:

"After their wedding the newly-married people will make their home at the Old Man's."

Hastings Items Of Interest

HASTINGS, April 11.—On Wednesday of last week, the marriage was solemnized of Miss Ruth, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Preston, of Asphodel, and Mr. Percival Beavis, son of Mrs. John Beavis, of Westwood. The young couple left on the 2.30 train for a short honeymoon trip and on returning will take up residence in Asphodel. Their many friends here join in wishing them bon voyage through life.

On Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Tate, a miscellaneous shower was tendered Miss Ethel Collins, the prospective bride. The gifts were handsome and useful and were received with gratitude by Miss Collins, who was completely taken by surprise. After the opening of the gifts, refreshments were served and a social hour spent together. Everyone present reports a very enjoyable evening

Friday being Good Friday all the business places were closed, and many spent the day with friends.

On Easter Sunday, special services were held in the different churches. In the Methodist church, Rev. Mr. Adams of Havelock, spoke in the morning to the Mission Band, which supplied the music, while the evening service was in the interest of the Woman's Missionary Society, it being the occasion of the anhual Easter Thank offering. Special music was rendered by the choir assisted by Miss Howson of Keene, who also gave a well rendered solo.

Schools are closed for the Easter vacation and the teachers are enjoying a well deserved holiday.

The severe storm of the past week played havoc with the telephone wires, and almost all connection with the surrounding district has been seriously interfered with.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church met during the week and quilted a number of quilts for the missionary box.

We learn that Mr. Solomon Scriver is steadily improving, and hopes soon to be able to be removed from the hospital to his home.

RECEIVED NO WARNING WRITES PETERBORO' WOMAN

62 St. Peter's Street,
Folkestone, Kent, Eng.

Editor Examiner.

Dear Sir,—I am one of the fortunate ones in having the Examiner sent to me every week. In one dated February 22nd, and another one in the same week, referring to us Canadian wives in England, it says that "the Militia Department, six months ago, issued a warning, that we should return immediately. Well, no such thing. The first, I knew of it, and several more I have mentioned it to, say the same, was seeing it in your paper. I can tell you this much, we should be very pleased to be back home. The Zeppelins are enough to scare one to death, let alone the scarcity of food and the dearness of the same, when we can get it. But we should worry. I came here with the fixed purpose of being near my husband and brothers, should they get wounded, and thank goodness I saw my husband. One brother (poor boy) got killed, so I could not see him; the other two, I was able to see. So, for myself, I say I do not need the pity of the officials, for those of us that did not heed the warning we never got. I got what I came for. Put it to yourself. If you had a splendid husband, wouldn't you want to be as near as possible, when you know he is in danger of being wounded any minute? So I do not regret coming to England. We have enough to eat so far, although the plainest. So do not need those officials to do anything for me.

Yours truly.

A 1st Contingent Soldier's Wife.

Fourteen Band Instruments Wanted For Peterboro' Men Who Are Now With the 235th Battalion

Sergeant Walter Hughes of the 235th Battalion, asked the Council last night for the loan of fourteen of the 93rd Battalion Band instruments to be used by the Peterborough men who were recently transferred to the 235th from the 247th Battalion Band. He stated that Lt.-Col. Scobell of the 235th would assume the responsibility for the safe return of the instruments, which only yesterday were stored away in the City Hall. Most of the fourteen instruments asked for were saxophones and clarinets in which the 235th band was weak. If they could be obtained it would mean that fourteen of the Peterborough men would be added to the 235th band during the period of their training in Canada and England up to the time of their departure for France.

Mayor Duffus read the agreement under which the Speakers' Patriotic League had placed the entire thirty instruments in the custody of Col. Johnston of the 93rd Battalion. It disclosed the fact that the City Council had no responsibility or authority in regard to the disposition or retention of the instruments. The trustees were Messrs. J. A. Aylmer, A. E. Coulthard and Peter Campbell of the Patriotic League.

For that reason the Council passed a resolution that no action be taken since they were not a party to the agreement.

Mr. Coulthard stated that the Peterborough men in the 235th should be assisted in this matter if possible. The instruments used by the 57th Regimental Band, Mr. Gliddon stated, had been in use for about twenty years. It appeared possible to lend fourteen of the 57th band instruments to the 235th and temporarily transfer fourteen similar instruments of the 93rd collection to the 57th until theirs were returned from England.

Sergeant Hughes stated that the 57th instruments would be returned in good condition and that Mr. Coulthard's suggestion would be most acceptable.

The Council endorsed Mr. Coulthard's idea in a resolution moved by Ald. Dobbin and seconded by Ald. Taylor. The negotiations, therefore, remain with the Patriotic League, the 57th Regiment and Sergt. Hughes representing Lt.-Col. Scobell.

ENEMY WOMEN BRUTAL TOWARD THE PRISONERS

LONDON, April 12.—Appalling revelations of the systematic brutality of German women of the Red Cross towards British wounded have been made to the Berne correspondent of The Times by scores of British soldiers of all ranks released from German prison camps. On the long journey of the British wounded through Germany it was the common amusement of these women to tempt our men, who were in the last extremity of hunger and thirst, by holding out food and drink to try and make them snatch at it, and then withdrawing it. Many of the wounded begging for water and coffee, water and soup tendered to them, and then at the last moment the gentle nurse would spit in the cup of glass. Frequently the wounded had to drink the defiled stuff while the women looked on and laughed.

An equally common entertainment with these women was to offer a wounded man a glass of water and then pour it slowly on the ground. Cases of physical maltreatment of British wounded by German nurses were just as common and systematic as the refusal to give them nourishment.

The nurses not only refused to attend to British wounded but regularly insulted and spat on them. Frequently they even struck or kicked a bandaged limb in order to give pain.

"If," says The Times, "the German Red Cross is merely a branch of German militarism it has prostituted its sacred sign, shamed its name and forfeited all right to be regarded as an organization of humanity."

Does The Law Regard A Hotel As Public Place?

Is a hotel a public place? That is, considered from a legal standpoint. Magistrate Dumble has a case before him in which a man pleaded guilty to having been found intoxicated in a hotel, and points out that Mr. Justice Kelly gave a decision embodying the opinion that an hotel was not a public place. Crown Attorney Hatton and Chief Thompson state that this decision was reversed, hence the Magistrate should make a conviction under the Temperance Act. Mr. Dumble is reserving his decision until the Crown has presented authorities in support of their contention.

Two New Apartment Houses Developing In Alterations

The rooms over Bennett and Goodwill's office are being altered and rearranged to provide six apartments at an estimated cost of $5,000. Mr. Ephgrave has the contract, and a staff of carpenters and other workmen are on the job. This new set of apartments will include twenty-eight rooms with six baths, in what was formerly used in part by the old Public Library. The building is the property of Bennet and Goodwill.

Making Four Apartments.

Mr. G. L. Stevens is transforming his residence at 631 George street into a four-room apartment house at a cost of $2,500. The work includes an addition to the building. Mr. Tom Wilson has the contract, with F. R. J. McPherson putting in the plumbing.

Carpenters Busy.

Reports from builders indicate that there is considerable activity, with carpenters getting the bulk of it. Ald. George Duncan states that painters are exceptionally busy. Many citizens received an impulse toward new decorations through the bargain sales in wall paper and other incidental prices. Householders apparently have both the money and the desire to brighten up their homes, and as a result the decorating trade in decidedly active.

Building New Cottage.

Mr. G. Walter Green is having a cottage built at Stoney Lake on the old Stubbs property opposite Mr. John Crane's property. Mr. Thos. Wilson has the contract.

The W. M. S. Concert A Grand Success

Master Lang of Peterborough and Miss Suggitt Assist in Programme

MILLBROOK, April 12.—The entertainment given in the basement of the Methodist Church on Easter Monday was a big success. The attendance was large, the programme excellent, and the proceeds quite satisfactory.

Those who took part in the programme were: Mission Band, Orchestra, Master Lang, of Peterborough, Jean Burnham, Alfred and Mary Higgs, Male Quartette, Misses Hetherington, Elson and Johnston, and Miss Suggitt of Fenelon Falls. The amusing comedy, "The New Minister's Wife," was well given by Mrs. Sayles, Mrs. P. Stinson, Mrs. Christie, Mrs. A. Larmer, Mrs. Higgs and Misses Byam, Burnham, Pethick and Hetherington. The proceeds amounted to over $30. The W.M.S. is to be congratulated upon another successful entertainment.

BANK CLEARINGS

Bank clearings for the week ending April 12 are slightly lower than last week on account of Good Friday and Monday being holidays.

This week $448,419.
Same week last month $553,136.
Same week last year $450,941.
Same week two years ago $447,649.

WAKING UP WELL

One of the best signs of good nerves and clear well nourished blood is to wake up in the morning at just the right time, without a thought of tiredness or a disinclination to rise. If you wake up feeling tired, headachy and with a desire to stay in bed a while longer, depend upon it your nerves are out of order and your blood is probably thin and poor. An anaemic person is never good for much until after breakfast; but the first waking hours are the brightest, to those whose blood is in good condition.

For better nerves, a hearty appetite, good digestion and confident spirits, the new rich blood which Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make is the best thing in the world. Take a dose after each meal for a while and see what a difference they will make. Notice how vigorous you will become; how hungry you are for your meals; how steady your nerves will have grown, and how confident you feel to take on the day's work. This is always the effect of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, the greatest nerve tonic ever discovered—the only nerve tonic which makes blood which the body must have to keep you well. You have only to try them and you will be convinced.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., of Brockville, Ont.

The fellow who raises his voice usually manages to convince everybody within hearing that he is a noisome nuisance.

ARMSTRONG IS CHAIRMAN

SPECIAL TO THE EXAMINER:

OTTAWA, Ont., April 12.—At its first sitting to-day J. E. Armstrong, M.P., of East Lambton, was elected chairman of the Special Committee of the Commons, appointed to consolidate the Railway Act. The Railways, Railway Brotherhoods and Municipal Associations were all represented. Only non-contentious clauses were taken up to day.

93rd Soldier From Chemong Lonesome In English Hospital

"Private R. Taylor, 18th Battalion, at present in Shoulden hospital, at Deal; well, but worrying; no letter from home since a year ago; please investigate and cable; have letter sent him. Parents are at Curve Lake.—Capt. Moir."

Mayor Duffus called the Indian Reserve at Curve Lake, and learned that this refers to Private Russel Taylor of the 93rd Battalion. His parents are away from home, camping and trapping. The Mayor stated to-day that he would see that a cable is immediately forwarded to this young Indian, and that a letter will follow. The Indians at Chemong promised to get in touch with the soldier's parents, who will doubtless write him.

ADDRESSED MOTHER'S CLUB

The regular monthly meeting of the Mothers' Club was held in the Y.M.C.A. yesterday at 3 p.m. with the President in the chair. After a short business session, Mr. Ellis of the Farm and Dairy gave a very helpful talk on Back Yard Gardens which should bring results, judging from the number of questions he answered, and those who heard him cannot fail to benefit by his talk.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Ellis for his trouble, and the meeting closed with prayer.

Mr. Cooper has resided here all his life and is survived by his wife and two sons, William, of Warsaw and Bert, now in France; also four sisters, Mrs. Thos. Chatton and the Misses Mary, Edith and Alice all of Peterborough. The funeral will take place from the family residence, Warsaw at two-thirty p.m. on Thursday.

Legislature Is Prorogued

Special to The Examiner.

TORONTO, April 12.—The Ontario Legislature prorogued this afternoon with the usual ceremonies. In his prorogation speech Sir John Hendrie, Lieutenant-Governor, especially emphasized great importance of heavier production of foodstuffs throughout the province. Referring to granting the franchise to women His Honour said it would afford means of increasing the helpful and wholesome influences they have exercised in the past. It was also emphasized that the returning soldiers would receive the appreciation they deserved.

With Better Times Parents Seek the Return of Son

Magistrate Dumble listened this morning to a succession of good character evidence in the appeal of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Butcher for the return of their boy who was placed in the custody of the Children's Aid Society seven years ago. But at that time, back in 1910, the order of commitment to the Society was not signed, and Mr. G. N. Gordon, representing the parents, urged that the order be not signed now, and recently appeared before a Toronto Court seeking the return of the boy who has been for years in a good farm home in Haliburton.

Mr. Gordon called a number of witnesses to show that the Butcher home was a fit and proper place for the boy, and the evidence linked up in establishing the fact that whatever the conditions were in 1910 the Butcher home to-day is comfortable, moral, and otherwise above reproach. Mr. J. J. McBain, for three years landlord; Mr. Bert. Heard, six years their grocer; Mr. Clark, their next door neighbour; Adjutant McElhiney, who stated that Mr. and Mrs. Butcher were regular attendants at the Temple every Sunday, and their other son, Wilbert, who has been returned to them, attends Sunday School. These and other witnesses regarded Mr. and Mrs. Butcher as good citizens. The third child is a girl, who is living with foster parents, but is now home on a visit, a pretty child who, with her brother and parents, apparently form a happy family. It is understood that the Haliburton people are opposed to giving up the child, to whom they have become closely attached. The pleasing feature this rather pathetic situation presents is the better and evidently the happier times that come to this household, and the natural desire of the parents to reunite their children about them.

TO-DAY'S WAR NEWS

THE HAGUE, April 12.—German papers arriving here describe the British gains near Arras as lamentable from the German standpoint, but purely of local and not of strategical importance.

WASHINGTON, April 12. — The first week of the war ended to-day with the United States Government still lacking means for raising a great army, and no action was in sight. Increasing opposition to the selective conscription idea had caused a growing belief that some sort of compromise may yet be necessary, whereby the volunteer system shall be given a trial before the draft is put into effect. The President, however, continues firm in his determination to press the general staff bill for modified conscription.

Committees in both branches were in conference on war measures, and peace propagandists were at work on the committees, particularly the House Judiciary Committee, which is considering the spy bill.

NEW YORK, April 12.—War experts here think that in all probability General Nivelle, Commander of the French troops, has already started a new offensive in the southern and central portions of the western front, in support of the British offensive. An analysis of the French official communiques seems to indicate that.

LONDON, April 12.—The greatest battle of the war is coming soon. Germany has her reserves ready and is about to hurl her full forces against the Allied line on the western front, according to Gen. F. B. Maurice, Director of Military Operations, in an interview to-day.

LONDON, April 12.—Cairo despatches indicate that the British are continuing their successes in the vicinity of Gaza, Palestine. The Turkish losses in that neighbourhood were 3,000, while the British dead were less than 400.

promising some action on the matter, but nothing definite having been started, arrangements have been made to commence the work here by the returned soldiers themselves. The following letters have been received by the Canadian Kitchener League from Peterborough soldiers, overseas:

France, March 7, 1917.

Canadian Kitchener League:

Just a few lines to let you know I received your beautiful parcel of socks about three weeks ago, and I wish to thank you very much, on behalf of the boys I gave them to, and myself, for such a splendid and useful parcel. I may say also that they arrived at a most opportune time, as we were just getting ready to go into the trenches when the mail came up and the socks were ours. We need lots of socks in the trenches this time of year, too, because it is very sloppy and muddy now, but we don't mind that when we know there is such a good pair of dry socks in our haversacks to put on when we come off duty. Of course we get lots of the Army issue, but what are they compared with a good pair of home-knit Canadian socks?

Now, I don't want you to think I have been licking the blarney stone, but I do want you to know that those socks were just right and that we appreciated them very much. The pair I got had a nice little note in them from a girl in Peterborough, and last but not least, three beautiful kisses, and I hope we soon get this old contract finished over here, so I will be able to get home and pay her back. The only thing to finish this is men and still more men, until the enemy is crushed, and I hope that the boys that are hanging back now will come forward and answer the call, and get over here for the finish any way.

Well, dear friend, I think this is all, so wishing you and the League every success, I remain,

Yours sincerely,
PTE. W. J. McCOY.

France, March 7, 1917.

The parcel of socks which you sent was received in good condition. Please accept my thanks for the same and also for your good wishes. The socks came at a very opportune time and we certainly needed them badly. We have been having a very great deal of wet weather and the best thing a soldier can receive is socks. Again I thank you.

Yours sincerely,
A. SODUM,
195046, D Company, 18th Canadian Battalion, B. E. F., France.

634 Park Street, Peterborough,
April 9th, 1917.

Editor Examiner.

Dear Sir,—To give some idea of the cheery optimism that prevails among our boys in the trenches, in spite of all the odds against them, the following is an extract from a letter from Pte. Geo. Melton, who went over with the 93rd Battalion, and has since been drafted into the 21st, and is on active service at the front. He says: "Thanks for the parcels received the other day. It seemed I had them all at once, and I should think that cake was just as good as when it came out of the oven. Myself, with the boys of our platoon, sure had some feed the night the parcel arrived. Was pleased to hear you were all O.K., and I am glad to say I am the same, and hope to remain so. I am pleased to see by your letters, mother, that you are not worrying about me; it makes a fellow feel so much better when he knows his people are not worrying. The fellow out here that gets miserable letters from home is more wretched and homesick than all us others put together; we are happy as long as we can think you are.

The weather is pretty bad and the mud worse than that; but "we should worry." If sticking in the mud means winning the war, we can stick to it all right, but you would laugh if you could see a fellow getting stuck in the mud; we have to pull our feet out of our rubber boots and beat it back for a shovel and dig them out in our bare feet. It's a joke. You know however hard a thing is out here, we always look at the bright side of it and laugh at a thing we would consider ridiotic at home and in "civie" life. I notice in your letter a request that I ask for anything I fancy so that you can always send it in the parcels. Well, a piece of your home-made cake always comes in fine; don't trouble about sugar sticks or anything like that; that is the sort of thing we can buy; but a little parcel of fudge would always come acceptable, but just the piece of home-made cake is what I want most of all.

Good-bye; love to all; must stop for want of news.

Your loving son,
GEORGE.

Mrs. Breadman of the Soldiers' Wives and Mothers' Club has received the following letter from Pte. W. Pearce, who went overseas with the 93rd Battalion, and is now in France with the 1st Canadians:

Dear Madam,—I received a pair of socks from the Wives' and Mothers' Club with your name and address in, and I would like to express my thanks to you for the same. They came just at the time I needed them most. The boys are grateful for the interest that is taken in them though they are so far away from home, they can only express their thanks by letter. I hope you will be spared to continue in your good work until it is no longer required for the war, and I have no doubt you will find some other good work to do after it is over.

Music & Drama

IL TROVATORE.

A large audience thoroughly enjoyed the wonderful music of Verdis' masterpiece, "Il Trovatore," as interpreted by the Boston English Grand Opera Company at the Grand last night. A galaxy of grand opera stars, headed by Jos. F. Sheehan, and Mlle. Nellie Gardini, and assisted by a chorus of splendid vocal ability, made the presentation a delight from start to finish. The wonderful trio at the end of the first act, the famous "Miserere" in the last act, the Anvil Chorus and the other gems for which "Il Trovatore" is famous, were rendered in a manner that electrified the audience, and all the principals scored heavily. An augmented orchestra, under the direction of Signor Gacimo Spadoni, added much to the charm of the production.

Editor Daily Examiner,

Peterboro, Ont.

Dear Sir: Saturday Night of 31st March, under the heading "New Sources of Wealth," gives the following information:

"After some years of experimenting a process has been developed by which potash has been obtained in the process of manufacturing cement, from a combination of felspar and limestone. A plant with a capacity of 2,000 barrels per day can at the same time produce 15 tons of potash. Hitherto the world's markets have been supplied largely by Germany, and since that country has been blockaded the price has risen enormously — from $50 to $600 per ton for muriates."

There are, Mr. Editor, vast deposits of felspar and limestone in the township of Burelgh contiguous to the Trent Canal, and I feel it my duty to ask you to give this fact publicity; and then it will be the duty of capitalists and men of enterprise (if there are any in this section of the province) to develop and put into commercial use not only this great source of wealth, but the large cement works at Lakefield.

Mineral wealth is being brought to light in every section of the province except that section north of your city. Yet the northern part of the county of Peterborough holds out greater promise for the miner's success than many of the sections that are now producing a source of wealth to the province.

Yours truly,
R. C. Strickland.
Haultain P. O., April 9, 1917.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—The root of evil is evil itself. If we could abolish evil; see how much suffering, etc., could be saved. Let us send up a mighty prayer from all believers to God, asking Him to abolish evil. I have never been in favour of doing things piecemeal such as first abolishing liquor, then church disunion, then the shipment of idols from Christian countries to the heathen, then the use of tobacco, etc. And, then think of the advertising Peterborough would get out of it. Every way you look at it, it is a good idea, except one and that is God's way. It is not God's way. He gave no evil unduly to try us out. If we abolish it instead of overcoming it, we seek to defeat His purpose and can any good come out of such a course in the long run?

The people who sprang from Adam grew to bud, that they had to be drowned like rats and I never could see any good in reading the history of the doings of such people. Then the successor of Adam, the second progenator of the human race was so delighted with His universal deluge and the success of it, that he got drunk. That was another bad thing. Then the world got so bad that it would have been totally extinguished if a way had not been found out of the difficulty by the sacrifice of Jesus. You know the history of all this is terrible and then think of the honours that have taken place since the death of Christ. To think of it that all this might have been saved by putting the spirit of good and not the spirit of evil into men's hearts. Why was it not done? Had we then, after all, better ask God to abolish evil in the world or had we better leave that to Him, and each of us try to abolish it in himself? "There is only one way under Heaven by which men must be saved." You say, 'What has that got to do with women's suffrage? It has this to do with it. We must know how women think on all these points. We can no longer disregard women's opinions on what is vastly more important, take them for granted. Women henceforth will express their own opinions and not through the medium of men. They will be equal to men. In all things they will be equal to men and things that are equal to one another. They will not necessarily be identical as some suppose, but equal, and equal only in the enjoyment of liberty. What superiority belongs to them, as a class. It will be the superiority of women over men. It will perhaps be a struggle between women and men. For many centuries women have been to do as men said. Henceforth it may be that men will have to do as women say. Is it not wise for men, therefore, to find out how women think in important matters. Come to our meeting in the Opera House on Tuesday evening next and hear more about it. Everybody welcome. It is Conservative in nature only. It is free to every citizen who cares to come.

WAS NEWS TO HIM, ANYWAY.

An editor of the Far West dropped into church for the first time in many years. The minister was in the very heart of his sermon. The editor listened for a while, and then rushed to his office.

"What are you fellows doing? How about the news from the seat of war?"

"What news?"

"Why all this about the Egyptian army being drowned in the Red Sea. The minister up at the church knows all about it, and you have not a word of it in your latest. Hustle around, you fellows, and get out an extra special edition."

Government Will Take Control

Examiner Special:

WASHINGTON, April 13.—The Government is arranging to take control of all railways, telegraph and telephone lines, which practically constitutes martial law in the United States.

FROM SEVEN TO FIFTEEN U-BOATS CAUGHT A WEEK

NEW YORK, April 11.—The New York Times yesterday publishes the following:—"The British ... have been destroying U-boats at an average rate of one a day since February 1, and latterly at an even higher rate, according to information brought to New York yesterday by persons returning from Europe, who said they had the authority of naval officers and officials high in the Admiralty for the figures. In the month following the declaration of unrestricted submarine warfare, British ships sank thirty-two submarines. Since then, it is said, the average number destroyed a week, has been between seven and fifteen, with the number running as high as twenty-three in the week.

British naval officers assert their methods in fighting the submarine are being improved constantly. The small motor-boat known as the "submarine chaser," following in the wake of destroyers dragging cables or chains between them has sunk most of the U-boats with a new explosive bomb, effective within a circumference of 200 yards. Airplanes are used also while the practice of equipping merchant ships with guns forward, as well as aft, has caused the destruction of several U-boats.

British officers say the Germans profess to be turning out a submarine a day, but they do not see how submarines, manned by competent crews, can be sent to sea at this rate.

Another Mile of Line Taken By the British

The Possession by Haig's Troops Threatens the Pivotal Point of the German Line Around Arras

FRENCH PRESS ON

Special to The Examiner.

WITH BRITISH ARMIES AFIELD, April 13.—Another mile of the Hindenburg line was captured by British forces to-day. The positions lay southeast of the Cojeul river. The possession by General Haig's troops more and more threatens the pivotal point of the German line around Arras.

With the French armies before St. Quentin, now joined with the British offensive, General Nivell's troops today had pressed forward to a point where the southern pivot of the German retreat was fatally menaced by their blows. The suburbs of St. Quentin were reached by the French forces to-day.

Simultaneously on the west of the city the British forces pounded their way forward. The final capture of St. Quentin and St. Gobain, which is now certain, must result in the breaking of the first point in the "Hindenburg line," according to French strategists.

American ambulance corps were flying the American flag to-day.

Promise to Repatriate All Those Wrongfully Deported as Unemployed

ARE THEY BEGINNING TO SEE THE FOLLY OF FURTHER FRIGHTFULNESS?

THE HAGUE, April 13.—The first chamber of the Dutch Parliament was informed yesterday by the Foreign Minister that the German Government had notified the Minister of the Netherlands at Berlin that steps had been taken to repatriate all Belgians who had previously taken refuge in Holland then had returned to Belgium and then, as unemployed persons, had been deported to Germany.

The German Government, it was announced, had also promised to repatriate all Belgians who had been wrongfully deported as unemployed. Thousands of such persons, it was declared, already had been returned to their homes.

RECIPE FOR SILENCING UNPATRIOTIC PEOPLE

(From the Auburn Citizen.)

An incident that showed the difference between a yellow dog and a man took place on an Auburn & Syracuse trolley car, when individuals representing the above mentioned roles took part in the drama.

It was in the smoker end, and passengers of the male species were smoking and discussing the all-absorbing topic.

One mouthy individual whose Americanism was nil evidently believed his fellow passengers to be as traitorous as himself, and after delivering a few preliminary remarks that were unresented he became emboldened enough to remark that if Germany were to offer him enough money he would not hesitate to divulge American military secrets.

A passenger who sat across the aisle had heard enough and he too, did not hesitate. He sent a big fist shooting for the jaw of the willing spy, and the blow landed lustily. It brought the purchasable gent to silence that ought to last for the duration of the war.

The Citizen believes in obedience to the law. We do not like to encourage assault and battery, but we do take off our hat to the fellow who stood up for America.

There is a small minority of loose talkers who think that the liberties allowed in America include the right to become publicly offensive to those who love this republic.

It is very desirable to disillusion them.

FRANCE PREPARES FOR TOURISTS

PARIS—A year ago it was announced that 7,000 passages had been booked by Americans on the first ships to leave for Europe as soon as the war should be over. Six months ago it was said that there were 70,000 thus inscribed.

To-day the number is put at 700,000— for which, of course, there would not be enough tourist boats in the world. But wait, tut tut! I speak of tourists! What is meant is that will be an indefinite multitude of Americans in Europe. Every one who can will wish to see the great battlefields of north France and Belgium while they are still fresh, and travel along part, at least, of the 600 miles of trenches.

One thing certain is that the American tidal wave will rush to France; and one thing admirable is that France, in the midst of trying and bloody war, has already begun organizing to receive the tide handsomely at its flood.

I asked and obtained an authentic and competent interview on this subject. The French foreign office sent me to the president of the national office of touring, which the government has set up. Do you realise?—a cabinet member for touring. The post has come into existence practically with the war. It is held by Fernand David, a member of parliament and former minister in different cabinets of agriculture and commerce.

I found him at his private flat overlooking the flying buttresses of Notre Dame cathedral. He looks a young man to have attained such high functions, but any one can see that he is a born leader and organizer.

"The national office of touring," he said, "has been working several months in connection with the Touring club, the railway and steamship companies, and hotel syndicates to properly receive the flood of war tourists, particularly Americans."

"Do you expect many war tourists?" I asked.

"We hear of something like 1,200,000 announced for the first year, according to the capacity of steamships," he said. "There must be a service in Paris to inform them about the possibility of obtaining rooms, food, transport, and service in the zone of the armies—which means, of course, that such rooms, food, transport, and service must exist. It is with these essential matters that we have occupied our organization up to the present. Now we are getting into touch with the tourist agencies. It is important."

I was struck with admiration. All this organization in full war- (Of course, we had heard echoes of it in Paris, but he has an extra surprise for me.)

I asked him how they propose to lodge, feed, and convey such multitudes of tourists in the devastated war zone. It seems that tourists may be admitted (temporarily, to see), even before the refugee population are permitted to return (permanently) to their damaged homes. Of course those whose homes have not been damaged will return to them at once.

"In many places the earlier war tourists must be content with long one storey barrack hotels of simple boards, but very hygienic, with brand new furniture and fittings throughout" said Fernand David. "Of course in greater towns, like Reims, Verdun, Bar-le-Duc, etc., there will be great hotels springing up rapidly. At Verdun, they say, ten palace hotels are organised; and work is certainly progressing on four of them. I tell you this. It is not generally known."

"Americans are prepared for barrack hotels in the open," I said. "But will they suffice? What about the towns and villages?"

"There is no question of making sumptuous hotels at once all over the zone of the armies," he replied. "The question is how to properly lodge the war tourists. American tourist agencies have proposed to bring camp hotels for the front—the best knocked down installations. We are in correspondence about it. One great resource which we have in our hands and is being organised at this moment is to lodge as many as possible with the actual inhabitants of the regions—those whose houses happen to be still intact. In each commune near to the trench line we are constituting a lodging syndicate. It will be particularly interesting because tourists can soon often talk with people who have lived through the war. All these will be united."

"Villagers, townsfork, farmers?" I questioned.

"Yes, all that; and the chateaux and country houses where the military chiefs have lodged and the staff majors have centered—everything available," he answered.

"All these will be united, how?" I asked.

The important functionary settled down, resigned to talk some more. "I see that I must tell you all the national office of touring has been doing," he laughed. And thus Fernand David sketched an interesting outline of things to come—work of a brand new cabinet office!

"The national office of touring began by making an inventory of the souvenirs of the German invasion—we don't call it the war—" he said. "This inventory includes the battle fields, witnesses of the heroism of our soldiers; the points where the struggle has been hottest; the organizations of defense and attack; (you know there have been little railroads built along the front, and automobile trains which served and saved the trenches.) It includes the cataloguing of notable spots, like the Maison du Passeur, the Hohenzollern redoubt, the Cabaret Rouge, the Monacu farm and so on. And we continued by making itineraries, uniting all these points with the trenches, the staff majors, the ruined cities, devastated villages, the cagibis—"

"The cagibis!" I said.

"The soldiers' huts, caves, houses, cagnas or cagibis, which they have built for themselves along the fighting line. The army, being the able bodied males of the entire French nation, includes any quantity of experts—architects, builders, artists, bricklayers, plasterers, carpenters, furniture joiners, art artisans, and what not. The wonderful houses which such men have amused themselves by improvising out of chance materials are one of the sights of the war which must not be allowed to disappear."

"Would they disappear?" I asked.

"One by one, or oftener—like the Marquis de Canlincourt," said Fernand David. "How many have not been blown up by exploding shells, already, or been abandoned at the trumpet call to move on to the subterranean fortresses of the boeches, which make another wonderful curiosity. They are veritable subterranean cities; but our men don't like them. The hole of a German general differs from that of a badger only by its cement walls, carpets, tapestries and piano. Our men regret this cagibis."

The cagibis! They are Robinson Crusoe, the Swiss Family Robinson, the Oklahoma Squatters, the Quartz-Arts constructions of the Montmartre hill. They are New Zealand huts, Congo villages, and claque-patues of the vacant lots round Paris. They are the play-houses of architects and artists of canal boatmen, and peasants. The material? Clay, unbaked bricks, sand bags, tree trunks, reeds, turf, broom and heather; and, between stones big and little, hay, dried weeds, of pine needles for packing, alternating with the best Portland cement. Devastated villages furnish windows, doors, woodwork, and half-broken furniture to be repaired. From ruined chateaux they fetch beautiful remnants, often architectural. Mutilated auto busses are transformed to houses on wheels. In the swamps of Picardy they are lake dwellers—with their villages on high piles. In the chalk cliffs of the Meuse and the Oise, they are cave dwellers—but shun the sunlight, because the French dislike the underground. Also, there are combinations. There are Arab tents which terminate in frame cottages and Swiss chalets backed up against cliffs which end in sumptuous cave apartments, adorned with beautiful furiture and every comfort.

"The cagibis," said Fernand David, "are a wonderful feature of the long trench line, which extends for 600 miles, from Ypres on the Yser-tic, to Belfort, by the Swiss frontier."

"Tourists will want to take it in," I answered.

"All these points will be united," he continued; and we are organising automobile services to permit visitors to take such tours across the front and be lodged comfortably."

"But the trenches are an arbitrary line," I said. "Surely, no highroad existed along them, from Ypres to Belfort, before the war! Is there such a road?"

"It seems there is a thread of roads behind the front," he said, "which can be completed here and there, to keep close to the trenches. There's no harm to it all now. (The "now" means much.) Also, we are establishing a map, in several languages, so that visitors can follow, mile by mile, the expanse of the war, and keep in touch. Again, the map will be useful in Paris, to choose what sectors tourists wish to visit."

I asked if they foresee being able to accept all who want to make the entire tour from the Atlantic to the Swiss frontier.

"The number of tourists must be limited, each week, to the number that can be accommodated," he insisted. "At need, we shall make people wait their turn in Paris—unless they have secured dates, in advance, through tourist agencies. It remains to be planned. In Paris, parties may be told: 'You sleep to-night at Ypres, at Rheims day after to-morrow' and so on. Other parties can go straight to Bar-le-Duc or Verdun (for example) and return to Paris. Later, they will go from Paris to the Soissons sector ,and return to Paris. And so on. I imagine that wealthier tourists will often make these radiating trips, instead of going down the whole line at once. But nobody can tell."

Glass of Hot Water Before Breakfast a Splendid Habit

Open sluices of the system each morning and wash away the poisonous, stagnant matter.

Those of us who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when we arise, splitting headache, stuffy from cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, lame back, can, instead, both look and feel as fresh as a daisy always by washing the poisons and toxins from the body with phosphated hot water each morning.

We should drink, before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to flush from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary tract before putting more food into the stomach.

The action of limestone phosphate and hot water on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast and it is said to be but a little while until the roses begin to appear in the cheeks. A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will cost very little at the drug store, but is sufficient to make anyone who is bothered with biliousness, constipation, stomach trouble or rheumatism a real enthusiast on the subject of internal sanitation. Try it and you are assured that you will look better and feel better in every way shortly.

Jesus the Good Shepherd: John 10: 1-18.

Golden Text: I am the good shepherd; the good shepherd layeth down his life for the sheep. John 10:11.

1. Verse 1. What reason is there to think that the present Christian church is what Jesus meant by "the sheepfold?" (See Acts 20:28.)

2. What conditions are necessary in order to join the various branches of the Christian church to-day?

3. What is the only condition which Jesus enjoins for joining his church, or entering into the Christian sheepfold

4. How does a member of the church having entered in "some other way," than the Jesus way, resemble a "thief and a robber?"

5. Verse 2. How and when did Jesus join God's church on earth?

6. When and from whom, did Jesus receive his appointment as the Shepherd of the Church?

7. Verse 3. How can you show that all those who live in harmony with God, recognise Jesus, when they first hear his voice

8. Verse 4. What are the ways in which the children of God gladly follow after Jesus?

9. How does Jesus speak to his followers other than through the church, and the Bible? (See John 14:26.)

10. Would you say or not, and why, that Christ's "voice" through the Holy Spirit is so clear that a true follower of Jesus cannot misunderstand it?

11. Verse 5. What danger if any, is there to a loving, faithful Christian of mistaking some other "voice" for that of the Holy Spirit of Jesus?

12. Verse 6. Is it or not and why, necessarily a sign of lack of spirituality, or of real goodness, when a person does not intellectually understand some of the parables of Jesus? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by the members of the club.)

13. Verse 7. A door shut is to secure the inmates, and keep out "thieves and robbers," while a door open is for egress and ingress; how then is Christ the door of the Christian sheepfold

14. Verses 8, 9. Who as Jesus meant were the "thieves and the robbers" in his day, and previous; and who are they to-day?

15. Verse 10. What religious individuals, churches or sects do you know, whose object is to hurt people, and not to help them?

16. Verses 11-15. Why is it essential that every true under shepherd be willing to lay down his life for the sheep?

17. Why is it vicious and unlike Christ for a pastor to leave one charge for another for no other reason than an increase of salary?

18. Verse 16. What is the proof that Jesus is just as much the Saviour of the Gentiles as the Jews?

19. What is Christ's relation to all religions other than Christianity?

20. Verses 17, 18. Beginning with Jesus what is the noblest characteristic of every good man?

WORD THE GIRLS LIKE.

If you happened to be near the bunch of giggling girls in the interurban station the other day, you would have concluded that only two words were left in the English language with which to express approval, answer questions, or exclaim.

You could not help hearing the conversation, for after the fashion of some young girls, they did not care who heard what they said.

They opened fire when they met by asking each other, "And how are you?" The answer was invariably, "Just fine. How are you?" And the first one answered back with emphasis, "Just fine!"

Then they tackled the weather, and each of them conceded that it was just fine. It seemed that one of the party had not been with the others for some time, and that her special chum of other days was not present on the occasion, and one of them asked, And how is Marie "

"Oh, she's just fine!" was the enthusiastic reply. "She's married, you know!"

"Married? Marie! Oh, hush! Did she get a nice man?"

"Yes; he's just fine!"

And they all exclaimed in chorus, "Isn't that just fine?"—Indianapolis News.

Nerves Were So Bad Would Lie Awake Nights

And Had to Avoid Crowds or Excitement—When Doctors Gave Up Turned to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food With Good Results

Peterborough, Ont., March 9.—The cure reported in this letter will be best appreciated by persons who know the keen mental anguish caused by inability to sleep. You lie awake and think with alarm of all the dreadful things that might happen to you. You lose confidence and courage, are easily irritated and life is scarcely worth while.

But there is a message of hope in this letter, for it tells of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and the grand work it is accomplishing.

Mrs. Chas. E. Wiley, 136 London street, Peterborough, Ont., writes: "About three years ago I was suffering from nervous debility sleeplessness and loss of appetite. My nerves were so bad that I could not attend church or any place where there was a crowd or excitement. During the nights I would lie awake for two or three hours. I had tried several remedies, and taken treatments from doctors. The doctor finally said he could not do any more for me, and it was then I started using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I had read in the newspapers of how highly it was recommended, so I secured some and commenced using it. After the third box I noticed an improvement, so I kept on taking them until I had used eight or nine boxes. The results were such that I could sleep and eat well and go to places where there was a crowd or excitement without any difficulty. My health was generally benefitted greatly. Since that, from time to time, when I am not feeling up to the mark, I take a few of the Nerve Food pills, as I usually keep some in the house. I would recommend this treatment to anyone suffering from nervous trouble of any kind."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, a full treatment of 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Do not be talked into accepting a substitute. Imitations only disappoint.

A Woman's — Problem

How to Feel Well During Middle Life Told by Three Women Who Learned from Experience.

The Change of Life is a most critical period of a woman's existence, and neglect of health at this time invites disease and pain. Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs. Read these letters:—

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I started the Change of Life five years ago. I always had a headache and backache with bearing down pains and I would have heat flashes very bad at times with dizzy spells and nervous feelings. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I feel like a new person and am in better health and no more troubled with the aches and pains I had before I took your wonderful remedy. I recommend it to my friends for I cannot praise it enough."—Mrs. Margaret Grassman, 759 N. Ringgold St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Beverly, Mass.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for nervousness and dyspepsia, while I was going through the Change of Life. I found it very helpful and I have always spoken of it to other women who suffer as I did and have had them try it and they also have received good results from it."—Mrs. George A. Dunbar, 17 Roundy St., Beverly, Mass.

Erie, Pa.—"I was in poor health when the Change of Life started with me and I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, or I think I should not have got over it as easy as I did. Even now if I do not feel good I take the Compound and it restores me in a short time. I will praise your remedies to every woman for it may help them as it has me."—Mrs. E. FRENCH PILOT'S QUICK THINKING DEATH TO U-BOAT

SINKS DIVER WITH BLADES OF PROPELLER — SAVES LOAD OF SOLDIERS.

PARIS, April 12.—The novel destruction of a German submarine through the quick wit of an unnamed French pilot is one of the war tales of the sea which will live for years to come. To this pilot's credit to-day is the saving of perhaps hundreds of lives.

At the bottom of the British channel lies the battered shell of a German U-boat which, previous to its demise, had been notorious for its deadly work among the craft of all kinds that happened to cross its path.

A great transport vessel loaded with British soldiers was the intended victim of the submarine. Despite torpedo boats convoying the transport, the U-boat appeared close the French coast and shot its torpedo .A few minutes before a French pilot had boarded the ship to take it safely into the shallow channels which led to the harbor.

ESCAPES RUSHING TORPEDO

This pilot held the wheel when the submarine poked its periscope above the choppy waves. He saw the torpedo come plowing toward the ship. A piece of clever manoeuvring caused the half ton of explosives to rush past the transport, missing it by a narrow margin. The khaki crowd aboard watched the show with silent interest. Their lives were in the hands of the Frenchman up on the bridge. Not a sound came from any one.

The only noise was that of the big craft veering sideways to miss the torpedo and the swish of the latter as it passed.

The torpedo boats began to get into action. They could not fire for fear of hitting their convoy, but they rushed in circles in an effort to train their guns on the enemy. The latter, however, was also constantly manoeuvring. The submarine commander was watching the destroyer and paying no attention to the big, unwieldy transport, which seemed to be wallowing in the trough of the waves.

U-BOAT SUNK BY BLADES

The French pilot's part in the drama, though, was not so unimportant as the submarine commander thought. By pulling of bell ropes and pressing of buttons the pilot soon had his ship under control. He veered it about so sharply that the submarine was quickly entrapped under the transport's stern.

Every mortal aboard heard the grinding and ripping of steel plates as the pilot's swiftly revolving propeller ate its way into the U-boat's vitals. A rumbling sound and great patches of blue oil on the surface of the water were soon the only evidences of the submarine. Then the pilot calmly signaled for full speed ahead and took his ship safely into harbor.

PIMPLES and BOILS

ALL OVER FACE AND BODY

When the blood becomes impure you will find that pimples and boils will break out all over the body, and although they are not dangerous trouble, they make you appear unsightly both to your friends and yourself.

Burdock Blood Bitters will cleanse the blood of all the impurities and poisons which cause the skin to break out in these eruptions.

Miss Sylvia Swanson, Theodore, Sask., writes: "I am letting you know what great value your B.B.B. has been to me. A year ago I started to grow pale and weak, the cause being bad blood. I got so many pimples and boils all over my face and body that I would not let strangers see me, and I used to avoid company. I tried many remedies but all seemed a failure. I read about how good your B.B.B. had been to thousands of people so I got a bottle and after I had finished the second one my pimples and boils had all disappeared. People thought it a miracle how well I looked.

"Your grand old remedy sure has been as good as gold and better, to me".

CALLS FOR OFFICERS.

NEW YORK, April 10—Favourable replies thus far from five Governors and nearly 100 Mayors have convinced the recruiting committee of the Mayor's Committee on National Defense that almost every State in the Union will co-operate in making special appeals for army and navy recruits on April 18 and 19. The Mayors of Southern cities have been especially enthusiastic in their endorsement of this plan. Messages expressing sympathy with the movement have been received from the Governors of South Carolina, Nebraska, West Virginia, Vermont and Arizona.

Major-General Leonard Wood, who is making speeches to stimulate recruiting several nights of the week, declared at a dinner of the Canadian Club last night, that between 50,000 and 60,000 officers would be needed this summer.

The American Railway Association has sent to each of the 250 railroad systems of the country detailed instructions for the transport of troops and munitions.

The Motor Reserve Committee of the Council of National Defense has prepared plans for an organization of owners of motor cars and trucks for military use in cases of emergency. Alfred Reeves, chairman of the committee, said he did not expect occasion would arise for the commandeering of private automobiles, because the automobile factories of the country would be able to supply the Government with all to supply the Government with all

THE EARLY TOMATO

Is the tomato a vegetable or a fruit? This question was gravely discussed a few years ago in the House of Commons at Ottawa when a change in the import duty was proposed. Very positive statements were made as to the proper classification though no vote was taken to obtain an official verdict. If your neighbour claims that the tomato is a vegetable it is quite safe to dispute him and tell him if it is a fruit, and vice versa. Seed catalogues list it among vegetables; the botanist knows it as a fruit.

Being a native of South America the tomato requires considerable attention in our northern climate, and until danger of frost is past, which is late in May, it must be cared for indoors or in frames that can readily be covered. To get early ripening it is necessary to sow the seed in March, thus giving the plants nine or ten weeks' growth before setting out in the open ground. This rule applies to the latitude of Montreal. In favoured spots like southwestern Ontario they are started as early as February.

Rich, loamy soil is required for the hotbeds or the boxes in which the seeds are sown. Have the rows fully four inches apart and cover seed a quarter or half an inch deep, pressing the soil down firmly with the hand.

When the rough leaves appear remove the plants into other plots, leaving them about four inches apart each way. A second removal may be made before the final transplanting, the object being to get a stocky young plant that will bear blossoms by the time it is planted in the garden. Strawberry boxes will be found very convenient for putting the plants in to enable them to be carried and set in the open ground without disturbance of the roots.

A larger crop of early fruit can be obtained by pinching off the top of the plant after it has about six good leaves. This will result in shoots developing at the axils of the leaves that are left. These shoots will each bear flowers if the plants be given sufficient room and if far enough advanced when set out the crop of early fruit will be much larger than from the terminal shoot.

In the home garden a very good way of training tomato plants is to tie them to stakes, allowing only one stalk to grow. Lateral shoots are pinched out as they appear, but leaving the flower clusters and all leaves on the main stems. Stalks five feet long and about one and a half inches in diameter are needed. Tomatoes grown by this method have all the advantages of sun and air and will be cleaner and more attractive looking than those grown on the ground. If it is thought to be too much work to tie the plants to stakes the soil can be drawn up close to the stakes or other support given.

The late planting which is necessary gives an opportunity for thorough preparation of the soil. If manure has been applied for previous crops the ground will be in good condition for tomatoes. A clover sod ploughed under and well disked or harrowed gives the very best preparation for either tomatoes or potatoes, the food requirements for these two crops being very similar.

Fortunately there are few insect pests that trouble the tomato. Cutworms may prove troublesome when the plants are set out. For these use poisoned bran in the proportion of 1 1-2 pounds Paris green, thoroughly mixed with 50 pounds moistened and sweetened bran. Scatter on the surface soil about the plants The remedy will be found generally useful in the garden as cutworms are often plentiful in sod land that is broken up.

Every year sees improvement in the varieties of tomatoes, both in quality and early maturity. The tomato of fifty years ago was ridgy on the surface and the interior was rather hollow. Now the seed cavities are small and there is firm flesh instead of juice. At present the Earliana, of which there are several strains, is the earliest and smoothest. The Bonny Best and Chalk's Early Jewel are also good sorts, the latter being suited for a main crop also. Of later varieties Matchless and Trophy are two standard sorts, both having an attractive colour.

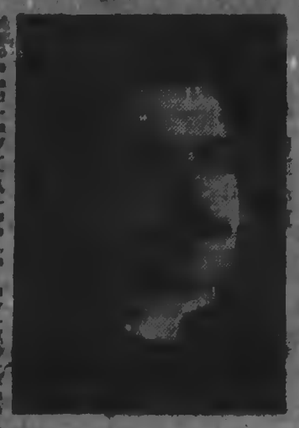
UNION and CO-OPERATION

Rev. J. D. BRYNES, North Bay



Rev. J. D. Brynes,

A FEW years ago we spoke of East as East, and West as West, and New Ontario as "No Man's Land," separating the one from the other, but the incalculable wealth of wooded hill and mouled mountain attracted a large and ever-increasing population. Among these new-comers are men of almost every tribe and nation—Russians, Austrians, Germans, Jews, Finlanders, Norwegians, Swedes, Poles, Icelanders, Turks, Hindus, Roumanians, Ruthenians, Chinese, and many others, as is seen from the fact that in one small town of four thousand people, twenty-three (23) different languages are spoken.

To meet this situation the Church in the North has endeavored to unify its work along different lines, especially by an extensive system of co-operation. A survey of the whole land was made and the newer sections equitably divided. In some of the older localities the Methodists withdrew from one place and the Presbyterians from another. Indeed, for a while we hoped that co-operation would solve the problem but experience taught us differently. It taught us that to meet an emergency or as a stepping-stone towards union co-operation is a good scheme, but as a permanent policy it is an absolute failure. It is a failure because it is unfair in principle and anything that is unfair in principle cannot be of permanent value in the policies of Church or nation. Union, on the other hand, enables the people to meet half way and to meet on a "basis" that preserves the highest and best in their respective churches. True, it will not solve every problem, but it will consolidate the armies of the Church and equip them to more successfully meet the forces of evil so strongly entrenched in this and every new land.

In harmony with the action of the [illegible] Committee the Methodists and Presbyterians have agreed upon a policy and adopted a plan that will practically eliminate overlapping in the whole North land. This will mean a saving of much money (approximately $35,000.00 per year), but what is much more important, thirty-eight men will be liberated for a larger service in more needy centres.

This great forward movement is possible, and possible only (1) because the assembly in harmony with the expressed wish of the members, Sessions and Presbyteries of our Church definitely decided to enter into union with the Methodist and Congregational Churches, (2) because in the light of that legislation the people believe that union will be finally consummated in the near future, (3) because that legislation provided permits the re-organization of congregations along the lines prescribed for local churches in "the basis of union of the United Church of Canada."

That the people of this district want union is seen in the number of requests and suggestions that come to us along the lines of the following letter:

"We have read with much interest of your meeting re co-operation and union, and would like you to understand that we are heartily in favor of the movement, but at the same time may we suggest that in a community like ——— it would be very unwise to ask either church to withdraw. If, however, your intervention is union, there will be no trouble, for we are ready."

The people are anxious for union because we have 102 preaching places vacant, many of which have no Protestant service of any kind. To leave so many places vacant in times like these is disastrous. To leave them vacant when in other centres two or three men are working a community which one one could serve, is criminal. We want union because it will help and help mightily to build up such a religious, civic and national life that New Ontario instead of being a barrier separating eastern civilization from western progress will be the great golden link binding east and west, thus consolidating and unifying the Canada that is and the Canada that is to be.

GERMAN CROPS GET BAD START THIS YEAR

Easter Holidays Marked a Return of Severe Winter Weather.

COPENHAGEN, April 12. — The Easter holidays in Germany were marked, according to reports in the German newspapers, by a return of winter weather over a large part of the Empire, an occurrence of considerable importance in connection with the prospects for the next harvest. Particularly sharp drops in temperature, with snow, were reported in the important grain-growing regions of Germany. Before this development the agricultural papers had complained of the effects of the severe and protracted winter. The winter grain crop was several weeks behind its normal development, although it is declared that the proportion requiring re-sowing was comparatively small. Farmers were unable to commence their spring planting, and it seems certain that the new delay will materially defer the fall harvest of all food crops.

The net result is that there will be increasing difficulty in carrying over until the harvest on the scanty reserve stock, even if the harvest itself is not affected in quality.

Was Troubled With Shortness of Breath

When the heart becomes affected, there ensues a feeling of a choking sensation, a shortness of breath, palpitation, throbbing, irregular beating, smothering sensation, dizziness, and a weak, sinking, all-gone feeling of oppression and anxiety.

The nerves become unstrung, you dread to be alone, have a horror of society, start at the least noise and are generally fatigued.

On the first sign of the heart becoming weakened or the nerves unstrung, Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills should be taken. They are just what you require at this time. They regulate and stimulate the heart, and strengthen and restore the whole nerve system.

Mrs. C. M. Cormier, Buctouche, N.B., writes: "Since two years ago I was troubled with a shortness of breath, and sometimes I could hardly breathe. I went to see several doctors, and they said it was from my heart and nerves, but they did not seem to do me any good. One day I got one of your B.B.B. Almanacs and read of a case similar to mine.

"I bought a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and after taking it I noticed such a change that I kept on taking them until I had used four more boxes, when I was cured."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c a box, three boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., [illegible]

Meatless Days For States, Says Big Meat Packer

CHICAGO, April 10—Unless immediate steps are taken for Government control of food, with one or two meatless days a week, the United States before the year is out, will be as short of provisions as any of the European nations. This is the warning voiced to-day by J. Ogden Armour, millionaire packer, and one of the biggest dealers in food in the world.

"Unless the United States wishes to walk deliberately into a catastrophe," he declared, "the best brains of the country under Government supervision must immediately devise means of increasing and conserving our food supply."

GUARANTEE WHEAT PRICES.

Armour advocated Government control of all provisions, including a Federal guarantee to the farmers of $1.50 a bushel for wheat, increased crops, meatless days, Government supervision of fertilizer prices to bring greater yields, strict economy in all households, and cultivation of every available acre.

"The food shortage," he said, is world-wide. The European production is cut in half. Argentine has suffered droughts. The question of food supply is the most pressing and important before us. We have entered the war. Our first duty is to see that both our own people and our allies have food. Government control will bring objections from firms whose profits will be cut, but the individual must suffer to benefit the mass.

AMERICA MUST WAKE UP.

"Food manufacturers can easily double their output. The people of the United States are not awake to the deadly seriousness of the situation they are facing. We must rouse ourselves from the lethargy into which we have fallen."

Armour declared that the man who raises more food to supply "our people, our armies, and our allies," is just as patriotic as the man who enlists. Every [illegible] Armour's big estate at Lake Forest, he said, would be immediately devoted to raising foodstuffs or used as grazing lands for cattle and sheep.

Italy Now Ready To Push the War

HAD SMALL ARMY AT START

Now has Trained Force of 2,000,000 Men—Has Spent $4,000,000,000 so far.

ROME, April 1.—A comprehensive view of what Italy has been doing to perfect her organization of military, industrial, and political forces may be gathered from data given at the Ministry of War, where it is declared that Italy is now prepared to enter into a still more vigorous prosecution of the war.

It is frankly stated that Italy began the war with the feeling that she was a weak nation, poor in money and material resources, with an army that was unfitted to cope with that of Austria, which was far superior in artillery and which for many years had been planting heavy cannon in the fastnesses of the high mountains that lie between her and Italy.

The Italian General Staff, in command of General Cadorna, has never made a secret of the fact that when Italy's troops were first launched, in May, 1915, against the Austrian frontier, along a 500-mile front, defended by twenty-five divisions (625,000 men) of trained troops, it was with an Italian army of which perhaps a mere 200,000 men might be classed as trained troops, and troops which were lacking in artillery support, even in the very clothes needed to keep them warm in the mountains. Nor has it been a secret that, politically, Italy began the war divided into two parties, one of which was against war with Germany or any kind of war at all.

Therefore, internally, one of the big tasks of the General Staff and of the Government has been to maintain the nation's morale at the fighting pitch by proving the nation's future progress. Throughout the war, on the one hand, the army has been kept in tight control by Cadorna, while in Rome Baron Sydney Sonnino, the head of the Department of State, has exercised a much-admired skill in handling the opponents of the war. By his continual presence at the front, save for a total period of two weeks' absence in Rome on government business, the King has indicated his position to the nation. The various antagonistic anti-war efforts of the Socialists have been overcome by the division of that party through one of its leaders, Leonida Bissolatti, being taken into the present Cabinet, and also through the influence of the Vatican, which is notably anti-socialistic.

Cold Worst Enemy at Start.

One of the first enemies the Italian General Staff had to conquer, after its first leap into Austrian territory; was cold upon the steep mountains, mountains that for two-thirds of its front vary from 7,000 to 11,000 feet in height. This cold is often six degrees below zero, (Fahrenheit). In the first-line trenches the soldiers had to have the heaviest of clothing and boots, while wooden barracks had to be built for those in the second, or reserve, line. In addition, extra large quantities of food and proper cooking utensils had to be carried up to them, and roads had to be built so that wagons or automobiles could reach them rapidly. For a single army corps it was necessary to provide 300,000 board planks, 280,000 woolen blankets, shirts, and pairs of socks, 80,000 waterproof capes, 40,000 fur coats, and 10,000 sleeping sacks.

The Italian frontier trench line has been continually maintained at a length of 1,200 miles, counting the second, third, and fourth line trenches that have been dug for reserve purposes. The new territory occupied beyond the old frontier comprises no fewer than 138 communes, covering an area of 3,080 square kilometers, with a mountain population of 280,000 persons.

In order to reach the front through this territory with the enormous quantities of supplies needed, the combined forces of the army's engineering corps and that of Italy's Department of Public Works were required. These two organizations began working in the early part of the war and until the present time have built 510 miles of new macadam road and rebuilt, widened and repaired 2,445 miles of other roads. Irrespective of the regular State railroad lines these abovenamed organizations have planned and built upward of 150 miles of air-line cables for the handling of freight, 110 bridges, and 200 miles of narrow-gauge railroad. There has also been done an immense amount of construction work, in the way of wooden or cement barracks, storehouses, warehouses, hospitals, schools and cemeteries.

In order to secure the supplies for this new army, beginning perhaps with scarcely 500,000 men, and now estimated at 3,000,000, the nation has put in operation a total of 2,179 factories, employing 468,940 persons, of whom 72,224 are classed as skilled workmen. This total number of factories and plants is sub-divided into sixty-six military establishments proper, employing 21,645 workmen and 12,474 women, 432 auxiliary factories, employing 344,702 workmen and 55,253 women. Of these latter ninety-one turn out metal parts, 480 rifles, cannon, aeroplanes, automobiles, projectiles, and cartridges, and 352 manufacture explosives, chemical products, and work over crude ores. There are, further, 1,181 minor projectile factories, employing 35,000 persons. To these totals must also be added a countless number of uniform and clothing factories in every part of the land.

The war so far has cost Italy about $4,000,000,000, of which sum a little over one-third has been obtained by her own people. Notwithstanding these popular subscriptions and increased taxes, the national savings bank shows a decided increase of deposits. These deposits July 1, 1916, were slightly over $300,000,000, and Jan. 1, 1917, they had increased by $65,000,000, or a total of 2,200,000,000 lire. In addition, there are deposits in private banking institutions amounting to $1,125,000,000.

While Italy has officially placed but a single loan of $25,000,000 in the United States, she is buying annually there upward of $280,000,000 in values. Those war materials she herself cannot produce come chiefly from the United States, such as cotton and woolen cloth, mineral oils, shoes, iron ore, steel manufactures, coal, wheat, and horses.

Italy's Military Accomplishments.

The military activities of Italy on land have been, primarily, that of continually menacing Austria with an invasion that might reach Vienna, and thereby forcing her to maintain a big army on this frontier that might have been used against the Russians or the French; of maintaining another army in Albania, and thereby connecting with the Anglo-French expedition at Saloniki; and, finally, of blockading the Adriatic ports of Austria, protecting the Adriatic ports of Austria, protecting the Anglo-French expeditions to the Dardanelles and to Saloniki, and aiding in the transportation of troops and material thither.

Italy has on her northern frontier captured 85,000 Austrian prisoners, not counting a possible double that number of killed and wounded. Italy's army successfully handled the big drive of the Austrians in the Trentino last May, and turned that drive into a severe punishment of the Austrians by the taking in August of Goriza and other points on the lower line toward the Adriatic, together with some 40,000 prisoners. The Austrian invasion began with 400,000 men and 2,000 cannon, all aimed at one point between the Brenta and Adige rivers. The plan was no less than to so defeat the Italians as to be able to break across to the French frontier and take in the rear the defenders of Verdun.

The attack failed within three weeks, it failed because of the rapidity with which the Italians counterattacked in large numbers. Within the space of two weeks they threw across the Austrian path an army transported from other sections of the front, using therefor 85,000 railroad cars and 1,000 automobiles, to carry 500,000 men, 75,000 horses, 15,000 carts, cannon, rations ammunition, medicine, and other material.

The difficulty of this movement will be appreciated by the fact that the troops were fighting in waterless mountains, and each day to those dry plateaus were carried 450,000 quarts of drinking water to the thirsty men.

Careless Shampooing Spoils The Hair

If you want to keep your hair looking its best, be careful what you wash it with. Don't use prepared shampoos or anything else, that contains too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is just ordinary mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonfuls will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.

Better be a "tight wad" and save money, than a "good fellow" and go broke.

British Nobles To Plow Parks For War Farms

Back Move to Put Every Acre to Crop as Aid to the Nation.

LONDON, April 11.—Now that every available acre in Great Britain is needed for food raising purposes, the owners of historic estates are coming forward patriotically and preparing to make the sacrifice of picturesqueness, pleasure and tradition that the exigencies of these critical times demand.

They are preparing to slaughter their herds of deer and to plow up the parks in which these animals have roved, in some cases for centuries to turn their wonderful lawns into pastures, and even, in some instances, to place their castles and ancestral halls at the disposal of the state for occupation by the German prisoners who are to be set to work "on the land."

Kenyon Gives Land to Nation.

One of these patriotic land owners is Lord Kenyon, the King's new lord in waiting, who has decided to turn the lawns of his principal residence, at Gredlington into sheepwalks. Lord Kenyon, among other things, enjoys the distinction of being the tallest member of the royal household, standing a shade over six feet two inches in height.

One of King George's oldest friends and a veteran of the Boer war, Lord Kenyon, has large estates in three English counties, Lancashire, Flintshire and Shropshire, and is also a director of several leading railway lines. A bachelor until last year, he then [illegible] Howard of Wigfair, St. Asaph.

Among the noblemen who will sacrifice their deer parks are Lord Kimberley, who is having the deer shot on his property in Norfolk, and Lord Ancaster, whose park at Drummond castle will be plowed up forthwith.

Deer From Tudor Days.

The last mentioned park is a comparatively modern one—only a couple of centuries or so old—but many English deer parks contain herds that have been literally there from time immemorial.

One of these is Lord Ancaster's principal seat, Grimthorp castle, in Lincolnshire, the stately old home of the Bertie, Dukes of Ancaster. It is surrounded by a well-wooded park of 2,000 acres, which contains a famous breed of reindeer which has been there since Tudor days. Whether these, too, will be sacrificed remains to be seen.

Lord Berkeley, too, intends to convert his deer park at historical Berkeley castle, which he recently inherited from his kinsman, the last Lord Fitzhardinge, to agricultural purposes, and the herds of red and fallow deer are to be disposed of during the coming season.

Berkeleys Serve in war.

Practically every eligible member of the Berkeley family is serving his country in the present war and watching the new record of valor are Crimean and other veterans bearing the name of Berkeley, who would gladly be in the present fight.

The head of the house is Baroness Berkeley, peeress in her own right, who has just entered her forty-first year. Curiously enough, the last holder of the barony was also a woman, and to succeed the present peers there are two co-heiresses, her daughters, the Hon. Mary, aged 11 years, and the Hon. Cynthia, aged 7.

The history of the house is one of the most interesting on record. In Plantagenet days the seventh feudal lord died a prisoner in Wallingford castle, and his heir, a custodian of Edward II. when the prince was murered, was arraigned for assisting but was later honourably acquitted, and subsequently the title and estates went by deed to Henry VII., but in the seventeenth century they were brought back to the family.

Fate of Berkeley Cattle.

Picturesque Berkeley castle, with its checkered history, greatly impresses the visitor. Its great hall, with its stained glass windows, the terrace, the dark picture hung staircase, the tapestried bedrooms, and, above all, the chamber wherein Edward II. was done to death, all help to give the place a weird fascination.

Yet somehow, what sets people thinking most is the tradition that the red deer in the park (now doomed) are the descendants of the stags which, for lack of horses, were harnessed to the king's bier and drew him to his grave at Gloucester.

The room where Edward was murdered is dim and dark, with a rough oak plank floor; the light falls from two stained glass windows on a white head of the king in a niche, and upon an old bed on which is, or was, a sword in the position in which it was found after the murder.

DRAFT INDIANS ON FARMS.

MUSKOGEE, Okla., April 12. — Indians in Oklahoma, under the guardianship of the United States government will be "drafted" into the United States service as farmers under instructions received by Gabe E. Parker the superintendent of the Five Civilized Tribes, from Cato Sells, Indian Commissioner. It is estimated that 30,000 will be available.

Mr. Parker is directed to call farmers and leading Indians together immediately for an organized effort under "your continuous supervision." He also is authorized to take the older boys out of school for farm work.

Influence somebody for good, and you will have a right to think well of yourself.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

MISS MANSFIELD

By DONALD CHAMBERLIN

Barradale was not able to get a va cation till October. On the 10th he went to a house a mile distant from a village, a house where they took summer boarders. The only other per son there was a girl of nineteen. Who she was did not appear. She was not a member of the family. She did not reside there regularly. She spent most of the day in her room, but what she did there was not made known to Barradale.

One morning when Barradale started out for his accustomed morning walk his landlady, Mrs. Stetson, asked him if he happened to go by the postoffice to bring the mail, adding that he was to give any letters that might come to her and no one else. Barradale called for the mail and noticed that it consisted of two letters, both for Miss Mabel Mansfield. They were addressed in masculine handwriting. Miss Mans field was the young lady boarder. Bar radale delivered the letters to Mrs. Stetson and thought no more about the matter.

Having nothing else to do, Barradale took long walks, stopping for long rests—that is, when the retreating summer got the better of the coming autumn and it was warm enough to sit still. On several occasions he passed the postoffice and always asked for the mail. There was usually a letter for Miss Mansfield, sometimes addressed in a woman's, sometimes in a man's handwriting. Miss Mansfield, weather permitting, took a walk in the afternoon. One afternoon, when Bar radale had the mail in his pocket, he met her. Taking out the letters, he selected one for her, gave it to her and passed on. When he handed the other letters to Mrs. Stetson he men tioned that he had given one to Miss Mansfield. Mrs. Stetson frowned, but said nothing. The next day she told him that he need not trouble himself about the mail; she would get it her self. After that when he called at the postoffice he was given his own mail and no more.

There was no one in the house to interest Barradale except Miss Mans field, and he longed to avail himself of her companionship. He noticed, however, that whenever he attempted to do so Mrs. Stetson thrust herself upon them. The consequence was that Barradale, noticing that Miss Mansfield walked in the afternoon, contrived to meet her and walk with her.

At first she demurred, saying that he was a stranger to her, and she was not used to the society of men. Girls should be very careful with whom they associate. However, she gradual ly thawed, and her prudence did not prevent her from making appoint ments to meet him without the range of Mrs. Stetson's watchful eye.

Put a young man and a young wo man under the same roof with no other associates, and the result is usually the same. When Barradale went home he had received Miss Mans field's permission to call upon her mother—she had no father—who lived in the same city as himself, to ask for her hand. The evening after his ar rival he made the call. The house was a stone front, and a dignified el derly lady received him.

"Mrs. Mansfield?" he asked.

"I am Mrs. Mansfield."

"Mrs. Mansfield, I have been spend ing a month in the country, where I have met your daughter."

At this the lady became all attention.

"I found her a charming girl," con tinued Barradale—"indeed, so charm ing that I fell in love with her."

"Were you at Mrs. Stetson's?" asked the lady sharply.

"I was."

"Mrs. Stetson assured me that her summer boarders had all returned to the city," snapped the lady.

Barradale was about to proceed with his application when Mrs. Mansfield broke in, talking partly to herself and partly to him.

"What shall I do with her? She's in corrigible. She got all the boys in the high school in love with her, and I packed her off to college to get her away from them. She had barely en tered before she was expelled for breaking the rules. I managed to have the expulsion exchanged to suspension and rusticated her under the care of Mrs. Stetson. Mrs. Stetson has writ ten me that Mabel has been getting let ters from her lovers despite the fact that Mrs. Stetson has endeavored to intercept them. Did Mabel send you to me to ask for her?"

"She did."

"You are the seventh person she has sent to me to ask for her in the past six months. If I had known that a young man had gone to the same house in the country as she I would have warned him. Mrs. Stetson is very much to blame."

"No harm done, I assure you, Mrs. Mansfield," replied Barradale, out wardly unruffled. "I'm just of an age to cut my wisdom teeth. The experi ence will surely be of service to me."

"I wish you'd take her off my hands," said the lady ruefully. "The others have been boys; you are a man and might be able to control her."

"Thank you very much. Just at pres ent I don't feel like relieving you, but when a man is once inoculated by a Cupid's arrow it's difficult to get the poison out of his system. Meanwhile I'll play her own game with her. I'll let her severely alone for a while."

It so happened that Miss Mansfield had played the game once too often. She is now Mrs. Barradale.

Dyspeptics Should Avoid Drugs And Medicines

Try a Little Magnesia Instead.

Some people instinctively abhor their eyes to danger, and it may be that instinct, or custom or habit causes dyspeptics to take drugs, patent foods and medicines, artificial digestants, etc.

But closing the eyes does not banish the danger, and it is certain that neither drugs or medicines possess the power to destroy the harmful excessive acid in the stomach, which is the underlying cause of most forms of indigestion and dyspepsia. They may give temporary re lief, but ever increasing quantities must be taken and all the time the acid re mains in the stomach as dangerous as ever.

Physicians know this and that is why their advice so often to sufferers from digestive and stomach trouble is "Just get about an ounce of pure bisurated magnesia from your druggist and take a teaspoonful in a little water immed iately after every meal. This will in stantly neutralize all the harmful acid in the stomach and stop all food fermen tation, thus enabling you to enjoy hearty meals without experiencing the least pain or unpleasantness afterward.

STEAMER TAKING BIG CARGO TO PITCAIRN ISLE

Religious Colony Cut Off From World to Get 30 Tons of Supplies.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., April 11. — The steamship Australplain of the United States and Australasia Steam ship company is now on its way to Pitcairn island, in the south Pacific, by way of Panama, carrying thirty tons of necessities for that religious and model colony.

Few vessels ever find themselves near enough to Pitcairn to stop. Sometimes three or four years pass without the residents seeing a vessel.

Capt. Cockell of the Australplain stopped there about two years ago and G. E. R. Christian, chief magistrate of the island and a lineal descendant of Fletcher Christian, chief of the muti neers of the Bounty in 1789, reported the distress of the colony.

People's Clothes Worn Out.

He said they had plenty to eat, the and all vegetables flourishing, but the eighty women and girls were almost without clothes, the plant from which they made a fiber cloth having become exhausted.

For ten years they had been work ing to build a small schooner to open commerce with Tahiti, but lacked the necessary ship's hardware. They also wanted small agricultural implements and some candles for state occasions, and they would be grateful for an or gan.

For more than a hundred years the Pitcairn island residents have been religious, and it has been described as a model colony, with no strife and the highest example of brotherly love. But for the first few years after the mutineers landed there it was not so tranquil. The nine mutineers stoned the Bounty at Tahiti and took on board six native men as servants. They also stole twelve of the hand somest Tahitian women.

One Mutineer Survives.

Soon after they established them selves on Pitcairn, wrecking the Bounty to build their homes, a homi cidal war started, women and home made liquor being the causes. Only one of the nine mutineers, three of the women, and two score or more chil dren survived, and that mutineer, old John Adams, at once reformed and es tablished what since then has been the one place on earth without strife.

Adams did not know much about religion, but he had Fletcher Christ ian's Bible and went to work on it. The result was that for many years he had the colony observing all the fast days and feast days in the Old and New Testaments, both Jewish and Christian, and until a missionary landed there in 1820 there was grave consideration of establishing a sac rificial altar.

Improvements in their religious practises caused them to want an or gan for their choral singing, and now they are to have it as soon as the Aus tralplain reaches Pitcairn. The young women on the island, "big, husky, fine looking lassies," as Capt. Cock ell describes them, are excellent sing ers. They show little of their Tahitian ancestry and look more like the heal thiest kind of English girls.

Rats Overrun Island.

Chief Magistrate Christian also told Capt. Cockell that rats on the island were so numerous as to be a plague, making it impossible to grow grain. That statement caused Johnson & Johnson, surgical supply manufact urers of New Brunswick, N.J., to send by the Australplain several large cas es, of containing virus and other poi sons for the killing off of the rats.

The other cases conutained medi cines, surgical dressings, and other such supplies that the colony may need for a long time to come.

The Standard Oil company offered as many candles as Capt. Cockell would carry. He took 6,000, enough to last several years. Shipping men con tributed $356 in cash, with which Capt. Cockell purchased the small ag ricultural implements and a quantity of hardware to finish building the schooner.

Send Clothes to Colony.

Several hundred families sent bun dles of clothes for both women and men, enough to last the colony sev eral years. Some one sent a really fine organ, with many hymn books and folios of other music. And, upon the suggestion of Capt. Cockell, the Un ited States weather bureau sent a set of weather instruments to estab lish an observation station on the island for the benefit of mariners and in the hope of attracting more vessels to Pitcairn to adjust their own in struments.

In addition to all that, which Rob ert G. Moran, general manager of the United States and Australasia Steamship company, estimated would take up thirty tons of the Austral plain's cargo space, the United States postoffice department had advertised that the vessel would carry the first official mails to the island.

bread tree, yams, cocoanuts, bananas,

The result of that announcement was that hundreds of persons sent letters and newspapers and even books by the first mail. A result will be that the residents of the island will open correspondence with the outside world.

BILLY SUNDAY AS CHIEF AGENT FOR GAINING RECRUITS

NEW YORK. — Billy Sunday, as chief recruiting sergeant for the United States is the likelihood that forces America to-day. Sunday had lunch yesterday with Theodore Roosevelt and General Wood. What passed be tween them is unknown but it is said that they talked about the war all the time.

Sunday is out for enlistment. He may even utilize the tabernacle for this purpose. He is a soldier's son, and the spirit militant is his chief strength. New York is a unit—in cluding even those who dislike his methods—that if Sunday devoted his energies at the tabernacle to recruit ing for the American army, simul taneously with his evangelistic fight, he would prove to be a tower of strength.

Nothing is settled yet and Sunday keeps his own counsels closely. But the public believes the luncheon pre sages Sunday's entry into the lists as chief recruiting sergeant for the Amer ican army that is to be.

SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK

When Mixed With Sulphur It Brings Back Its Beautiful Lustre at Once

Gray hair; however handsome, de notes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Com pound," which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use prepara tion, because it darkens the hair beau tifully, besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural colour is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lus trous, and you appear years younger. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Com pound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure mitiga

1916 Saw Larger Sum Paid Out In Compensation

TORONTO, April 11.—Hon. I. B. Lucas yesterday gave out the report of the Workmen's Compensation cov ering the second year of its opera tion. The compensation for 1916, in cluding estimates for continuous disabilities and outstanding acci dents, amounts in schedule one in dustries to $1,971,675.63, and in schedule 2 to $451,709.93, making a total of $2,423,385.56, or an average of $7,800 for each working day of the year. This is a heavy increase over 1915. The compensation in schedule 1 for 1915 was $1,091,020.62, being very close to the estimate in the 1916 report as against $1,971,675.63 for 1916.

Manufacturing Active.

Activity in industries stimulated by the war, and greater frequency and more complete reporting of acci dents, are, no doubt, the chief ex planations of the increase. Up to the close of the year 16,192 accidents during 1916 had been compensated for, being fatal cases, 1,418 permanent disability cases, and 12,686 in volving only temporary disability. The corresponding figures for 1915 were 9689, comprising 251 fatal, 1,034 permanent disability, and 8,644 tem porary disability cases.

Other Accidents.

There were, in addition to the 16,192 accidents compensated prior to the end of the year, 7,672 other ac cidents reported, which, because of the disability being less than seven days or for other reason, did not come within the provisions of the Act, and there were 1,439 cases in which complete reports had not yet been filed. As claims and reports continue to be received long after the close of the year, the final fig ures will largely exceed the numbers mentioned. The total assessments in schedule 1 for 1916, including es timates, adjustments, amounts to $1,948,040.65. These she contributed by 15,280 employers upon pay rolls aggregating approximately $193,000,000, representing, according to a cir culation based upon the average earnings in accident cases, the wages of about 240,000 full year workers. This is exclusive of clerical workers not exposed to the hazard of the in dustry, and of the industries in schedule 2 in which the employers are individually liable for compen sation but do not contribute to the accident fund.

"Seal Brand" means a certain, definite blend of high-grade coffee—uniform in quality and always delicious.

Billy Sunday No Flatterer: Flays White Wayfarers

NEW YORK, April 9.—Billy Sunday scored a home run in the first inning of the biggest game he ever played on "God's Nine"—in his fight to win New York. The ringing cheers of sixty thousand welcoming voices to-day resounded through every glittering cranny of the Great White Way.

It was a smashing initial victory, and as the stocky evangelist reached his clenched fists heavenward and yelled defiance to Broadway and the evil, the enemy was perturbed. First off, he stole the foe's thunder by announcing that not one cent of New Yorks' gold would he take for him self.

"Every penny, whether I get five thousand or five hundred thousand," said Sunday, "I will give to the American Red Cross and the Y. M. C. A. work among the troops."

It was a knockout. "That's my answer to the skunks who say I'm out for money," he yelled. The crowd went wild.

Clad in a serge suit, blue bow tie, white "tango" shirt and patent leather shoes, Sunday leaped into the arena and, after the manner of Na poleon, led surprise attack after at tack.

Twice the great throngs, amid the pineshavings and sawdust trails of the giant tabernacle, jumped to their feet and howled with inspired emotion.

Then came the climax:

Leaning far back, and cupping his hands as he hurled his rasping voice directly into the mammoth sounding board that threw his words into the farthest reaches of the tabernacle, Sunday issued his defi:

Did Someone's Ear Burn?

"Come on, you God forsaken de generates; come on, you forces of in iquity in New York that have made the church a cuspidor and a door mat to wipe your dirty feet on; come on, you traducers, come on, you triple extract of infamy; come on, you assassins of character; come on, you sponsors of harlotry; come on, you defamers of God and enemies of the church; come on, you bull-necked, beetle-browed, hog-jowled, peanut brained, weased-eyed four flushers, false alarms and excess baggage.

"In the name of God I challenge and defy you. It's mighty easy to lie about a man when he isn't on the job. I'm here now. Come on!"

Then, whirling to patriotism, Sun day again brought the crowd to its feet with his plea for the flag.

"You ghastly, hideous, infamous Prussian militarism," he shrieked, stand up! The women and children you have murdered cry for help! And I say to you people, that the Germans would be pounding at our door if it hadn't been for the answer made by the men of England and France and Italy.

"German Imperialism is doomed; and the guns of the United States are going to help dig its grave."

He waved the flag; and the crowd howled.

The fellow who tells you that the average man is dishonest, is suffering from an ingrowing grouch.

THE EGG ARGUMENT.

"Yes," said Columbus, "I have proved by this egg that the world is round."

"But it works both ways," replied the king doubtfully. "A boiled egg shows that the world is round. But if it were made into an omelet it would demonstrate with no less clearness that the world is flat."—Washington Star.

EXAMINER PATTERN SERVICE

GIRL'S RUSSIAN BLOUSE DRESS.

By Anabel Worthington.

7977

Because the girl of 14 needs every bit of stylish clothes as the one of 18 years, a fashion-wise Russian blouse dress in the illustration. It is almost trite to repeat that this is a natty type of dress in which any girl will look her best.

The frock pictured has a collar, cuffs and the facing which simulates a vest in contrasting goods; edging and banding are added to give the little delicate touch that girls of school age crave. The back view shows that the collar is something to speak of and to look at. At the waistline the blouse body is gathered and belted; below the belt are ripples, ripples, to join the river of fashion.

The full pleated skirt is attached to an underwaist and falls most gracefully. In serge, gabardine, worsted, plaided or checked material this dress may have satin in opposing color for collar, cuffs and facing, or plaid silk or serge. It is suitable for wear on Sunday dresses in the better fabrics.

The dress pattern No. 7977 is cut in sizes 8 to 14 years. To make in size 10 will require 3⅝ yards of 36 inch material, with ½ yard of contrasting goods for collar, cuffs and facing; ⅝ yards of edging, ⅝ yard of insertion and ⅝ yard of 55 inch lining for underwaist.

To obtain the pattern send 10c to the office of this newspaper.

When ordering remember to give your name and address as well as the number and size of pattern required, and age of a child.

Price 10 cents, or 9 for 25 cents.

FRENCH ACTING DONE AT FRONT GREAT SUCCESS

With the French Armies.—Almost any New York theatrical manager of recent years could find ample reason for envying the French government's success with its theatrical tours to the French front.

A season lasting 365 days in the year, with inability to give sufficient performances and standing room only at all that can be given, sums up the situation.

The French government's theatre for its armies is now operating with all the splendid regularity and precision of the famous government supported opera, Opera Comique, Comedie Francaise, and Odeon in times of peace. The principal difference is that the government maintained theatre for the army is twice as successful as any of the peace time civilian institutions.

The theatrical companies that are sent out to the French front come under the direction of M. Albert Dalmier, under secretary of fine arts in the French cabinet.

Play Along Whole Front.

Performances are given along the entire front, from the North sea Coast to the Swiss frontier, and not only the best dramatic, and operatic stars of the French stage contribute their services, but even the best dramatists compose skits and various acts calculated to make the greatest possible hit with the poilus.

The companies, of which there are half a dozen now, are composed entirely of unmobilized actors, and naturally also addresses, who volunteer their services, and mobilized actors whom the French military authorities allow to perform their duty to La Patrie on the army theatrical stage instead of in the trenches.

The latter as a matter of fact really fare the better, for they continue drawing their army pay, amounting sometimes to 30 and 40 cents a day, depending on the grade they occupy in the army, while the unmobolized volunteers, both actors and actresses draw nothing.

Army is Democratic.

As the French army is democratic in the extreme—a professor of philosophy and a bartender may be companions in arms in the same company—so the programmes given have to be democratic. There must be something to please all tastes. It is seldom indeed that the direction fails to include an act from some of the classic French dramas.

Following that there may be operatic selections by some of the best artists, dances by the most famous "danseuses" of both the French grand and comic opera stage, and from that on down to comic skits, vaudeville turns, and the ever popular songs sung by the composers themselves. There is scarcely a camp or cantonment along the entire French front that does not have ints little theatre where these companies can appear.

The artists participating in these performances endure hardships on these tours that might make the most veteran barnstorming company in America wince. The experience of one of the companies that recently gave the two hundred and fortieth performance before the French armies is typical.

The company left Paris at 8 o'clock on one of the coldest, snowiest days that France has seen in years. The train was due ot arrive at Bar le Duc in three hours and a half, but it got there in seven instead. The company was whisked away in army automobiles to a heatless hotel, where, after deliberation it was decided that as the theatre, wherever and whatever it might be, could not be worse, the artists would take the risk on being able to dress there instead.

Icy Ride to Cold theatre.

A fifteen mile automobile ride followed over icy hills, where it was a fight every minute to keep the machines going. When they slipped back on the ice packed roads the artists jumped out, lent a shoulder, and helped push them up the incline until the wheels could again get a hold.

The theatre proved to be an ordinary airy army barrack, erected on the back of one of the most beautiful estates in France, the proprietors of which have made a practice of throwing it open to regiments that have particularly distinguished themselves at the front. The one then in repose there was just fresh from the trenches at Verdun.

In the little heatless dressing room to the rear the actors and actresses donned their costumes, while the regimental band, composed entirely of Red Cross men, who are obliged to "double in brass," played the overture. Over the calico proscenium arch the "R. F." monogram of the French republic blazed inspiringly and was in fact the warmest thing in the theatre—with the one exception of the enthusiasm and welcome given the artists.

INACTIVE PORCUPINE MINES REJOIN THE ACTIVE LIST

The feature of development work in the Porcupine camp during the past year has been the resumption of operations at properties which up to that time had been lying idle since war began in Europe. It is figured that some twenty properties, which were inactive in April, 1916, are now the scene of aggressive development, and this number is likely to be increased as soon as the snow leaves the ground and surface prospecting becomes practicable.

Among the properties which were idle a year ago and which are now being operated, the Newray is the most conspicuous. This comprises a veteran claim of 321 acres in the Hollinger-McIntyre belt, which contains five out of the seven producing Porcupine mines.

The Newray is being developed on the 400-foot level, and the company is also diamond-drilling and western half of the property where it adjoins the Plenaurum, on which the McIntyre will prosecute active operations shortly.

The Newray is one of the most extensive holdings in the Porcupine camp, and, as the crosscut at depth has already intercepted one vein, which is showing up splendidly as drifting proceeds, the outlook is favourable in the extreme.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

Go easy with the horses at the start and see that collars fit.

Mares in foal should be given regular work but not overworked.

One-fourth of Denmark's export egg trade is handled on a co-operative basis.

One stroke with sharp harrow teeth does as much good as two with dull points.

When spraying the orchard, spray the inside of henhouse and walls of stables as well.

Clover seed may be dear but sowing it is just about the cheapest way to increase soil fertility.—Farmer's Advocate.

Fifteen per cent. is a rational increase that can be had from every acre sown if the necessary precautions are taken.

Early potatoes in the southwestern part of the United States were damaged to the extent of 10 to 50 per cent. early last month.

That large, plump seed will produce more bushels per acre than will the average seed used by many, is an established scientific fact.

Farm horses usually could haul larger loads on the country road if waggon tires were wider, and less damage is done to roads by wide tires.

Every great potato-growing country in the world had a short crop last year. The world's crop for 1916 was only a little over half that of the year before.

Only 15.8 per cent. of the last United States wheat crop was in the hands of farmers on March 1, as compared with 23.8 per cent. on the same date in 1916.

On March 1 30 1-2 per cent of the 1916 corn crop of the United States was in farmers' hands as against 37 1-3 per cent. of the crop of 1915 on the same date last year.

Use proper sieves and plenty of wind in the mill and the third part remaining for seed will be the largest and plumpest seeds, which naturally are the most vigorous.

FLAG INSULTS MUST BE EXPLAINED IN COURT.

KITCHENER, April 12. — During the recent campaign to raise funds for the returned soldiers' home, several pretty misses were insulted by pro-Germans who stated frankly that they would not wear the flag. It was decided to investigate further these insulting remarks and as the result of these investigations resulted in a Waterloo citizen was corralled and he will appear on Friday to answer the charge.

STREET BRAWL VERY NEARLY CAUSE OF WAR

Japanese Pedler and Chinese Policeman had a Quarrel

AND TWO NATIONS WERE NEAR WAR.

Interesting Light on Recent Happenings in the Far East.

A Japanese peddler of quack medicines quarreled with a Chinese policeman doing his "beat" in one of the main streets of Chengchiatun, a town of 22,000 in Manchuria, a few months ago and two nations came close to the verge of war. At a conference held in the same city during the last few weeks, attended by such prominent men as Dr. Wu Tingfan, of China, Marshall Terauchi and Baron Hayashi of Japan, an amicable settlement was made which carries promise of permanent peace and accord between these Oriental nations, writes Prof. Jeremiah W. Jenks in the Independent. Dr. Jenks continues:

As is to be expected, the Japanese and Chinese accounts of the "incident" are very contradictory. The Japanese say a Japanese druggist was insulted and beaten by Chinese soldiers. Chinese allege that one of their local policemen "admonished the leader of a Japanese gang of smugglers engaged in furnishing arms to Mongolian bandits."

We may accept as fact the statement that the druggist or peddler appealed to the police sergeant at the newly-opened Japanese consulate. This sergeant took the matter to the officer in command of a detachment of Japanese soldiers encamped in the town, who ordered out a squad of 20 men under a youthful lieutenant. The latter, accompanied by the peddler and Japanese police sergeant, forced his way into the Chinese barracks.

In the office of the Chinese colonel a pitched battle began. Blood was spilled. Several Japnese soldiers were killed. The Japanese retired from the barracks, vowing vengeance The Chinese colonel reported to his superior officer, who "endeavored to straighten out the affair without further trouble."

The lamentable nature of the business was intensified by the fact that a new Japanese Minister, Baron Hayayshi, was on his way to Pekin to endeavour to restore China-Japanese friendship which had been sacrificed because of the famous "twenty-one" demands presented by his predecessor, Dr. Hioki, under orders from Tokio.

Japanese Demands and Desires.

On September 3 the following "demands" and "desires" were presented by Japan to China:

Demands.

1. The reprimand of the commander of a regiment which formed the Chinese force engaged in the affair.

2. The dismissal of certain senior officers and the punishment of the men who actually took part in the fighting.

3. Some form of public apology, including the posting of proclamations in all military centres in South Manchuria and eastern Inner Mongolia, warning Chinese soldiers and civilians to avoid collision with Japanese peddlers and others.

4. The establishment of Japanese police stations in South Manchuria and eastern Inner Mongolia.

Desires.

1. The appointment of Japanese military advisers to all the military headquarters of South Manchuria and eastern Inner Mongolia.

2. The engagement of Japanese military instructors in all military schools and academies in China.

3. The payment of compensation to the families of the deceased Japanese soldiers.

4. The expression of some form of apology either by the Chinese Government or by the military governor of Mukden.

The demands were delivered by Baron Hayashi to Dr. Chen Chintao, at the time sustaining the impossible responsibilities of both Chinese minister for foreign affairs and minister of finance. In addition to international and national politics, Dr. Chen had to wrestle with a financial stringency, involving the suspension of specie payments by the government banks, not to speak of other complications.

President Li-Yuan-hung was laboring night and day to knit China together and make peace between contending political parties. In Japan, in Europe, as well as in China, and America, the presentation of these Japanese claims was regarded as a very serious blunder by all save those who seemed bent on "humbling" China.

China "has granted the demands for reprimanding and punishing the responsible officers"—that was done immediately after the affair—"and also has agreed to warn Chinese soldiers against incivility in their treatment of Japanese"—that has been done repeatedly during recent years. China also "has granted an indemnity to the Japanese whose case caused the incident."

The British Strike At Cambrai Win Positions On A Wide Front

General Haig's Forces Make Fresh Progress---Canadians Advancing Steadily From Vimy Ridge Capturing Trenches on the Eastern Slopes---French Drive Has Carried Them Almost to St. Quentin Which the Enemy Are Sacking Prior to Their Departure.

ALLIES ADVANCE AT MANY POINTS

SPECIAL TO THE EXAMINER:

LONDON, April 13.—Field Marshal Haig varied the centre of his "push" to-day, and quickly striking toward Cambrai instead of around Vimy, succeeded in capturing enemy positions "on a wide front."

"We captured enemy positions at night on a wide front from north of Hargicourt to Metz-en-Couture, and now hold Sart Farm, Cauchewood and Cousseaucourt Village and the Wood," his official report asserted to-day.

"There was sharp fighting between St. Quentin and Cambrai before the positions we captured," the Field Marshal continued. "During the night, in a successful raid south-west of Loos, the enemy's dugouts were bombed and the defences damaged. In the neighbourhood of Ploegstreet a hostile raiding party came under our machine gun fire and failed to reach our trenches."

A special despatch from the front, received by the Times to-day, asserted that the total of guns captured from the Germans so far in the British offensive has now reached more than 160.

It is nine miles from Hargicourt to Metz-en-Courture, mentioned in Field Marshal Haig's statement this morning, as the front of the fresh advance. This sector is on the new front between Arras and St. Quentin, where the Germans took up positions after their retirement from Vimy Ridge.

Further to the south, around Metz-en-Couture, the British averaged a mile gain on a front of approximately five miles, including Couzeaucourt, in their sweep. Canadian troops were steadily advancing from Vimy Ridge to-day. They occupied trenches to the east of the forest on the eastern slope of the ridge. At Souches, 110 prisoners, 9 machine guns and one trench gun were captured.

GREAT PALLS OF SMOKE HANG OVER ST. QUENTIN

SPECIAL TO THE EXAMINER:

PARIS, April 13.—(French Official).—"French troops this morning captured several lines of German trenches south of St. Quentin, and took prisoners and booty," the War Office statement declared. "Further gains were made east of Couoy la Ville, many prisoners and machine guns being taken."

St. Quentin is being sacked by the Germans preparatory to its capture by the French. Great palls of smoke hung over the town to-day, visible for fifteen miles. In the desolation everywhere about, so far the majestic Cathedral of St. Quentin is apparently untouched. French troops were made frenzied with anger when it was discovered that in the cemetery of Bray St. Christopher the Germans had blown up the tombs, stripped the coffins of their metal lining and thrown the bodies of the dead to the four winds.

PETROGRAD, April 13.—The Executive Committee of the Workmen's party and the soldiers' delegates to-day formally denied a German inspired story that Russia's Socialists had sent representatives to an alleged Socialist conference on peace, held at Copenhagen.

WASHINGTON, April 13. — It would take over six years to raise an army of one million if recruiting were to continue at the rate marking the ten days following the declaration of war. In that time, 4,355 men were recruited.

PORTLAND, Maine, April 13.—An apparent attempt to blow up the Grand Trunk Railway bridge at East Deering early to-day was frustrated by two guardsmen patrolling the bridge. Although one received a bullet wound in the right arm, the two prowlers, after exchanging several shots, made their escape in a motor-boat.

LONDON, April 13.—British press comment to-day verged optimistic over the prospect of Spain joining with the Allies in view of the sinking of the Spanish steamer Fungenelo by a German U boat.

LONDON, April 13.—A battalion of the Honourable Artillery Company of London made a demonstration this morning before the United States Embassy. Ambassador Page, his naval and military attaches and secretary appeared on the balconies in acknowledgement of the compliment.

LONDON, April 13.—The German War Office official statement to-day admitted "preliminary successes" of the British attacks around Arras, and spoke of strong "British attacks on the Civenchy-Engohelle line." The statement claimed, however, that the German counter-attacks balanced these successes.

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Plans to make 144 seized German and Austrian ships a part of the American merchant marine immediately were discussed to-day at a conference between Secretary McAdoo and Chairman Denman of the Federal Shipping Board. These may be seized as prizes of war or purchased by private concerns.

STOCKHOLM, April 13.—Finland's entire co-operation in the war and internal affairs with free Russia was enthusiastically pledged in the first meeting of the Finnish Diet since 1905 at Reising Fors. A dramatic ovation was accorded Governor-General Stoshovitch, who presided.

MR. G. A. GILLESPIE REPORTS FARM HELP PLACED RECENTLY

TWO GOOD OPENINGS

Although the farmers of this district have not shown the interest in the Organization of Resources movement that was expected of them, Mr. G. A. Gillespie has not given up hopes of making the scheme effective. Last week he placed three men on farms, and has two good openings this week for a man and his wife. In each of these offers the farmer provides a house for his help, and Mr. Gillespie recommends both these places to any experienced men who desire to engage with good farmers.

Mr. Joseph Wearing has written the reeves of the townships to attend a meeting in the Council chamber tomorrow afternoon for the purpose of discussing the needs of the farmers in this district, and for receiving their views of the new organization and what it should attempt. Even with ideal weather this summer, it is believed by observant farmers that the crop will not be as large as last year. The attitude in the country seems to be as follows: With a scarcity of help we can do only so much work, and there is no use trying to do more. Hence, it is practically certain that there will be a considerably decreased acreage of grain sown.

Mr. Gillespie has already pointed out that this possibility is viewed with anxiety in Toronto, that it is hoped the people will put forth every effort to produce more, not less, than last year. In other words, that the men remaining at home have the new responsibility of putting forth greater efforts in an endeavour to meet the labour loss occasioned by men enlisting.

This is the perspective Mr. Gillespie presented this morning, and suggested that it might be advisable to hold a meeting on the market square on Saturday morning.

Home Gardens.

The Home Garden Club is waiting for the report of the Labour men who interviewed property owners with respect to securing the use of vacant lots. When this is in the decks should be cleared for immediate action. Both these matters are too serious at this time to be lightly regarded. The effect of a big crop this summer can scarcely be realized now by the average citizen and the officers of both organizations who have undertaken to push these movements should be seized of the importance of the work they have assumed.

Penny Banks In Campbellford

It is Suggested That a Branch Be Opened in Norwood

Penny Savings Banks have been established in connection with the schools in Campbellford, Tweed and other adjacent towns, and all are working well. In Campbellford, the Campbellford News says the average monthly deposit per pupil attending the Public School for the months of January and February was seventeen cents. It would not be a bad thing for the Norwood School Board to establish a Penny Savings Bank branch in connection with our schools. The Provincial and Dominion Governments have succeeded very well in the thrift campaigns which they have been promoting during the past few months among the grown-ups, but it is not an easy matter to teach men and women the habit of saving if they have never been accustomed to practice it. Boys and girls delight to do things when they see the philosophy of it. These are opportune days for the promotion of the great principle of thrift among our young people. The habit of individual thrift becomes a national asset, and a little seed sowing now will count for much in the days that are to come when the nations of the world are face to face with huge deficits on account of the war, long after the excitement and dim of battle has died away. The Tweed News say the Penny Bank system has been established in connection with Sulphide School (a little mining town east of Tweed) for only a short time and already the pennies on deposit total more than $60.00.—Norwood Register.

MORE MEN WANTED FOR FORESTRY WORK

OTTAWA, April 12.—The Militia Department is calling for several thousand more recruits for the Canadian Forestry Battalions overseas. There are now ten thousand men in the Forestry Battalions in England and France, under the command of Brig.-General Alexander McDougall. Some five thousand of these were supplied by Canada, and the balance was drawn from overseas troops originally enlisted for other purposes. To allow these latter to return to their original units, forestry drafts are wanted from Canada. The age limit for forestry recruits is 48 years, and men of 4 ft. 11 in. in height are accepted. Recruiting depots have been opened in all the lumbering centres of Canada.

FINAL DRAFTS OF THE 247th BATTALION TO LEAVE CITY TO-MORROW

Quotas For the 235th Battalion, Canadian Army Medical Corps and Special Service Battalion Slated to Go—Will Practically Mean the Wind-up of the 247th—To-day's Orders and General Military News.

To-morrow will see practically the wind-up of the 247th Battalion as the final drafts from the battalion will leave the city. This afternoon Sergt. W. J. Puffer and Ptes. W. G. Harrison and F. Wormald left to join the Forestry draft. To-morrow morning at 11.27 the final draft of thirteen men for the 235th at Ottawa will leave and at 1.30 o'clock a draft of thirteen men for the Special Service Battalion and another quota of eleven for the Army Medical Corps will leave for Kingston. Four members of the battalion are in hospital, here and there, and two men sick at their homes. These men will be attached to the Special Service Battalion when they recover.

Lance Corp. Bobby Irwin of the 21st Battalion recently home from France was responsible for securing a recruit for the 247th Battalion yesterday. A husky young man approached him on the street with the remark that he would like to join his battalion. "Well you'll have to travel some distance to do that," remarked Bobby. "It's over there on top of Vimy Ridge right now, but I can get you into one that is going in the same direction." The prospective recruit accompanied the war veteran to the Armouries, passed the doctor and will go to Ottawa with the last draft of the 247th. He is Pte. Geo. Waddell.

TO-DAY'S ORDERS.

Daily Orders by Lieut.-Col. C. H. Ackerman, Commanding 247th O. S. Bn., C. E. F.

COURT OF INQUIRY.—

A court of inquiry composed as under:

President—Capt. M. G. Hamilton.
Members—Lieut. F. J. Hayes, Lieut. T. W. Quinn, will assemble at 3.00 P.M., on April 12th, 1917, for the purpose of inquiring into the injuries sustained by No. 1063022, Corporal George Leonard Spencer, 247th O. S., Bn., C. E. F., on March 20th, 1917, while attending a course at B. F. & P. T. School, Kingston Ont.

The proceedings will be handed to the Commanding Officer.

DUTIES.—

Orderly Officer for Friday, April 13th, 1917—Lieut. V. J. McElderry.
Next for Duty, Saturday, April 14th, 1917—Lieut. R. W. Boyce.

A. E. BRITTAIN, Lieut., Adjt., 247th O. S. Bn., C. E. F.

EQUIPMENT FOR C. D. F.

The equipment which has been authorised for the Canadian Defence Force is along the lines supplied to the overseas units. The uniforms will be of khaki. The members will wear a distinctive badge. The design has not been mentioned but it will probably be a ribbon armlet something like the badges worn by Forestry and Railway Construction units. If there were any Highland regiments being raised in the district they would wear kilts. The co-operation is being sought of the services of the Army Medical Corps, who are identified with militia units, for medical services at the training camps this summer. The idea is for local practitioners, who are identified with the A.M.C. to devote a few weeks to work at the summer camps in order to release officers who are now with the A.M.C. for overseas service.

The Bonner-Worth has vacancies for a few quick, respectable girsl.

P. C. Blade has received the following letter from Corporal Walter Miller, 196339, B Company, 6 platoon, 4th Battalion Canadians, who went overseas with the 93rd Battalion:

March 15, 1917.

Dear Art.—We have spent a winter in the trenches and suffered a few hardships, but still I am fat and I feel pretty good. I was sick only a few days, and that was just a cold. I saw a few Fritzs one day, and had a good shot at them from about 150 yards, and they dropped. The next day he sent back about ten big trench "minnies" of his and I put in a very uncomfortable hour. I was out on a post that we had to stay at all day till sun down. I have only missed one six-day trip in the trenches since we got out here, and then our platoon was out for a special course for a couple of weeks. It sure is a corker to spend a winter in the trenches, believe me. I was made a Corporal on the 29th of December, just two months after we joined our Battalion. Our draft has done very well in this battalion. I couldn't begin to tell you what it is like out here, because you can't imagine it. I have seen a couple of air craft fights and a gas attack, but they are only small things. But I guess we will see enough soon, by the way things are going. I hope it comes soon, so as we can all get home. I'll be tickled to death if I can get home after this fun is over. Tom is coming over, according to the last letter I got from him, about six weeks ago. We have been through a few mined places and they are just like the pictures you see in the papers. Fritz sure made a mess of things, but his is coming soon. Doug. Loomis is well, and Herb. O'Heron. Doug. is a Corporal and Herb. a Sergeant. George (Cookman) doesn't look so well. I guess he told you he was sick. It's pretty hard for a fellow to get away sometimes. He has to be pretty near dead to get away now. Everything is about the big push now. We get very good "grub," so I guess we won't suffer. We have a lot of fun among ourselves. The different people and their different personalities, and there sure are some funny ones in this army. I saw a bunch of battery fellows a few days ago. They are the first bunch that came out in the 4th Battery. They sure have had a long stay. Give my regards to all and best luck to yourself.

Yours truly,
JIDDY MILLER.

Mrs. J. C. Schweier, 491 Sherbrooke Street, Peterborough, a member of the Soldiers' Wives' and Mothers' Club, has received the following letter:

Somewhere in France,
March 11, 1917.

Dear Mrs. Schwier,—The socks you sent arrived safe and were very acceptable. It is very kind of you ladies in the Club to remember the boys out here. All the Peterborough bunch in this Battalion are well and we often talk of old times, and think of the folks at home. I will close now, thanking you again for your kindness, I am,

Yours sincerely,
E. G. HARDIE.

First Local Casualties From the Vimy Battle

THE BRITISH ARE TAKING GREAT HOLES IN HINDY'S LINE

Success of Canadians at Vimy Ridge and British at Moncy-Le-Preux Compels Germans to Look Backward For Another Line

THE FRENCH SUCCESS

Examiner Special:

NEW YORK, N.Y., April 13. — The Associated Press to-day issued the following.

Great holes are being driven in the famous Hindenburg line by the British in their powerful offensive thrust from Lens to St. Quentin. The Canadians having cleared Vimy ridge, the northern pivot of the line and Monchy Le Preux, a key position to the south-east of Arras, is in possession of the British, compelling the Germans to look backward for another line on which to make a stand against the impetuous onslaught. The British are also giving attention to another important sector of the front, the one between St. Quentin and Cambrai. While the British were halting momentarily on the northern end of the line to consolidate their gains and move up their artillery, and meantime attacking in the centre, the French chose the opportunity to make a sharp thrust south of St. Quentin. Their attack was delivered this morning, and its success is recorded in the Paris official statement.

Garnet Innis Fined $500 For "Blind-Pigging"

"The evidence satisfies me that the defendant has used his dwelling place as a "blind pig." The quantity of liquor bought is more than a family of the means of the defendant could or would use legitimately." With this conclusion to his written judgment this afternoon Magistrate Dumble fined Garnett Innis $500, to be paid forthwith, and in default of payment, six months in the county jail. Howard Innis was fined $607 on Tuesday for two counts of keeping liquor for sale but hasn't been seen since Monday morning.

One witness stated that he called at the Innis home, on Townsend street and bought whiskey, paying thirty cents to Garnet Innis for a glass of it. In February he paid $2.00 to Innis for a bottle. Several other sales were referred to in the evidence of this witness. Garnet Innis stated that his mother had fallen down cellar on Jan. 2nd, and now uses a bottle of whiskey a day with the addition of sweet oil to anoint her body, bathing three times a day.

The defendant, Mr. Dumble said, produced no order of a doctor to entitle him to get whiskey for the purpose of bathing his mother, and the law only, in any event, allows but a very limited quantity (one pint for bathing). Mrs. Innis stated in her evidence that she used one bottle a day or one case (12 bottles) per week for that purpose. In this case her doctor did not prescribe whiskey for her. Nor did he know she was using whiskey for bathing. A doctor going his professional rounds, is not allowed to have with him more than one quart of whiskey. Apparently there was a large quantity of liquor used in the house by members of the family and by strangers.

THE OLD GARDENER SAYS.

Amateurs sometimes set out a strawberry bed and never get a strawberry. That is because they have planted kinds which are not self-fertile. Let some other variety be planted near them, and there will be plenty of fruit. Dealers will always tell you what sorts to grow in company if you ask them. The fall-bearing strawberry should have a place in every amateur's garden. It will bear until the fruit freezes on the plants.

It takes a lot of will power to enable a man to save himself from himself.

Girls think that old bachelors don't understand women, but widows know better.

Big Dance To-night

Lieut. Walter G. Worth of the 93rd Battalion, Pte. William J. Carruthers and Pte. Richard Penrose Are Officially Reported Wounded.

LIEUT. SYMONDS KILLED

The first indication of the price that Peterborough will have to pay for the glory won by her sons in the capture of Vimy Ridge on Monday came this morning in official messages from Ottawa telling of three local casualties. At least two of these are the result of the battle of Arras.

Mr. Dyson Worth, of the Bonner-Worth Company, received a telegram from Ottawa this morning notifying him that his son, Lieut. Walter G. Worth, formerly of the 93rd Battalion, is officially reported wounded on April 9th. No further particulars have been received. Lieut. Worth was a subaltern in No. 5 Company of the 57th Battalion, Peterborough Rangers, and received a commission in the 93rd Battalion on the formation of the Peterborough unit. He went overseas as a lieutenant in D company, having command of the Havelock platoon. Lieut. Worth was transferred to the 18th Battalion at the front and had been in France all winter.

A message received to-day stated that Pte. William John Carruthers of Peterborough, is officially reported admitted to No. 23 Casualty Clearing Station on April 11th, dangerously wounded. Pte. Carruthers is the son of Mr. George Carruthers of the Quaker Oats Company, who is at present at Sudbury. Pte. Carruthers is a graduate of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute and was employed in the Quaker Oats office before he enlisted with the 80th Battalion. On going overseas with the 80th he was transferred to another Canadian Battalion at the front.

Loses His Hand.

Mr. Henry Penrose, 498 Cedar street, received word this morning that No. 724153 Pte. Richard Penrose, has been admitted to No. 18 General Hospital, Camieres, wounded, and that his left hand has been amputated.

Lieut. Symonds Killed.

The news that Lieut. H. Boyd Symonds, son of Rev. Dr. Symonds, of Montreal, formerly rector of St. Luke's church, Peterborough, has been killed in action, will be received with deep regret here. Lieut. Symonds spent his early days here and the citizens generally will will sympathize with his bereaved father. Lieut. Symonds went overseas with a Montreal unit and was killed in Monday's fighting.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

FRIDAY, APRIL 13, 1917

THE LEOPARD CHANGES HIS SPOTS.

The mass meeting next week, under the auspices of the West Peterborough Conservative Association, is significant. A political meeting in war time, a super-saturated solution of partyism, shows that we in Canada take our politics seriously. However, politics, means of governing or misgoverning the country, is a serious matter for the governed, or misgoverned; and when the misgoverned clamour for more of the same brand, there's nothing to be said. This is a free country, a great democracy.

And speaking of democracy reminds us how the world moves—that tempora mutantur et nos mutamur in illis—another way of giving the lie to the delusion that the leopard cannot change his spots. The meeting next week, under Conservative — a weak modernisation of the good old stiff-necked, stout, robust word, Tory — auspices to celebrate the crowning triumph of democracy—the admission of women to political equality with men—is the leopard changing his spots clear through the skin.

In the time, and since, when the higher development of Christian civilisation aroused a recognition of the truth that "a man's a man for a' that"; that a man who was not a "belted knight," had rights, Toryism set, as it always has set, its face like flint against every movement of reform that even hinted that the demos—the common people—had rights.

Though growing light led to a modification of this extreme attitude, its spirit has persisted, and even in our provincial politics, in these latter days, we find Conservatism sitting on the safety valve till the seat gets too hot, or there's danger of being blown up. The democratic Grits nursed prohibition till its principle becomes popular, the Conservative government meanwhile screwing down the brakes on progress with all their might, till it was found unsafe to ignore the demand of the common people.

Prohibition became law and the government takes all the credit for adopting what they had opposed tooth and nail. It has been the same with other important reforms, among them woman suffrage which, together with other franchise reforms, was antagonized as long as it was felt safe in the interests of keeping office. A Conservative government in Ontario last session adopted the political abomination—according to good old Tory standards—of woman suffrage, and we find a gathering of Conservatives chuckling over what their grandfathers, rather than grant, would have gone to the stake. We even find a degenerate descendant (in a party sense) of the Family Compact—the ne plus ultra and quintessence of obstructive and oligarchial Toryism in Canada—actually—and in petticoats—gloating over votes for women! Verily "the word do move."

P.S. It may, however, be premature to assume that the meeting referred to should be construed into party endorsation (as the bills announce) of votes for women. The chief organiser of the occasion, Mr. Burnham, in a letter in to-night's Examiner, in explaining an omnibus invitation to attend, says the meeting is "only Conservative in name." This may be true in regard to the gathering which may not represent the real Conservative element, in Peterborough, as is true, as a matter of fact, in regard to woman suffrage, prohibition, and other reforms that are "only Conservative in name"; and Liberal, not only in consistent accord with Liberal principles, but in origination of advocacy and persistence of propagation.

OUR SCHOOL CURRICULUM.

Our school curricula, or programmes of studies, came in for much hard rapping at the annual meeting of the Ontario Educational Association.

Principal Rogers, of the London Collegiate Institute, speaking of matriculation, from the High Schools' point of view, condemned the standards and requirements which permitted or compelled "a shamefully overloaded curriculum, and resulted in making the students slaves to home work." He attributed to this condition, "the rawness and stupidity and gross ignorance of the students who enter the university." He said, "the high schools are not to blame;" they simply carry out the absurd decrees of an inefficient Educational Department. These "raw" and "stupid" students are "passed," and the blame is thrown on the public schools, and the latter throws the blame on the home.

None, of these, as a matter of fact, are to blame: the fault lies higher up; with the central educational authorities. The trouble begins with providing curricula of study, so varied and exacting, that approximate mastery of any one capital subject is impossible. Children are, perforce, therefore crammed instead of being educated. Their minds are made a lumber room of odds and ends, and scraps of knowledge of a multitude of subjects, without any effect upon the mind, except partial paralysis, which accounts for an advanced stage of the disease which Mr. Rogers characterises as "rawness, stupidity and gross ingnorance" of the students, who are educationally hot-housed to the point of being placed in what becomes, by nature of the materi provided, the more elaborate forcing house called the university.

Education throughout the whole school system seems to be entirely neglected, because compulsorily ignored. Almost from kindergarten to college, the instructional boiler is kept at high pressure. The little stuffed and crammed heads don't burst becau e the intellectual lumber that is piled in them in one grade is crowded out by more strenuous operation of the force pump in the next. This process is continuously applied through every stage, and it is no wonder that the intellectually congested subject arrives at the university stage in the condition Mr. Rogers describes.

These conditions do not give either the primary or secondary schools, or even the university, a fair chance to show what they are splendidly equipped to do. We spend much money to provide first class school buildings and equipment. We get the best teachers and, according to the best educationalists, we get the worst results, because we condemn our schools and teachers to do too much, by placing in their hands and compelling them to use a curriculum that cannot be carried out.

Our high pressure educational system lacks educational value, and even the knowledge it seems to impart is so lightly impressed that what is learned or supposed to be learned at one stage is largely forgotten at the next. Basic or fundamental things that the child or student should carry through life, are not made fixtures. In trying to do far too much, we fall short of doing even a little well. Conclusions like these are not those of unlettered laymen, but of educationalists of high standing. Other speakers, experts in their profession, said there were far too many subjects in the schools now. Professor Braithwaite, President of the Western University, London, said the chief duty of instruction was to teach the pupil to think—something in the rush of examination preparations the pupils have now no time to do. He declared that effort should be directed to shaping the character of the pupil and to fit him for useful service.

A declaration liko that of Mr. Rogers of London, and the declarations of others at the Educational Congress, should make us think of where we are.

"Peterboro' Has Dust, But There Is No Clamour"

Mayor Kylie of Lindsay, Pays a Tribute to the Enduring Qualities of Peterborough Citizens

The Lindasy Warder credits Mayor Kylie, of Lindsay, with the following remarks concerning the enduring qualities of Peterborough citizens. If Mayor Kylie had been on Simcoe street about four o'clock Wednesday afternoon he would have witnessed a revolving brush operating on a dry street. One half of the street was wet and the other half dry. The man with the brush drove his horse along the dry side of the street and for the space of several minutes a number of esteemed citizens were swallowed up in the germ laden atmosphere. If a merchant is caught dry sweeping his sidewalk in front of his store a fine of two dollars is imposed.

Following is the extract from the Lindsay Warder:

His Worship Mayor Kylie returned Wednesday night from a trip east, and when asked if he noted anything of public interest said: "While in Peterborough the dust particles were floating around in profusion, just the same as in this town, but no person seemed to clamour about it. Those conditions brought about through meterological phenomena were accepted complacently, and the water sprinkler was not called upon to alleviate the nuisance."

"The sprinkling of paved streets is not conducive to the life of a pavement," said His Worship, "and in weather of uneven temperature, such as we have experienced in the past, the Mayor thinks it is better to put up with a little dust, and merchants should keep their goods indoors until the water can be put on without fear of frost coming in a few hours afterwards."

Rev. T. H. Mitchell In New Pastorate

Is Inducted into Pulpit of St. Andrew's Church, Carlton Street

TORONTO, April 13.—Rev. T. H. Mitchell was inducted as minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Carlton street, last evening, by the Moderator of the Presbytery of Toronto, Rev. James Wilson. The charge to the minister was delivered by Rev. Dr. John Ross, who made sympathetic reference to the late pastor, the late Rev. Dr. Harper Gray. He said that Dr. Gray was a man of tender and beautiful spirit, who had created an atmosphere about the church in which the new minister would find it a delight to serve. Dr. Ross traced the history of the pastorate of St. Andrew's from the old church on the corner of Adelaide and Church streets, and paid a high tribute to the ministry of Rev. Dr. George M. Milligan, pastor emeritus; also to the preaching of Prof. Law who, he said, had given strength and stability to faith and comfort in suffering during the troubled days of war.

Rev. Dr. John Neil delivered the charge to the people, and congratulated them upon their choice. He believed that Mr. Mitchell would prove a worthy successor to those who had ministered to them in the past.

Rev. Mr. Mitchell was for some years minister at St. James' Presbyterian church, London, Ont. Latterly he was in temporary charge of St. Andrew's church, Peterborough, Ont. He comes to Old St. Andrew's church with a reputation as a thoughtful and earnest preacher.

Rev. Forbes Robertson of Weston Presbyterian church preached the induction sermon.

A reception will be accorded to the new minister by the congregation this evening in the church.

PETROGRAD, April 13.—A full support of the Russian Labour parties was pledged to the new Provisional Government to-day by formal resolutions adopted by workmen and soldiers' delegates. They congratulated the Government on the Lyoff proclamation.

Voice of The People

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—The root of evil is evil itself. If we could abolish evil; see how much suffering, etc., could be saved. Let us send up a mighty prayer from all believers to God, asking Him to abolish evil. I have never been in favour of doing things by piecemeal such as first abolishing liquor, then church disunion, then the shipment of idols from Christian countries to the heathen, then the use of tobacco, etc. And then think of the advertising Peterborough would get out of it. Every way you look at it, it is a good idea, except one and that is God's way. It is not God's way. He gave no evil evidently to try us out. If we abolish it instead of overcoming it, we seek to defeat His purpose and can any good come out of such a course in the long run?

The people who sprang from Adam grew so bad, that they had to be drowned like rats and I never could see any good in reading the history of the doings of such people. Then the successor of Adam, the second progenitor of the human race, was so delighted with the universal deluge and the success of it, that he got drunk. That was another bad thing. Then the world got so bad that it would have been totally extinguished, if a way had not been found out of the difficulty by the sacrifice of Jesus. You know the history of all this is terrible and then think of the horrors that have taken place since the death of Christ. To think of it that all this might have been saved by putting the spirit of good and not the spirit of evil into men's hearts. Why was it not done? Had we then, after all, better ask God to abolish evil in the world or had we better leave that to Him, and each of us try to abolish it in himself? "There is only ONE way under Heaven by which men must be saved." You say, 'What has that got to do with women's suffrage?' It has this to do with it. We must know how women think on all these points. We can no longer disregard women's opinions or what is vastly more important, take them for granted. Women henceforth will express their own opinions and not through the medium of men. In all things they will be equal to man, and things that are equal to the same thing, are equal to one another. They will not necessarily be identical as some suppose, but equal, and equal only in the enjoyment of liberty. What superiority belongs to them, belong to them as a class. It will be the superiority of women over men. It will, perhaps, be a struggle between women and men. For many centuries women have had to do as men said. Henceforth it may be that men will have to do as women say. Is it not well for men, therefore, to find out how women think in important matters? Come to our meeting in the Opera House on Tuesday evening next and hear more about it. Everybody welcome. It is Conservative in name only. It is free to every citizen who cares to come.

MAY SECURE 300 ACRES AT RANGES FOR A CROP THIS SPRING

Mayor Duffus stated to-day that an effort was being made to secure the three hundred acres of farm land at the rifle ranges for planting purposes this spring. If they can be secured the work of putting in and caring for a crop would be arranged to avoid conflicting with military use of the ranges. It is understood that the land is of average fertility, and tillable qualities and should return a large crop.

The merchant who does not give his employees a square deal is not likely to do much better by his customers.

KIPLING ON U. S.

LONDON, April 13.—The Daily Telegraph prints verses by Kipling, written to celebrate America's participation in the war. The poet puts the words in the mouth of "The American Spirit," who speaks of the opportunity to "recover the sand we lost in the drugged and doubting years." Two of the stanzas run:

"In the Gates of Death rejoice!
We see and hold the good.
Bear witness, earth, we have made our choice
For Freedom's brotherhood.

"Then arise the Lord Most High,
Whose strength hath saved us whole;
Who bade us choose that the flesh should die
And not the living soul!"

TO-DAY'S WAR NEWS

ROTTERDAM, April 13.—The Dutch newspaper correspondents who were on the steamer which brought Von Bernstorff home, via Halifax, have denied Bernstorff's protest that he was badly treated by the British and Canadian officials at Halifax, but declare on the other hand that these officials acted with the utmost courtesy to all on board.

PARIS, April 13.—Lieut. Sweeney, an American with the French Aviation Corps, was promoted to Captain to-day and given indefinite leave of absence to "serve America," according to an official announcement.
He will leave for the United States at the earliest possible moment.

PETROGRAD, via London, April 13.—Grand Duke Boris, a cousin of former Emperor Nicholas, has been arrested at Army Headquarters and sent to Tharkoe Selo, where he is interned.

AMBITIOUS PETERBOROUGH

(From The Lindsay Warder)

Peterborough may be Lindsay's rival in many respects but can never hope to boast of many of the advantages which this town possesses in comparison to the Electric City. Although all the wise men do not come from the east, yet business men in Peterborough have set a good example to business men in this town in the manner in which they are working for a "Greater Peterborough." An association of business men has been organized and several meetings have been held. Their aims are many, but there is one ideal which should at least cause Lindsay merchants to prick up their ears, namely the promotion of an electric railway to the north of Peterborough, connecting that city with the territory to the north and giving quick communication with the summer resorts.

At present Lindsay enjoys a lucrative trade from the north and special efforts should be made to make buying expeditions to Lindsay more attractive. For years the residents of the north have complained of inadequate train service, and should communication be established with Peterborough by radial line this town would suffer considerable loss.

Peterborough business men will also take up the possibility of linking up with the proposed national highway from Holland's Landing, which means Toronto to Ottawa. Lindsay citizens should make a determined effort to have this town placed on this highway, thus diverting all vehicular traffic through Victoria County—and Lindsay.

The Electric City business men also plan the extending of radial lines throughout the county, placing the city in direct touch with the farming community.

Surely there is work to be done in Lindsay along the lines laid down by the "Greater" association to the east. This town cannot afford to rest idly on its oars and wait for new business to drift this way. It is a time for a general house-cleaning and new enthusiasm. It is a time for work.

EARLY POTATOES

To secure an early crop of potatoes there are several methods that may be adopted for forcing. First one must get the earliest variety, such as the Early Ohio or Irish Cobbler. Provide proper conditions of light and temperature and shoots two inches in length may be obtained before the time for planting out in May. This will mean that the tubers will be ready for use early in July, or two or three weeks before they would be ordinarily.

Forcing is practiced only to a limited extent in this country, but is commonly practiced in the south of England and the Island of Jersey. In ordinary years the advantage gained is not sufficient to compensate for the extra trouble. This year however, the high prices are an inducement to get returns as quickly as possible.

A hotbed may be used, though this is not necessary. Take a shallow box and place the tubers with the seed end upward as closely as they can be set. Choose those of fair size and if the eyes show signs of sprouting rub off all but one or two. Keep in the living room or cellar where the temperature will range from fifty to sixty. Make sure of plenty of light to get a short thick growth from the end eye. Watch carefully to see that the sprouts do not start from the other eyes.

If the tubers are started in this manner early in April they will be ready to plant in the open ground a month later. Two or three days before planting open up the furrows in which the seed is to be placed to permit the soil to warm up. Space the sets nine inches apart and cover with a hand rake.

Should there be danger of frost after the plants are above ground draw earth over them and uncover when weather improves. A warm sandy soil with an application of well-rotted manure will give quickest returns.

The method described may be modified by cutting the tubers into three or four parts with two eyes to a set, which will be an economy in seed required. Sand may be placed around them, leaving only the tips exposed, the sand to be kept moderately damp.

BIG INCREASE IN RED CROSS SHIPMENTS

The Packing Committee of the Peterborough Branch of the Red Cross, have the following report for March—36 cases shipped, containing the following:

35 dressing gowns, 116 day shirts, 286 pyjamas, 834 pairs socks, 297 sheets, 275 pillow cases, 814 towels, 234 gauze vests—Value $958.92.

FLORA H. DAVIDSON,
Con. Packing Committee

An interesting comparison may be made between the shipments of the last three months of this year and the total shipments for last year. During the whole of last year 153 cases were shipped as compared with 133 cases for the past three months of 1917. The contents of the cases for the year 1915-16 were as follows:

Dressing gowns 88, day shirts 477, pyjamas 380, pairs socks 2200, sheets 705, towels 5948, pillow cases 854.

Whereas this year, during January, February and March have been shipped.

Dressing gowns 207, day shirts 425, pyjamas 909, pairs socks 1656, sheets 777, towels 4184, pillow cases 889.

A study of these reports should be convincing proof that the work of the local Red Cross Society has not lagged, but that untiring and persistent efforts are being put forth from day to day and week to week, to try and meet the ever-increasing demand for supplies.

GAVE FOUR SONS TO THE ARMY, ACCIDENT INCAPACITATES FATHER

After four of his sons had enlisted, two of them already dead, a Peterborough father met with an accident, the effects of which have rendered him incapable of following his regular work and thereby providing for his family. Such are the straits to which Robert Elliott has been reduced by circumstance and the patriotism of his boys. Seven months ago he fell and broke both wrists while at work. As a result he has been crippled and seriously deprived of his earning power. He has a family of seven to support, some of the children by a second marriage. A year ago he was earning from $5 to $6 a day and is as anxious as ever to work, but states that he cannot follow his regular employment on account of the accident h esustained. If his four eldest sons had not enlisted, he would not have been confronted by his present difficulty. But the Government, he states, has not offered to give him any assistance and apparently makes no provision for a father who has met with circumstances such as his. Moreover the public, with a few exceptions shows no sympathy and apparently has no use for a cripple, Mr. Elliott feels. He believes that he is entitled to some consideration from the Patriotic Fund, at least, until he is able to help himself.

Delightful, in Fit and Appearance is J. & K. Footwear

Fashion has swerved from her old course this spring—has abandoned the old regime and established a new era in footwear making. She has brought to us the charm of color and color combinations—pretty tints that tone in with dress and suiting fabrics, and they contribute in no small way to the chic appearance of the modish dresser.

The manufacturers of J & K. footwear have long been noted for taking the lead in presenting new creations, and as we selected from their stock we have brought to Peterborough a collection of the foremost models. Some feature the white stitching, some are novel because of the unique heel, some the toe cap, some the color, etc.—little distinguishing marks that give them individuality.

Remember the J. & K. fits the arch.

Thinking Men Favour "Cressman Clothes"

The Pinnacle of Excellance

By thinking men we mean those pensive, calculating fellows who look before they leap, "like the man in the illustration below" who first select the clothier then the garment. Why? Because they want to deal with a clothier who knows, when he says "it's all wool and a yard wide." That's why "Cressman Clothes" have come to the fore, they're all-wool and a yard wide and depend on it when a Cressman salesman says so.

JAS. LESAGE ELECTROCUTED.

Repairing Telephone Wires Which Must Have Crossed Power Line.

BELLEVILLE, April 13. — James Lesage, twenty-four years of age, lost his life by coming in contact with telephone wires highly charged with electricity in the village of Tweed. He was engaged in repairing lines on Victoria street, the main street in that place, the wires having been greatly disarranged by a recent snow storm. It is thought the wires became in some way crossed with the electric power lines, for suddenly the young man's body stiffened and he fell across the wires. Death was instantaneous. Coroner Kindred has opened an inquest. Lesage had worked a long time for the Bell Telephone Company, and then left that position. Lately he had been taken on again to assist in repairing the lines.

While turning his automobile on the river road above Nassau yesterday afternoon Mr. Archie Sollitt, an inspector at the Metal Products Company, i nsome way miscalculated the space at his disposal and went down the bank in'o the river. Mr. Arthur Brown was driving with him. The road is very close to the water at that point. The car settled in about fifteen feet of water it was stated, but the two men jumped in time to get safely out.

WOMAN WHO SMOKES DEFENDS PRACTICE

SAYS IT WOULD MAKE FOR MORE REAL HOME HAPPINESS

On the second floor of a three-story frame tenement building at Elizabeth, N. J., there is an attractive, brown-eyed little mother who stops rocking the cradle maybe once, maybe twice a day, to puff leisurely on a cigarette. It is soothing, she says. It helps to drive away the thousand and one cares which only a mother of two healthy, frolicsome, wide-awake youngsters knows.

The woman is Mrs. Elizabeth Dudka, 26 years old, wife of Edmund Dudka, a machinist. No one outside of the family circle, perhaps would have known that Mrs. Dudka, found solace in a smoke had not her husband the other night in trying to knock a lighted cigarette from her mouth, struck her on the cheek. The resulting quarrel was brought before the police judge, who reprimanded the mother, and dismissed the case.

A reporter called at the Dudka house later. Mrs. Dudka, clad in a neat house dress with a spotless gingham apron, answered the door. She resented almost immediately what she said were exaggerated and untrue stories regarding her arraignment in police court, and the court's recommendation of a "spanking." She would consent to an interview only on the basis that her cigarette smoking be treated seriously.

A DANGEROUS PRACTICE.

MONTREAL, April 13. — The custom of cooking his own meals in his room at 210 Notre Dame street east, led to the death of Joseph Savard.

The evidence showed that the deceased was in the habit of preparing his own food, and while waiting for some food to cook he fell asleep in his chair. He slept on while the dough burned and the fumes filling the room asphyxiated the man while he was asleep. A verdict of accidental death was returned.

STRUCK HIS BOARDER WITH MILK BOTTLE PAYS $49.75 IN COURT

Joseph Rongo was fined $20 and costs, amounting to $49.75 in police court this morning for assaulting Silvio Delledonno, another Italian who boarded with him. Rongo used a milk bottle, the pieces of which were exhibited in court.

Mr. G. N. Gordon who appeared for the defendant requested that the conviction be made as a common assault in order to prevent a second fine in a possible action for damages Mr. Dumble replied that he made it a common assault but not for any purpose Mr. Gordon mentioned.

The costs included $13 to Doctor King for medical attendance and $5 for witness fee, $6 to the Crown Attorney and $2 to the interpreter, Mr. Nicholas Minnecola. When the total of the fine and costs was announced Mr. Gordon said, "It would have been cheaper for me to have gone before a jury. I'll take it there next time."

Mr. Hatton—His Worship and the Crown would be glad to have you go before a jury.

Mr. Gordon—I thought this court had lived down its reputation for severity. Rongo has eight children and hasn't worked all winter.

Mr. Dumble—There was plenty of work, and no reason for his being idle.

Mr. Gordon—He is only a labourer and is employed mostly on sewer work.

Mr. Dumble—There was no provocation for this blow. He is probably a decent man, but he must learn to curb his Italian impulsiveness. If it had been a knife instead of a bottle it might have been worse.

Delledonno had three teeth broken by the blow and a deep cut on the upper lip. This has healed, however, leaving but a slight scar. It was shown that until this assault occurred the men had been on good terms.

Mr. Joseph Wearing appeared for the plaintiff.

John [illegible] one of a party of ninety men from Montreal, who spent a few hours here yesterday on their way to the Nobel powder factory near Parry Sound, was fined ten dollars and costs this morning for having been drunk in a public place. Anticipating Ontario's aridity, most of them carried flasks either on their hip, or after the manner of the camels water supply. Dozens were gathered in by the police.

To miss seeing these TWO COMEDIANS is to miss one of the best treats ever offered to Peterborough theatre-goers. Special matinee at 2.30 to-morrow (SATURDAY) evening at 8.15.

CANADIANS JOIN PARADE IN DETROIT

DETROIT, April 13.—Wild scenes of enthusiasm marked the departure for the front of Michigan's naval militia. More than 150,000 citizens lined the streets from the naval armory to the Union Station and cheered and wept alternately as the "sailors of the sea" marched past on their way to the front. A squad of Kilties from the Canadian-Scottish Borders at Windsor proved one of the most interesting and inspiring features of the parade. Led by a youthful giant, carrying aloft an American flag, with an accompanying bugler, they presented themselves at the Detroit Armoury an hour before the parade commenced The leader said: "We are here, and if there are any Dutchmen who don't like it, let them start something." None did, and the Kilties occupied a prominent position in the spectacle, even marching into the depot and the cars with the departing sailors.

WOMAN'S BODY IN CANAL

WELLAND, April 13.—A horse attached to a bakery waggon, owned by Larri Carrocci, ran away at noon yesterday and plunging into the canal, was drowned. While dragging for the animal was going on, the body of a woman, badly decomposed from being in the water a long time, was brought to the surface.

Four Indicted For India Plot

NEW YORK, April 13.—Dr. Ernest Sekunna and Wolf von Igel, Germans, and Chandra Chakraberty and Heramba Gupta, Hindus, were indicted by a Federal Grand Jury to-day for alleged conspiracy in setting on foot a military expedition in this country against a friendly nation. They were charged with conspiracy to foment a rebellion in India.

Y. M. C. A. CIRCUS IS A GREAT SUCCESS

Amusing Features and Clever Stunts by Many Well Trained Youngsters Delight a Big Audience at the Grand Opera House

REPEATED TO-NIGHT

The only things lacking in the Y. M.C.A. circus at the Grand Opera House are the pink lemonade and the peanuts. The acrobats are there, the animals, wild or otherwise, are there, and the funny clowns are everywhere in evidence. There was something doing last night every minute of the time up to eleven o'clock and the programme from the grand entry to the final illuminated club swinging act was varied and always interesting. Aside from its amusing character the entertainment was a splendid demonstration of the scope of the physical training given by the Y.M.C.A., and emphasized the statement of Mr. Jos. Wearing, that Y.M.C.A. training the Empire over was responsible for part at least of the success of the British forces at the front. Incidentally Mr. Wearing was the ring master of the big circus and he made a splendid master of ceremonies.

There were a score of numbers on the programme and the audience were always interested. The successful training methods used in the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium were exemplified repeatedly. A quota of little fellows gave a splendid dumb bell drill that was warmly applauded and another squad won honours in a cleverly executed wand drill. Clever work on the parallel bars by some of the older boys was an interesting feature and an exhibition on the flying rings was worthy of professionals. The young athletes pulled off some very spectacular feats in this part of the programme and their work was a credit to themselves and their instructors.

The "famous Zouaves" scored heavily in their balancing feats on ladders, some of the formations being decidedly clever.

Two dancing numbers, the Highland Fling and a Dutch dance were most effectively presented. The Highland number was given with bagpipe accompaniment and aroused much enthusiasm. The "Sticktito" Bros. did some spectacular work on the high bar and a squad of youngsters evolved a number of splendid pyramids. Another fine feature was the exhibition of posing by two of the boys.

There were comedy numbers galore. The Six Fords sang several songs and got away with some funny jokes in good style. "Duck Hunting in Tapioca Lake" was a scream, and "Robinson Crusoe" and his assistant provided much amusement. The Saxaphone Four convulsed the audience with their quaint music and Jess Fitz-Corbett, world's champion, showed how to land a knock-out.

A wonderful trained elephant showed his ability in the latest dances and the clowns were here, there and everywhere.

The final number, an illuminated club swinging performance, was a fitting close to a splendid programme. Following were the numbers as given on the programme:

Six Fords, an absolutely novel novelty. These artists were secured at enormous cost.

Dumb Bell Drill— The men of tomorrow in a drill, the like of which has never before been witnessed.

Parallel Bars—By the unparalleled troupe, spectacular swings, shoots and circles. The nattiest, neatest, niftiest gymnasts in the world.

Duck Hunting in Tapioca Lake — Showing for the first time some new methods in hunting the wily.

Wand Drill — Harmoniously conducted by a group of husky boy athletes. This stunt calls for the closest muscular co-ordination and gymnastic skill, easily worth the price of admission.

Flying Rings—Dangerous, delirious, death defying feats in mid air, ignoring all the laws of gravitation. Balancing and revolving aerialist in all their sublimity.

Saxaphone 4—The greatest musical treat of the age. Hear them once and die. Hear them twice and you are sure to die.

The Famous Zquaves — Presenting for the first time irrational, impressive, imposing and ingenious balancing feats on two wireless aerials.

Robinson Crusoe and His Man Saturday— Straight from the South Sea Isle. A Top-Notch specialty.

The Sticktito Bros.— The youngest gymnasts before the public. Evolutions that cause the world to wonder. If this act does not please you see a doctor.

Highland Fling—As it is flung by the Clan of Bally McGregor, Killarney, Scandinavia.

Jess Fitz-Corbett — The coming heavyweight champion (Pie Eater) will challenge the world one at a time or all at once. Please place children under your seats during this session.

Apollo and Apollonaris—Were better left undescribed. See them as they stand in marble-like beauty in wonderful poses Hear them as they try to wash off the paint. The light effects for this act alone cost 11,000 dollars (Mexican).

Stupendo Bros.—The last word in the construction phalanx upon phalanx in a bewildering array of beauty supreme. As solid and delicious as a boarding house dumpling, all without the after effects.

The Elephant—Direct from the jungle for two days only. History knoweth no grander spectacle. This animal will fill you with delight such as when grandma bakes mince pies.

The Iridescent Sextette—A whirling so dexterious as to defy all preconcieved ideas of luminous transcendentance in graceful, gorgeous gugglery. Hold your breath. Wonderful.

The circus will be repeated to-night at the Grand. There should be another large audience.

Those taking part were as follows:

The Six Fords—Gordon Lamb, Chas. Fineberg, Joe White, Vernon Fiske, B. E. Park, F. Johnston.

Dumb-bell drill—Junior Schoolboys.

Wand drill—Junior Employed Boys.

Parallel Bars—Intermediate Leaders.

Saxaphone Four—H. Jones, C. C. Parsons, E. Walton, H. Flowers.

Zouaves — Intermediate Leaders' Corps.

Sticktito Brothers—T. Pogue, S. Lee.

Highland Fling—G. E. Yeaman, R. Pogue, F. Rutherford, F. Brooks, R. Cowan.

Apollo and Apollonaris—H. Martin, J. Thirnbeck.

Dutch Dance — R. Brown, F. Brooks, K. Kirn, R. Pogue, F. Rutherford, A. McLeod, H. Young and G. Yeaman.

Stupendo Bros.—Junior Leaders' Corps.

Elephant—F. Cole and W. Parsons. Trainer—G. Webb.

Illuminated Club Swinging — F. Brooks, F. Rutherford, J. White, H. Martin, R. Meserve.

Clowns—C. Elliott, K. Harstone, H. Carte.

Bear—M. McNeilly.

Pony—By himself (kindness of Mr. A. Johnston).

Duck Hunting, Robinson Crusoe, and Jess-Fitz-Corbett Specialties—G. McClelland and L. Conway.

There were a number of delays last night, which will all be eliminated this evening.

Dear Mary:—

Did it ever occur to you that we women spend more than one-half of our lives in our bed rooms? We ought to have them pretty.

What joy to turn down beautiful covers, to repose on a comfortable mattress, to sink your tired head into a downy pillow! What a delight to awaken in a prettily furnished room and to sit at a luxurious dressing table and primp.

Cheerful bed rooms will make every member of the family retire happy and awaken with energy and delight.

As ever—HELEN

The Illuminated Runway
A BIG FEATURE IN "The Million Dollar Doll"

One of the features of "The Million Dollar Doll," which will appear at the Grand to-morrow (Saturday), matinee and night, will be the illuminated "runway," on which a number of the songs and dances will be given, over the heads of the audience. The "runway" is one of the latest novelties and brings the company and audience in close touch with each other breaking down that barrier, known as "behind the footlights." This novelty has proved a veritable sensation in many of the cities, and some of the "runway numbers" have received as many as 8 and 10 encores a night. This is only one of the many new and novel features presented in this new musical comedy, which has been heralded as the most pretentious musical offering of the day. A bargain matinee for ladies and children will be given at 2.30. Adults 25c.-50c., few at 75c. Children, any seat, 25c. All seats reserved.

Poultry Association Held A Meeting

A meeting of the Poultry Association was held last night in the Labour Hall, George street with President Fred Browne in the chair. Mr. George Buller judged the birds that were exhibited. The following is a list of the awards: 1st White Wyandotte Hen, A. Brault; 1st cock, 1st cockerel, 1st, 2nd, 3rd pullet, Joe Kelly. The sweep stake prize for the best bird in the show went to the Barred Rock cockerel of Mr. Kelly. All varieties will be exhibited at the next meeting, May 10th. Three sweepstake prizes will be awarded for each for the (best pair), (second best pair), and the poorest pure bred bird which will give the beginner a chance as well as the experienced.

Mr. R. Vernon Dawson of the Brinton Carpet Company, left yesterday on a business trip to the West. Mr. Dawson expects to be absent about three months.

About fifty books were added yesterday to the Y. W. C. A. library, at the delightful little tea given by the Girls' Auxiliary of the "Y". That the books in the library are appreciated is evident by the fact that nearly seven hundred books were used during the year by the girls. The tea was successful in every way and much enjoyed by all who came in. Mrs. A. W. Cressman presided at the tea table.

Miss M. Rogers returned yesterday from an extended visit in New York and Toronto.

Miss Jessie Spence returned from Ottawa, where she has spent the past two months with her aunt.

Miss Jessie Cressman is in Belleville visiting Miss Billie Smith.

Miss Helen Mablaren has returned from Toronto, where she spent the holidays with her parents.

Lieut. Cote, formerly of the Bank of Montreal, sailed last week from Halifax to join the Flying Corps in England.

Gunner Hugh Carmichael has returned to Kingston after a visit with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Carmichael, Water street. He expects to sail for England very soon.

The Kitchener League was held yesterday at the residence of Mrs. M. Decker, 508 Bolivar street, was largely attended and a huge success. The tea tables were fascinating in their tastefull decorations of narcissus, ferns and candles. Mrs. Wotten, Mrs. Gere, and Mrs. Pretty assisted in the tea room. Music by the Misses Decker and of a Victrola, loaned by Miss Warboy, was greatly enjoyed. About nine dollars was added to the Sock Fund.

Mrs. M. Clarke, 577 Gilmour street, is spending a few days in Toronto.

Proposal For Separate Peace

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, April 13.—In the various "peace feelers" reported to-day, England was most interested in that referring to efforts by reputed Austrian and Bulgarian "unofficial envoys" in Switzerland for a separate agreement with the allies. To Count Von Bernstorff, the former Ambassador to Washington, was attributed the reports of peace overtures to the United States, reported in the United Press Copenhagen despatches yesterday.

ROME, April 13.—Zurich despatches to-day quoted the Schwabrische Tagmacht organ of the Wurtemburg Socialists, as admitting "the enormous superiority of the Allies," and that a "German victory is now impossible." The newspaper said the depression in Germany has been increased by the interminable number of trains carrying the wounded, whose relatives are not permitted to see them.

A Chance For Peterboro' To Help Great Work

Rev. Dr. Anderson Here in Aid of Royal Naval and Merchant Marine Institutes

Peterborough is to be given an opportunity to assist in a great work that is being undertaken in Canada by the Royal Naval and Merchant Marine Institutes of Canada, a branch of the organization that has done so much for the sailors of Great Britain in all parts of the Empire. Rev. Dr. Geo. Anderson is in the city and will be here for the next week in the interests of the work. He will deliver a number of lectures on the navy, speak in the schools, and in all probability preach in several of the city churches for the purpose of bringing before the people of Peterborough the scope of this great movement.

It is proposed to raise in Canada the sum of $150,000 to be devoted towards the establishment of institutes at Halifax and St. John's and at several points on the Pacific coast for the benefit of Canadian sailors. The parent branch of this great organization was formed in 1828 and its work is known wherever British sailors go.

TRAINING WOMEN MECHANICS

Hundreds Efficient Workers Turned Out in England.

LONDON, April 12.—As the demand for trained women in the munition factories has not yet been satisfied students are urgently needed for engineering, and it is announced there is a good opportunity for educated girls of a robust type, and for women. The work to be done involves tool-setting, machine operations, in which great precision and keenness of judgment are essential, and various processes in the construction of aeroplane engines. The success of women in these expert processes is now beyond doubt. The training classes, which have been established by the Ministry of Munitions, have already turned out many hundreds of efficient workers. The preliminary training lasts from eight to nine weeks and during that period a maintenance allowance of 25s a week is given to approved students.

Bolivia Severed Diplomatic Relations

SPECIAL TO THE EXAMINER:

BUENOS AIRES, April 14.—With Brazil on the verge of war with Germany after a diplomatic rupture, Bolivia diplomatically severed from Berlin. Argentina was swept by an anti-German sentiment to-day that seemed likely to result in a diplomatic break between Buenos Aires and Berlin. The wildest excitement followed the receipt of the news of the sinking by a German submarine of an Argentine sailing vessel, Monte Protogida.

The Cabinet deferred action until late to-day.

A NEW DRUG WORTH $1,000,000

Will Pick Up a Run-down, Weak, Nervous System in 5 to 10 Days

This new drug is a combination of iron and phosphorus, discovered by a Toronto chemist, who is making a fortune out of it. Doctors, hospitals and the public are raving it with wonderful success. The iron combines with the phosphorus, forming a new drug called Ironized Phosphorus with iron. Doctor Shingrise says that just as soon as Ironized Phosphorus with iron is taken the iron is almost immediately taken up by the blood, while the phosphorus is absorbed by the nerves. He also says he can take a person who is all run-down, tired, nervous, weak, and build their system up to normal strength in 5 to 10 days, by giving one to three of these tablets after meals and at bedtime. It has of late been discovered that 90 per cent. of all ailments susceptible to the human race can be traced to impurities in the blood and weak, broken-down nerves. To not be taking all sorts of laxatives and poisonous tonics, which only ruin your system, go to the root of all this trouble and strengthen your blood, restore your nerves and your digestion by taking this new drug. Ironized Phosphorus with iron is dispensed by one druggist in each city. F. C. Wether is the agent for Peterborough.

TWO NATIONS' SOLDIERS SALUTE UPON MEETING IN BRIDGE'S CENTRE.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., April 12.—The United States authorities have placed military posts at the American end of all the four bridges crossing the Niagara River, and field tents are being pitched for the living quarters of the men. The international military aspect is unique in history, the military of two nations facing each other yet in alliance standing guard over their common property against the world's common foe. When the men of each force walk out to the centre of each bridge and happen to meet, they salute each other.

German Resistance Is Daily Growing More Desperate

British Forces Are Steadily Gaining Command of All the High Ground Astride the Hindenburg Line

BIG PUSH CONTINUES

SPECIAL TO THE EXAMINER:

(By William Philip Simms)

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES AFIELD, April 14.—Lens was menaced to-day by the British big push. The German resistance was growing more and more desperate with each hour that Field Marshal Haig shoved his men forward. To-day Vimy Ridge was still shelled from afar off by German guns, as well as other positions held by the British. But everywhere the Teutonic artillerymen were shooting excitedly rather than methodically, as it is erratic not accurate. The British forces were steadily gaining command of all the high ground villages and other vantage points as they progressed astride the Hindenburg line To-day even the spreading plain below Vimy Ridge from which Lens was directly menaced, was being absorbed.

"We've got Frits where we want him now," observed a Canadian officer grimly to-day.

MILITIA SCHEME FAILURE.

Results Have Not Been Encouraging —Compulsory Service May be Needed.

OTTAWA, Ont., April 12. — The going is slow in the new scheme of militia mobilization, which was promulgated a few weeks ago. Authorities at the Militia Department have by no means abandoned hope in the plan, but the results do not afford great encouragement. Perhaps the valorous accomplishments of the Canadians at the front may serve as some stimulus.

Reports from different sections of the country, however, do not differ a great deal. All the militia regiments are doing something and getting in a number of men, but there is no stampede to the recruiting offices. The requirement of a summer's training in camp keeps back, probably, many who would be willing to undergo local training a few nights a week.

If the scheme should not pan out, there are only two courses to follow, either to let matters stand as they are or to invoke some obligatory methods under the Militia Act. Presumably something will be done, but to invoke compulsion will be a matter of policy for the Government as a whole to consider. It would doubtless come up in Parliament, though enforcement of the Militia Act is possible by order-in-Council.

The imminence of conscription in the United States may lend to neutralize the objections here. In the meantime, however, the authorities say that the new scheme has not had time to work itself out, and they are hoping for better results when the weather thaws out.

The second cheapest thing on earth is something just as good. The cheapest is the fellow who tries to sell it.

It may be easier to get into trouble than to get out, but it is harder on the health.

An Army of Convicts Set Loose in Russia

Wholesale Delivery of Desperate Men Ordered by the Old Regime—Gave Them Weapons—Rifles and Revolvers Ready, While Instructed Guard Stood Idly By.

(By Bassett Digby.)

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, April 14.—An ugly feature of the Russian revolution not fully revealed in despatches sent abroad was the systematic throwing open of jail gates and the freeing, and even providing with arms of convicts, on the orders of the old regime officials when they realized that the revolutionaries were gaining the upper hand. These deliveries occurred all over the empire, and were so similar that it can hardly be doubted that it was a feature of the prearranged plans of M. Protopohoff, Minister of the Interior, to embarrass the revolutionists should his regime show signs of failing to weather the storm.

Fortunately energetic measures taken by troops and students and other civilian militia seem to have minimized the harm and have resulted in the recapture of a large percentage of liberated criminals. On March 18 nearly 2,000 convicts were thus released from Butirski jail, Moscow. Of these 1,700 were recaptured in the course of the next three days, including nearly all members of the notorious "Sashka Somenarists" gang. Hundreds were retaken while quietly enjoying tea and cigarettes in Chinayas eating houses at the Khitrosca bazaar.

HUNDREDS OUT AT ODESSA.

At noon on March 21 a small crowd of convicts' friends demonstrated outside the Odessa Penitentiary. Wardens, though armed, released a large number of convicts, including several "Emertniki" or highway robbers sentenced to death by the military courts. Student soldiers and regulars retook 100 before nightfall.

Five hundred convicts were released from Elisovetgrad Penitentiary at Dusk under extremely suspicious circumstances. The governor of the prison and seventy armed wardens did nothing to prevent the convicts from helping themselves to scores of rifles and revolvers in the guardhouse, also several suits of civilian clothes. Led by members of the city revolutionary executive committee, an improvised little army of militia, police, young graduates of the military academy, a detachment of infantry, and civilians armed with shotguns and revolvers hustled right out after the convicts and before midnight nearly 200 had had been retaken or surrendered.

It appears the outbreak had been carefully planned for the following morning, but the premature doling out of drams of denatured alcohol instead of chereing the convicts excited them to force and immediate action. Zhetniski, governor of the penitentiary, was arrested.

There was an equally big jail delivery at Kherson. A party of convicts hastened to Aleshki, on the other side of Dnieper, where they stormed the jail and liberated all the inmates. A party of twenty-two of the Kherson convicts were retaken on the streets of Nikolaiev. Six hundred and fifty convicts escaped from the Minisk penitentiary, but nearly all are back behind the bars. Many of the wardens were arrested.

Three Divisions of Rochester's Naval Militia Off To The War

The order to the Naval Militiamen was thrown on the screens in the afternoon in the cinema houses and one man who was at the theatre with his sweetheart turned and said:

"That means me, dear. We'd better get out."

Taking leave of the girl, he went hurriedly to his home to notify his family and found that everyone was out and did not expect to return before dinner. He left a note on the table saying he had gone and made his way to the armory.

APPEALS TO CHIEF QUIGLEY

Another man, it is said, a married man with two children, had only $2.20 in the house when the orders came. He called up Joseph M. Quigley, chief of police, told him how matters stood, kissed his wife and children and started for the Armory.

Lieutenant Commander William B. Zimmer, paymaster of the battalion, did not leave with the troop train, being obliged to remain in the city for several days to finish up the thousand and one details which could not be attended to owing to the speed of the mobilization.

The bluejacket were led from the Armory to the station yesterday by Lieutenant Horace S. Peck, assistant paymaster. Captain E. N. Walbridge and Commander William J. Graham, went to the station in an automobile.

NEW COMPANY MUSTERED IN

Before leaving Captain Walbridge mustered in the new Naval Militia marine company. Its membership totalled 45 men and three officers. The officers whose appointments have been forwarded to Albany by Captain Walbridge are Captain Clarence Ball, Second Lieutenant John Tuthill, jr.

It is expected that the company will soon be recruited beyond the mark of 48 men which is its complement. Its uniforms and equipment probably will reach Rochester this week. The company is expected to remain in training here for several weeks.

ROCHESTER, April 12.—With the Godspeed of the city ringing in their ears the bluejackets of the Second, Sixth and Seventh divisions of the Third battalion, Naval Militia, of New York, left for a seaport on the Atlantic coast, where they probably will be assigned to one or more of the ships of the reserve fleet.

The streets around the armory were packed with humanity when the doors were opened soon after 9 o'clock and the long line of sailors and their escort, composed of the Third battalion, Seventy-fourth infantry: the four local companies of the Third infantry; Troop H, First cavalry, the Second Ambulance company, and all the mounted police of the city, poured out of the armory and swung down Main street toward the station.

SERIOUSNESS RELIEVED BY

There was a seriousness among the vast crowd that lined the streets and packed around the station. The train was late, being a troop train, and it was not until after 11 o'clock that the sailors' special pulled out of Rochester. Every car had been a drawing board for the wags of the various divisions and bore various devices such as "See you in Berlin," "We're after the bacon and we'll bring it home" and similar jests.

The jests had their place, too. They relieved the strain which was becoming intolerable owing to the long delay.

OUR BROTHERS ABOVE THE LINE.

New glory attaches to the flag of the Dominion, now topping the long contested ridge of Vimy. Again have our American brothers from above the border risen gloriously to opportunity; once more has the Canadian contingent of free men proven itself superior to the enemy that would crush out freedom. Americans of the United States hail the achievements of those other Americans, and are proud of them.

It is not merely because of the gallant unnamed Texan who fell wounded in the charge into which he bore the flag of the Stars and Stripes, not merely because of the fact that many others of his fellow citizens have joined him in fighting the fight of liberty under a flag not his own; it is because the men of Canada are of our own kind, are Americans just as much as we of the United States are Americans. The line that separates Canada from the United States is a political line, and nothing more.

We share in the pride of Canadians over the achievements of their splendid army, though asking no share in the glory. That is all their own.

Oats were light in weight last year. Light grain has a tendency to produce light grain. Clean and then clean again until none but plump seed is left for the sowing.

Germans Are Still Retreating On the West

French Forces Are Surrounding Givenchy

LENS IN FLAMES

SPECIAL TO THE EXAMINER:

LONDON, April 14.—The Germans are still retreating. The Canadians have entered the suburbs of Givenchy and the French are surrounding St. Quentin; Lens is in flames as the Germans retire. Four other towns have been taken. The British have taken a total of thirteen thousand prisoners and one hundred and sixty six guns this week; also 250 machine guns.

The Hague, April 14.—It is reported here that Emperor Wilhelm has arrived in Holland. Another report says the threatened revolt throughout Germany has caused him to abdicate.

Toronto, April 14.—Stewart Lyon, in a Canadian Press cable, says the Germans are in full retreat before the Canadians.

ARE BATHS NECESSARY?

This looks like a foolish question in this enlightened age, but there are nearly a million Americans who knew nothing of Internal Bathing a few years ago and are now eager to testify that they are fully as essential to health as External Baths.

By a purely natural process of properly using warm water, the "J. B. L. Cascade" removes ALL the poisonous waste from the Lower Intestine, which physicians agree is the cause of 95 per cent. of all human ailments.

It instantly removes constipation, properly regulates the bowels and prevents all the dragging-down which Biliousness and Liver Troubles always create.

R. W. Southall, M.D., of Genesee, N.Y., writes:—

"I challenged the doctors in this town last week in regard to what I can do with your 'Cascade.' I can say for a truth that I know the reason for my success with many serious illnesses was due to having the bowels washed out once and sometimes twice a day. I only wish I could make the people in general believe in the efficiency of a good bowel washing. Sincerely yours."

The Warne Drug Company, Peterborough have filled a tremendous demand for "J. B. L. Cascade" in the past few years, and will show and explain it to you on request. A free and interesting booklet on Internal Bathing. "Why Man of To-day is Only 50 Per Cent. Efficient," can also be obtained for the asking. If you prefer, write to Dr. Chas. A. Tyrrell, 165 College street, Toronto, for same.

Doctors Stand Amazed at Power of Bon-Opto to Make Weak Eyes Strong---According to Dr. Lewis

Guaranteed to Strengthen Eyesight 50% In One Week's Time in Many Instances

A Free Prescription You Can Have Filled and Use at Home

Philadelphia, Pa. Victims of eye strain and other eye weaknesses, and those who wear glasses, will be glad to know that according to Dr. Lewis there is real hope and help for them. Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their eyes restored by this remarkable prescription and many who once wore glasses say they have thrown them away. One man says, after using it: "I was almost blind. Could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without my glasses and my eyes do not hurt any more. At night they would pain dreadfully. Now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for 15 days everything seems clear. I can read even fine print without glasses." Another who says: "I was bothered with eye strain caused by overworked, tired eyes which induced fierce headaches. I have worn glasses for several years both for distance and work, and without them I could not read my own name on an envelope or the typewriting on the machine before me. I can do both now and have discarded my long distance glasses altogether. I can count the fluttering leaves on the trees across the street now, which for several years have looked like a dim green blur to me. I cannot express my joy at what it has done for me."

It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time and multitudes more will be able to strengthen their eyes so as to be spared the trouble and expense of ever getting glasses. Eye troubles of many descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by the use of this prescription. Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Bon-Opto tablets. Drop one Bon-Opto tablet in a fourth of a glass of water and let it dissolve. With this liquid bathe the eyes two to four times daily. You should notice your eyes clear up perceptibly right from the start and inflammation and redness will quickly disappear. If your eyes bother you even a little it is your duty to take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have saved their sight if they had cared for their eyes in time.

Note: Another prominent Physician to whom the above article was submitted, said: "Yes, the Bon-Opto prescription is truly a wonderful eye remedy. Its constituent ingredients are well known to eminent eye specialists and widely prescribed by them. I have used it very successfully in my own practice on patients whose eyes were strained through overwork or misuse of glasses. I can highly recommend it in case of weak, watery, aching, smarting, itching, burning eyes, red lids, blurred vision or for eyes inflamed from exposure to smoke, sun, dust or wind. It is one of the very few preparations I feel should be kept on hand for regular use in almost every family." Bon-Opto, referred to above, is not a patent medicine or a secret remedy. It is an ethical preparation, the formula being printed on the package. The manufacturers guarantee it to strengthen eyesight 50 per cent in one week's time in many instances or refund the money. It can be obtained from any good druggist and is sold in this city by Warne Drug Co. and Other Druggists.

Marseillaise, World's Most Famous Song

(From Answers, London)

There can be no question that the world's most famous song is the Marseillaise. There is no other which, by its origin, history and influence, can compete with it. For a century and a quarter it has voiced the aspirations and fired the courage of one of the globe—the gallant French—and today it is sung not only by the soldiers of that great nation, but by all the Allies.

Everybody knows how the young officer, Rouget de Lisle, composed the words in a white heat of patriotism, composed the tune on his violin, and sang it to his comrades, and how, shortly afterwards, it was sung on the march from Marseilles to Paris by the redhot revolutionaries who were destined out of a welter of blood to bring to pass a new France.

On July 4, 1915, in the midst of the great war and France's heroic struggle to maintain her ancient freedom, the ashes of Rouget de Lisle were taken to the Invalides, where the president, the ministers, and the diplomatic corps paid homage to the man who voiced the nation's heart.

The Marseillaise was the song sung by the populace of Petrograd when the revolution succeeded on March 15, 1917.

TO CHECK A COLD.

It is easy to check a cold if you begin in time. Frequent doses of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine loosen the cough, allay the inflammation, and so prevent it spreading to the bronchial tubes and lungs. Mrs. A. M. Moore, Shortreed, B.C., writes: "I wish to state my gratitude for Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, for it cured a cold which a friend said would soon put me in the grave."

Corn roots reach in warm soil, and fill the ground as near the surface as there is moisture. It has been well proved that a thorough stirring of the seedbed to a considerable depth, before planting the corn pays well. It has also been equally well proved that after planting corn cannot be cultivated deeply without cutting off its roots.—Breeders' Gazette.

Denounce Slackers In Marriage Rush

MEN WHO ISSUE LICENSES SAY BRIDES HAVE DISCLOSED CAUSE OF HASTE.

BUREAU IS AGAIN CROWDED.

CHICAGO ALSO SUSPECTS EVASION, BUT BOSTON WEDDINGS ARE CALLED PRELUDES TO MILITARY SERVICE.

NEW YORK, April 13. — City Clerk Patrick J. Scully and his assistants, who have been swamped for the last few days by applicants for marriage licenses, are convinced that the big "matrimonial drive" is due in part at least to the fact that many young men want to escape military service. The rush for licenses continued unabated yesterday, 120 being issued. Chief Scully paused long enough in his work to relieve himself of some indignation.

"I have reluctantly come to the conclusion," he said, "that this unprecedented increase in the number of applications for marriage licenses is due in very great degree to the recent announcement that all single men between the ages of 19 and 25 may be drafted for military service. Any man who thus seeks to hide behind a woman's skirts is a moral and a physical coward. He is certainly not worthy of the freedom and the advantages that his parents sought when they came to these shores.

"When the record was broken on the Saturday before Easter I was of the opinion that the religious season had something to do with it. Monday's record, however, proved that such was not the case. The increase was out of all proportion. My clerks have had admissions from some of the brides-to-be that the proposal to draft unmarried men is driving hundreds of slackers into hasty marriages.

"If there are any United States army or navy recruiting officers who want to look at my books they may do so."

Thaddeus C. Wasserman, head of the Municipal Marriage Chapel where many of the marriages are performed, said:

"The girls make 'no bones' about it at all. Many of them volunteer the information that they have induced their young men to marry, and escape conscription. Others will tell you unblushingly that their 'fellows' have begged them to save them from the trenches by hurrying to the altar. It makes a man so disgusted that he feels like running away from such an atmosphere."

The Marriage License Bureau in the Municipal Building was so crowded yesterday that a policeman was stationed at the doors to keep out the new arrivals until some of those within had departed.

CHICAGO, April 13. — Obstacles were placed to-day in the way of the parade to the Marriage License Bureau, where since the beginning of the war with Germany, the number of daily applications has reached unprecedented figures. Observing that 1,116 of the 1,260 applicants yesterday were of military age, County Clerk Sweitzer eliminated his emergency staff of twenty clerks leaving his normal force of four.

"Let 'em wait!" said Mr. Sweitzer.

It is proposed to place a recruiting officer in the building, where young men in uniform are to ask each applicant the question:

"Are you going to sidestep your duty?"

BOSTON, April 13. — Applications for marriage licenses here have exceeded all records since President Wilson asked Congress to declare a state of war. But in the opinion of City Registrar McGlenen, the young men concerned are not slackers. Instead, he said to-night, the hasty marriages in most instances are due to the fact that the men have enlisted in the army, navy, or National Guard, and wish to be married before being called into service.

Registrar McGlenen cited the fact that one of the applicants for a marriage license to-day was Archie Roosevelt, son of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, whose engagement to Miss Grace S. Lockwood of this city was announced last Friday. Young Roosevelt told him that as a member of the Officers' Reserve Corps he was likely to be called to the colors at any time, and therefore he and his fiancee had arranged to hurry their marriage. Saturday had been set as the day of the ceremony, which will be performed here.

How Music Affected Boswell.

Boswell had a good deal more feeling for music than Dr. Johnson and suffered at his master's hands. Once in a moment of expansiveness he told Johnson that music "affected him" to such a degree as to agitate his nerves most painfully, producing alternative sensations of pathetic dejection, so that he was ready to shed tears, and of daring resolution, so that he was inclined to rush into the thickest of the battle.

"Sir," replied Johnson, "I should never hear it at all if it made me such a fool."

Making Up Her Mind.

The Eternal.

There must be something beyond man in this world. Even on attaining to his highest possibilities he is like a bird beating against his cage. There is something beyond. O deathless soul, like a seashell, moaning for the bosom of the ocean to which you belong!—Chapin.

New Vitality and New Life for the Aged

IN the evening of life, when the strength is gradually decreasing, and the vital powers are waning, Wincarnis exerts a powerful influence in creating new strength, and in surcharging the body with new vitality, because Wincarnis possesses a four-fold power. It is a Tonic, a Restorative, a Blood-maker, and a Nerve Food, all combined.

Therefore, Wincarnis creates new strength, new blood, new nerve force, and new vitality. And this four-fold power, acting upon the system at one time, promotes a feeling of new life throughout the whole body. That is the reason why over 10,000 Doctors recommend Wincarnis. And it is also the reason why Wincarnis is the one thing that elderly people should take to restore their decreasing strength, and to revive their waning vitality. Also, as Wincarnis does not contain depressing drugs, it can be safely taken by old people and the weakest invalid.

Wincarnis is a positive necessity for elderly people, because it promptly promotes new strength and quickly creates new vitality, at a time of life when the vital powers most need assistance.

Those of us who are in the springtime of life, should remember what we owe to the "old folks at home," and make a point of getting them a bottle of Wincarnis to-day.

Remember that Wincarnis has a world-wide reputation of over 30 years' standing, that it has given new health and new life to countless thousands of sufferers, that it is used in Hospitals throughout the world, and that it is recommended by over 10,000 Doctors, you will readily understand why Wincarnis is invaluable to those who are Weak, Anæmic, Nervous, Run-down; to Invalids and old people, and to all who are depressed and out of sorts.

Canadian Singer Returns.

Miss Juliette Gauthier, a French-Canadian girl whose musical education was conducted under the patronage of Lord and Lady Strathcona and Sir Wilfrid and Lady Laurier in Budapest, Rome, and Paris, and who has studied under the world's greatest masters, has returned to Ottawa, her home town, to remain until after the war. Miss Gauthier has a charming personality, is artistic in appearance and is gifted with a quaint humor, altogether irresistible.

Miss Ganthier's musical education began in Ottawa, where she studied the violin at the Conservatory of Music. Later she studied at McGill Conservatory of Music under Alfred De Seve and attended the Royal Victoria College for Women for two years. In 1907 she left Canada for Budapest, Hungary, where she was accepted as a pupil of Jeno Aubay and also admitted to the Royal Conservatorium of Music, which is a high honor as she was the only Canadian ever admitted. After three years' study she passed examinations for both singing and violin and under the advice of Jeno Aubay and David Pepper, the world renowned 'cellist, also of Budapest, Miss Gauthier went to Italy to take up singing. She remained there for four years under Vincenze Lombardi, the most celebrated teacher in Europe.

After a successful debut in Italy she signed a contract with the Boston Grand Opera. She has sung in several concerts in Canada, and would have toured the Dominion but for the war, which interrupted everything of that kind in this country.

Miss Juliette Gauthier is the daughter of Louis Gauthier, of Ottawa, and a sister of Miss Eva Gauthier who also is well known in musical circles in Europe and America.

Eskimo Suits for Children.

Eskimo suits may be supplied to the children in Orde Street School, Toronto, as the result of a discussion regarding the heating of the open-air classrooms. Dr. A. MacKay gave it as his opinion that if the rooms were not heated the children would have to be provided with these suits. Dr. Hopkins said that pure, cold air would be better for pupils inclined to be tubercular, and that he would favor the supplying of suits rather than installing a heating system.

A Good Medicine For The Spring

Do Not Use Harsh Purgatives—A Tonic Is All You Need

Not exactly sick—but not feeling quite well. That is the way most people feel in the spring. Easily tired, appetite fickle, sometimes headaches, and a feeling of depression. Pimples or eruptions may appear on the skin or there may be twinges of rheumatism or neuralgia. Any of these indicate that the blood is out of order—that the indoor life of winter has left its mark upon you and may easily develop into more serious trouble.

Do not dose yourself with purgatives, as so many people do, in the hope that you can put your blood right. Purgatives gallop through the system and weaken instead of giving strength. Any doctor will tell you this is true. What you need in spring is a tonic that will make new blood and build up the nerves. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is the only medicine that can do this speedily, safely and surely. Every dose of this medicine makes new blood which clears the skin, strengthens the appetite and makes tired, depressed men, women and children bright, active and strong. Mrs. Maude Bagg, Lumberg, Sask., says: "I can unhesitatingly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a blood builder and tonic. I was very much run down when I began using the Pills, and a few boxes fully restored my health."

Sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

PEACE BY END OF YEAR?

LONDON, April 12.— A feeling in some quarters that the war may end before the last of the year is indicated by the fact that in underwriting circles business was done yesterday "to pay loss if peace is not declared before December 31," at 45 guineas per cent. Some time ago business was done at the rate of 15 per cent. against the declaration of peace within 18 months. A report in Wall street that 10 to 1 was being offered at Lloyds that peace would be concluded within 90 days was described as more in the nature of a jocular bet than an attempt to trade. The wide betting odds frequently mentioned are not seriously considered as indicative of market opinion.

Cheap Tea Not Economical!

Many people complain about the poor flavor of the cheap tea they are using, but are trying to put up with it because they think they are saving money.

In reality, cheap tea is rarely more economical, often less economical, than Red Rose Tea.

While Red Rose Tea may cost a few cents more, or even 10 cents more per pound, than common tea three teaspoonsful of Red Rose Tea are equal to five teaspoonsful of common tea.

Less Red Rose Tea is required in the tea pot, because this master blend of Indian-Ceylon teas consists largely of the famous hill grown teas of Assam, India.

These Assam teas excel in vigor, richness and strength. Their leaves yield more liquor and a fuller flavored liquor. Blended with Ceylons they make the ideal tea for flavor and economy.

Try a sealed package of Red Rose Tea and keep count of the extra number of cups it yields in comparison with cheap teas. You will find that Red Rose is worth every cent asked for it—and that it costs no more to use this delightful tea.

HOME HEALTH CLUB

By DR. DAVID H. REEDER

(Edited by Dr. David H. Reeder, Chicago, Ill.)

Catarrhal Deafness. — During the past year I have told you of several new and successful methods of treating human ailments. Among those that are quite popular I might again mention "Auto Hemic Tharapy," by which the patient's own blood is taken and a serum made therefrom and through which some very wonderful results have been obtained. Relief from epilepsy, skin diseases, weaknesses, lack of energy and ambition, neuritis and many other troubles are known to have yielded to "Auto Hemic Therapy." Then there is "Spondylotherapy," a system that I have used for many years in spinal troubles but only recently recognized by the profession at large.

The "Vagal Reflex" system of diagnosis is really a wonderful discovery and enables its users to determine the first symptoms of deeply seated cancer, tuberculosis, syphilis and malaria and by this early diagnosis a cure is possible in most all cases.

There are other new and splendid methods of diagnosis and treatment, but I know a vast number of you will want to know about the most successful and safe method of treatment for catarrhal deafness. The successful treatment of this distressing trouble has been worked out by the osteopaths largely through the research work done by Dr. J. Deason when director of the laboratories of the A. T. Still Research Institute. By a system which he calls "Finger Surgery," Dr. Deason has been able to secure favourable results in 95 p.c. of the cases that were advised to take treatment. In two years 2426 cases were examined, about 76 p.c. of which were advised to take treatment. Reports show that 74 p.c. of all partial deafness is catarrhal. Out of 1122 cases of head noises complete relief was obtained in 37 p.c. of accepted cases, and partial relief in 52 p.c., while it appears certain that some benefit will be obtained in 79 p.c. of all cases.

While the method of treatment appears simple, yet it requires a certain and positive knowledge of the anatomy of the eye, ear, nose and throat and a degree of skill in applying the treatment that can only be acquired by careful study and close application of the knowledge gained. I have thoroughly investigated the system of treatment and found it sane and safe. The patient suffers but little inconvenience or pain and the relief is so quick and pleasant that he gladly goes back for repeated treatment. A portion of the routine treatment includes a new method of thorough irrigation by which the mouth, throat and entire nasal cavity are thoroughly cleansed with from 2 to 6 quarts of a hot saline solution. This is followed by the removal, usually by the finger of adhesions, adenoids, foreign growths, etc. and the digital dilatation of the orifice of the sustachian tube in certain cases of catarrhal deafness.

It doesn't seem possible that all this could be accomplished by simple manipulation with the fingers and without the use of surgical instruments, but I have seen it done, and even children are ready for repeated treatments. In the course of time the only medicine used will be in the form of a truly scientific diet and the only surgery used will be to repair the damage done by accidents. We haven't yet reached that stage of development, however, and are still dependent to some extent on medicine and surgery to keep us alive and happy.

CLUB NOTES.

I will gladly answer all inquiries for information on health subjects from readers of this publication if same are addressed to Home Health Club, 5039 Cottage Grove Ave., Chicago, Ill. Send full name and address with 4 cents postage.

Dear Doctor: Will you please answer the following questions for my own as well as others' benefit in the Home Health Club department? Is there danger of one taking tuberculosis of the lungs from clothes or bedding used by a tuberculosis patient? If so, how long a time after the patient's death? How long will tubercular germs live under favourable conditions?—A. R.

(Answer) Full and complete answers to these questions are to be found in Vol. 2 of the Club books under the heading of Consumption, Tuberculosis, etc., but for the benefit of those who have not yet secured the book I will say that while it is quite possible for one to become infected with the germs of tuberculosis from unwashed and damp bedding previously used by such a patient, it such bedding is properly washed and hung in the sunshine and air, then properly ironed before using, there is no danger whatever. Darkness and dampness will protect and keep alive the cultures of tuberculosis germs for many months, but these germs are the result and not the cause of the disease; therefore, unless they find a suitable soil in a human being or animal they cannot reproduce the disease.

Air and sunshine kill the germs and the disease very quickly. There is also a method largely used by physicians and others whereby the homes may be fortified against disease by thoroughly sterilizing from cellar to garret, in every nook and corner where germ life may conceal itself—rendering every portion of the premises free, for the time being, at least, of destructive parasites, by the mixing of two chemicals and then closing the rooms for thirty minutes. This should not only be used after any contagious disease, but occasionally anyhow, to prevent disease. It is inexpensive and easily operated, unlike the use of bubrned sulphur, as it does not destroy or require the removal of anything in the room, does not tarnish metal or gilt of any kind, nor does it fade of effect the most delicate colors in cloth. It means the most perfect sanitation and a means of keeping of health, is easily procured and not expensive.

Dear Doctor: I am a reader of your lectures and enjoy your talks very much, especially those on Catarrh and Bronchitis, from which I am a sufferer. I do not expect to get cured for I am 72 years old but shall try some of your advice. I have spent at least $1,000 to no avail. In a lecture of some time ago you stated that in some cases of catarrh nothing would help except change of climate. Will you please name the place, state of country which would be liable to be the best for one suffering with these troubles?

F. J.

(Answer)—In regard to change of climate for catarrhal and bronchial trouble, would say that New Mexico, Arizona and Colorado are beneficial as well as Piedmont Valley, iVrginia. I believe the last named place which is in the lithis water district, would be an ideal place to live, owing to the pure water, climate, etc. However, either of the above-mentioned States has portions at least that are exceptionally adapted for ctarrhal conditions.

An Established Standard

For sixty-five years the Heintzman & Co. piano has been the established standard of high art in piano making. It is not merely for their beautiful and artistic cases that these instruments are renowned, but because of their fine and particularly sympathetic tone. It is because of the wonderful tone of the that Tetrazzini and Ruffo chose it to sing to on their Canadian tour; that De Pachmann chose it for his Canadian concerts; that Nordica, Albani, Sembrich, and many other world-famous artists became enthusiastic in its praise.

Heintzman & Co. Art Piano Grand or Upright

The Heintzman tone is permanent—it is built right into the instrument—there for a lifetime.

CHOICE RECIPES

Jellied Veal.

Cover a knuckle of veal, broken into small pieces, with boiling water and let simmer until tender, together with a few slices of carrot, half an onion, and a stalk of celery. Drain, reserving the broth; remove all meat from the bones, return the particles of gristle, skin and bones to the broth, put over the fire and simmer until reduced to one cup. Strain, set aside, and cool. When the meat is nearly cold, cut in tiny cubes or else chop fine, remove the fat from the broth, reheat and stir the veal into it, adding salt, pepper and any other seasoning desired. Decorate a mould with slices of hard-cooked eggs, pour the veal mixture into this, cover with buttered paper, press down with a weight and let stand until cold and set. Serve sliced thin.

Mock Venison.

Cut cold mutton into thin slices and heat in a brown sauce made according to the following proportions: Two tablespoonfuls of butter, two of flour, one of bottled meat sauce (whichever is preferred) and one of red currant jelly and one cupful of water or stock. Brown the flour in the butter, add the water or stock slowly, and keep stirring. Then add the jelly and meat sauce and let the mixture boil up well.

Potato Muffins.

Three potatoes, one teaspoonful salt, one tablespoonful butter, flour, two eggs, one-half cupful milk, one teaspoonful baking powder. Boil the potatoes until soft, then mash. Add the salt and butter and beat well. Add the two well-beaten eggs, milk and enough flour to make a drop batter when mixed with the baking powder. Bake in well-greased rings on a hot-greased griddle.

AMERICAN OIL FIRMS RUSH 100 NEW TANKERS

War Causes Big Demand for Petroleum—Ships Aid to U. S. Navy.

PORT ARTHUR, Tex., April 11. — It has been demonstrated by the European war that crude petroleum and its refined products play almost as important a part as the big guns and munitions.

Since the destruction of the Roumanian oil fields there has been an enormous increase in the export of this product from the Texas and Mexico fields. In order to provide for the transportation of the oil it has been necessary for all of the companies engaging in this trade to make large additions to their tank steamer fleets.

Some idea of how this business has developed during the last two years may be had by the statement that during that period orders have been placed for the building of more than 100 new oil tank steamers with American shipbuilders. The cost of each of these vessels is approximately $1,000,000, which makes a total of more than $100,000,000.

26 Tankers Already Launched.

Of the more things than 100 new oil tankers, twenty-six already have been launched and sixty-one are scheduled to be finished during the present year. The remainder will not be completed and put into commission until some time next year.

It is stated by the larger producing refining and marketing oil companies of Texas that within the next eighteen months or two years there will be far more oil tank steamers under American registry than are to be found under the registry of any other nation.

The Mexican Petroleum company has just placed in service four new vessels and construction is in progress on ten others. The Texas company is operating a large shipyard at Bath, Me., where it now has under construction twelve new tank steamers. It is also building five large towing boats for use in its transatlantic fleet.

Buys Ships of British.

The Standard Oil company operates a large number of tank steamers out of Tampico, Mexico, and Port Arthur. It has added largely to a number of these vessels during the last year by the purchase of English steamers of this character and transferring them to American registry.

It is claimed by men who are in close touch with the oil export situation of this country and Mexico that in the event the United States becomes involved in war the big tonnage of oil carrying steamers which has been created during the last two years would prove of incalculable benefit in the matter of providing the necessary fuel not only for the vessels of the American navy, but for supplying, as is now being done, the markets of the allied countries.

A MASTER OF SATIRE.

Stephen Leacock is a Humorist of Subtlety and Vitality.

In "Who's Who" Stephen Leacock is described as a professor of political economy. You might imagine a dried-up, stooped, dusty little man, through whose spectacles the joy of economics still shines, and whose holiday reading consists of "The Statesman's Year Book" and the agricultural reports. The real Stephen Leacock is a humorist with twinkling eyes and a merry laugh, who lectures in political economy when he is not otherwise engaged.

Prof. Leacock's craftsmanship has improved with each book that he has published. There is a marked difference between the quality of "Literary Lapses" and that of "Arcadian Adventures with the Idle Rich." A few of the sketches in "Literary Lapses" he has scarcely surpassed. "My Financial Career" is an excellent example, but as a whole "Literary Lapses" is his poorest book.

Prof. Leacock is a master of delicate satire. He pokes fun at everything and everyone. No class of society is proof against his genial thrusts. Clergymen, financiers, and professors are equally favored. Prof. Leacock finds a sort of unholy joy in shattering our prejudices and illusions. Those who have been thrilled by Captain Marryat and inspired by Horatio Alger must experience a shock in reading "Nonsense Novels." Has the day come when the adventures of the poor, but honest Hezekiah Hayloft in New York arouse emotions, not of sympathetic admiration, but of uncontrollable mirth? O tempora! O mores!

Prof. Leacock's methods are entirely different from those of some American humorists. The latter get certain effects by the use of what is known on the stage as "slap-stick." Leacock is an artist, not a clown. Only a master can tell a commonplace story in such a comical way that the recollection of it, even in church, makes us clutch our nose in a desperate effort to avoid public disgrace.

Our political economist makes quite as much fun of the respectable, unimaginative middle class as Bernard Shaw, but with what a difference! The Shavian method is that of a surgeon who thoroughly enjoys a gruesome operation. Prof. Leacock loves his characters, even when he is laughing most heartily at them. His wit is never caustic. In the hands of a less "human" writer, Mr. Spillikins, in "Arcadian Adventures," would be nothing more than a shallow fop. Prof. Leacock makes him a pathetic little object, ridiculous as he is. Do you remember him when he was telling how Dulphemia had received his proposal, when his 30-inch chest was shaken with a sudden storm of sighs? "But at any rate she was awfully nice, let me say—everything I wanted, and when I explained what'a fool I was, she said she didn't think I was half such a fool as people thought me. But it's all right. It turns out that she isn't thinking of getting married. I asked her if I might go on thinking of her and she said I might." Poor little Mr. Spillikins!—J. D. Bush in Toronto Star Weekly.

A Floating Studio.

An experiment probably without a parallel on the continent will be undertaken by Mr. and Mrs. F. McGillivray Knowles, the well-known Toronto artists, in a few weeks when they will say farewell to studio life on dry land and embark on a floating studio on the inland waters of Canada and the United States. Mr Knowles has purchased a commodious yacht, the "Ariel," and will make it the future home and studio of himself and wife.

The yacht is 80 feet in length, and will be fitted up as homelike as possible. Mr. and Mrs. Knowles will leave Toronto in February for New York, their headquarters, and will then move north and south with the sun, as it were. In cold weather they will be far down to Florida, and come north with the warming winds spending the summer months probably in Canadian waters. The experience will be unusual, but Mr Knowles believes it will be healthful and inspiring to his work.

Mr. David Devant, the famous conjurer, is now giving his wonderful performance at the leading halls and throughout the country. He sends this special message for Lord Derby's recruits:

"Dear Boys,—Lord Derby will surprise the enemy more than any conjurer when he shows them what he has up his sleeve. You are going forward like real Britons in the cause of Right, and your spirit will act like magic. Good luck and God speed you each and every one!"

LINDSAY'S RECORD

The people of this town are wide awake to the advantages of using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food as a means of toning up the run-down nervous system. Headaches have disappeared—many are less nervous and irritable and are resting and sleeping better—nervous indigestion and prostration have been cured—tired, languid feelings have given way to new hope and courage as the result of using this great food cure.

Run-down System

Mrs. Frank Adams, 62 Cambridge St., Lindsay, Ont., writes: "For eight years or more I suffered a great deal with nervousness, sleeplessness and run-down system, as well as nervous indigestion. I had to be very careful of what I ate, because I was troubled with gas on my stomach. I had tried a great many remedies without any benefit. Finally, upon the advice of a friend who had been benefited by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, I tried this treatment. I found they were doing me a great deal of good, so I continued using them until my health was greatly improved. I can now sleep well at night and eat almost anything I wish. I keep Dr. Chase's Nerve Food in the house and use it as a tonic whenever I feel I need one."

Nervous Prostration

Mrs. Short, 20 St. Paul Street, Lindsay, Ont., writes: "Several years ago one of my daughters suffered from an attack of nervous prostration. Through reading in the newspapers of the cures effected by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I decided to try them with her. I did so, and she continued the treatment until she felt well and able to attend to her work."

St. Vitus' Dance

Mrs. J. H. Rathmell, 33 Colborne Street West, Lindsay, Ont., writes: "For several years one of my daughters was troubled with nervous debility and St. Vitus' dance. The doctor benefited her at first, but did not permanently cure her. Later I was advised to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food with her, so I commenced giving them to her just after she had had the German measles. She took six boxes in all, and I found that she was stronger and in better health than she ever was. She does not have any return of this illness only when her system gets run down and in a weakened condition; then I secure some of the Nerve Food and give it to her, with the same good results. My other daughter was troubled with nervous debility, so I had her use some of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, too, and it benefited her splendidly. Since then I have recommended its use to many of my friends."

Sleeplessness

Miss Edythe Cowles, 563 Sherbrooke St., Peterboro', Ont., writes: "For some years I have suffered from nervousness, sleeplessness and a run-down system. Many times chloroform had to be resorted to to relieve the severe headaches used to have. I had doctored for years, and had been advised that it would be necessary to have an operation, but I kept putting it off. Finally I procured a box of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and before I had taken many of the pills found that they were doing me good, so I continued the treatment. My headaches have ceased and I can now eat and sleep fine. I have not felt so well for many years. This is the only medicine I have taken, and I can give the full credit to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I have already recommended it to many of my friends."

Anaemia

Mrs. May Sandbach, 334 Water St., Peterboro', Ont., writes: "I had suffered from nervous prostration, and used to have melancholy spells. Last fall I was suffering from nervous debility and anaemia. I tried all kinds of remedies and herbs without getting any relief. I had also tried doctors—not only Canadian, but English — and had taken treatment in English hospitals; but all to no use; I received no benefit. I was finally induced to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and had not been taking it for more than three days before I could see a change for the better. I continued the treatment until I had taken four or five boxes. I feel greatly benefited, and am so much better that I feel proud of myself. I have been benefited to such an extent that I am pleased of this opportunity to let others know, and anyone that wishes to write me may do so."

Nervous Debility

Mrs. Jane Gray, 68 Wellington St., Lindsay, Ont., writes: "I was troubled so badly with nervous debility that sometimes I could not keep my feet quiet while sitting down. I had seen Dr. Chase's Nerve Food advertised, so I procured some and started using it. I could tell that they were doing me good, so I kept on using them until I had taken about six boxes in all. They did me a great deal of good, and relieved me of my nervousness. If at times I do not feel quite well I take a few of these Nerve Food pills as a tonic. I can recommend them to anyone suffering from nervousness or run-down system."

Nervous Breakdown

Mrs. M. E. Robson, 170 Dublin Street, Peterboro', Ont., writes: "When about the age of 14 or 15 my daughter was on the verge of a nervous breakdown. She had a very poor appetite, lost all her color, and at times had a twitching of the nerves in her limbs. I secured some of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and gave her a treatment, using five or six boxes. The results were splendid, entirely curing her of her nervous trouble and restoring her appetite. I find Dr. Chase's Nerve Food a splendid spring tonic, and best results to be found by taking some of the Kidney-Liver Pills at the same time."

If They Are, Some Serious Lung Trouble Are Sure To Follow

A cold or cough, if neglected, will sooner or later develop into some sort of lung trouble, so we would advise that you get rid of it before it becomes settled. For this purpose we know of nothing to equal Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. This preparation has been on the market for the past twenty-five years, and has always given universal satisfaction.

Mr. Erwell Bolton, Wilton, Ont., writes: "Last winter I was caught in a storm and had to stay in a barn all night. I caught a severe cold which several medicines failed to cure. I went to some of the best doctors but these failed to do me any good. A friend advised me to use Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. I used three bottles and they gave me instant relief."

When you ask for "Dr. Wood's" see that you get the genuine, put up in a yellow wrapper, three pine trees the trade mark, and bearing the name of The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont. Price 25c and 50c.

The HOME CIRCLE COLVMN

"Is your father rich?" someone asked a five year old girl; and the little girl replied confidentially, "Why of course, he's got me." And she was right, too, for the father of a sweet, loving, helpful little daughter is richer than some millionaire, whose money cannot buy them the love of a single heart. How about your father? Does he think he is a rich man because of the daughter at home? There are households where it is very "hard to make both ends meet," but where there is plenty of that better wealth of love and kindness and loyalty. Is yours one of them?

* * *

The true home maker is a happy combination of the "Martha" and the "Mary" sort of women, for while not "troubled about many things," she leaves none of the essential things undone, and yet "chooses the better part," and gives to love the first best place. Her house is healthfully clean from cellar to attic but painfully neat nowhere; she is orderly and sympathetic enough to keep the machinery running smoothly, and not so prim that anyone is afraid of incurring reproachful looks or words by misplacing a chair; and if books and papers are now and then left scattered around, one is not told of it next morning at the breakfast table. The meals are well cooked and served on time, the beds thoroughly aired each morning and sunshine and fresh air coaxed into the farthest corner of every room.

A cheerful, happy home is the sweetest place on earth and the greatest safeguard against temptation for the young. Parents should spare no pains to make home a cheerful place. There should be pictures to adorn the walls, flowers to cultivate the finer sensibilities, entertaining books, instructive newspapers and periodicals. These things no doubt cost money, but not a tithe the amount that one of the lesser vices cost, vices which are sure to be acquired away from home, but seldom there. Then there should be social pleasure, a gathering of old and young around the hearthstone, a warm welcome to the neighbor who drops in to pass a pleasant hour. There should be reading and music. In this way each member of the family looks forward to the hour of reunion as the brightest one of the 24.

* *

Let not the young man who is living beyond his income deceive himself with the sophistry that he will retrieve his position. Let him not build air castles of future successes that will redeem the past, only to be crushed beneath their ruins. Out of your present you are building your future and as surely as night follows day you will reap that which you have sown. Be not deceived. The law is inexorable. You cannot escape the consequences of your acts. If you sow tares in the springtime of your life, these will make your harvest; if good fruit, then will the autumn fill your granaries. Remember, too, that there is but one seed time, and that for you is fraught with real or woe. There is but one garnering time and it rests with you alone whether you shall garner honor or shame, success or galling poverty, righteousness or unrighteousness.

* * *

Our young people must be taught that "all is not gold that glitters," and "that fine dress does not make the man or woman." We must begin right if we expect to rear our children up to contentment and happiness. Teach them to be industrious and not to idle away their time. There are so many young people to-day that are living only in the present, dancing away golden hours, when they should be thinking, studying and working. Girls should be taught how to manage and keep house while with mother. As she grows older let the mantle gradually fall from mother's shoulders on to hers, and when she is called to a home of her own she will not feel at a loss. She will know how and where to begin. We know there are mothers now toiling to keep grown girls from work when they are able and would willingly do it, had they not been brought up with the idea instilled into their heads that young ladies must not mar their beauty by work.

* * *

Extravagant dress has broken more husbands than it has made model wives.

* * *

There is but one way out of poverty for the generality of mankind and that is downright hard work, economy and self denial. Young man, draw your coat off, roll up your sleeves, and wade in. The everlastingly waiting to step into dead men's shoes, will terminate your career as a mere grovelling, dependent, subsisting and only existing and filling space without a real or a single purpose in life. Wake up! Stir around and send the life blood coursing through your veins. Hold up your head, clean your face, put on a smile, and cast that woe-be-gone look in the rubbish by the wayside, where it belongs. Move forward, clear the track, and the grandest opportunities of life will open up, which you want to seize with a tenacious grip, and they will unfold to you all the hidden treasures you ever imagined or conceived.

* * *

Nothing impresses us more than the lack of enjoyment some parents have during the children's happiest days. Either conscience so tyrannizes over them that they have no real pleasure, or they are haunted by a fear that some evil will befall their darlings, or the cares of life are so clamorous and incessant that they have no respite from their stress and strain. While the children are young and we are young with them let us take the sweetness which belongs to us.

ARTIFICIAL EYES FOR SOLDIERS

The high velocities and high explosiveness of the present day projectiles often result in facial wounds of most horrible appearance, in the repair of which the surgeons meet with extreme difficulties. In particular, soldiers return from the line of fire not merely with an eye shot out, but with the entire lid and eye socket destroyed, and the absence of these foundations has often made the insertion of an artificial eye impossible. Until the present moment there has never existed any means for concealing this disfigurement and restoring to the unfortunate victim the appearance of a normal man possessing two eyes. But quite recently a French oculist, has made it possible to do this even when the eyelid is entirely missing. In its essential features the apparatus consists of an artificial eye, equipped with a lid of any convenient plastic, paraffin or moulding paste, coloured to match the subject's complexion. This eye is furnished also with lashes, to give to it the fullest possible extent the appearance of a natural eye. It derives its support from fine metal wires attached to eyeglass or spectacles, so adjusted that when the latter is placed upon the nose, the artificial eye falls accurately into its cavity. The eye may easily be separated from these attachments for cleaning. In case it is desired to have a somewhat stronger pressure upon the ocular cavity, the supporting wires may be replaced by light springs of toric or other shape; and in pursuit of a similar goal there may be inserted, behind the artificial lids, a washer of elastic gum to prevent entrance of dust.

Sunday Sermon For Those Who Do Not Go To Church

(By JAMES SUTHERLAND)

THE MILLENNIUM.

In our last we closed with these words: "Fire came down from God out of heaven and devoured the enemy." God in an extraordinary and more immediate manner fights this last and decisive battle for his people that the victory may be complete, and the glory be to himself. The great enemy, the devil, is cast into hell with the beast and the false prophet, to be tormented night and day for ever and ever.

Woodhouse says: This description is conformable to other ancient prophecies still unfulfilled or which have received a partial or typical completion —such are Isa. 63, 66; Joel, 8; Ezek. 38, 39, of them little can be conjectured with safety. They are to be handed down to the church of the latter days, even as the prophecies we see fulfilled have been delivered to us, and with this consolation, that this overflowing of iniquity shall be miraculously and completely terminated, and it is the last successful effort of Satan against the church. He is then consigned to his eternal prison. Verses 11, 15, chap. 20.

After the events just foretold the end will speedily come and there is no intimation of anything that shall intervene before the appearing of Christ to judge the world. This will be the great day when all shall appear before the judgment seat of Christ, the great white throne and tribunal of judgment very glorious and perfectly just and righteous.

The Lord Jesus Christ will then put on such majesty and terror that there will be a dissolution of the whole frame of nature. II Peter 3, 10. The persons to be judged are the dead, small and great, both old and young, rich and poor, high and low. Not only those who are alive at the coming of Christ but all who have died before, the whole multitude who have lived upon the earth through all generations. The graves, in the sea and on land shall deliver up the dead. The books were opened, the book of God's omniscience who is greater than our consciences, and knows all thinks.

There is a book of remembrance with him, both for good and for bad Every man will have recollection and consciousness of all his past actions, though he had forgotten many of them, till thus brought to light and to remembrance, and another book shall be opened, the book of the Scriptures, the rule of life. This book contains the laws by which the hearts and lives of men are to be tried. This book determines the matter of right; the other books give evidence of matters of fact. It is emblematical of the Lord's knowledge of his people and his declaration of their repentance, faith and good works. By their works men shall be justified or condemned, God will try their principles by their practices, and so will be justified when he speaks, and clear when he judges. Those who have rejected and neglected the offers of mercy must perish, but those whose names are written in the book of life shall be justified and acquitted by the righteous judge, and shall enter into eternal life. Happy are they who have ordered and stated their cause by the gospel, so as to know that they shall be justified in the great day of the Lord.

NOTES ON THE MILLENNIUM.

Much has been written on the promised millennium, or reign of the saints, but the meaning of a prophecy of this kind can only be made clearly manifest by the event. It is unsafe to conjecture after what method it shall be fulfilled, whether as some prophecies, literally, or as others typically; whether the departed saints and martyrs shall actually be raised again in their own persons, to effect so glorious a change in religion and morals, or whether like E'ijah in the person of John the Baptist, and David in that of Christ, they shall live again in the persons of other saints, who shall fulfill their characters and offices. No man may presume to determine. It is best to wait for the completion of the prediction; yet we may confidently indulge a well-grounded expectation, that happy times of long duration are yet destined for the Christian church even here upon earth, and at no very great distance.—Woodhouse.

Thrones as seats of dignity to distinguish those who have the administration of government committed to them, from the rest, and cannot properly be applied to every member of a kingdom. Some interpreters understand literally what is said of the souls of those who were beheaded for the witness of Jesus. As Burnett represents it: Those who have suffered for the sake of Christ and a good conscience shall be raised from the dead a thousand years before the general resurrection, and reign with Christ in a happy state. Others understand this description in a figurative sense, as must be done with respect to the description, verse 1-3. They suppose the prophecy intends such persons as have the true spirit and temper of martyrs, who have like faith, constancy and seal, whom no persecutions could prevail upon to deny the truth, make shipwreck of good conscience or criminally comply with any of the corruptions of the times. Those who are for the literal resurrection of the martyrs principally insist on the direct meaning of the expressions and some apply it to the martyrs under the heathen emperors, as beheading was a Roman punishment. They assert that it is agreeable to the doctrine of St. aul 1 Thes. 4, 16, that the dead in Christ shall rise first. But the writers who understand this description in a figurative sense, observe that all the expressions will very well bear such an interpretation—that it more agreeable to the style of this book; that all these expressions are used in the ancient prophets in a figurative meaning, and that there are unanswerable difficulties attending a literal interpretation—From Looman. He remarks with Whitby, "that a literal resurrection is never in the New Testament expressed or represented to us by th living of the soul, but by the living, raising, resuscitation of the dead, the raising of the bodies of the saints of them that slept in the dust, or in their graves. Thus the church, free from persecution, and all deceitful arts of Satan and wicked men, enlarged with the conversion of the Jews and the fulness of the Gentiles, serving God as a kingdom of priests, in the purity of Christian worship, and enjoying all the blessings of divine protection and grace, may well be expressed as living and reigning with Christ."

Lowman also considers that the whole scheme of this prophecy is so far from being an encouragement to enthusiasm, that it is a wise preservative against it, for the general doctrine of the whole book is this: That the patience of the saints is their way to victory.

Whitby contends against that interpretation of the millennium, which supposes the literal resurrection of the saints and martyrs to reign on earth a thousand years. He urges that this opinion never was generally received in the church of Christ and exposes the gross and ever sensual ideas upon the subject, held by some who are ranked amongst the fathers; and his view is thus expressed: "I believe that after the fall of Antichrist there shall be such a glorious state of the Church, by the conversion of the Jews to the Christian faith, as shall be to it as life from the dead. That it shall then flourish in peace and plenty, in righteousness and holiness, and in a pious offspring that then shall begin a glorious and undisturbed reign of Christ, over both Jew and Gentile, to continue a thousand years, during the time of Satan's binding, and that John the Baptist was Elias, because he came in the spirit and the power of Elias, so shall this be the church of martyrs and of those who had not received the mark of the beast, because of their entire freedom from all the doctrines and practices of the antichristian church, and because the spirit and purity of the times of the primitive martyrs shall return."

Whitby notices the interpretations of several passages of Scripture by the advocates for a literal resurrection and argues against such a view, from its inconsistency with the happy state of souls departed from the description of the resurrection in Scripture and the qualities of the bodies when raised and from its inconsistency with the Christian faith and the nature of the Gospel promises.

Vint says that a Jewish tradition seems the only foundation on which rests the interpretation in favour of the personal reign of Christ.

Bishop Newton, who in many respects follows Mede, says: That nothing is more evident than that this prophecy of the millennium and of the first resurrection has not yet been fulfilled, even though the resurrection be taken in a figurative sense, yet we should be cautious and tender of making the first resurrection an allegory, lest others reduce the second into an allegory, too. That there shall be such a happy period as the millennium, that the kingdom of heaven shall be established upon earth, is the plain and express doctrine of Daniel, and all the prophets, as well as St. John, but he is the only one who has declared particularly and in express terms that the martyrs shall rise to partake of the felicities of this kingdom, and that it shall continue upon earth a thousand years.

(To be continued. «D.V.)

Yours Sincerely,
James Sutherland.

MARY'S letter is surely a puzzler. She has so mixed up the letters in the names of things she would like Percy to give her for her birthday gift that they spell something different entirely. Sometimes she has even made two or three words out of one name, as in number nine, which is undoubtedly "Diamond Ring."

Each of the names in Mary's letter represents a present that any girl would like to receive for her birthday. You know one of them; now try to solve the remaining names, and when you do, re-write Mary's letter, substituting what you consider the correct names and send your solution to us. Fifty Cash Prizes of $1.00 each

PERCY'S PLAN WILL HELP YOU

THE first thing Percy did was to walk through the stores and make a list of all the things that would make nice presents for a girl, so that he could compare his lists with Mary's and see how many names would fit the puzzling words. He was surprised to find the number of nice things one could get for a girl, for very soon his list contained the following: Sewing set, umbrella, wrist watch, silk waist, manicure set, jewel case, kid gloves, lace handkerchiefs, napkin ring, earrings, silver thimble, diamond ring, candy, photo frame, necklace, books, bracelet, slippers, card case, travelling bag, purse, brooch, shawl, toilet set, perfume, flowers, set of furs, lace collar, etc., etc. These suggested presents may help you. Get a pencil and paper and try!

How to Send Your Answers

USE one side of the paper only in writing out Mary's letter and keep it the same in form as given above, merely substituting your solution of the proper names in place of the jumbled ones. Do not send fancy, drawn or typewritten answers. A contestant may send as many as three sets of answers to the puzzle but only one set may win a prize and not more than one prize will be awarded in any family. Entry to the contest is barred to all employees of this Company and their relatives.

Knit to "Nature's" Last

Ordinary hosiery is stretched into shape over a form while the hosiery is damp. It loses this shape when washed.

Mercury Hosiery retains its shape, because it is knitted to "Nature's Last" on new machines.

These machines knit the full fashioned calf—the narrow ankle, fashioned at the sides—perfectly turned toe—wider, more comfortable, fashioned top.

The finish of this new Mercury Hosiery is even superior to the high-class foreign lines formerly imported. The wear is better.

Try a pair and you'll be convinced that Mercury is unequalled for style, fit and wear.

Made in Black Cashmere, Black Lisle, and White Lisle.

$700,000,000 IS WASTED IN FOOD IN U. S. ANNUALLY

HOUSEWIVES CAUSE PART OF IT —THROW OUT GOOD 'SCRAPS.'

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Good food heedlessly thrown into the garbage pails, food allowed to spoil in the household, food ruined by improper cooking, and food destroyed by rats, mice and insects constitute the heavy items in the $700,000,000 annual waste of food in homes in this country.

This statement emanates from the office of William C. Redfield, secretary of agriculture. In household waste is not included the losses of food allowed to spoil in transit or in the hands of the producers or dealers. Much of this $700,000,000 waste of food, the dietary specialists of the department say, is easily preventable. This preventable waste is stated as follows:

"That vast amounts of nourishing material are thrown out from American kitchens and so made useless for human consumption, is well established by the returns from garbage and fertiliser plants, showing the amounts of fat, and nitrogeneous material recovered from the city garbage.

"Much of the food is thrown out, the specialists say, because so many people do not know how to utilise the left-overs or will not take the trouble to keep and prepare them. The specialists point out that left over cereals can be re-heated or combined with fruits, meats, or vegetables into appetising dishes.

"Perishable foods are made dangerous or inedible in households because they are exposed unnecessarily to heat, germs, dirt or to flies and other insects."

SILK MILLS FOR WAR WORK.

If They Make Cartridges, Silk Fabrics Will Go Up.

NEW YORK, April 12. — The announcement that some of the largest silk mills in the country have offered their equipment to turn out powder bags, cartridge belts and like articles, makes it pretty certain that the supply of silk at present on the market is the largest that will be known for some time to come. As prices for the present, at least, have not even trembled, it would seem a wise thing to lay in supplies of necessary materials now.

Baby's Own Tablets An Excellent Remedy

When the baby is ill— when he is constipated, has indigestion; colds simple fevers or any other of the many minor ills of little ones—the mother will find Baby's Own Tablets an excellent remedy. They regulate the stomach and bowels thus banishing the cause of most of the ills of childhood. Concerning them Mrs. Paul Dinette, Cheneville, Que., writes: "I can recommend Baby's Own Tablets to all mothers as I have used them for my little one for constipation and diarrhoea and have found them an excellent remedy." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co. Brockville, Ont.

FEARS A COTTON FAMINE.

STOCKHOLM, April 13. — As the result of America's entrance into the war, representatives of Sweden's cotton mills, who already had been considering such a step, have decided to restrict production sharply in order to afford employment as long as possible to the operatives.

Even with the new restrictions it will probably be impossible to keep the mills going for more than four months without importations of raw material from America, from which it is feared there is the smallest probability. Ten thousand workers are affected.

Cattle Markets.

Offerings of cattle were light all through the week, and, opening on Monday with a strong market prices by the middle of the week averaged fully fifty cents over the previous week's average on all grades of butcher cattle. Fat cows and bulls were in active demand, fully maintaining the general advance in all classes. Throughout the week there was a good active market for stockers and feeders, good grass cows especially being in good demand at good prices. Milch cows and springers, good quality, were in a strong active market. Calves were fairly strong at advancing prices for choice quality.

Sheep and lambs offerings were extremely light, with prices correspondingly firm and higher.

The week-end market saw a fairly liberal offering of cattle, many of poor to medium quality, but with a slackening and weaker demand. Trade was slow and prices, except for the choicest offerings of butcher steers and heifers, began to give way slightly, and in some cases material concessions had to be made to clean up.

After a slight decrease early in the week, hog prices again sharply advanced, and at the week end were at new high levels, and leading new record prices reached for hogs in the Chicago, St. Louis, and Buffalo markets.

Cattle Receipts.

Union Stock Yards—Total receipts for the week, 529 cars, with 3,733 cattle, 1,531 calves, 11498 hogs, 167 sheep and lambs and 3,116 horses.

MADE DUMB BY SHELL SHOCK— REGAINS SPEECH IN DREAM.

GLASGOW. — The power of speech which had left him for ten weeks, has been restored to Private George Ferguson, Black Watch, whose home is in Perth.

Private Ferguson in a dream in a London hospital, thought he was once more in the charge in which he lost his speech as the result of shell shock. He saw the incidents of the battle re-enacted and dreamed that a big German was towering over him about to run him through with a bayonet.

The excitement of the dream was sufficient to cause Ferguson to raise himself in bed and shout aloud. He knew then that he had recovered his speech, and was naturally overjoyed.

New York Stockbrokers Are Instructed to Turn in Schedule.

NEW YORK, April 12.—The governors of the New York Stock Exchange adopted a resolution to-day instructing members of the exchange to turn in by two p.m. Friday to the governors a memorandum of securities and money belonging to alien enemies in their possession. It was learned that the stock exchange governors took this action at the request of the federal authorities.

Members of the exchange include representatives of international banking houses which for many years maintained close and important financial relations with banking interests in Germany and the countries allied with her. For the most part these relations were altogether severed before the declaration that a state of war existed between the United States and Germany.

LISTEN TO THIS! SAYS CORNS LIFT RIGHT OUT NOW

You reckless men and women who are pestered with corns and who have at least once a week invited an awful death from lockjaw or blood poison, are now told by a Cincinnati authority to use a drug called freezone, which the moment a few drops are applied to any corn, the soreness is relieved, and soon the entire corn, root and all, lifts out with the fingers.

It is a sticky ether compound which dries the moment it is applied and simply shrivels the corn without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue or skin. It is claimed that a quarter of an ounce of freezone will cost very little at any of the drug stores, but it is sufficient to rid one's feet of every hard or soft corn or callus.

You are further warned that cutting at a corn is a suicidal habit.

HAD ADVENTUROUS TRIP.

Toronto Runaway Boy Was Torpedoed in the Mediterranean.

TORONTO, April 12.—Rex Stimers, aged 16, of 379 Markham street, has reached home after a bit of world-touring and much excitement. He ran away from home and sailed from Montreal Nov. 8 last on the Ursula with a cargo of 750 mules for Salonika. The cargo delivered, the Ursula left Salonika Dec. 7, and on the 12th was torpedoed by the Austrian submarine VC-12.

"I was asleep when we were ordered to the boats," the boy says. "The submarine came up and the captain asked if any had been killed. The captain told him four men had been killed by the explosion. We were then told to get into our boats, and when we were 100 yards away the submarine fired another torpedo and the Ursula sank."

They drifted for a day in a rolling sea, sick and hopeless, till at 6 p.m. the British auxiliary cruiser Century picked them up 50 miles from Malta. They were sent on from Malta to France, and then to England and Canada. Rex Stimers was born in Campbellford.

Afternoon dresses have apron panels, lined with a bright colour and designed to fall back.

COUNTRY IN DANGER, RUSSIA'S NEW SLOGAN

Government Calls on Nation to Prepare for Great Blow Planned by Central Powers.

WEAKENED BY OLD REGIME

Policy of Territorial Gains by War Renounced—Will Subjugate and Humiliate No One.

PETROGRAD, April 11.—The Provisional government has issued a proclamation directing attention to the grave danger of a German effort to deliver a decisive blow at Russia, and the necessity of immediately concentrating all of Russia's forces for the defeat of the enemy. The proclamation reads:

"Having examined the military situation the Russian Government, in the name of duty and country, has decided to tell the people directly and openly the whole truth.

"The regime which now has been overthrown left the defence of the country in a badly disorganized condition. By its culpable inaction and its inept measures it introduced disorganization into our finances, into provisioning, and the transport and supply of munitions to the army. It weakened the whole of our economic organization.

"The Provisional Government with the active cooperation of the whole nation will devote all its energies to repair the serious consequences of the old regime. The blood of many sons of the fatherland has been shed freely in the course of these two and a half long years of war, but the country still is capable of a powerful blow at the enemy, who occupies while territories of our State and is now—in the days of the birth of Russian liberty—threatening us with a new and decisive thrust.

"The defence, cost what it may of our national patrimony, and the deliverance of the country from the enemy who invades our borders constitutes the capital and the vital problem before our warriors, who are defending the liberty of the people in close union with our allies.

"The Government deems it to be its right duty to declare now that free Russia does not aim at the domination of other nations, at depriving them of their national patrimony, or at occupying by force foreign territories, but that its object is to establish a durable peace on the rights of nations to decide their own destiny.

"The Russian nation does not lust after the strengthening of its power abroad at the expense of other nations. Its aim is not to subjugate or humiliate any one. In the name of the higher principles of equity it has removed the chains which weighed upon the Polish people. But the Russian nation will not allow its fatherland to come out of the great struggle humiliated and weakened in its vital forces. These principles will constitute the basis of the foreign policy of the Provisional Government, which will carry out unfailingly the popular will and safeguard the rights of our fatherland while observing the engagements entered into with our allies.

"The Provisional Government of free Russia has no right to hide the truth. The State is in danger. Every effort must be made to have it let the country respond to the truth when it is told, not by sterile depressions and not by discouragement, but by unanimous vigour, with a view to creating a united national will.

"This will give us new strength for the struggle and will procure our salvation. In this hour of rude trial let the whole country find in itself strength to consolidate the liberty won and to devote itself to untiring labour for the welfare of free Russia.

"The Provisional Government, which has given its solemn oath to serve the people, is firmly confident that with the general and unanimous support of each one and all, it will itself be able to do its duty to its country to the end.

"LVOFF,
"President of the Council."

Salts harmless to flush Kidneys and Neutralize Uric Acid, thus ending Bladder Trouble.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

A Duel Which Became a Farce

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

"I have told you, sub," said Colonel Bunker, "that a solemn thing could easily be turned into a farce. A duel is a very solemn thing—very solemn. And yet I have seen one or two of them turned into a farce by a slight incident. I will illustrate, sub.

"At the battle of Chantilly I received a pistol bullet in the shoulder. It lies there among the muscles, and the surgeon advised me to let it remain for awhile. It did not bother me long, and I was back with my command. In fact, sub, that bullet did not give me much inconvenience until after the wah. Then I felt that the surgeons must dig it out. I went to one in our own town. His name was Richards, and he was not only a good surgeon, but a thorough gentleman. He found the bullet and extracted it without any difficulty.

"'I have been told,' said the surgeon, 'that you killed seventeen of the enemy with your own hands at that battle. I don't blame you for feeling rather proud of that record.'

"'But it was only eleven, suh, and not seventeen.'

"'I have it on good authority, colonel, that the number was seventeen.'

"This led to high words, and I demanded satisfaction, to which the surgeon replied:

"'Willingly, colonel, willingly. I shall esteem it a high honor to cross blades with you.'

"Well, he was a cool hand, suah enough. It looked as if he had intended to pick a quarrel with me. I sent a friend to him, and a duel was quickly arranged. He had the choice of the weapons, and he chose rapiers. That suited me all right. The bullet had been taken from my left shoulder, and nothing ailed my right.

"We had to go about two miles to find a spot where the affair could be brought off. It was within 300 feet of a farmhouse, and the grove which hid us from the highway was an open one. The farmer was in a distant field at work, and his wife seemed to have gone away for the day. In the gardens surrounding the house were half a dozen hives of bees, and just over the fence from them was a pasture in which five or six mules were grazing. As we were on the other side of the garden no one knew what took place until after things had happened. The farce, therefore, took us by surprise.

"Now, sub, here is what happened on the other side of the house as a negro afterward described it to us: One of the mules leaned against the fence to rub his itching hide. The fence was old and weak, and a section of it was pushed down. The mule that did it led the way into the garden, and the others followed him. They did not find much to eat there, and they began inspecting the beehives. One of them got a sting on the nose, and he wheeled and kicked the hive over. Of co'se there was a row on at once. A thousand bees, mo' or less, came flying out and they made it very unhappy for the mules.

"There was no fence on our side of the house, and the mules came galloping in our direction. There were bees ahead of them, bees clinging to them and more bees in chase. Befo' we could understand what had happened the mules and bees were among us. Principals and seconds were treated alike. Each had a score or more of the insects in personal attention upon him. There was nothing to do but run befo' the storm.

"To our left and forty rods away was a field of growing cotton. The stalks were high and offered us a chance to brush the insects away. The four of us and the surgeon in attendance all started for this field. I think, suh, we destroyed about half an acre of cotton and the mules about twice as much. I remember that it cost us $20 to settle with the farmer and that he had no mo' use of any of the mules for a month to come.

"When we finally climbed the fence and got back to the spot on which we had been standing when the riot commenced my antagonist and myself were so blind that we could scarcely see to pick up our rapiers. Our seconds were still worse off. I did not look for the duel to be resumed, but the doctor was hot for it.

"'Colonel Bunker,' he said, 'you impugned my honah. You denied, suh, in the face of my assertion that you killed seventeen men at the battle of Chantilly, and this affair must go on to its legitimate end.'

"'But I only killed eleven, suh,' I replied. 'I counted them as they fell and put the number down in my notebook befo' I left the spot.'

"'Then, colonel, you have that notebook still?'

"'I have, suh.'

"'And you can show it to me as proof that you were right and I was wrong?'

"'Most certainly, doctor.'

"'Then I withdraw what seemed to be an imputation on your honah, and if you will step at my office on the way home we will pick the stingers out of each o'her as well as we can and shake hands and be good friends.'

"And thus, suh, concluded our affair, though we were both badly punished by the bees. A year later I was his second in an affair of honah with another gentleman, and he run that gentleman through the body befo' the fight was a minute old. He handled his rapier as I had seldom seen it handled, and, perhaps, the bees and the mules came just in time to save my life."

Spelling the Tobacco.

Winchcombe St. Peter, in Gloucestershire, began the cultivation of tobacco in England toward the end of the sixteenth century, and the inhabitants are said to have derived considerable profit from it until the trade was placed under restrictions. An entry in Pepys' Diary on Sept. 19, 1667, concerning the coming of a cousin of his to town proceeds: "She tells me how the life guard which we thought a little while since was sent down into the country about some insurrection was sent to Winchcombe to spoil the tobacco there, which, it seems, the people there do plant contrary to law and have always done and still been under force and danger of having it spoiled, as it hath been oftentimes, and yet they will continue to plant it. The place, she says, is a miserable poor place."—London Globe.

Half of Face Missing.

"It is not an uncommon thing," says a man who has hunted in central Africa, "to meet a native with half of his face missing, and when you ask him how it happened he will tell you that a hyena snapped at him while he was asleep.

"It is marvelous how they recover from such wounds, as the teeth of the animal must be poisonous, and the natives have no antiseptics and a very crude way of treating wounds.

"When a 'fisi,' as the natives call it, comes round the camp howling the 'boys' shout all sorts of vile names at it. But very often the animal makes no noise whatever, and not till next morning is the loss of something discovered."

A Tale of Two Widows

One receives each month a cheque for $100 from The Imperial Life. She lives comfortably in her own home, free from worry or anxiety over money matters.

Her husband, when alive, invested his savings in Imperial monthly income assurance, adding an extra policy every time he felt he could save another dollar a week.

The other woman is a janitress in a down-town office building. Her husband earned just as much as the first man. But he speculated with his savings, and at his death left his widow penniless—in fact, with family debts to pay.

Now what about your widow? Will she be the respected and welcome guest of your present neighbours and acquaintances? Or will she be forced to join the ranks of poorly paid female wage-earners? There's only one answer—if you care.

MUST LIMIT PARCELS.

Packages for Overseas Soldiers Must Not Exceed Seven Pounds.

The number of parcels for overseas troops is so many, and the strain on the transport system is so great at the present time, that the British Government has notified the Post-office Department of Canada that, temporarily, no parcels over seven pounds in weight will be carried.

The British War Office states that it has been necessary to limit the amount of parcel traffic for the troops during the Christmas and New Year's season in the interest of military efficiency. The War Office points out that the great bulk of mail matter dealt with in normal times is already a severe tax on the transport service, that the amount which the roads will carry without breaking up is limited, that ammunition, food, and stores for the army must, necessarily, have preference over the mails, that any increase in the volume of mail traffic must cause delay in the forwarding of these necessary equipments for war.

The public are, therefore, appealed to, in the interest of military efficiency, to limit the use of parcel post to articles of real utility.

Fruit, perishable articles of all descriptions, bottles, and earthenware jars and like articles are prohibited, and will not be accepted for transmission; and, until further notice, no parcel exceeding seven pounds can or will be accepted for transmission to the forces in France or Flanders.

All parcels must be strongly and securely packed in covers of canvas, linen, or other strong material. Parcels which do not comply with these requirements are unlikely to reach their destination safely, and if observed in course of post will be returned to the senders. The name and address of the sender must be written on the outside, and parcels which do not comply with this condition will be refused.

A trial consignment of Canadian fish, shipped frozen, has just been sold for fancy prices on the London market. The Government is said to regard the experiment as exceedingly important, in view of the Ottawa assertion that, with proper facilities, two million pounds of fish per week can be supplied for English markets.

Those who believe that such a trade on a permanent basis would prove beneficial to both Canada and the Mother Country are urging that a small guarantee per pound be placed on consignments for a time for the benefit of shippers.

New York Society Girls Engaged In Army Relief

NEW YORK, April 11.—Scores of young women recruited largely from the debutante set in this city are engaged in army relief work in France.

For several months Miss Jane Morgan, daughter of J. P. Morgan, has been doing her bit in the Paris headquarters of the American fund for French wounded. Miss Morgan's work has been in the packing room of the fund, where she has reported every morning at 9 for a day's work of eight hours.

Two other well known New York society girls who are working in the Paris headquarters of the fund are Miss Janet and Helena Fish, daughters of Hamilton Fish.

Miss Anne Morgan is treasurer of the fund, which for more than a year has been carrying on its work of supplying hospitals throughout France with all sorts of equipment, including bedding, medicines, and clothing for the patients.

Miss Elizabeth Perkins, secretary of the fund, who recently returned from Paris, related how the thirteen young chauffeurs, unassisted, drove the delivery motor cars, regardless of weather, caring for their own cars, reporting promptly every day for work, and never halting at distance or inclement weather.

One of these chauffeurs, who has been in the service for nearly a year, is Miss Theodora Dunham, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Edward K. Dunham of 35 East Sixty-eighth street. She has driven her car thousands of miles in visiting scores of the hospitals on the fund's list, which includes upward of 3,000 in all.

Methods Of Preparing the Backyard Garden for This Season's Crop

Considerable interest has been aroused in different cities of the province by the Horticultural Societies offering prizes for the best backyard garden. A considerable number of people in the cities make a practice of utilizing at least some part of the land adjoining their homes for the growing of flowers and vegetables.

It is known that many who follow this practice grow considerable amounts from a very small piece of land. In some cases, where sufficient land is available a supply of vegetables has been obtained for the summer months and quite a few were grown for winter storing. Where the householder is inclined toward gardening, and when he has sufficient time, many vegetables can be easily grown. It must not be understood that these crops can be grown without considerable time and careful attention to carry them through the season.

PREPARATION OF SOIL.

All city back lots, irrespective of soil, should receive applications of manure annually. Too much manure cannot be given. This should be applied in the fall or winter months. In the spring the soil should be carefully dug over to the depth of six to eight inches. This can best be accomplished with a digging fork. Digging should commence as early in the spring as possible. This should be followed by raking the surface to remove all sticks, stones and other rubbish. The ground should be made as level as possible, not raking it up into beds or mounds as many do. Paths should now be marked out and the garden plan made in order to know just where certain vegetables should be planted. Following a thorough raking and levelling, planting should commence.

SOIL.

Not all city lot soils will produce vegetables of first class quality the first season, no matter how much attention is given. In some districts heavy blue clay has been excavated to make the cellar and has been dumped on the backyard. This would require considerable attention and fitting up to make into a garden soil. There are many soils in city backyards that would require several years' cultivation to properly fit them for vegetable growing. Large quantities of manure would have to be applied and worked in. However, there are many backyards which would grow sufficient vegetables for the home without any serious trouble. It is more the lack of time which can be spent on the garden than anything else which permits the backyard to be grown up with weeds or grown entirely in a grass plot. City vegetable enthusiasts will do well to read carefully the directions given for the various crops, etc.

PLANTING.

In the backyard garden of ordinary size vegetable seeds can easily be sown by hand. It is a good general rule in planting seeds of this nature to cover them with soil equal to two or three times the thickness of the seed. In some cases this will not be correct, but in most cases this depth will be the best. Furrows can be made with the corner of an ordinary hand hoe or with a lath. Seeds should be planted from a tin dish, such as a pie tin. Seeding may be carried on at any time of the day. The soil should be warm, and when a handful is gathered up it should be loose and not sticky. The seeds should be covered with fine soil, and this can best be done by drawing the soil over the seed with a lath. It is a good plan to "tamp" the soil with a flat piece of board or with the broad side of a hoe. A gentle patting or tamping of the soil over the seed will induce germination. As a rule all vegetables of one kind should be planted together. Carrots, beets, parsnips, etc., should be placed by themselves and not mixed in with cabbage and cauliflowers, etc., excepting in cases given under succesional and intercropping.

All vegetables require plenty of sunshine. The fences may be used to advantage in growing cucumbers, muskmelons or tomatoes. These must of course in this case be supported on strings, stakes or trellis. Mint and other herbs may be grown in the partial shade.

SECURING GOOD PLANTS.

One of the reasons why city people have poor results with their transplanted vegetables is because they do not secure strong healthy plants at the start. If it is impossible to grow one's own plants the next best thing is to get in touch with someone who does. Market gardeners often grow more plants than they require, and are willing to sell them. These are always strong and healthy plants, which will fruit early and give good results. It is not advisable in any case to purchase weak and spindly plants. Tomatoes, cabbages, cauliflowers and celery can be secured in this way.

CULTIVATION.

Cultivation must be carried on for two reasons. First: to keep down the weeds, which will grow faster than the vegetables, and will smother them out if allowed to stay, and, secondly, to keep a fine mulch on the surface of the soil, which is necessary to conserve the moisture. Cultivation in a small garden can be done by a hand hoe or a wheel hoe and should commence just as soon after the weeds show through the ground as possible. An ounce of prevention is worth many pounds of cure in this particular instance, and all possible weeds should be hoed out when in the young stage. Some crops need expert hand weeding. This can be done with a hand weeder which will work in between the crops better than many hoes. Cultivation should not cease until the growth of the crop prohibits. Cultivation does not need to be deep. A mere skimming of the surface will often give better results than laborious deep hoeing.

WATERING.

In cities and towns a water supply is readily available and this is considerable help in many crops. Watering should be done in a fine spray, and it is a good plan to cultivate shortly after the watering. Such crops as lettuce, spinach, celery and cabbage respond readily to applications of water.

WINTER USE.

Some of the vegetables grown can be stored in cellars, etc., and kept until well into the winter.

DIRECTIONS.

The foregoing plan is of a portion of a city backyard 30 feet by 20 feet, showing how it might be planted with vegetables for home consumption. Other crops may be substituted if required, these being suggested as as those which will help in keeping down the cost of living somewhat during both the summer and the winter months. The following short directions should be carefully considered.

Tomatoes.—Secure strong, healthy plants. Do not accept those whose stem is not as thick as a lead pencil. Water the soil thoroughly around the roots. Make a hole 3 to 4 inches deep with the hoe. Set the plant upright and draw soil in around plants. Do not plant closer than 3 feet. Closer planting will cause small fruits and smaller quantity. Cultivate with a hand hoe to keep down the weeds. Use both ripe and green fruits. Before danger of frost pull up the vines and hang up in dark cellar. Fruits when taken to the cellar nearly green will ripen up to Christmas.

Corn.—Make holes in the soil two inches deep with an ordinary hand hoe. Drop in four or five seeds, draw in the soil and then tramp down with the foot.

Cabbage.—Secure strong plants. Water soil around the roots thoroughly. Make hole three inches deep with a dibber or the end of a hoe handle. Firm the soil around the roots thoroughly. Cultivate to keep down weeds. Cut when ready for use. In fall pull them up and turn upside down. When it freezes up take to the cellar.

Cauliflower—Plant and cultivate as above. When the heads are 1 1-2 inches in diameter tie the leaves in at the top with string.

Onions.—Sow the seed in shallow furrow made with the corner of a hoe. Cover the seeds with about 1-2 inch of soil. Place 8 seeds to one inch. Keep down the weeds by hand weeding and hoeing. In September pull the onions and lay on top of the ground to dry. Cut the tops off and store before the frost.

Potatoes.—Make holes 4 inches deep with hand hoe. Cut potato, leaving two eyes to a set. Plant 3 or 4 sets in a hole and cover with soil. Keep down the weeds with a hand hoe and as the season advances draw the soil up around the plants.

Beets, Carrots, Parsnips.—Sow seed in shallow furrows made with the corner of a hand hoe. Keep out all weeds. Thin the plants as directed in planting table. For winter keeping follow the directions given under individual crops.

Lettuce, Radish, Spinach.—Have soil in a fine condition. Scatter broadcast or in rows 3 to 4 inches apart. Barely cover by going over soil with garden rake. Pull or cut when fit to use. As soon as part of one crop is off, the land should again be planted.

Green Onions.—Secure Dutch sets from seed store or seed house. Plant these in rows six inches apart as close together as they can be placed. Pull when large enough to eat.

Beans and Peas.—Plant beans and peas in shallow furrow two seeds in a place. In the centre of bed leave open part of soil one foot square. These squares should be planted with cucumbers or citrons. Six or seven seeds should be planted and but three strongest plants left to mature. The pea and bean vines should be removed early enough to allow cucumbers and citrons to mature.

Time to plant, as recommended for the Peterboro district. As this section is farther north and the season is not so early, perhaps a week to 10 days later than the dates given would be approximately correct for this locality:

Tomatoes	June 5th
Corn	May 15th
Cabbage	April 20th
Cauliflower	May 1st
Potatoes	April 20th
Parsnips	April 15th
Beets	April 15th

Spinach	April 1st
Green Onions	April 1st
Citrons	June 5th
Cucumbers	June 5th

U.S. CONSULTS CANADIANS : WHEN THE "ORLEANS" REACHED BORDEAUX

When the German Government announced the new famous U-boat decree last February it seemed for a time that it would completely paralyze American shipping. However, two ships, the "Rochester" and the "Orleans," both of the American line, weighed anchor and departed for French ports. Both arrived safely and our picture shows the "Orleans" docking at Bordeaux. A huge crowd assembled there to welcome the crew.

Capt. Allan Tucker, of the "Orleans," was a popular hero in Bordeaux when he arrived there after bringing his ship safely through the danger zone and by his contempt of German "frightfulness." He is here seen, accompanied by several French officials, carrying a bouquet of flowers. (Above.)

Types of the personnel of the United States forces: An American sailor and an American militiaman.—The personnel of the American navy is excellent. "The military forces" (to quote the latest 'Statesman's Year-Book') "consist of a Federal regular army obtained by voluntary enlistment, of the National Guard (also obtained by voluntary enlistment) . . . and of a reserve to the National Guard which is unorganized. . . . In the case of the National Guard or organized Militia, the various States maintain the units. . . . The reserve, or unorganized, Militia comprises, with certain exemptions, the whole manhood of the nation between the ages of 18 and 45. . . . Their estimated number is 17 millions, but they are untrained. . . . In event of war, the United States could put into the field about 60,000 regular troops, and about 80,000 or 90,000 partially trained National Guard."

Women war workers on the land: Women riddling potatoes and a farmer's wife tractor-ploughing.—These are glimpses of women war-time farm-workers' occupations. The upper illustration, an Eastern Counties scene, shows women "riddlers" sorting potatoes into sizes for sending to the London market. The lower illustration is from a Home County, Surrey, on a farm near Reigate. Mrs. Douglas, the owner's wife, is seen ploughing with a new pattern motor-tractor. Only a few minutes' instruction sufficed. The machine is a 16 h.p. tractor, working on paraffin, and specially built for war-time agriculture. It is well adapted for working in narrow places, with a capability of ploughing five acres a day. It can work an elevator, land a five-ton load, do harvest-field cutting up to 25 acres daily, and also drive a full-sized threshing machine.

Mr. H. H. Sutherland, of the Davidson Gold Mines, has just returned from Porcupine, where he has been supervising the launching of the company's extensive diamond drilling campaign. The engineers will drive 5,000 feet of drilling, and it is being carried forward in such a manner that results will be quick and conclusive. At the 300-foot level, the company drove a crosscut to the north of the present workings. At the extreme end of this crosscut they built a station, and from that point holes will be driven at various degrees from the horizontal, ranging from 45 to 65 degrees. The first of these holes, that at 45 degrees or nearest the horizontal, is already under way, and it is anticipated that it will pierce the ore body, already located at the 300-foot level, at about the 500-foot level. The next hole will pierce the rock some 200 odd feet lower still, at the 700-foot level, and so on until the ground is explored down to the 1,000-foot level. If the expectations of the management are realized, this exploration work will locate bodies of ore that will remove any uncertainty that may have been entertained as to the future of the Davidson mine.

The accompanying picture shows the City of Cobalt as it appears to-day, twelve years after its foundation. In 1905 the site comprised a few shacks; now it is of imposing size and not unattractive architecture. Shaft frameheads of the various producing mines can be seen planted here and there within the city. Not only the city, but Cobalt Lake, which is in the foreground, washes the silver field. It has been dewatered, as is shown by the high banks. Beneath the city and lake the rock is honeycombed with crosscuts and drifts. Cobalt is on the map of the world, chiefly because it has produced 257,000,000 ounces of silver at a value of $137,000,000.

LENS TO FALL TO THE CANADIANS

PRACTICALLY SURROUNDED BY THE MAPLE LEAF TROOPS

German Lines Are Crumbling Before Fierce British Assault

Canadians Striking Hard at Lens Which is Practically Surrounded---British Progress North of the Bapaume Cambrai Road and Further South Smash Forward Near St. Quentin Capturing Fayet Two Miles Away---No Let Up of The Sweep of General Haig's Forces.

A SUMMARY OF TO-DAY'S WAR CABLES

LONDON, April 14.—Suddenly switching the point of his drive from around Arras, Field Marshal Haig last night smashed his men forward far to the south around St. Quentin, and advanced to Fayet, within two miles of that city.

"Fayet, north-west of St. Quentin, was carried during the night, also the important position of Ascension Farm and Grand Priel Farm," the British Commander-in-Chief reported to-day. But if Haig struck fiercely around St. Quentin, there was no diminution during the night in the power of the British assault around Arras.

"We made progress north of the Bapaume-Cambrai road toward Queant," the British Commander-in-Chief reported to-day. "To the north of the Scarpe, the enemy was compelled to yield further ground. We seized Vimy Station, La Chaudiere and Position Fosse Dix and Buquet Mill, between Givenchy-En-Goshelle and Angres.

"The enemy guns taken include four 8-inch howitzers."

The boasted Hindenburg line was crumbling to-day in the pulverizing assaults of Field Marshal Haig's victorious British army around Arras. Lens, the northern pivot point of the "strategic retreat," started a month ago by the Germans to the Hindenburg line, seemed likely to fall very shortly. The British forces have driven a wedge above it to the north around Loos, while to-day's battle front despatches indicated no let-up in the sweep forward, which means another encircling arm shoved forward to the south of the city. It was on this southern drive that the British made probably their greatest advance in the present big push, according to full details received to-day. The ground gained was approximately two miles over a front of about twelve miles. Prediction was freely expressed here that the Germans must now retreat to the supplementary rear line of the "Hindenburg line," a front estimated by military experts to run from Droucourt down to Queant. If they do not, the Hindenburg line may be turned around Lens.

Pit No. 6, to the north of Givenchy, and pit No. 11, east of Dougle Crazzier, have both been captured. This extends by three miles to the north, the front along which the Teutons' line is now broken.

CANADIAN CASUALTIES MAY REACH 12000

Total for Week's Operations to Saturday Heavier Than the Total of The First Division During Three Months' Fighting in 1915—Many Wounded Reach Ontario Military Hospital—More Recruits Are Needed

(Special Cable to the Examiner by F. A. Mackenzie Copyright.)

ORPINGTON, Eng., Friday, April 13, via London, April 14.—Ontario's great hospital here was honoured to receive the first two big batches of Canadian wounded from Vimy. The first party of 184 arrived amid snow storm, and the second party of 146 arrived at night time when it was raining. It was good to see the careful preparations, gentle handling and great care employed. Within an hour of the time when the splendid hospital train entered Orpington station every "cot case" had been bathed and dressed and was comfortably lying in bed under the care of Ontario Nursing Sisters. No crowds gathered on Orpington streets to watch their home coming. None knew of their coming. And I was the only spectator. Had London known, thousands would have lined the streets, for every heart here is full of admiration and sympathy. Train doctors tell me that the wounded were a sight when they reached the coast. They had been hurried down and their clothing was still covered with mud. Their boots and uniforms were thick masses of mud, telling of trying weather conditions, but they had been cleaned up before reaching Orpington. The boys are remarkably cheerful. "We gave Fritz one back this time," they said. "We landed him a fair knockout." They tell me their reception coming back at most places overwhelmed them. The French people waited wherever the trains paused, offering coffee, chocolate, cigarettes and cheering them, waving handkerchiefs, laughing and shouting the word "good courage." When the boat was reached cafes with flowers, cigarettes, and warm drinks helped them. Here Ontario is giving them the best for quick recovery. Many individual accounts do not bear out the description of the battle as mainly an artillery contest. The artillery splendidly blazed the way to victory, but much stubborn fighting was left for the infantry.

General Turner's old division made the greatest score Monday, with 1,000 prisoners. The First took 1,200; the Third about 400; the Fourth had very heavy fighting, the Germans being strongly entrenched with numerous tunnels which enabled them to emerge unexpectedly. The Fourth's great triumph was therefore all the more remarkable. Our total Canadian casualties, so far as I can judge, are only about double the number of prisoners we took the first day, and most of these are slight wounds. Military experts estimated the probable cost of taking Vimy before hand as three times more than the number. Our total Canadian casualties for the week's operations to yesterday, just exceed the total casualties of the First Division during ten months' fighting in 1915. A very large proportion of the groups of wounded I have been able to examine are walking cases, with comparatively minor wounds. I am unable, however, to state if this generally applies. The machine gun fighting beyond the ridge was costly. The loss of twelve thousand effective men can only be made up by generous recruiting. It must affect the immediate prospects of the division. General Turner's improvements in training methods enable the army to immediately fill up the ranks, but if Canada's fighting position is to be maintained, recruiting is urgent.

LONDON, April 14.—An Associated Press bulletin to-day says the British broke the German front last night for a distance of four miles, and the Germans are in retreat.

LONDON, April 14.—Lens must soon fall to the Canadians. This town and fortifications, a big mining centre, and an important bulwark

IRISH OPINION IS STEADIED BY THE ENTRY OF AMERICA

President's Plea For Small Nations Implies the Triumph of Democracy in Ireland Says T. P. O'Connor

A SETTLEMENT WANTED

By T. P. O'Connor

(From Central News)

LONDON, April 14.—Cables received by Lloyd Northcliffe's newspapers from New York, indicate a feeling of silent misgiving among Americans, amid the chorus of enthusiastic approval with which the announcement of the American alliance with the entente powers, has been received.

This feeling is apparently generated because of the doubt that Ireland will still be allowed to remain an open sore on the side of England.

I, therefore, give to-day the exact position which the Irish question occupies in the present international situation. Ireland, herself, though now and then expresses some slight indication of general unrest and abiding resentment of the executions of many of her leaders, is fairly satisfied with a practically unanimous reputation of the plunkett manifesto which has proven a general repudiation of the revolutionary versus the constitutional methods of governing Ireland.

The entrance of America naturally helps enormously to steady Irish opinion and none but lunatics and boys and girls are contemplating the possibility of Ireland ranging herself among the enemies of America through any arrangement which might be made by which Irish people would consider giving comfort to the enemies of the entente powers.

Even the violent collision which occurred in the recent Irish debate between the ministry leaders and those of the Irish party, helped, as the Irish party is always the weakest when friendly to the English administration and strongest when strenuously fighting the same.

Ready to Acquiesce.

All of these facts show that Ireland is ready to acquiesce to any reasonable order for a settlement made by the Ministry in solving once and for all the Irish National problem. Even more distinctly favourable to a permanent settlement, is the sentiment which prevails throughout the United Kingdom at the present time than was the feeling which prevailed last July when Lloyd Northcliffe through his newspapers and the Wells group of conservative papers, under the joint control of Mr. Halton, the millionaire newspaper owner, and Lord Derby, were equally vehement on their demand for a settlement.

The chorus is now completed by the particularly insistent editorials which are contained in the Pall Mall Gaz-

Adjutant 247th O.S. Batt., C.E.F.

PTE. McNEELY ILL.

Mrs. McNeely, 471 Rubidge street has received word from Moore Barracks Hospital, Shorncliffe that her son, Pte. Fred McNeely of the C.A. M.C., who has been stationed at Moore Barracks Hospital for some time was a patient in the hospital, suffering from an attack of acute appendicitis. Pte. McNeely was just about leaving for France as a clerk in a field dressing station.

ST. CATHARINES, April 13.—(Special.)—Former members of the Home Guard are taking an interest in the reserve battalion which has been authorized for here, as an outgrowth of the 19th (Lincoln) Regiment. At the first parade last night at the Armory more than one hundred turned out to drill. They are business and professional men, who will be supplied with arms and uniforms for training two nights a week.

Mrs. J. Johnston, 316 Dublin street, has received word from the Northern General Hospital, London, Eng., that her son, Pte. Roland Johnston, had been admitted into the institution suffering from strain and rupture of the blood vessel of the right eye. Pte. Johnston went overseas with the 93rd Battalion, and had been at the front with the 21st.

The following men enlisted in the Cobourg Heavy Battery draft during the week: R. L. Lamb, Edmonton, Alberta; W. R. Hughson, Kingston; W. E. J. Payne, Granby; Frank Barrie, Peterborough; T. W. K. H. Wildbur, Cobourg; W. E. Estes, Cobourg.

Notwithstanding the movement overseas of a draft of 70 men, the Cobourg Heavy Battery is fortunate in gathering together some 20 men as a basis for further recruiting. Lt. C. A. Payne is the officer appointed to take the next draft overseas.

PAY AND ALLOWANCES FOR THE C. D. F.

(By Stewart Lyon.)

Canadian Headquarters in France, via London, April 13—The full fruit of the Battle of Vimy is our to-night The Germans are in full retreat and the Canadians, advancing as rapidly as the mined and wrecked roads permit, are hard upon their heels. Givenchy, Petit Vimy, Vimy itself, Farbus and Willerval are ours. Lens is on fire, together with the adjacent villages, and it is believed that it will be evacuated before morning.

All morning our artillery had been dropping shells on the German lines, especially on the village of Vimy, and the response was feeble and spasmodic. This afternoon there was a series of violent explosions in the mining villages around Lens and Linevin, where heavy charges were being used to destroy the shafts and overhead structures of the mines. The sound waked the whole front into life. Our infantry pushed down into Vimy and Givenchy, where they came into touch with the enemy's rear guard.

At this hour they continue to go forward, meeting little resistance. The spoils will be great, and the advantage resulting from possession of Lens Lievin mining district tremendous.

The Hun is at last headed for home and going strong. Vimy has helped.

London, April 13.—The great British offensive north and south of Arras gained renewed momentum today, and General Haig's fighters achieved the most solid success they have won since the first dash on Monday morning—a success which will compel German retirement to the Drocourt-Queant line, five miles farther east. Tearing through the German defences on a twelve-mile front from the north bank of the River Scarpe to the trench systems just south of Loos, the British division drove ahead and captured six villages—Angres, Givenchy, Vimy, Petit-Vimy, Willerval and Bailleul. South of Bailleul the line was bulged back clear to the Scarpe. Two of these towns, Vimy and Givenchy, were fortified by systems which the Germans considered impregnable. Northeast of the mining and railway centre of Lens the British have also obtained a footing.

GAINS SOUTH OF ARRAS.

Further victories were recorded south of Arras. Straightening out the German salient which projected into their lines between Monchy and the Cojeul River, Haig's men stormed Wancourt Tower, on a spur east of the village of Wancourt, and, according to to-night's official news report, have advanced astride the Hindenburg line as far as a point seven miles southeast of Arras. The communiques of the British War Office have not hitherto mentioned the Hindenburg line.

But success did not stop here. To the southward the British battalions progressed on a front of about nine miles between Metz-en-Coutre and a point to the north of Hargicourt. The captured positions include Bart Farm, Gauche Wood, Gouseacourt, straddling the road to Cambrai, and the wood near the village.

Throughout the length of interlinked chain of advances the fighting was of the utmost ferocity. Prisoners and guns were sent to the rear. According to the official report to-night, there are now more than 13,000 in the British cages back of Arras, and the number of captured guns has reached 166.

LITTLE BROWN HEN SAVES GIRL

With a pet hen under her arm and the love of a young man from the city in heart, Phoebe, from the farm, goes to New York. The young man in question is trying to make a living and a name for himself by writing poetry. In his confidence and good-heartedness he has adopted a baby. The road is rocky, for before the aspiring young versifier wins success—hammering out lines for a baked bean company for $100 a week—the adventurers have had to kill the pet hen for food. Even then Phoebe's New York nearly turns upon her, for Phillip's employer likes her himself and makes trouble, but not quite enough to wreck the young girl's life; and she stays in the city, claiming that she will never leave it nor Phillip nor the baby.

The above is the story in "Her New York," showing at The Strand Theatre, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. Prices as usual, 5c and 10c.

COMPOUNDING A FELONY.

The belated report of Sir Charles Davidson upon the surgical dressings scandal at Ottawa earlier in the war, is strong in condemnation of the criminality of Garland, the member of Parliament, and Powell, his drug clerk and catspaw, who conspired to defraud the government out of thousands of dollars, by corrupt overcharges. Their criminality was well known two years ago by revelations in the Public Accounts Committee. It was known to Sir Robert Borden, who compelled the resignation by his follower of his parliamentary position. Speaking in parliament in 1915, of these and similar grafters, Sir Robert Borden said "that if the laws permit, the walls of the penitentaries will encircle them." Two years have gone by, and not a move has been made to prosecute any one of the offenders. Sir Robert's disregard of the public interest and their protection by the application of the justice he promised to invoke, may not be intended to encourage wrong doing, but it does; and more than that it encourages a cynical disregard for decency and decent public opinion on the part of the criminals. Garland, the member of Parliament, whom Sir Charles Davidson after full investigation, indicted for defrauding the government, and whom Sir Robert Borden promised to clap into jail, emboldened and impudent by criminal immunity from punishment, has the hardened assurance of the unrepentent criminal to the extent that he is plotting, as he plotted for felonious profits, for the Conservative nomination for Carleton. Why does Sir Robert, who is himself irreproachable, pose as the patron of compromised, if not convicted, political criminals. He leaves one man whom, he said he would put inside penitentiary walls, outside, free to seek, as he is seeking—election to parliament. He takes to England—into the King's presence—another man who is under suspended sentence, as at least, a political criminal, condemned by a judge of his own appointment, or recommendation.

What are we fighting for in this war, if not for honesty and justice?

IS THERE A WAY?

The soldiers in the fighting line in France and Flanders are not the only ones that are fighting vandalism. We have some Huns in Peterborough that haven't much more regard for the rights and feelings of others; no more regard for the beautiful and the delight of others; no respect for what others hold almost sacred, than the unspeakable German Hun.

The big circular flower plot in Victoria Park was yesterday surrounded by Horticultural Society directors. They noticed the tracks of boots in the soil, among and upon the springing tulip fronds. The tracks were not made by the feet of thoughtless boys, but by those of adult men.

What can we do about it? The Society spends money of the people, a part of it, the money of taxpayers, to beautify a beautiful park for the delight of the public, not for a short cut for vandals. Who would have thought that we had such persons at large amongst us, and outside the prison cells further up the hill?

What can we do to prevent such things? How can we make and maintain the city beautiful, which the president of the De Laval Company thinks we should do to attract new citizens?

Some of the citizens propose this year planting the boulevards on the paved streets, in front of their residences with flowers. With persons like the Victoria Park tulip trampers about and undetected and unwatched, how will the street flower plots fare?

Can't the City Council, the Police Force, the Horticultural Society, the Greater Peterborough Association, and the public sentiment of civilized citizens, all combined, devise some way to trap vandals and secure the city immunity from the ravages of the German spirit of destruction and outrage that we evidently have amongst us?

This is a long question; naturally so; for it is a big question. It is a question of the beauty of our city in summer; it is a question of the triumph of public decency and public spirit, that should make sacred the efforts of public-spirited bodies and citizens to contribute to the pleasure and comfort and delight of the citizens at large. Hundreds of our citizens who have no place to grow flowers, but love them with passionate admiration, would enjoy flowers blooming all about our streets and in our public places. They can't, it appears, have the innocent and the divinely designed pleasure of the enjoyment of the beauty of growing and blooming things, because we have many unregenerate degenerates, who have the Hun spirit, though to themselves, it is only mulish selfishness.

Cannot the preachers preach an exorcism of this spirit? Can't our teachers teach the children and thus reach some home where this spirit has its embodiment? Can't some body concoct, devise, invent some way to protect the beauty of our streets and public pleasure places from destructive disfigurement?

KING OR PRESIDENT?

The relative merits of a constitutional monarchy and a republican form of government, cannot be decided by comparison of their abstract significance of meaning. In these things, as in almost every other mode of accomplishing desired results, the spirit of the couplet in Pope may be taken as generally applying:

For forms of government let fools contest,
Whate'er is best administered, is best.

Under the heading "Why not Discard the King?" the Detroit Free Press says:

If the people of the British Empire really believe, as their spokesmen say, that they are fighting Kaiserism, and not the people of the Central kingdoms, they shall do a great deal towards bringing the war to an end by conveying a hint to their own king that his resignation is in order.

We as Canadians and Britishers and loyal subjects, must respectfully, but firmly, decline to act upon the hint of the Free Press. Not only because we are loyal to the King, but because the King of Great Britain and the Dominions beyond the seas, represents the most perfect organized type of democracy.

Though a "limited monarchy," such as the British and a republic may symbolize ideal democracy in principle—the self government of the people by the people through their representatives—a good deal depends upon the application of the principle. Under the British system the people rule absolutely; their constitutional rulers hold office only on the condition of subjection to the popular will. Once the cabinet loses public confidence, does not represent the popular will, as held and expressed by the people, through their representatives, out it goes. The King, instead of being the ruler of his subjects, is subject to the real rulers, the people. In republics, especially in the United States, the form of government is a periodic, pro tempore autocracy. The President is almost as supreme for his term of office, as was the Czar of Russia. He is a personal ruler, with more executive power than the King of England. He selects and discharges or changes his cabinet as he may see fit, subject to no constitutional dictation. He choses his own cabinet. He holds office for four years in spite of any other authority. If he is a good President, so much the better. If he is a weak and unwise or bad President, no matter how bad, within certain prescribed limits, he holds his office, in spite of any person on earth. His power is not limited by any representative authority.

The King of Great Britain has no authority, except the moral authority derived from traditional reverence for his office, and, when he deserves it, respect for his person. He cannot, except at risk of his position, in any manner or in any way go contrary to the policy of his advisers; they, in turn are subject to the authority and control of Parliament, which is in turn subject directly to the will of the people. So that in Great Britain we have the true democracy, the real government of the people by themselves, through properly constituted authority.

When we in Canada or Great Britain, are asked to change our monarchy for a republic, it must be a "limited" republic in the same sense that ours is a "limited" monarchy—truly democratic, in that in all processes of administration and exercise of authority the hand of the people is always in potential control of the machinery of government.

There is little use, however, of discussing the difference between tweedle-dum and tweedle-dee. Our form of government suits us and that of the United States suits them.

For the moment all difference of forms is merged in the common aim of the two great democracies—the triumph of the democratic spirit in relation to the freedom and happiness of mankind.

The Strength the United States Adds To The Allies

The entry into the war of the United States is of importance, first because of the powerful moral influence which the action of this great republic will exert upon neutrals and upon belligerents as well. It is of very great importance by reason of the enormous financial resources which the United States possesses and which will be to a large extent available for the support of those allied nations which hitherto have looked to Great Britain. It will or should mean a lessening of the heavy financial burden which Great Britain has been called upon to bear. A recent statement from Washington placed the assets of the national banks of the United States in excess of $16,000,000,000, which is more by $5,000,000 than the combined resources of the Bank of England, the Bank of France, the Bank of Italy, the Bank of Spain, the Bank of Norway, the Bank of Sweden, the Swiss National Bank, the National Bank of Denmark, the Bank of Japan and the German Reichsbank. The growth in the assets of U national banks has been extraordinary. In short the United States is in a position to solve for the Allies whatever financial problems are involved in the future conduct of the war.

It is not to be expected, however, that the state of war now declared by Congress will result in any immediate and appreciable increase in the military strength of the Allies. The United States, confronted for two years with the duty, if not the danger of war, is still unprepared in so far as the organization, training and the equipment of a land army constitutes preparedness. There are highly trained regulars and there is a corps of skilled officers, these constituting the nucleus for the creation of a considerable army—and there is available man power in the United States estimated at twenty millions. But military authorities overseas have expressed doubt as to the wisdom of attempting to raise a large new army in the United States for service in Europe and indeed such a course does not seem now to be immediately in prospect. In any event it would take time and time has become the essence of the war.

In the United States navy the new ally does possess a powerful war machine. Its value in this war would be greater if there were many enemy fleets at large, which owing to the British navy, there are not, but the augumentation of the Allies' naval strength is a real one. The United States fleet is said to be somewhat deficient in destroyers, but has many of the other smaller craft with which to fight the undersea pirate of Germany, with whom, after all, the United States has its principal quarrel. In the convoying of food ships and in the creation of new tonnage the United States will be able to render an exceedingly valuable service at a time when the gravity of the submarine menace is still a matter of official anxiety. There is therefore good reason for the welcome with which the entry of the United States has been received in the Allied countries and by Allied armies. It is a helpful but not a deciding factor because the Allies, at whatever cost would have attained unaided the goal to which their faces have been set and for which their stupendous sacrifices have been made. The active co-operation of the United States as a belligerent will shorten the war and will make easier a consummation which was already assured. —Montreal Gazette.

ATLANTIC CITY FEARS ITS LIGHTS MUST BE DIMMED

NEW YORK, April 14. — There is consternation among the owners of hotels and pleasure resorts on the New Jersey Coast from Sandy Hook to Atlantic City, as well as on Long Island, Coney Island and the pleasure beaches of New York, over reports that the war will darken the coasts. These residents believe that a War Department order may prevent the display of any lights within a half-mile of shore.

Officials at the navy yard declined to deny that the order had been issued. Such an order would affect automobilists and probably put a stop to the use of the shore roads by automobile parties running between New York and Philadelphia through the many New Jersey resorts.

When word of the proposed order first reached Atlantic City a chorus of disapproval was heard from merchants of that city who immediately began an organization to see what could be done. The physical character of the Jersey coast is such that the order if exercised to its full effect, will result in the loss of hundreds of thousands of dollars to property owners along the line.

FALKENHAYN SENT FOR, HIS STRATEGY NEEDED

HAS RETURNED TO GERMAN HEADQUARTERS FROM ITALIAN FRONT.

ROME, April 14.—Gen. Von Falkenhayn has left the Italian front after a long sojourn and returned to German headquarters, according to a report reaching here from Berne.

His recall probably comes through a desire of the German staff to utilize Falkenhayn's strategy in stemming the tide of the successful British offensive.

The Royal Naval Canadian Volunteer Reserve Overseas Division

Never in its centuries of rule on the rolling waves has Britain's fleet done so great a work for freedom and humanity as in this war. It is saving the world from German "Kultur"—curbing their savage submarines—and keeping open the food lanes for neutrals as well as Allies.

Such a task needs thousands more men for the hundreds of new naval craft, and Britannia calls for Canadians to come over and help out. Here is your chance to "do your bit" with the best of the bulldog breed—to serve on the open sea where life has a tang and a man has a chance to keep clean!

And the British tar and his Canadian mates certainly make the most of this chance! Their love of cleanliness shows not only in spotless decks and shining brasswork, but in their own clean-shaven faces. These they owe largely to the Gillette Safety Razor, whose efficiency in its own line compares with that of the fleet itself. It is "Ready, aye ready" for action and a safe and perfect shave in any sea.

Slip a Gillette in your kit and enlist yourself if you can. If you cannot, see that some gallant lad fighting for you has one of these razors to give him a bit of home comfort. 239

"UNDER THE PALMS"

The choir of Park street Baptist church, assisted by several soloists from other churches, presented G. F. Root's cantata, "Under the Palms" last night before a large and appreciative audience. Under the direction of Mr. A. Nicholls, organist and choirmaster, the work was performed with a smoothness that was most praiseworthy. In volume and tonal quality the choir was particularly effective. It responded with nice precision and shading and a colouring in many passages that were particularly pleasing. In fact the choruses throughout the production reflected most favourably upon the musicianship of Mr. Nicholls and the responsiveness of the choir. "Under the Palms" is a cantata that has been rarely, if ever, heard in Peterborough. It is rather exacting in many parts, and particularly demands much of the soloists. Its theme is based upon the Jewish feast of the Tabernacles or harvest festival, referred to in Nehemiah, after the return of the Jews from captivity in Babylon.

The burden of the solos fell to Miss Flossie Nicholls, soprano, Miss D. Rathbone, contralto, Mr. Ed. Humpage, tenor, and Mr. John Smith, bass. They were heard together in the last quartette, "My Soul, the Saviour's Message Hear," probably the most pleasing and best rendered passage of the entire work. Their voices blended into a fine piece of harmony, with the solo parts maintaining the quality of joyousness that marked the final theme. The chorus, too, in the concluding lines beginning, "Rejoice, Rejoice," developed a splendid climax that was sustained through the stirring finale, "We Are Marching Home to Zion." Miss Nicholls possesses a voice that is round and ringing and of pleasing texture. Her enunciation was clear and precise, particularly noticeable in the recitation, "By Ahava River." One of her best parts was "Blessed by Thy Glorious Name." Miss Rathbone sang with assurance and in good voice, assisting materially to the success of the production. Her singing was specially effective in "By the Dark Euphrates Stream" and "O Lord, the Harvests of the Year." Mr. Smith and Mr. Humpage assumed a large share of the solo work and were always effective.

Other members of the choir whose singing was worthy of note were Mrs. Walter Hunt, Mr. Frank Heafield, Mr. A. Whatley, Mr. H. Goodwin, Mr. Geo. Gladman, Mr. Ed. Pemberton, Mr. Jas. Garside, Mr. T. Pacey, Miss L. Nicholls, Miss Ruby Fair, Miss F. Sandiford, Miss N. Follis, Miss E. Follis, Miss A. Cooke, Miss E. Parks, Miss L. Tranter, Miss D. Goodwin and Miss N. Goodwin.

A chorus of twelve children sang sweetly in several passages allotted to them. A pleasing effect was obtained in the quartette echo to the chorus, "We Kneel by Our Tents," the quartette comprising Mr. Goodwin, Mr. Gladman and the Misses Follis. Singing from an adjoining room their tone was true and the illusion of distance was perfect.

Mr. Nicholls conducted the choir and played the accompaniments, interpreting the spirit of the cantata and bringing out its many beauties. He deserves every commendation upon the measure of success achieved in this production. The pastor, Rev. Donald Brown, thanked all those who had assisted and stated that the proceeds were in aid of the fund for alterations to the baptistry and choir position. The improvements greatly enhance the interior of the church and also provide additional accommodation.

A WONDER WORKER.

"It heals like magic" is a favorite expression when Dr. Chase's Ointment is used. It works quickly stops all itching at once, often heals in a single night. For eczema, salt rheum, barber's itch skin irritations or eruptions, it is a most satisfactory treatment. Being antiseptic it prevents blood poisoning.

Garnet Innis Chose Jail Instead of the Fine of $300

Garnet Innis preferred six months in jail to the raising of the alternative fine of $300, and introduced himself to the Nesbitt ration this morning. The fine was reduced from five hundred dollars, reported, yesterday. These two decisions against the Innis boys should be a lesson to any other persons who attempt to retail whiskey in the face of the penalties of the Temperance Act.

Manufacturers Will Not Engage Farm Labourers Until May 20th

The manufacturers of Peterborough with but one or two exceptions, have expressed their readiness to co-operate in every manner within their power, with organization of resources association in the general scheme of assisting the farmers of this district in their spring seeding.

When the local branch of the Association was formed Mr. B. F. Ackerman and Mr. A. E. Coulthard were delegated to interview the heads of the local factories with a view to securing their promise of assistance toward any plans that might be outlined whereby citizens might be utilized to help put in the farm crop. Mr. Ackerman scouted the idea, stating that he expected the manufacturers to be opposed to depleting their staffs when they were themselves short of men and extremely busy. But the response has shown that the manufacturer is prepared to assist in the organization of resources when a definite, practical plan is evolved.

The following are some of the replies received by Mr. Coulthard and Mr. Ackerman, when they visited the factories:

Peterborough Machine Co.—"We will co-operate in every way possible."

The Peter Hamilton Co.—"Anything we can do to push forward this movement will be a pleasure. We have plows and other tools for spring planting which we will loan for the plowing and cultivating of lots."

J. J. Turner and Sons, Ltd.; and the Peterborough Canoe Co.—"We will cooperate in every way we can."

The Metal Products Co.—"We will send a list of men leaving our employ twice a week to Mr. Gillespie's office. We will do anything we can to help the movement."

The Canadian General Electric Co.—Any man who goes from our plant to help the farmers put in their crop will get his job back as soon as he returns. Moreover we will engage no farm labourer until after May 20th.

The De Laval Co.—We will co-operate in every way we can, and not engage farm labourers at our plant until after May 20th.

The Henry Hope Co. and the Bonner Worth Co.—We will not engage farm labour until after May 20th, and employees going out to help the farmers will have their jobs kept for them.

G. Walter Green Co.—We will cooperate in every way possible, and will not engage men fit for farm work until after May 20th.

The Wm. Hamilton Co.—Any men we don't engage we will send to Mr. Gillespie's registration office for farm help.

Matthews-Blackwell.— We are not engaging any men suitable for farm work until after May 20th. We will be glad to release men who are willing to go on the farm during the planting season.

The McDonald Estate. — We will postpone the opening of our mill until May 20. We will release now any men who are suitable for farm work and not engage during the seeding season men suitable for farm work.

The Brinton Carpet Co.—We have already released two men who have gone with farmers. We will not engage farm help during the seeding season.

B. F. Ackerman & Sons, The Colonial Weaving Co. and the Auburn Woollen Co.—We will assist in every way we can to promote this movement.

Such is the response of the manufacturers. The rest remains with the men who have organized the association in Peterborough. Professional, labour and other men in the city have yet to be heard from with anything as complete a statement as this from the manufacturers.

Crusts cut from bread when making sandwiches will make good Brown Betty.

Immediately after the cooking is finished the draught should be taken off the range.

Living Models Draw A Crowd

Throngs of Admiring Women See the Season's Latest Fashions Displayed at Hall's

That fashion has by no means lost its hold on women notwithstanding war conditions and the high cost of living, was evident by the steady stream of admiring women who poured into Richard Hall & Son's, yesterday, to see the gorgeous clothes displayed by the living models. Clothes straight from New York and the best fashion show ever shown outside of New York! That was the snare to which the willing victims were led. The most lovely mannequims showed practical new coats, skirts, dresses, hats and sports apparel with the utter detachment which only a mannequin ever achieves.

THE HATS.

The skirts, hats and coats had the cheery effect of a fresh bed of tulips with their bright and beautiful colouring—such hats! Every one of them enough to wreck a home if they were not speedily procured. With the delightful evening dresses in which the Van Dyke lines were evident, the most glorious lace-brimmed hats, and dainty, vivid, shaded flowers were shown. With the long coats, with their huge pockets, belts, and wide circular collars, as well as with the beautiful three-quarter length silk sports coats, the most delightful little droop brim sailors so much the rage in New York and Paris, were very much in evidence. Such hats—cherry, coral, bishop purple and combination effects of harmonizing shades! The dress hats were beautiful with their wide, drooping brims, and such a little, but such artistic trimming. The models, themselves, gasped at the beauty and lines of the hats which are all the stock of Richard Hall's, having been brought up from New York by his buyers.

THE SUITS.

Many of the suits showed the becoming and artistic combinations of silk and serge. One, a glorious shade of ashes of roses, in the 'three in one' effect, was particularly attractive with its wide, circular, cream collar. With this the model wore the daintiest of bisque shoes, gloves and sailor.

THE DRESSES.

The most fascinating dresses in the world were shown, one a navy satin skirt in the barrel shape, with wide Roman stripes and an Eton jacket effect of navy ninon, was much admired. In the less "dressy" dresses the daintiest little pink empire dress, with wide braided band, was shown. White shoes of the daintiest order, completed this costume.

GENERAL EFFECTS. .....

In all the suits shown the skirts were very short and not at all elaborate or unreasonably wide. Most showed the deep band round the hem. The suit coats were short, with slightly belted effects. The long coats were generally of the Van Dyke order of hanging, and fewer open necks were evident. The stock collar was shown in some of the costumes. New York has gone moleskin mad, and a more becoming madness could not be imagined. The elaborate sports coats showed many wide square collars of it.

Sir Sam Hughes Here This Morning

General Sir Sam Hughes arrived in the city on the early train from Ottawa this morning and was here for several hours before leaving for Lindsay on the 8.20 train. He was met by Capt. J. H. Burnham. General Hughes is looking remarkably well. It is understood that he is shortly leaving on a visit to the United States in connection with the offer of his services to the American government to assist in the military organization. In view of the possibility of a general election in the near future, Sir Sam is bulking more largely in the public eye again.

BENEFIT RED CROSS

SAVE but HOW?

You are daily admonished by Bankers, Cabinet Ministers, Judges, and by all the Press of the Country to save and be thrifty. In fact the stamps on our letters are cancelled by the admonition to "Save, Save, Save, etc."

Outside of the Bankers' Association who have recommended the Banks, very few other suggestions have been made.

Why has no person suggested or recommended the greatest thrift producer and the greatest anti-poverty Institution known to the Public?

For instance let us suppose two thousand men at say age 25 propose to test this principle for say twenty years and one half of them invest a small sum annually in a bank and the other thousand deposit an equal amount annually with this anti-poverty institution. Now if I can show you that those who deposited with the anti-poverty institution not only received more than those who deposited in the bank, but that the anti-poverty institution paid to the beneficiaries of the unfortunate depositors who were unable to continue their payments the large additional sum of $159,000.00 which the banks kept for their stockholders, would that interest you?

The banks are all right, but if I can show you that this anti-poverty institution not only gave better security and actually gave better returns, but in addition they gave a Bond that if anything unforeseen such as death, happen you, they would protect you and your estate to any extent desired, would it interest you?

The above facts can be verified to you by calling at, 'phoning or writing the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, 409 Water street and such action on your part places you under no obligation whatever

A SPLENDID TRIBUTE TO LIEUT. A. R. ACKERMAN

General Garnet Hughes Says Peterboro Boy Who Died of Wounds Sustained near Courcelette Was One of The Best Young Officers at the Front.

ALWAYS EAGER AND READY

A splendid tribute to the bravery and zeal of the late Lieut. Arthur Ackerman, M.C., has been received by his mother, Mrs. B. F. Ackerman in the form of a letter written by General Garnet Hughes to his mother, Lady Hughes, and forwarded to Mrs. Ackerman by Lady Hughes' daughter, Mrs. Byron Green, who in sending the letter on writes: "I am sure you must be very, very proud of your boy. It helps a great deal to know he was so splendid."

General Garnet Hughes' letter is as follows:

5th Canadian Division,
20th March, 1917.

Dear Mother,—I am glad that you let me know that my letter to you about poor Ackerman was destroyed. Until some time after his death I had not known that you and his mother were friends, and I did not know his address.

I wish you would tell her how much we thought if him, and send her this letter. There is no way of properly expressing our sympathy with the mothers of the boys who go down, but I know there is some comfort in just a letter.

I had known him so well in his old battalion the 2nd without ever connecting him with the Mrs. Ackerman you knew. He was such a keen, smart officer, always active and efficient, and always looking after his men's welfare. His Military Cross might have come long before it did, but as in so many other cases, it was not awarded the first time I recommended him.

Then when our new service, the Trench Mortar Batteries, were being formed and I was looking for bright, capable and brave officers to take it over in my brigade, young Ackerman was one of the four selected out of a hundred and eighty.

There is no service more trying than the trench mortars. They are subject to all the dangers from shell fire that the field artillery has, and in addition their little guns have to be operated from the front line wherein the infantry is.

In all the mud and danger and work Ackerman was a leader. When a daring job was on hand Ackerman was in the front of it, and then on the Somme just north of the Village of Courcelette, he was hit by a shell. He was arranging new positions for his guns further forward and getting up ammunition at the time.

I had seen him only an hour or two before, and I remember the terrible shock the news gave me in spite of all the others whom I have known so well and who have gone the same way. His mother can be a very proud woman. No Canadian officer has ever been more thought of by his brother officers and his men.

She has lost her boy—I know she still thinks of him as the little fellow she held in her arms, as I do my little Sammy now—him whom we know as a brave and gallant gentleman, but no mother has ever made a more valuable sacrifice for the greatest cause in which the human race has ever fought.

I wonder if Mrs. Ackerman has his Military Cross. If she hasn't I am sure I could arrange for a duplicate to be given her.

He would have sent it home, though."

A Great Ford Season

Likelihood of a Shortage—Shipments Unable to Cope With The Spirited Demand

If you are planning to purchase a Ford car, it will be wisdom to place your order and take delivery without a day's delay. The local dealer, Mr. Duffus, is anxious to impress intending buyers with this fact so that they may protect themselves against delay or disappointment. Immediate orders are assured of prompt attention; but there is no telling what the situation may be a month or even a week hence. Delay at this time may cause a wait of several months.

Spirited Demand Increasing.

This was the substance of a conversation heard in the Duffus Garage this morning. Mr. Duffus also stated that up to the present he had taken his full allotment of cars on his contract, and that they have gone out nearly as fast as they have come in. It is some weeks since Mr. Duffus has been able to get any additional shipments of cars, owing to the growing shortage.

A Rise in Prices Probable.

It would also appear that present prices of Ford cars, on account of the scarcity and rise in the cost of material, might be increased any day. Mr. Duffus has been making energetic efforts to take the delivery of a sufficient number of cars to meet the demands of his district at present prices. The very active preference shown for Fords this spring has caused him to book orders up to the full limit of his contract, so as to assure his customers the advantage of present prices. Judging, however, from the number of cars already disposed of and on his order book, a shortage seems now to be inevitable.

Mr. Duffus is the largest Ford dealer in the Province of Ontario and has been promised every consideration from a standpoint of shipments, but in telepholing to the Ford Motor Company to-day he was informed that it is absolutely impossible to make sufficient shipments to cope with the demands. This year's car is extremely attractive, and the many customers who have already taken delivery of their cars, are exceedingly pleased with their investment.

Bethany Man Was Acquitted of Theft

BETHANY, April 13.—A case which aroused much interest in the community was heard by Magistrate Jakeman here on Tuesday last when Alfred Sanders of this village was charged with theft by Chas. McMullen, a farmer living about a mile from here. Mr. H. R. Armstrong, of Peterborough, appeared for the accused Sanders, and after hearing considerable evidence bearing on the case, the charge was dismissed and Sanders acquitted.

The theft was alleged to have taken place in November, 1915, and after the evidence for the prosecution, the prisoner's counsel moved for a dismissal of the charge without a defence. The Magistrate, however, held that the evidence warranted a defence, which was put in; and at the conclusion of the trial Sanders was acquitted. The case was heard in the town hall and a large number from the village and surrounding country were present at the hearing. Magistrate Jakeman refunded to Sanders, who is a G.T.R. employee, the amount of costs he had paid when he was first arraigned and granted an adjournment to secure counsel.

CONSUMER SHOULD AWAKEN TO THE SERIOUS POSSIBILITIES IN FUTURE PRICES OF FOOD STUFFS

Successive advances in the prices of foodstuffs and household necessities recently quoted in these columns should have a settling effect upon citizens. Soaps advanced 50c a case yesterday, making a total increase of $1.50 within a few days. Corn syrups went up another 25c a case yesterday, but this will affect the retailer, not the consumer for the present. Starch has advanced another half-cent a pound, and Pure Gold custard, chocolate and quick tapioca jumped 20 per cent., and are now quoted at the market price of two packages for twenty-five cents.

May wheat touched $2.25 on the Chicago market yesterday, a new high level. In every direction the consumer is confronted by advancing prices. Most persons can realize the seriousness of the current cost of living, but according to grocers there are numerous exceptions of householders who appear utterly unconscious of the gathering strength of the market. One thoughtful grocer stated this morning that he would not be surprised to find sugar selling at ten cents a pound in the near future, and another man fears that before the worst conditions have passed the price will touch 25c a pound. This may be an alarmist view, but no one can consider the position of the United States, its decision to feed the Allies, the unsettled affairs in Cuba, and other circumstances without regarding the future with grave misgivings.

These recent advances and the prospect of the price drive continuing indefinitely must surely bring some concerted action for food regulation. Citizens of means may not have cause for worry, but the less fortunate with small and large families to provide for out of light and uncertain wages, surely there should be concern shown for them. If the end of the war is just beyond the Vimy Ridge, the prospect might have some finality or limit within view. And with this palpable element of uncertainty there should be the feeling that if prices will require regulation eventually, why not begin now?

These are thoughts arising out of expressions of grocers who are anxious for themselves and their customers. The retail grocer as a distributer merely follows the prices that are set by manufacturers and wholesalers, but the consumer rarely places his censure beyond the retailer.

GOVERNMENT REPORT SHOWS MARCH MARKET ADVANCES

OTTAWA, April 13.—Increases in the prices of grain, meats, vegetables, textiles, metals, fuel, and coal oil and building materials are shown by statistics collected by the Department of Labour to have taken place during the month of March. The cost of a list of 29 staple foods for a family of five for a week was $10.70 in March as compared with $10.46 in February, $8.86 in March, 1916, and $7.68 in March, 1914. There has thus been an increase of almost 40 per cent. in the expenditure of the average family for food. Meats and potatoes showed the largest increases, while eggs were considerably cheaper, and the price of dairy butter fell slightly. Statistics in regard to other items of the family budget show that anthracite coal averaged $10.66, as compared with $10.99 a ton in February and $8.56 in March of last year. Rents advanced in Quebec City, in several Ontario cities and in Edmonton. The department's index number for wholesale prices rose to 220.6, as compared with 217.3 for February, 176.4 for March, 1916 and, 137 for March, 1914.

On the other hand, 28 changes affecting 2,500 workers indicated that the upward tendency of wages still continued. The changes reported involved persons engaged in branches of transportation industries, metal trades and in civic employment.

WARM WEATHER'S COMING HELD UP UNTIL THE NEW MOON REACHES ITS FULL

Not until the first full moon after Easter will the weather enter into continued Spring conditions. This is the statement of a street car man who quotes the experience of an old citizen, and so on, but wherever this "old saw" originated, if it has any influence behind, the home garden club need not hurry for a week or two. Of course this does not mean that there will be no fine, bright days, but these will come merely as a reminder of the Spring that might have been.

PASTOR OF ST. ANDREWS PROMISES SHORT SERMONS

Rev. T. H. Mitchell Meets Congregation and Old Friends —Peterboro Friends Present

TORONTO, April 14. —St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, Carlton street, congregation accorded a hearty reception last night to its new pastor, Rev. T. H. Mitchell. Prominent among those on the platform was Ven. Archdeacon Cody, who welcomed Mr. Mitchell as an old friend and fellow-student at the University of Toronto.

Rev. Mr. Mitchell, who was presented by Mrs. Galloway, on behalf of the congregation, with a new gown, said that fourteen months ago he had given up his charge at London, Ont., with the intention of spending some time on the farm. The Sunday after his resignation he found himself preaching at Peterborough, and subsequently he took up the work there, intending to stay till the close of the war. He believed in predestination, for both of these plans had been frustrated. He promised that his sermons would be great in one respect —they would be short. He did not hope to visit every member of the congregation at once, but he would attend the sick and the aged and those suffering through the war. "The Church is not a hospital, it is a great army and its members are a force in the field," said Mr. Mitchell.

Rev. Dr. Robert Law was presented by the Board of Managers with a purse of money and a letter of appreciation for his services during the months in which the church was without a pastor. Dr. Law, in response, said his association with the church during the last seven years had been one of the happiest times of his life. He had asked leave to withdraw from the pulpit when the vacancy occurred but nobody would listen to him, and the old arrangements were to continue under the new pastorate.

A presentation of flowers was made to Mrs. Law and Miss Mitchell. Rev Dr. John Neil, Rev. Dr. McP. Scott, Rev. Dr. James Murray and Rev. James Wilson also addressed the meeting.

A number of Peterborough people went up for the occasion.

May Make United States "Dry" To Save Food For Allies

SPECIAL TO THE EXAMINER:

WASHINGTON, April 14.—America's "big push" for food may wipe out her breweries and distilleries. Taking advantage of the threatened food shortage throughout the world, and demands on American farmers to feed not only the United States, but her Allies, the "Drys" in Congress are preparing to launch a spectacular drive for "war prohibition." In some quarters, it is stated, President Wilson will take the initiative in this matter and make all the United States dry as a war measure to save foodstuffs.

WANTS TO KEEP PASTOR.

Oshawa Church Declines to Accept Chaplain Garbutt's Resignation.

OSHAWA, April 14.—Capt. Rev. John Garbutt, pastor of the Simcoe Street Methodist Church, who went overseas as Chaplain of an Ontario county battalion, and is now in France, recently sent his resignation as pastor to the Official Board of the church. A meeting of the board was subsequently held, and it was decided that his resignation be not accepted, and a committee was appointed to cable him to that effect. The pulpit of the church here has been supplied by Prof.. A. J. Johnston of Victoria College during Mr. Garbutt's absence.

Another Position Looms Up For A Returned Soldier

Mr. G. N. Gordon Offers to Relinquish His Position of City Solicitor to the First Lawyer to Return From the Front ---Ald. Stratton Who Failed to Support a Returned Soldier When the Sanitary Inspector's Position Was Open, Takes Exception.

At last night's meeting of the committee of the Whole Council, Mr. G. N. Gordon, City Solicitor, brought up the question of increased remuneration for services rendered in connection with the administration of the new Temperance Act. Mr. Gordon pointed out that the duties involved were new to the office which he held and that neither he or his predecessor had been called upon to act as prosecutor except in cases effecting the city, such as violations of the civic ordnances. The Temperance Act is an entirely new act act and it provides that the city shall retain the fines in cases where the information is laid by the Chief of Police. Where the information is laid by the License Inspector the fines go to the Provincial treasury.

Fine Imposed.

A few days ago Mr. Gordon at the request of Mayor Duffus conducted the prosecution in a liquor case that was aired in police court. The trial resulted in a fine of five hundred dollars being imposed on the defendant. As the information was laid by the Chief of Police the money will go into the civic treasury unless the defendant elects to serve six months in gaol. To appear in this case on the day in question Mr. Gordon had to relinquish a case before the County Judge and incidentally a retaining fee of forty dollars, in addition to this Mr. Gordon says he has a staff of five clerks who are placed in a non productive position when he is absent from the office a whole day, as he was on the day of the trial referred to.

"No Cure, No Pay."

Mr. Gordon suggested that the Council compensate him to the extent of one-fifth of the total amount of fines actually collected by the city. In a case where the accused elected to take the option of a gaol sentence and no fine was collected, Mr. Gordon would not expect any remuneration.

"It's a case of no cure no pay," suggested Ald. Dobbin.

As the usual fine imposed in a liquor case is two hundred dollars, Mr. Gordon would receive forty dollars and the city one hundred and sixty dollars.

The Aldermen thought that this was a fair proposal with the exception of Ald. Stratton, who contended that the duties of prosecutor in liquor cases should be added to those already undertaken by Mr. Gordon in his capacity of City Solicitor.

Returned Soldier.

Ald. Stratton suggested that some other lawyer in the city might be glad to work for the city in the enlarged capacity suggested.

Mr. Gordon offered to resign his position in favour of the first lawyer to return from the front. That is what he anticipated doing all along.

Ald. Stratton thought if Mr. Gordon resigned it should be left to the Council to say whether or not a returned soldier should get the position.

Mayor Duffus— "We want all the fines we can get. If the cases are not properly prepared when they come into court the Temperance Act will be that much less efficient."

Ald. Duncan thought that Mr. Gordon's proposition was a fair one. It would mean that Mr. Gordon would only be compensated in cases where the fines were actually collected by the city.

On motion of Ald. Saunders and Ald. Dobbin, the matter was left in the hands of the Legal committee with authority to bring in a report.

THE CITY TEAMSTERS WILL RECEIVE INCREASE IN WAGES

Committee of the Whole Council Endorse a Rate of Fifty Cents an Hour Which is Less Than the Teamsters Intended Asking For—Motorizing the Fire Department.

At a meeting of the Committee of the Whole Council held last evening Ald. McIntyre brought up the question of an increase in wages for the city teamsters. Ald. McIntyre in his capacity of chairman of the Board of Works warned the Committee that the teamsters were going to petition the Council for an increase of one dollar per day of nine hours. Their present rate of pay is four dollars a day. Several of the Aldermen were of the opinion that the present rate was too low. Ald. Smith moved that the men be paid at the rate of fifty cents an hour which makes a rate of four dollars and fifty cents for a nine hour day or fifty cents less than the men intended asking for. The motion carried.

Ald. Smith said he wouldn't mind giving the men more money if they would use a shovel instead of standing around while their waggons were being filled.

FIRE APPARATUS.

The sub-committee appointed by the Council to deal with the question of motorizing the fire department, was authorized to secure prices on a seven hundred and fifty gallon pumper as well as a five hundred gallon one. The present steam unit is capable of pumping the larger quantity and the Committee was of the opinion that the question of replacing the present capacity should not be overlooked as it might interfere with the key rate of the Fire Underwriters. Next year the city may motorize the ladder waggon.

BAND INSTRUMENTS.

According to an interpretation of the agreement respecting the band instruments purchased for the 93rd Battalion the trust has passed from the Speakers' Patriotic League to the City Council and it remains with the City Council to say what disposition shall be made of the instruments. It was the unanimous opinion of the Aldermen that no action be taken.

Chief of Police Thompson will be asked to enforce the by-laws respecting cattle and dogs running at large.

It was reported to the Committee that the plans for the new Hunter street bridge are nearing completion and will be submitted to the Council by City Engineer Parsons at an early date.

Higher Prices Are Anticipated

Two Notable Advances in Grocery Lines During the Week

The following comment on the market situation as regards food stuffs appeared in the Canadian Grocer this week:

Two notable advances in grocery lines during the week were an increase of 45c per hundred in the price of sugar and 70c per barrel on flour. The high price of wheat caused flour to go to higher levels, and wheat prices in turn were given an upward impetus largely through confirmation by the Department of Agriculture of the United States that the winter wheat of that country had fared badly. Some of the firmness can be attributed to the fact that the United States is at war and that she will be in the market for supplies for her troops. Higher prices for sugar have been anticipated in view of the revision downward by experts of the amount of sugar that will be available from Cuba this year. In meats of all kinds there has been a firmer tendency all along the line. Canned meats have also been advanced in price, these increases being attributed to the fact that the United States is at war and has caused a heavier demand for meats of all kinds. Lard and compound are also quoted higher in sympathy with meats. Peanut butter, olives, soap, sweet and soda biscuits, succotash, spinach are other lines in which there have been advances. Potatoes are in firmer market. Pineapples are easier and will no doubt go to lower levels between now and the time when the season is at its best in the latter part of May and June.

There is a further tendency towards firmness in the canned goods market. Present indications point to a serious shortage of cans for next season's pack of canned vegetables. From the United States comes the news that only 4 billion cans are in sight, while 7½ billion cans are required.

Lance-Corp. Cookman Appreciates Gift of Wives and Mothers

March 19th, 1917.

Dear Art,—Just a few lines to let you know I am alive and well. I am back again up the line amongst the boys, having been back a short while now. You are having a pretty hard job raising the new Battalion in Peterborough, by all accounts. Perhaps the good news that is coming these days will help recruiting quite a bit.

I had the pleasure this week of receiving a parcel of socks and gum from the Soldiers' Wives' and Mothers' Club, Peterborough, and it gave the Peterborough boys in the same platoon as myself a good feeling towards the ladies at home when I divided the contents. The parcel had been on the way quite a while, but managed to find me at last, as I guess the one the members of the Force sent will find me before long.

You mention Mrs. Rozel asking about me. Well, it makes one feel good to hear the people at home are still taking an interest in us while we are in this remote part of the country doing our bit as best we can. We do not have the happiest of times out here, but we make the best of it. I would far sooner be out here than in England, trying to hold down a soft job; that is, if I was fit and had not done a turn in the line. I believe most of the boys that left with us have been over here quite a while now, and some have given their lives for the cause, but some of us are sure to come home, and all are looking forward to the day, and by the way things are going these days we may be home far sooner than we at one time expected.

Well, Art, I will close now, wishing you the best of luck. Please remember me to all at the Station.

From your ever friend,
L.-CORP. G. COOKMAN.

SAYS SOME FARMS IN PETERBORO DISTRICT MAY BE IDLE THIS YEAR

Mr. Clifford Hancock, of Smith, commenting this morning upon the gardening campaign stated that he believed there would be entire farms in this district which would not be operated this summer. He knew of one of 150 acres which he know would remain idle, and in view of that fact, he suggested that the city's organization might consider taking it over and working it. Mr. Hancock intimated that if the city people were sincere in their intentions they would find plenty of opportunity to put them into execution.

CHRIST IN US.

Is Christ in us? Be ours the glorious dower,
To show the Saviour shining in our face,
And through our eyes forth putting his sweet power
To help the weak and wayward with his grace.
Oh! let not sin in us those windows dim
Through which the world might catch some glimpse of Him!
—R. Wilton.

GOD DEPENDS ON PRAYER.

Prayer is the medium through which God's gracious will for us takes effect. Prayer is the atmosphere in which God's sunshine can give its light and warmth. Prayer is as the wire or as the ether in which the current of electricity can run its course. It may have any form of words, or no form of words; it may make definite requests or simply ask God to do what will be best; but whatever the means the essence of prayer is that it be the opening of our lives to God.

God depends on men's prayers, because prayer is the medium through which God bestows upon men what God desires to give them. Thus prayer is the means of satisfying the love which God has for us.

God depends upon men's prayers because prayer is man's effort to cease being a hindrance and to become a perfectly adjusted and frictionless part in the harmony of God's eternal will for all creation.

Another way in which God depends on man's prayer is by looking to individual people to allow Him to do through them new things for the world.

Through prayer, when it is sufficiently earnest, man can will to do an act which he has never done before, which he has never seen another do, provided as the man prays, God sends him forth to do it.

We who look into the face of Christ know how much God cares for man. Therefore, we reverently imagine He anxiously awaits our prayer. Shall it be full and free and true? Shall we ask Him to take from us or to lay upon us what He will, awaiting only our consent? Shall we look out into the distance so great, as we pray, that we cannot see even the outlines of the vision, knowing only that God has there a plan, which we shall gradually begin to see, as our obedience begins to grasp His commandments instant by instant? If so then we know that God does depend upon men's prayers, and resting in Him we go out upon the quest of His infinite purpose. —Charles Lewis Slattery, D.D.

ette, which was recently acquired by Sir Henry Dalziel, one of Lloyd George's most ardent supporters, and most confidential Chancellor, and the liberal journals.

Of course an equally insistent demand for the immediate autonomy of Ireland is the concensus of opinion in the House of Commons and also of all "one way" liberals and the labour leaders who are united to the last man for Ireland.

Even among the Tories all men of intelligence and position have organized themselves into a group prepared on all occasions to press the question of an immediate settlement. Even more unanimous, if possible, is the opinion of the English man on the street who is frankly in favour of such a settlement at once.

Old crusty Tories of pre-war times, who hated home rule as they would treason and poison, now cry for an end to the devastating, dishonouring weakening controversy.

The Difficulty in the Way.

If this opinon is so unanimous what difficulty remains in consummating a settlement is summed up in two words, Orange and Ulster, and the effect of that section of the Ministry so heterogenously composed of Nationalists is all eagerness to maintain unity in the United Kingdom.

Ireland has unofficially suggested an increased representation of the Irish people in the House of Commons and still more in the Senate and has offered a coalition Ministry in proportionate representation.

Orangemen from both Orange and Ulster, have sternly refused to consider this practical solution. They have never relaxed their refusal to enter into an Irish parliament compromise, but have suggested on the other hand to the English liberals that each Ulster County have a plebiscite election to decide whether or not the people are for exclusion or inclusion.

However, even this up to the present has been rejected by the Orangemen, who insist on six of the counties being represented without any vote by the people. This would include the counties of Fermanagh and Tyrone, where the nationalist majority are eager for home rule.

The Irish Party cannot expect such a proposal. If it is accepted it would be repudiated by the Irish people, thus destroying simultaneously both the settlement of the Irish problem and the Irish party, thus creating a dead lot again which only Lloyd George could break.

But will or can Lloyd George break such a situation? His last speech at the recent Irish debate struck so high an Orange note as to shock even the most conservative of the English party leaders.

No communication has since taken place between Lloyd George and Redmond, who feels pledged against any negotiations with the English Ministers after last year's breakdown, although Redmond has emphatically declared that he would not accept any Orange proposal.

The Six Counties.

Six counties have blocked Lloyd George and have as yet given no indication of any change of opinion and it is surmised that he feels compelled to back Bonar Law and Carson first because without them he could never have dethroned Asquith from the Premiership of the Empire, and secondly because Carson might resign if the full demands of the Orange Party were repudiated.

Carson's resignation would involve and also completely break up, the present Ministry. It is difficult at the present moment to forecast what method of escape can be found from this deadlock at this moment.

Possibly the House of Commons may be left free to decide between Orange and Nationalist claims. Undoubtedly the British as well as the Irish would pronounce against the arrogance of the Orange leaders at this time.

Lloyd George might possibly be thus relieved from further obligation to press their claim if Lloyd George persists in backing to the full the Orange demands, which I think will be unlikely.

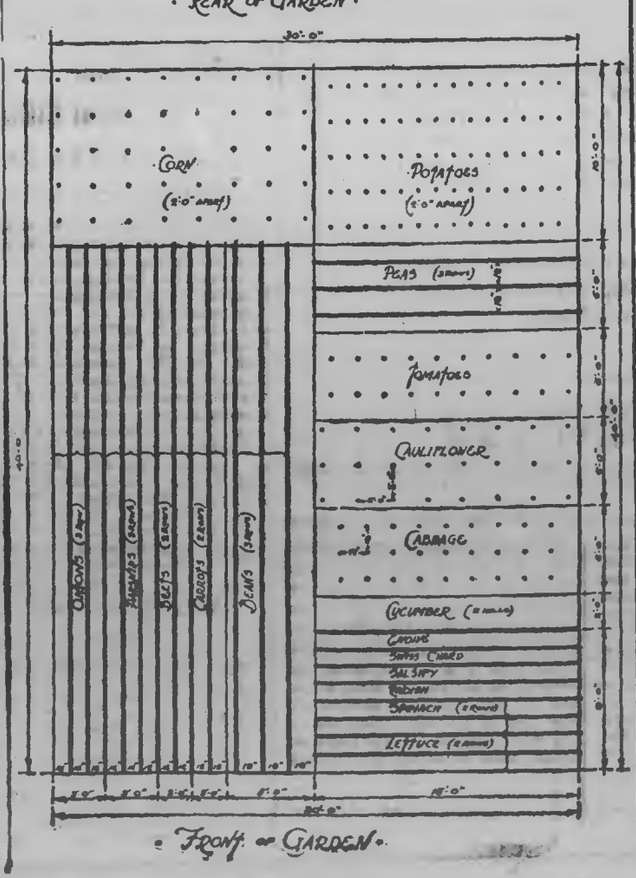
Either two things must happen: First a new failure at the arriving of a settlement with such strong universal disappointment as to force a third attempt, which may prove to be successful. Lloyd George may be forced to grant a general election to the Irish Party which same the party by and alternatively with the first, because they want to put a square issue before their people but not at or by elections where local personal questions obscure ultimate results, but to appeal to the country at large as to whether they would choose revolutionary or constitutional methods to work out the liberation of Ireland.

Secondly, they want a renewed mandate from the people. And seemingly they have no fear that even such a majority might be found as to bring about the defeat of the main issue which is whether or not Ireland shall be ruled by Irish people or by British land owners.

President Wilson's plea for other small nations in his most eloquent appeal to the Congress of the United States to take up arms against Germany, necessarily implies the triumph of democracy in Ireland and the belief in the perfect union of their race in America in the defence of the American flag against the German enemy and must produce such powerful and united action as to help to close the long feud between England and Ireland.

Mayonnaise dressing is not injured in the least if the white of an egg is added.

SUGGESTED PLAN FOR A BACKYARD GARDEN



Social Evening By the Oddfellows

Excellent Programme of Song, Story and Music—Last of the Season

A complimentary evening by the Oddfellows to their friends was held last night. A delightful entertainment of song, story, music and progressive euchre was provided.

The musical numbers were all exceptionally good. Mr. Albert Lee's sympathetic voice was heard to great advantage in the opening number.

Mr. T. Ward's powerful baritone voice swayed the audience at will as he brought so vividly to the mind the sea power of our mother land.

Miss Pollard's singing so captivated the audience that a special request was sent up to the chair for another number from that talented lady.

Mr. Johns stirred his hearers, as he so thrillingly pictured the blood-red tide of war.

Mr. Chandler's trained voice was one of the special treats of the evening.

A delightful duet was given by Mr. and Miss Lee, who had to respond to an encore.

Mr. W. A. Logan gave a very appropriate monologue on aviation in his usual inimitable style.

On the conclusion of the above programme a pleasant hour was spent in progressive euchre.

This entertainment is the concluding one of the season.

Next season even greater efforts will be made to put on a series of entertainments to which all Oddfellows and their friends will be invited.

WOMEN'S AILMENTS

Come From Heart and Nerves

Young girls budding into womanhood, who suffer from pains and headaches, and whose face is pale and blood watery, will find Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills build them up.

Women, between the ages of 40 and 50, who are nervous, subject to hot flushes, feeling of pins and needles, smothering feeling, shortness of the breath, palpitation of the heart, etc., are tided over this trying time of their lives by the use of this remedy.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have a wonderful effect on a woman's system, making pains and aches vanish, bringing color to the pale cheek, and sparkle to the eye.

The old, worn out, tired out, languid feelings give place to strength and vitality, and life again seems like living.

Mrs. Alfred Winter, Castor, Alta., writes: "I should like every woman who is suffering from nerves or heart trouble to know how much Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have helped me. For two years I kept a hired girl and was doctoring all the time. After having taken four boxes of your pills I am able to do all my own work. I would especially recommend them to women between 40 and 50, as at that time they are more liable to be far from well. One of my neighbors knows how they helped me, and she is now using them."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c., or three boxes for $1.25, at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

TO-DAY'S WAR NEWS

of the Hindenburg line, is at noon to-day practically surrounded by the Canadian infantry and cavalry, after the Canadian guns had smashed the German defences to dust. What is left of the German garrison is fighting fiercely. The Canadian casualties continue light.

LONDON, April 14.—A fire in Woolwich Arsenal early to-day caused no loss of life, and apart from a slight damage to the building, no material loss, according to a Home Office statement.

PARIS, April 14.—(French Official).—The bombardment of the German positions south of St. Quentin was continued all through last night by the French artillery, to-day's official statement declared. In the Champagne the artillery on both sides was particularly active. Reconnoitering French detachments brought in prisoners from the German lines.

LONDON, April 14.—The War Office announces that the Turks are in retreat after a battle, in which they suffered heavy losses. They were driven from their positions near Ghtiyeh, ten miles north-east of Deitawah. They withdrew toward Seraijik, and thence toward Deiye Abbas. The British are pursuing the Turks, who on Wednesday lost 200 killed and 700 wounded. This announcement indicates that the British have wrecked the plan of the Turks to halt the invading armies, which have been sweeping forward without serious interruption for several weeks.

LONDON, April 14.—The Associated Press correspondent to-day says: "The British have taken a bulldog grip on the whole lines from Loos to north of St. Quentin, and refuse to be shaken off. Under what newspapers call the "Haig Plan," first one section of the Hindenburg line and then another has been subjected to a violent bombardment, followed by infantry attacks, which have seriously broken the front on which the Germans have depended for more than two years. The Lens coal mining area around the town is being closely invested, and the German hold on it is becoming most precarious. The impression prevails that greater events will soon follow, and that with the fall of Lens, the relief of Lille will not be long delayed.

PETROGRAD, April 14.—On various sectors of the front, groups of Austrians with paper parcels came out of their trenches, signalling with flags and endeavouring to entice our troops to approach, said an official statement to-day. "They were dispersed by our shrapnel."

NEW YORK, April 14.—Just about a month ago the British offensive began in coincidence with the German "strategic retreat" on the Western front. In that month, including Field Marshal Haig's captures to-day, the French-British have recovered approximately 750 square miles of French territory from the invader, extending over a front of more than 75 miles. Some of it has been wrenched from the German hands in the most violent fighting of the war. In some places the British advance has reached forward 22 miles. This much was registered in the jump from around Estrees to Fresnory Le Petit, north of St. Quentin.

WASHINGTON, April 14.—A flood of amendments to the Bond Issue Bill, shortly before 2 o'clock, the time the House leaders had set for a vote, promised to delay the passage of the measure for possibly two hours. Most of the amendments merely furnished an opportunity for members to speak.

DARCY BARRED IN LOUISIANA

BATON ROUGE, La., April 14.—"Let Les Darcy follow the noble example of Georges Carpentier before seeking athletic engagements in Louisiana," wired Governor Pleasant Friday night to D. J. Tortorich, manager of the Louisiana Auditorium at New Orleans, ordering the cancellation of the boxing bout that was scheduled for April 23 between Les Darcy and Jeff Smith.

The cancellation by the Governor is the result of his receipt of numerous appeals for cancellation from patriotic persons throughout the State.

60c for N. C. O.'s and men, for every day they give their whole time to military duties. Separation allowance, however, is not to be granted. This allowance can only be paid when the units have proceeded to camp. Field allowance not having been authorized for the Canadian Defence Force, cannot, of course, be paid either at local headquarters or at camps.

They stimulate the liver and induce healthy action of the bowels. 15 Plowmen On List For Garden Club Campaign

Ald. Dobbin reports that he has a list of fifteen men who will engage in plowing under the City Garden Club's plan. The Peter Hamilton Company have plows, harrows and other implemnts for the preparation of the ground which they will lend to the Club.

When the Trades and Labour Council report the results of their interviews with the owners of vacant lots, all the preliminary work will be completed and the Club should be in a position to immediately place citizens who desire to garden this summer. This movement needs a weekly injection of enthusiasm. It requires men of decision and character, who having undertaken the work, will carry it along to the success it should realize.

ONLY ONE SON; ONLY ONE COUNTRY, TOO.

Major W. I. Lincoln Adams, of Montclair, N.J., who belongs to the Officers Reserve Corps and who has been assigned to the Quartermaster's Department at headquarters in New York, has been actively engaged in getting recruits for the federal Reserve Corps and has assisted Montclair men in their army examinations. In speaking with a Montclair mother yesterday about her son the mother remarked:

"But Major Adams, you see I have only one son."

"Yes, madam," replied the Major, "but your son has only one country."

AUTO SPEEDERS ARE WARNED TO KEEP EYE ON SPEEDOMETER

Joy-riding on Charlotte street, west of Park, or on any section of it for that matter, is down on the police books for close watching. One man complained at the station this morning of a close escape yesterday, and another citizen states that the police should not tolerate young men speeding around the city when they should be in khaki. According to his view the police should make it hot not only for the young speeders, but also the apparently eligible men who loaf along the streets, ogle girls and women and otherwise make themselves obnoxious while good men are doing the work they should be sharing. Chief Thomson has published the traffic regulations, and autoists may obtain them at the police station. But in the meantime the speeders are reminded that the cops "will get 'them if they don't watch out."

Concrete Stood The Great Blast In East London

Five million dollars' damage was done and a hundred thousand windows broken by the explosion in the east end of London on January 19th, according to the current issue of Fire.

The building in which the explosion occurred disappeared, and an immense crater 100 feet by 30 feet deep was formed.

"The triumph of ferro-concrete construction is the most striking feature of the catastrophe. "Such structures withstood the effect of the air wave, and came through the ordeal of fire successfully.

"Metallic rods and laths within the concrete enabled the building to give slightly to the air wave. The windows caved in; the reverbating air entered and expanding passed through the opposite windows, helping to straighten up the main structure again, although fire was left behind. Brick structures collapsed ignominiously.

"Not all the 100,000 windows broken were blown in; many were blown out by the advance wave entering open doors and creating a preliminary high internal pressure before the main blast arrived and blew in the remaining windows."

The paper finds that the damage will not exceed one-tenth of the value that a preliminary inspection of the area might lead one to anticipate.

Inspector Will Have a Directory

City Waits Until 1917 A. D., Before Supplying Sanitary Inspector With City Directory

Sanitary Inspector Stapleton will be provided with a city directory. The first requirement of the Inspector's office failed to get by without some doubt being expressed as to the need for such article. The matter was brought to the attention of the committee of the Whole Council, which met last evening. One of the aldermen suggested that the Inspector use the directory in the assessor's office. This brilliant suggestion failed to receive any support and the committee decided to authorize the expenditure of three dollars for a new one.

He arrived from Campbellford this morning and will be greeted by a large crowd of young people, as well as the elder ones at the Temple to-night. The meeting will be presided by an open air meeting.

To-morrow the Adjutant will visit Byersville and the Temple Sunday school, and conduct the senior meetings at 11 and 7, as well.

Open air meeting at 10:15 a.m. at the corner of Harvey and McDonell street.

A northerner, riding through the West Virginia mountains, came up with a mountaineer leisurely driving a herd of pigs.

"Where are you driving the pigs to?" asked the rider.

"Out to pasture 'em a bit."

"What for?"

"To fatten 'em."

"Isn't it pretty slow work to fatten 'em on grass? Up where I came from we pen them up and feed them on corn. It saves lots of time."

"Yaas, I s'pose so," drawled the mountaineer. "But what's time to a hawg?"

A laugh gets you somewhere. A grouch rivets you to the spot.

OBITUARY

MR. J. FRANCIS.

TORONTO, April 13.—For twenty-one years an employee of the Canadian General Electric Co., Joseph Francis died at his residence, 877 Dovercourt road, in his fifty-fifth year after a lengthy illness. Deceased was born in Folkstone, England, and came to Montreal twenty-two years ago, where he entered the employ of the Canadian General Electric, and later was in Peterborough, and finally in Toronto. He is survived by his widow and one son, Pte. Joseph Francis, Jr., who has recently arrived in England with the Buffs.

Mr. Eddie Desantel is in Toronto to-day attending the funeral.

MRS. EDWARD COURTNEY.

Peterborough has lost a highly respected resident in the death of Mrs. Edward Courtney of East City, which occurred this morning at the family residence, 533 Concession street. The deceased was born in 1840 at Stratford-on-Avon, England, and was married in London, England, in 1866. Coming to Canada with her husband and two children, five years later, she had made her home in Peterborough ever since.

The late Mrs. Courtney was greatly beloved by all who knew her, for her Dorcasian spirit was displayed in constant helpfulness toward the suffering and needy. Her keen intuition and loving sympathy guided her in all her actions to help others, and her industrious hands were never weary in well doing. Her delight was in God's House, and she attended St. Luke's Anglican Church of which she was a member as long as her failing strength would permit her to do so.

She leaves to mourn her loss, besides her husband, one son, Edward H., of Toronto, and seven daughters, viz.: Mrs. W. F. Lillico, Toronto; Mrs. Geo. Le Warne, Mount Forest; Mrs. H. Kirke, Detroit; Mrs. Jas. Young, Smith; and Mrs. Geo. Carpenter, Mrs. P. Moffatt, Mrs. W. Bothwell, of this city.

The funeral will take place on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock to Little Lake cemetery.

BENJAMIN LOUCKS.

Benjamin Loucks, one of the best known residents of Hiawatha, passed away suddenly at his home in that village last night. Mr. Loucks, who was a storekeeper, started out to drive to Peterborough yesterday, but was taken ill on the way and had to return to his home. He rapidly became worse and last night death's call came. He had been a resident of Hiawatha nearly all his life and was most popular in the district. His death will be mourned by the people of Hiawatha. The deceased was an enthusiastic member of the Hiawatha Gun Club. He was twice married and is survived by his second wife and by two children.

MRS. (REV.) SLIMON.

After a long illness, Mrs. Slimon, wife of the Rev. Mr. Slimon, pastor of the Lakefield Baptist church, passed away this morning. The deceased had been a resident of Lakefield for the past three years and was highly esteemed in the village. The funeral will take place on Tuesday next with Rev. R. Wallis, of the Murray street Baptist church, Peterborough, assisted by Rev. Donald Brown, officiating.

O. B. Sheppard tells this one as occurring before the Princess Theatre, Toronto, of which he was manager, was destroyed by fire, and when prohibition was not the law. One of the occupants of a front seat at a performance was somewhat boisterous. When he came out into the lobby between the acts, en route to the nearest hotel, O. B. inquired of the man if he would object to taking a seat at the rear, where his hilarity would not disturb the rest of the audience.

"Do you mean to say I'm drunk?" he angrily retorted.

"No, I wouldn't say that, but you have had a little too much."

"Well, I've paid for the seat. I'm in, and I'm going to stay there," insisted the bibulous one.

MORE STRENGTH FOR FEEBLE OLD PEOPLE

If all the old people in Peterborough realized what Vinol will do for them, we would not be able to get enough of it to supply the demand. We quote from a recent letter received from Mrs. A. E. Carson, of Kingston, N.Y.

She says: "I am 69 years of age, and had been ailing for a long time with indigestion. I got run-down, was weak, dizzy and could not sleep at night. I consulted two doctors, who said I had hardening of the arteries and at my age could not expect to be strong again. My daughter would give me no peace until I tried Vinol, as it had done so much for her. I have taken five bottles and my health and strength have come back, so I am able to do all the housework for my family of four, and I am recommending Vinol to all my friends."

The reason Vinol is so beneficial to old people is because it contains the very elements needed to replace declining strength with renewed vigor, viz.: beef and cod liver peptones, iron and manganese peptonates, glycerophosphates and a mild tonic wine.

The Mining Area is Surrounded by The Allies

Towns of Lens, Queant and St. Quentin are About to Fall—French Troops Make Further Progress on the Oise—Allies Continue to Advance Along the Entire Front—City of Lille Expected to Fall Soon.

GERMAN DEFENSES CAPTURED

SPECIAL TO THE EXAMINER:

LONDON, April 16.—The British advance continues. The towns of Lens, Queant and St. Quentin are almost in the Allies' hands. The city of Lille is expected to fall soon. British patrols entered Lens between four and five o'clock yesterday morning. The mining area is virtually surrounded on three sides. The French troops made further progress at St. Quentin and the Oise.

British troops on Saturday night reached a point within a few hundred yards of St. Quentin. Gricourt, one mile north of Fayet, was carried at the bayonet point. Four hundred prisoners were taken. Canadian troops are now about three miles east of Vimy Ridge. Advances were made along the entire front from Scarpo River to the south of Loos.

GERMAN DEFENCES CAPTURED.

LONDON, April 16.—British troops have captured the German defences east of Lievin, from the Riaumont Wood to the eastern corner of Cite St. Pierre, and are pushing in the direction of Lens, according to a British official statement issued yesterday afternoon. The number of guns taken in the offensive is now estimated at two hundred.

Empire State To Pour Money Into Farms and Factories To Support Fighting Men

Loan of $20,000,000 to Be Made to Farmers Without Security and at Low Rate of Interest—Great Banking Houses in Patriotic Move.

WAR SINEWS READY

ALBANY, April 16.—The men of wealth of the Empire State are rapidly setting an example in genuine, practical patriotism for the entire nation. They have sent word to Governor Whitman that they will provide unlimited funds to insure the fullest possible development of all the resources of the State—agricultural and manufacturing.

They will lend up to $20,000,000 to the farmer without security and at a low rate of interest. They will also lend all the money that is needed to turn the factories of the State into beehives for the manufacture of ammunition and implements of war.

The Governor has literally been overwhelmed by the offers of financial aid from the monied interests. Great banking houses, powerful individuals whose names are infrequently heard but who control tens of millions of dollars, have come to the front in what Mr. Whitman calls a "magnificent way" and they have done it with no intention or desire of reaping a golden harvest for themselves but merely to make sure that this State is not found wanting when it comes to providing the real sinews of war.

The Governor is devoting most of his time toward preparing a resolution of the war problems which are reasonably certain to confront the State as the great war casts its substantial shadow over America. He declared that he has not the slightest doubt that the patriotic spirit of the "man in the ranks" and the men behind the financial counters will make the Empire State a beacon for all the other commonwealths.

STANDS FOR COMPULSORY SERVICE.

Mr. Whitman is strongly in favour of compulsory service. He does not like the word conscription. He is of the opinion that the only way to bring about a proper distribution of the men who are available for military service is by statute. He is of the opinion also that the needs of the nation will make men in the factories and on the farms just as indispensible as on the firing line.

"We are facing a serious crisis and we must keep our feet on the ground," he said. "There is no doubt of the patriotism of the men and women of this State, but we must not be carried away by the idea that the only place where patriotic service can be rendered is on the firing line. We must discourage precipitate enlistment. Very often a young man can give greater service to his country in the field or factory than in the trenches.

"I am in favour of compulsory service. That is the only way the forces of the State can be properly distributed. New York State's quota of the call, whether it be fifty or one hundred thousand, will be held not by a call for volunteers but under the existing laws which provide for compulsory military service and which give the Governor the power to select whatever men are needed for service.

RAW YOUTHS NOT WANTED.

"It is our plan to take single men between the ages of twenty-five and thirty-five. We want to discourage so far as possible the enlistment of college boys and young men who are not sufficiently developed. That was the mistake England made."

Negro Problem Comes To Front In Conscription

NEW YORK, April 14.—The selective conscription versus voluntary enlistment is the straight issue the United States must face. President Wilson will not back down. It is learned from high military sources that despite all proposals for a compromise, the Chief Executive will insist upon the selective draft measure going through.

Yet the opposition to conscription in Washington is very strong. It seems to be based largely upon a sentimental objection to the word "conscription," which is repugnant to the American idea of personal freedom.

So anxious are the opposition to secure a trial of the voluntary system that they have signified their willingness to approve of conscription, if the Administration will give the voluntary system a trial, and if on that trial it proves to be a failure, they will go even further. They will give the President, as commander-in-chief of the American Army, the power to impose conscription by executive order.

The Negro Problem Again.

One problem facing the Administration is what attitude to adopt toward the negro population in the event of selective conscription being approved. It is being argued that they ought not to be decitizenized, but should be included in any drafts made. Exemption or segregation is opposed. But the Solid South insists on segregation, and views with great disfavour giving hundreds of thousands of negroes training in the use of arms.

The South plans to ask for the exemption of the negro on the ground that the economic welfare of the South demands the presence of the negro for cultivation and other work.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labour, has gone on record against conscription, and that fact does not make the task of the Government any easier.

THE LONG ROAD.

It's oh for the smell of the fields in rain,
And oh for a grip on a gun again!
And the old route step, down the long long road,
And the heart that's light 'neath the marcher's load.

It's oh for the welcoming thud of drums,
On the good old road to Whatever Comes,
On the well worn way of the broken clan,
On the path to peace for the fighting man.

It's oh for a clash at the close of day,
And the call of "halt" on the long, long way,
And a place to sleep as the men march past—
And the end of the road—at last, at last!

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT WHEAT

Wheat Was the Chief Grain of Mesopotamia in Jacob's Time—In the Bible, Wheat is First Mentioned in Genesis—Varieties of Wheat and their Adaptation—Grading of Wheat.

(By LEON A. CONGDON, M.S., in the Operative Miller, Chicago)

It is surprising that so little is known by the average person about wheat. Wheat was the chief grain of the mesopotamia in Jacob's time; and from that day to this it has continued to be so in Egypt, where the many eared variety depicted on monuments, is still grown. In the Bible, wheat is first mentioned in Genesis 30:14—"And Reuben went in the days of wheat harvest, and found mandrakes in the field, and brought them unto his mother, Leah. . . ." There is a parable concerning wheat in Matthew 13:25—and in Exodus 29:2—we read, "And unleavened bread and cakes unleavened tempered with oil, and wafers unleavened annointed with oil; of wheaten flour shalt thou make them. . . ." Again we read in Kings 5:11—"And Solomon gave Hiram twenty thousand measures of wheat for food to his household, and twenty measures of pure oil; thus gave Solomon to Hiram year by year." In various other places wheat is mentioned in the Bible, but the above illustrations show that wheat was the principle grain in those times. The geographical origin is unknown, but the Egyptians claim that wheat originated with Isis, while the Chinese claim to have received the seed direct as a gift from heaven. The lowest estimate by many authorities is that wheat has been the food of man for six thousand years; and the belief that it originated in the valleys of the Euphrates and the Tigris is more generally accepted than any other.

IMMENSE YIELD OF THE WHEAT CROP.

It is estimated that the wheat crop of the United States is approximately 800,000,000 bushels and that the world's wheat crop is 4,000,000,000 bushels.

VARIETIES OF WHEAT AND THEIR ADAPTION.

A number of the state experiment stations have and now are making tests of the varieties of wheat, some of them extending over a series of years. In general the results have indicated that the selection of varieties depends on local conditions of soil and climate. The average of many varieties of wheat for ten years previous to 1893, gave the following yields per acre of the different classes at the Ohio State Experiment Station:

White wheat .... 30.8 bushels per acre.
Red wheat .... 31.5 bushels per acre.
Bearded wheat .... 31.7 bushels per acre.
Smooth wheat .... 31.1 bushels per acre.

The difference is so slight as to suggest that one kind is about as reliable as another.

Experiments with different varieties of winter wheat have shown some very interesting results. The Iowa State Experiment Station has carried on experiments along this line for fifteen or twenty years. About forty different varieties have been tried in that state during this time, but for the last ten years their efforts have been concentrated upon ten that seem to best withstand Iowa's climatic conditions. Experts at the Iowa Experiment Station claim that Iowa's winter wheat crop appears to lie in the hardy Russian or Turkish wheats. The varieties tested and now being tested at the Iowa Experiment Station are: Russian or Crimean varieties, such as Turkey Red, Malakoff, Imported Turkestan, Minnesota No. 529, and Kharhove; Hungarian varieties, such as Buda Pest, Pesterboden, and Banat; and American varieties such as Big Frame. The Russian types with the exception of Kharkove, have uniformly given good results under Iowa conditions.

The wheat varieties on trial at the South Dakota Experiment Station have ranked in yield as follows: 1st, Kubanka and Arnautka Durum; 2nd, Bearded Fife; 3rd, Bluestem and Beardless Fife. Wheat Variety investigations have been carried on in South Dakota for about sixteen years.

The Ohio State Experiment Station made a study of the effect of fertilizers on the Physical and chemical properties of wheat in Ohio. Summarizing from their experiments it is stated that although differences in climate and season cause greater variations in the character of wheat than soil and fertilizers, the results obtained show that changing the chemical condition of the soil by the addition of fertilizers has produced marked differences in the same variety of wheat.

All the wheats produced in the world are at present divided into eight groups. Group 1, is triticum sativum tenax vulgare or Common wheat; Group 2, Triticum sativum tenax compactum or Club wheat; group 3, Triticum saticum tenax turgidum or Poulard wheat; group 4, Triticum sativum tenax durum or Durum wheat; group 5, Triticum polonicum or Polish wheat. These five groups compose the groups of wheat used for bread purposes in this country. Group 6, Triticum sativum spelta or Spelt is used mainly as a cattle food, and group 7, Ttriticum sativum dicoccum or Emmer, and group 8, Triticum monoccum or Einkorn, are used as a human food to only a limited extent.

The differences between thes eight general groups or species of wheat are easy for anybody to see who has opportunity to look at different kinds of wheat.

The Emmer, Speltz and Einkorn species or groups of wheat are of little value as bread wheats in the United States only in so far as they are used in improving the commonly produced varieties by methods of breeding. Nevertheless, in foreign countries such as France, Germany, Italy, Russia, Serbia and Spain, Speltz and Emmer are grown in considerable quantities and to a lesser extent the species of wheat called Einkorn.

THE QUALITY AND GRADING OF WHEAT.

The properties of the quality of wheat have been considered in determining market classifications and grades. The practice of grain dealers is to base their estimates of value on such physical characteristics as colour, size and shape of kernel and weight per bushel. They classify wheat and determine grades largely by observation of these characteristics. Often a difference of five to ten cents per bushel is paid for wheat of different classes, or even different lots of the same class. Th difference is at least partly due to difference in quality but it is generally conceded by experts that there is no unit available by which quality may be measured. The grain buyers at the great central wheat markets attempt to standardize the grain brought by classifying them as No. 1, 2, 3, etc., and base their classification almost wholly upon certain physical characteristics as noted above. These characteristics may not be the controlling ones in determining the value of the wheat for flour production. Experts claim that these physical characteristics may often mislead the buyer, and that reliable information regarding the actual moisture or water content of the wheat and the protein or nitrogenous content and actual baking value of the flour would be more reliable guides in the purchase of wheat. Other experts claim that the quality of different wheat by determining the per cent. of flour they will produce and the percent. of dry gluten, wet gluten, and nitrogen they contain do not fully account for quality as some varieties may contain gluten of a higher grade than others. It cannot be disputed, however, that recent investigations show that the above characteristics have an important influence on the size, texture, and value of the loaf of bread that may be made from the flour of various kinds and grades of wheat.

A recent bulletin from the North Dakota State Experiment Station says that the juggling of the results by a system of mixing and re-grading wheat has increased the selling price by $1,978,060, and that this increase has not come from any change or improvement in quality, but rather through a system of mixing and regrading.

From the above facts as presented, there is no doubt but that the farmer, as well as the consumer and miller, should demand a more systematic and equitable grading of wheat as to quality.

The French troops made further progress at St. Quentin and the Oise.

British troops on Saturday night reached a point within a few hundred yards of St. Quentin. Gricourt, one mile north of Fayet, was carried at the bayonet point. Four hundred prisoners were taken. Canadian troops are now about three miles east of Vimy Ridge. Advances were made along the entire front from Scarpo River to the south of Loos.

LONDON, April 16.—British troops have captured the German defences east of Lievin, from the Riaumont Wood to the eastern corner of Cite St. Pierre, and are pushing in the direction of Lens, according to a British official statement issued yesterday afternoon. The number of guns taken in the offensive is now estimated at two hundred.

Empire State To Pour Money Into Farms and Factories To Support Fighting Men

Loan of $20,000,000 to Be Made to Farmers Without Security and at Low Rate of Interest—Great Banking Houses in Patriotic Move.

WAR SINEWS READY

ALBANY, April 16.—The men of wealth of the Empire State are rapidly setting an example in genuine, practical patriotism for the entire nation. They have sent word to Governor Whitman that they will provide unlimited funds to insure the fullest possible development of all the resources of the State—agricultural and manufacturing.

They will lend up to $20,000,000 to the farmer without security and at a low rate of interest. They will also lend all the money that is needed to turn the factories of the State into beehives for the manufacture of ammunition and implements of war.

The Governor has literally been overwhelmed by the offers of financial aid from the monied interests. Great banking houses, powerful individuals whose names are infrequently heard but who control tens of millions of dollars, have come to the front in what Mr. Whitman calls a "magnificent way" and they have done it with no intention or desire of reaping a golden harvest for themselves but merely to make sure that this State is not found wanting when it comes to providing the real sinews of war.

The Governor is devoting most of his time toward preparing a resolution of the war problems which are reasonably certain to confront the State as the great war casts its substantial shadow over America. He declared that he has not the slightest doubt that the patriotic spirit of the "man in the ranks" and the men behind the financial counters will make the Empire State a beacon for all the other commonwealths.

STANDS FOR COMPULSORY SERVICE.

Mr. Whitman is strongly in favour of compulsory service. He does not like the word conscription. He is of the opinion that the only way to bring about a proper distribution of the men who are available for military service is by statute. He is of the opinion also that the needs of the nation will make men in the factories and on the farms just as indispensible as on the firing line.

"We are facing a serious crisis and we must keep our feet on the ground," he said. "There is no doubt of the patriotism of the men and women of this State, but we must not be carried away by the idea that the only place where patriotic service can be rendered is on the firing line. We must discourage precipitate enlistment. Very often a young man can give greater service to his country in the field or factory than in the trenches.

"I am in favour of compulsory service. That is the only way the forces of the State can be properly distributed. New York State's quota of the call, whether it be fifty or one hundred thousand, will be held not by a call for volunteers but under the existing laws which provide for compulsory military service and which give the Governor the power to select whatever men are needed for service.

RAW YOUTHS NOT WANTED.

"It is our plan to take single men between the ages of twenty-five and thirty-five. We want to discourage so far as possible the enlistment of college boys and young men who are not sufficiently developed. That was the mistake England made."

Negro Problem Comes To Front In Conscription

NEW YORK, April 14.—The selective conscription versus voluntary enlistment is the straight issue the United States must face. President Wilson will not back down. It is learned from high military sources that despite all proposals for a compromise, the Chief Executive will insist upon the selective draft measure going through.

Yet the opposition to conscription in Washington is very strong. It seems to be based largely upon a sentimental objection to the word "conscription," which is repugnant to the American idea of personal freedom.

So anxious are the opposition to secure a trial of the voluntary system that they have signified their willingness to approve of conscription, if the Administration will give the voluntary system a trial, and if on that trial it proves to be a failure, they will go even further. They will give the President, as commander-in-chief of the American Army, the power to impose conscription by executive order.

The Negro Problem Again.

One problem facing the Administration is what attitude to adopt toward the negro population in the event of selective conscription being approved. It is being argued that they ought not to be decitizenized, but should be included in any drafts made. Exemption or segregation is opposed. But the Solid South insists on segregation, and views with great disfavour giving hundreds of thousands of negroes training in the use of arms.

The South plans to ask for the exemption of the negro on the ground that the economic welfare of the South demands the presence of the negro for cultivation and other work.

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labour, has gone on record against conscription, and that fact does not make the task of the Government any easier.

And oh for a grip on a gun again!
And the old route step, down the long long road,
And the heart that's light 'neath the marcher's load.

It's oh for the welcoming thud of drums,
On the good old road to Whatever Comes,
On the well worn way of the broken clan,
On the path to peace for the fighting man.

It's oh for a clash at the close of day,
And the call of "halt" on the long, long way,
And a place to sleep as the men march past—
And the end of the road—at last, at last!

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT WHEAT

Wheat Was the Chief Grain of Mesopotamia in Jacob's Time—In the Bible, Wheat is First Mentioned in Genesis—Varieties of Wheat and their Adaptation—Grading of Wheat.

(By LEON A. CONGDON, M.S., in the Operative Miller, Chicago)

It is surprising that so little is known by the average person about wheat. Wheat was the chief grain of the mesopotamia in Jacob's time; and from that day to this it has continued to be so in Egypt, where the many eared variety depicted on monuments, is still grown. In the Bible, wheat is first mentioned in Genesis 30:14—"And Reuben went in the days of wheat harvest, and found mandrakes in the field, and brought them unto his mother, Leah. . . ." There is a parable concerning wheat in Matthew 13:25—and in Exodus 29:2—we read, "And unleavened bread and cakes unleavened tempered with oil, and wafers unleavened annointed with oil; of wheaten flour shalt thou make them. . . ." Again we read in Kings 5:11—"And Solomon gave Hiram twenty thousand measures of wheat for food to his household, and twenty measures of pure oil: thus gave Solomon to Hiram year by year." In various other places wheat is mentioned in the Bible, but the above illustrations show that wheat was the principle grain in those times. The geographical origin is unknown, but the Egyptians claim that wheat originated with Isis, while the Chinese claim to have received the seed direct as a gift from heaven. The lowest estimate by many authorities is that wheat has been the food of man for six thousand years; and the belief that it originated in the valleys of the Euphrates and the Tigris is more generally accepted than any other.

IMMENSE YIELD OF THE WHEAT CROP.

It is estimated that the wheat crop of the United States is approximately 800,000,000 bushels and that the world's wheat crop is 4,000,000,000 bushels.

VARIETIES OF WHEAT AND THEIR ADAPTION.

A number of the state experiment stations have and now are making tests of the varieties of wheat, some of them extending over a series of years. In general the results have indicated that the selection of varieties depends on local conditions of soil and climate. The average of many varieties of wheat for ten years previous to 1893, gave the following yields per acre of the different classes at the Ohio State Experiment Station:

White wheat .... 30.8 bushels per acre.
Red wheat .... 31.5 bushels per acre.
Bearded wheat .... 31.7 bushels per acre.
Smooth wheat .... 31.1 bushels per acre.

The difference is so slight as to suggest that one kind is about as reliable as another.

Experiments with different varieties of winter wheat have shown some very interesting results. The Iowa State Experiment Station has carried on experiments along this line for fifteen or twenty years. About forty different varieties have been tried in that state during this time, but for the last ten years their efforts have been concentrated upon ten that seem to best withstand Iowa's climatic conditions. Experts at the Iowa Experiment Station claim that Iowa's winter wheat crop appears to lie in the hardy Russian or Turkish wheats. The varieties tested and now being tested at the Iowa Experiment Station are: Russian or Crimean varieties, such as Turkey Red, Malakoff, Imported Turkestan, Minnesota No. 529, and Kharhove; Hungarian varieties, such as Buda Pest, Pesterboden, and Banat; and American varieties such as Big Frame. The Russian types with the exception of Kharkove, have uniformly given good results under Iowa conditions.

The wheat varieties on trial at the South Dakota Experiment Station have ranked in yield as follows: 1st, Kubanka and Arnautka Durum; 2nd, Bearded Fife; 3rd, Bluestem and Beardless Fife. Wheat Variety investigations have been carried on in South Dakota for about sixteen years.

The Ohio State Experiment Station made a study of the effect of fertilizers on the Physical and chemical properties of wheat in Ohio. Summarizing from their experiments it is stated that although differences in climate and season cause greater variations in the character of wheat than soil and fertilizers, the results obtained show that changing the chemical condition of the soil by the addition of fertilizers has produced marked differences in the same variety of wheat.

All the wheats produced in the world are at present divided into eight groups. Group 1, is triticum sativum tenax vulgare or Common wheat. Group 2, Triticum sativum tenax compactum or Club wheat; group 3, Triticum saticum tenax turgidum or Poulard wheat; group 4, Triticum sativum tenax durum or Durum wheat; group 5, Triticum polonicum or Polish wheat. These five groups compose the groups of wheat used for bread purposes in this country. Group 6, Triticum sativum spelta or Spelt is used mainly as a cattle food, and group 7, Ttriticum sativum dicoccum or Emmer, and group 8, Triticum monoccum or Einkorn, are used as a human food to only a limited extent.

The differences between thes eight general groups or species of wheat are easy for anybody to see who has opportunity to look at different kinds of wheat.

The Emmer, Speltz and Einkorn species or groups of wheat are of little value as bread wheats in the United States only in so far as they are used in improving the commonly produced varieties by methods of breeding. Nevertheless, in foreign countries such as France, Germany, Italy, Russia, Serbia and Spain, Speltz and Emmer are grown in considerable quantities and to a lesser extent the species of wheat called Einkorn.

THE QUALITY AND GRADING OF WHEAT.

The properties of the quality of wheat have been considered in determining market classifications and grades. The practice of grain dealers is to base their estimates of value on such physical characteristics as colour, size and shape of kernel and weight per bushel. They classify wheat and determine grades largely by observation of these characteristics. Often a difference of five to ten cents per bushel is paid for wheat of different classes, or even different lots of the same class. Th difference is at least partly due to difference in quality but it is generally conceded by experts that there is no unit available by which quality may be measured. The grain buyers at the great central wheat markets attempt to standardize the grain brought by classifying them as No. 1, 2, 3, etc., and base their classification almost wholly upon certain physical characteristics as noted above. These characteristics may not be the controlling ones in determining the value of the wheat for flour production. Experts claim that these physical characteristics may often mislead the buyer, and that reliable information regarding the actual moisture or water content of the wheat and the protein or nitrogenous content and actual baking value of the flour would be more reliable guides in the purchase of wheat. Other experts claim that the quality of different wheat by determining the per cent. of flour they will produce and the percent. of dry gluten, wet gluten, and nitrogen they contain do not fully account for quality as some varieties may contain gluten of a higher grade than others. It cannot be disputed, however, that recent investigations show that the above characteristics have an important influence on the size, texture, and value of the loaf of bread that may be made from the flour of various kinds and grades of wheat.

A recent bulletin from the North Dakota State Experiment Station says that the juggling of the results by a system of mixing and re-grading wheat has increased the selling price by $1,978,060, and that this increase has not come from any change or improvement in quality, but rather through a system of mixing and regrading.

From the above facts as presented, there is no doubt but that the farmer, as well as the consumer and miller, should demand a more systematic and equitable grading of wheat as to quality.

Suffered From Severe Headaches

FOR TWO YEARS

Headaches are many and varying; but when the head starts to ache you may be sure there is some chief cause. The stomach may go wrong, the bowels become constipated, the blood may not circulate properly, but the presence of the headache clearly shows that unless the cause is removed some other baneful disease is liable to assert itself.

Burdock Blood Bitters has, for the past forty years, been curing all kinds of headaches and has proved itself to be a remedy that cures where others fail.

Mr. L. N. Petershen, Dnieper, Man writes: "I am only too glad to be able to state that I derived wonderful benefit from Burdock Blood Bitters. I suffered from severe headaches for two years. I was treated by several doctors but received no benefit until by chance I heard of B.B.B., and I at once procured two bottles and in a short time I was completely cured. I am and always will be grateful for what Burdock Blood Bitters has done for me. I am glad to recommend it to all who suffer from headaches.'

B.B.B. is the oldest and the best known blood medicine on the market to-day, having been manufactured for the past forty years by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

SANDBAGGING THE CONSTITUTION

(By H. F. GADSBY)

OTTAWA, April 16.—The Toronto News, which invariably presents the strongest meat of the Borden Government's word, reverts to the question—Can the government, by making use of its majority in Commons and Senate, extend the life of parliament after its life has expired?

Put another way, the question is—Can the Borden Government dispense with the unanimous consent of the Canadian Parliament and the subsequent ratification by the Imperial Parliament—both of which are required under the British North America Act—and keep itself indefinitely in office by means of its party majority in both Houses?

Put a third way, the question is, Can the Borden Government play hob with our National Constitution whenever it likes, for the purpose of dodging a general election that is going to send it back to the tall grass?

While the News lacks the nerve to say plain Yes! and, indeed, argues that there is danger in any precedent which conflicts with the language of the constitution, it hints that "great emergencies may over-ride all regulations and conditions."

In other words, the News, having inside information, wouldn't be at all surprised if the Borden Government tried it on as a last desperate measure to stave off the impending doom. The News does not forget that the Borden Government is a Tory government, and that a Tory government believes in the ruling class ruling with as little interference from the ruled as possible. In October, 1917, at which time its year's extension lapses, the Borden Government will have done its worst for the common people for six years. Taxes were never so high, food never cost so much, graft was never so prevalent or so outrageous, as it has been under the Borden Government. The Government that was responsible for paper shoes, Sir Sham Fuse, Colonel Allison, the Ross rifle, and a hundred other scandals, now shapes up to ask another year's reprieve, and, if it is refused, to sandbag the constitution and steal one.

The dear old News would look on and see this done quite cheerfully. As another famous Tory said, "What is the constitution between friends?" In its less excited moments, the News is wont to expatiate on the benefits of Confederation, and to relate the long struggle that led up to that consummate document, the British North America Act. But the first time the Borden Government runs into the British North America Act, the News is prepared to kick the whey out of it—out of the British North America Act, I mean, not out of the Borden Government.

Another interesting paradox is the News' attitude on Canadian home rule. Ordinarily the News is prepared to sacrifice large quantities of Canadian home rule to an Imperial Council on Downing Street. In fact a centralized Imperial Government with the great autonomous overseas status whittled down to Ontario size, is its heart's desire, as it is the Borden Government's. But when it's a case of keeping the rotten Borden Government in office, the News is all for home rule. "Perdition take the British Parliament," says the News in effect. "We'll do our own extending." Such is the logic that emanates from the knightly editor of the Toronto News. The suggestion is so hostile to the Canadian constitution, that it might well come from Sir John Willison's employer, Lord Northcliffe, who doubtless argues that the way to link the Empire together is to undermine the constitutions of the overseas dominions and then hand the weakened remnants over to a strong central government at Westminster. In short, the News aims to do two things:—To violate the constitution to keep the Borden Government in, and, incidentally, to weaken the constitution so that Canada can be handed over to the centralisers. This is the ripe fruit of the Borden Government's administration—that the British North America Act is treated as a scrap of paper.

If the News' suggestion is followed to its ultimate conclusion, heaven only knows where the encroachments of the Federal power will stop. If the Federal power can extend its tenure of office, simply by its own say-so, it can equally as well assert that the provinces have no rights under the constitution, and proceed to exercise the functions now delegated to them. If the Federal power can flout the British North America Act whenever it pleases, then there is no lesser authority that it may not over-ride.

It is worth noting that the News experiences a sense of shame in making this impudent suggestion, and tries to tie it up with the impossibility of registering the soldier vote if a general election takes place. Its argument is, in short, that the British North America act ought to be assaulted at home because our soldiers are fighting for it abroad. The News freely admits that it was in favour of the Soldier's Votes Act—as indeed everybody was—and that it argued strongly, from the precedent of the American Civil War, that the vote could, and should, be taken.

It now admits quite freely, that the vote cannot and should not be taken, but it does not give the real reasons. The News says it was difficult, if not impossible, to poll the British Columbia soldiers' votes in France, and that it would be more difficult to poll the overseas soldiers' votes in a Dominion general election.

In 1915, the News thought, as the Hon. Bob Rogers did, that the soldiers' votes could be polled and that they would be cast for the Borden Government. But 1916 found them wiser. The soldiers had Sam Hughes and Colonel Allison and the Ross rifle and other matters in their crop, and when the British Columbia soldiers had a chance to show their detestation of Ottawa graft and incompetence by kicking out a government of the same party-stripe in Victoria, B. C., they went to it heartily. The result was a change of heart in the News. It believes, for publication, that the soldiers' vote cannot be polled, and feels, in private, that that is the best thing that can happen to a vote that has gone back on the Borden Government.

The News, of course, mixes the argument up with a lot of snivel about disfranchising 400,000 soldiers who ought to vote for Canada when they are ready to die for Canada. The simple answer to this is, that if anybody disfranchises the 400,000 brave men, it will be the Borden Government that is afraid to entrust the soldiers with ballots that are now stacked up in the High Commissioner's office in London.

Thus the News has two strings to its bow. The first is—to the deuce with the constitution if it prevents the Borden Government staying in as long as it likes.

The second is—to the deuce with the soldiers' vote, because the Borden Government wouldn't get it anyway.

Get the Habit of Drinking Hot Water Before Breakfast

Says we can't look or feel right with the system full of poisons.

Millions of folks bathe internally now instead of loading their system with drugs. "What's an inside bath?" you say. Well, it is guaranteed to perform miracles if you could believe these hot water enthusiasts.

There are vast numbers of men and women who, immediately upon arising in the morning, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This is a very excellent health measure. It is intended to flush the stomach, liver, kidneys and the thirty feet of intestines of the previous day's waste, sour bile and indigestible material left over in the body which if not eliminated every day, becomes food for the millions of bacteria which infest the bowels, the quick result is poisonous and toxins which are then absorbed into the blood causing headache, bilious attacks, foul breath bad taste, colds, stomach trouble, kidney misery, sleeplessness, impure blood and all sorts of ailments.

People who feel good one day and badly the next, but who simply can not get feeling right are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store. This will cost very little but is sufficient to make anyone a real crank on the subject of internal sanitation.

Just as soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and freshening, so limestone phosphate and hot water act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. It is vastly more important to bathe on the inside than on the outside, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do.

Content With the Garter.

Lord Dufferin's story of the French stationmaster who approached him with a request that he would obtain for him a British decoration of some sort is worth re-telling. Most of the Royalties who had, so to speak, passed through his hands had conferred on him various stars and crosses, but, though he had several times been responsible for the safety and comfort of the British Sovereign, he had received no decoration in return.

"But most of our orders are given for military distinction or to civil servants," Lord Dufferin explained, soothingly. "For example, the Bath, the Star of India, and so forth."

The stationmaster looked very glum.

"There is, however," his lordship continued, "one order that is given for no particular merit or service—the Order of the Garter."

"Ah, well," said the stationmaster, "I suppose I must be content with that!"

Why Hindu Poet Avoids Japan.

A traveler returned from India to Japan, according to the East and West News, tells why Sir Rabindranath Tagore gave up his proposed visit to the land of the Rising Sun. First, he says, because the Hindu poet, like other poets, changes his mind frequently; second, because his tenants are suffering from want of food; third, he has become incensed at a Japanese who abused Tagore's confidence, pretending to be an admirer of the poet's most refined works, and all the while insanely addicted to London music hall songs. "He sings for hours in private, but at the top of his voice," the poet is reported to have said, with a withering expression of scorn, "what he calls 'Tippulsly!'"

We are now the parents of a big baby girl and I praise your remedies to others and give you permission to publish my letter."—Mrs. JOSEPH GUILBAULT, JR., Bridge Street, Miller's Falls, Mass.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is famous for restoring women to normal health and strength. When this is done wives no longer despair of having children.

A woman should be reluctant to submit to a surgical operation until she has given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial. If you have a case that needs special advice, write the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass. It is free and always helpful.

WAR REFORMS.

When the war broke out Port Said held the reputation, as indeed it had held from time immemorial, of being the wickedest city, from a moral standpoint, in the world. Here every type of vice imaginable was represented. But to-day after thirty months of military rule, the "Sinkhole of the East" is almost a model city.

When the military first took hold of affairs in Port Said gambling, drinking and vice of all sorts were rampant.

That street of international notoriety, Blue Babel, so named because of the many languages used by its inhabitants, has ceased to thrive as the leader in the world's iniquity. Many of its vice leaders have been sent away from the country; certain forms of vice which could not be eliminated, have been restricted, and one can now walk the streets without being beset by the denizens of the underworld.

WHEN BLOOD IS POISON.

The blood must be filtered, otherwise the liver is overworked, and becomes torpid, the kidneys are poisoned. If the kidneys fail to act, poisons are carried to all parts of the system. By using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills you get both these filtering organs working right, and also secure healthful action of the bowels. For this reason these pills are an ideal family medicine. They cure biliousness, constipation, chronic indigestion and many kindred disease.

The Cockney in the Country.

By name Bill Brown, he was a Londoner born and bred, but he sallied forth into the country in search of work. In due time he met a farmer, and into his sympathetic ear poured forth his request for a job.

"All right," said the man of acres; "just round up those sheep, and get 'em all into that fold. When you've done that I'll find your another job."

Two or three hours later a weary, tattered form presented itself at the farmer's door. It was the Londoner, wet with perspiration and weak from exhaustion.

"You've been a mighty long time!" thundered the farmer. "What have you been doing?"

"You come and see, sir," requested Bill Brown.

The farmer did as he was told, and duly appeared at the fold. Looking over the high, close fence he noticed a hare penned up among the sheep, and asked the reason.

"What, that little 'un?" asked Bill. "Why, he's the beggar who gave me all the trouble!"

Always Safety First.

"You say that you want some name engraved on this ring," said the jeweller to the bashful young man.

"Yes; I want the words, 'George, to his dearest Alice' engraved on the inside of the ring."

"Is the young lady your sister?"

"No; she is the young lady to whom I am engaged."

"Well, if I were you I would not have 'George, to his dearest Alice' engraved on the ring. If Alice changes her mind you can't use the ring again."

"What would you suggest?"

"I would suggest the words, 'George, to his first and only love.' You see, with that inscription you can use the ring half-a-dozen times. I have had experience in such matters myself."

To Test Cold Storage.

An experiment in the cold storage of fruit has been carried out by the Queensland Department of Agriculture, with the object of demonstrating to growers the advantage of adopting this method of tiding over a period of glut. Sixteen cases of apples were placed in cold storage on February 25 last. They were kept at a temperature of 35 degrees, and after nearly five months were removed. They opened up in splendid condition. The flavor was perfect, and they were quite sound.

The confidence we have in ourselves gives birth to much of that we have in others.—La Rochefoucauld.

KEEPS AN EYE ON SOLDIERS

Provost-Marshal Lord Athlumney is Supreme in London.

The father confessor to the erring soldier caught in the clutches of the military law in England, and the nemesis of the evil men and women who seek to debauch officers and privates through the temptations of night life, is the Provost Marshal, Lord Athlumney. A fashionable, middle-aged bachelor, a page of honor when a boy to three Viceroys of Ireland, and considered generally an ornamental soldier, he has, since the outbreak of the war developed into a remarkable disciplinarian, kindly yet firm with the men who wear the King's uniform, but sometimes forget the strict code of honor attached to it, and a veritable terror to the degraded creatures who try to get rich running night clubs and gambling resorts where the unwary soldier, home for a short furlough, can be fleeced.

His duties, often delegated to assistants, of course, include the inspection of squads of soldiers being conveyed by train from one district of the country to another, in order to keep their foolish women folk from passing bottles of beer and spirits to them, well acquainted with the fact that this is forbidden, and that if the men are caught receiving the bottles they will be punished. Then officers from the staff of the Provost Marshal make the week-end visits to Brighton, Maidenhead, and the other popular resorts, going into the music halls and the variety theatres to see that the members of the Volunteer Training Corps do not attend these places in uniform. If the uniformed men are discovered the Provost Marshal's deputies order them to leave at once.

His representatives attend police court proceedings to superintend personally the prosecution of soldiers arrested for offences such as being intoxicated or discovered in the attempt to cheat the War Department by making false statements concerning the number of dependents entitled to Government allowance.

The Provost Marshal's best work has been in closing up the disreputable night clubs, dens of vice which flourishes in London by the hundred, especially after the early-closing law was passed, which forbade hotels and restaurants to serve liquors after midnight. In the Soho district there were 200 of these night clubs, many of them places where no man's pocket-book was safe. Young subalterns, home on short leave and with no relatives in London, were easy prey to the temptations of such places, often being separated from their pay in a few hours of gambling and drinking. Such clubs as Murray's or the Four Hundred, or Ciro's in the neighborhood of Regent street, were conducted with more publicity and at greater expense, numerous men and women well known in society congregating to seek gayety after the depression of war, but the unsophisticated young soldier would generally seek a less brilliant place where the police were not welcome. Through Lord Athlumney a crusade against these night clubs was inaugurated in Parliament as a protection to the men who are fighting for their country. Many have been closed altogether.

No Chimneys.

Houses without chimneys are to be a feature of London in the near future according to a London architect. Already designs have been drawn for the erection of villas in a London suburb which will not show a solitary chimney to spoil the view from the house opposite. These villas will be heated on the Russian system, which dispenses entirely with the open fire.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

STORY OF A RANCH

By BARBARA PHIPPS

Inez was a little Mexican girl in southern California. There are many Mexicans there living peaceably under the United States government. They were there when California passed to Uncle Sam after the Mexican war, and they remained there.

Bob Atherton was a young New Yorker who went west to engage in ranching. He had been in the southwest a couple of months without seeing any woman except of low degree and proportionately homely, when he met Inez. She was rigged out in Mexican style, with a lot of gay colors and gold lace. Her eyes were very black and her lashes long. Her complexion was olive and her cheeks red.

The meeting occurred when the two were riding over the plains. Inez rode astride; her long black hair hung, a cable, under a man's sombrero.

"Good morning, senorita," said Bob.

"Good morning, senor," was the reply.

"Where are you going, senorita?"

"Home. I have been out looking for some stray sheep. Have you any tobacco, senor?"

Bob produced tobacco. Inez produced cigarette paper and rolled a cigarette on the flat topped pommel of her saddle.

"May I see you to your home?" asked Bob.

"You may, senor."

That was the beginning of it. The next step was Bob and Inez sitting on a log on the bank of a stream. Bob took her hand in his. He failed to notice that it was short and thick and the skin was rough. He failed also to notice that the cable at her back was composed of very coarse hairs. There was nothing soft or silky about it. Putting one arm around her waist, he kissed her. Perhaps the really most attractive thing about her was the feminine turning of her head and dropping of her eyes.

Ten miles distant from Atherton's ranch was Chambers' ranch. Chambers was an eastern gentleman of wealth who had invested in a ranch, the management of which he delegated to another. About the time that Atherton had become spoons with Inez, Chambers visited his property, bringing with him his wife and their daughter, Clara. Miss Clara had been longing for a bit of ranch life and was delighted with it. The morning after her arrival she rode out on horseback with her father, inspecting his flocks. On the way they met Atherton and Inez. There are not so many people in that region as in New York, and when they meet they don't hurry on—they salute and often stop for a chat. Mr. Chambers reined in and asked Atherton some questions as to locations and other matters. Then there was some general conversation, in which Clara joined.

She was the first lady Bob had seen in months. From her he turned his eyes upon Inez. Great heavens! Could this dumpy, coarse little creature be the beauty to whom he had been making love? Inez was conscious of the change. She saw the difference between Miss Chambers and herself and its effect upon her lover. Bringing her quirt down on her horse's haunches, she sent him onward.

Atherton was annoyed. He regretted that he had been caught by the eastern girl in company with the Mexican. He was mortified that Inez should have left him in this abrupt manner, evidently jealous. He must either ride after her or let her go her way. He chose the latter course. Not only this, but when the others moved on he moved with them.

That was the end of Atherton's romance. From the time he laid his eyes on Clara Chambers, he saw Inez as she was. He had not the assurance to drop the latter at once. He went to see her and tried to reassure her. He failed and that made matters worse. When a man is passing from one woman to another the surest way to snap their relations is for her to show jealousy. Inez did not improve matters. Bob gradually dropped her.

Naturally he sought the Chambers, who were of his own class, and for the same reason he was welcomed by them. Of course Inez was not ignorant of this.

One day when Bob was out looking after his sheep he saw Clara riding alone. He was about to join her when he saw Inez riding in the opposite direction from Clara. The two girls met, and Bob saw that something was being said between them. Then Inez pointed with her finger. Clara had evidently asked the way somewhere.

"Heavens!" exclaimed Bob in an agonized tone, and, digging his spurs into his horse's flanks, he shot off toward Clara. She was going directly toward a quicksand. She was nearly two miles from Bob and a quarter of a mile from the quicksand. Bob was going like the wind, but before he could reach her her horse began to flounder. By the time he reached the margin of hard ground the animal was half immersed. Clara, who rode sidewise, was still untouched by the sand. Bob released his lariat, which he always carried, and, whirling it, dropped the noose over her shoulders.

The horse was lost, but the woman was saved.

Neither Atherton nor Miss Chambers said a word to any one about Inez sending her rival over the quicksand. Clara went east within a few days. Bob left his ranch for parts unknown and never saw the Mexican girl again.

LOCOMOTOR ATAXIA.

"My nerves were very bad, and I could not sleep at night, nor could I control my arms or legs," writes Mrs. Robert Bustard, Marwell, N.B. "Dr. Chase's Nerve Food cured me of what I believe was the early stage of locomotor ataxia or paralysis. I cannot describe what I suffered, but now I am entirely cured."

'CREED OF ECONOMY' FOR WOMEN WILLING TO DO THEIR BIT.

NEW YORK. — Women actively engaged in preparedness work have adopted a "creed of economy" which will be urged upon all members of the sex in the United States. Mrs. Henry A. Wise Wood was delegated by the National Special Aid Society of No. 259 Fifth Avenue, of which she is a member, to compose the creed which follows:

"We call upon the patriotism of American women to 'do their bit' in their department of home running."

Then follows a list of what is considered bad form in war time:

"It is bad form to wear jewelry in public.

"It is bad form to give costly presents.

"It is bad form to give expensive entertainments.

"It is good form to dress plainly.

"It is good form to live frugally.

"It is good form to give simple presents.

"It is good form to plant vegetables instead of flowers in the garden.

"It is good form to avoid extravagance of every kind and the display of luxury.

"And by thus setting an example of good form you will be rendering a distinctly patriotic service."

HERE'S A SAMPLE OF THE MUDDLING IN MESOPOTAMIA.

As an illustration of the muddle which brought our army in Mesopotamia to disaster, it may not now be indiscreet to say that for a long period the authorities at home persisted in sending ont the stores in great 6,000-ton transports, which owing to the lack of necessary appliances, could not be unloaded at Bursa. Once more there was an urgent call for locomotives. Headquarters in London were instructed to send out a certain number of engines in sections but the engines came completely built and could not be lifted from the transport. Urgent cables passed asking for more engines with cranes to lift them. Engines and cranes duly arrived, with the cranes carefully packed under the engines which they were intended to lift!—Glasgow Herald.

RUSKIN IN THE KITCHEN.

How He Prepared Coffee for His Guest.

Ruskin not only preached the gospel of efficiency, says the Youth's Companion, but when the exigencies of the occasion demanded he practised it also. In her entertaining book of reminiscences, "Thirteen Years of a Busy Woman's Life," Mrs. Alec Tweedie says that her father, Doctor Harley, a well known London physician, was a great friend of Ruskin's and often staid at Brantwood. One night Ruskin asked Doctor Harley whether he liked tea or coffee before he got up.

"A cup of tea," he replied.

"Why don't you choose coffee?"

"Well, to tell the truth, I have lived so much abroad that I don't fancy English coffee; it is generally so badly made."

His host said nothing. The next morning Doctor Harley was awakened, and a strong smell of coffee permeated the room. Turning to a servant, he asked, 'Is that my cup of tea?"

"No, sir, it is Mr. Ruskin's coffee."

"Mr. Ruskin's coffee! What do you mean?"

"The master was up early. He roasted the coffee himself, he ground the coffee himself, and he made the coffee himself, and he hopes you will like it."

Mayoral Curiosities.

There are several modern Dick Whittingtons among the new lord mayors and mayors of England and Wales. Councillor Charles Thomas, the new Mayor of Newport began life as a pitboy at Barnsley Colliery, while Councillor George Nicholls, who is the new Mayor of Peterborough, started work as a farm laborer, afterwards working as a navvy and helping to excavate Tilbury Docks.

Among other mayoral curiosities it might be mentioned that Alderman William James Hughes, the Mayor of Sandwich, who is elected mayor for the thirteenth time, was presented with a black wand in accordance with an ancient custom which commemorates the death of a Danish Mayor of Sandwich, who, in A.D. 840, was killed in the battle of the Danes at Bloody Point, in the Sandwich haven.

The old custom of "weighing in" the mayor is still kept up at High Wycombe, Bucks, and Councillor John Gomm, the new mayor, submitted himself to the ordeal of the scales, while the only working journalist in the kingdom to be elected mayor is Alderman J. T. Raby, Fellow of the Institute of Journalists, who fills the mayoral chair of Lichfield.

Christening Beliefs.

There are many superstitions in England connected with the manner in which baby is carried into church for the baptismal service. It is supposed to affect the character and disposition in after-life. The nurse, or whoever carries him or her, should enter the church with the right foot, stepping briskly and dancing the baby in her arms, so that the little one shall grow up cheerful and lighthearted.

Another old-fashioned theory is that if a boy is baptized in the water previously used for a girl he will grow up feeble and effeminate; while if the case is reversed the baby girl will grow up lacking in womanly attributes. In every country white is employed for all baby garments, but where a little color is introduced the superstitious mother takes care that it is a lucky shade. Red is said to be a lucky color, pink and blue are also favorable, but green, the color of jealousy, and yellow symbolise strife.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

With but few exceptions, shrubbery gives its best effects when massed. Single specimens often appear well, but as a rule a considerable number of them growing together in one clump will add strength and naturalness to the planting.

Running water in the farm home is more necessary than a water supply in the stables, only it has not appealed with such force to the farmer, because his wife has done the housework without complaining, while he had the chores to do himself, and saw the labour-saving possibilities of running water in his cow barns and hog pens.—Farmers' Advocate.

The Holstein-Friesian heifer Allamuchy Korndyke Rose has, says the Breeders' Gazette, broken the record for fat production in the senior two-year-old class of the 30-day division by producing in 30 consecutive days 2,242 pounds of milk containing 97.22 pounds of fat. She freshened at the age of 2 years 6 months and 14 days. Her sire is Korndyke Abbekerk; her dam is Rose Walker Segis Burke.

Hilmer Carlson, Becker Co., Min., was declared the champion pig-raiser of the State by the Agricultural Extensive Division of the University of Minnesota. His pig gained 127 pounds in sixty days, or 2.13 pounds daily, at a cost of $2.09, or 1.65 cents per pound. Kitchen slops, ground barley and shorts formed the greater part of the ration. The pig had the run of an alfalfa pasture, with a stream at the foot of the hill in the same lot.

WAR BRIDEGROOMS TAGGED.

CHICAGO, April 14.—Six recruits for Illinois volunteer regiments were gathered in the long line of applicants waiting to-day at the Marriage License Bureau. Fifteen men, who admitted that they were seeking to evade military service, were decorated with the "ribbon of dishonor," a broad band of yellow, which with very little ceremony was pinned on them by the recruiting officers.

The line of applicants to-day extended for more than a block.

More Cases Reported Right Here in Peterboro'

In Which Dr. Chase's Nerve Food Has Made Complete Cure of Nervousness and Sleeplessness

PETEBRORO', Ont., March 10.—There is much talk these days about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and what it is doing for people who are nervous, sleepless and run down in health. Almost every issue of the Examiner contains reports of cures effected by this great restorative treatment.

If you are in need of something to enrich the blood and invigorate tired, exhausted nerves, you will be interested in these letters, because they tell exactly what was accomplished by this food cure in two cases, which you investigate, because these people live right here, and may even be your neighbors.

Mrs. Elizabeth Collins, 555 Romaine St., Peterborough, Ont., writes:

"About ten years ago I suffered from nervousness, I could not sleep well, had frequent headaches and pains in my back—in fact my system was in a generally run down condition. I tried different preparations and also doctors' medicines and finally resorted to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. This gave splendid results. I have found them the best restorative for a run down condition; they built up my nervous system, and made me eat and sleep well. I would recommend the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to all suffering from nervousness or run down system."

Mrs. W. Middleton, 635 Water St., Peterborough, Ont., writes:

"About a year ago I was troubled with nervousness, sleeplessness, and loss of appetite. At night when I would lie down my heart would throb heavily. Through reading of the good it had done others, I decided to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food; so I purchased some and commenced using them. I soon found my heart action improved; I could sleep well and my appetite returned. I have recommended Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to many who have obtained good results from its use."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food cures sleeplessness, nervousness, and other symptoms of nervous exhaustion by building up the system. For this reason the benefits are lasting. 50 cents a box, a full treatment of 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto. Do not be talked into accepting a substitute. OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

By BARBARA PHIPPS

Inez was a little Mexican girl in southern California. There are many Mexicans there living peaceably under the United States government. They were there when California passed to Uncle Sam after the Mexican war, and they remained there.

Bob Atherton was a young New Yorker who went west to engage in ranching. He had been in the southwest a couple of months without seeing any woman except of low degree and proportionately homely, when he met Inez. She was rigged out in Mexican style, with a lot of gay colors and gold lace. Her eyes were very black and her lashes long. Her complexion was olive and her cheeks red.

The meeting occurred when the two were riding over the plains. Inez rode astride; her long black hair hung, a cable, under a man's sombrero.

"Good morning, senorita," said Bob.

"Good morning, senor," was the reply.

"Where are you going, senorita?"

"Home. I have been out looking for some stray sheep. Have you any tobacco, senor?"

Bob produced tobacco. Inez produced cigarette paper and rolled a cigarette on the flat topped pommel of her saddle.

"May I see you to your home?" asked Bob.

"You may, senor."

That was the beginning of it. The next step was Bob and Inez sitting on a log on the bank of a stream. Bob took her hand in his. He failed to notice that it was short and thick and the skin was rough. He failed also to notice that the cable at her back was composed of very coarse hairs. There was nothing soft or silky about it. Putting one arm around her waist, he kissed her. Perhaps the really most attractive thing about her was the feminine turning of her head and dropping of her eyes.

Ten miles distant from Atherton's ranch was Chambers' ranch. Chambers was an eastern gentleman of wealth who had invested in a ranch, the management of which he delegated to another. About the time that Atherton had become spoons with Inez, Chambers visited his property, bringing with him his wife and their daughter, Clara. Miss Clara had been longing for a bit of ranch life and was delighted with it. The morning after her arrival she rode out on horseback with her father, inspecting his flocks. On the way they met Atherton and Inez. There are not so many people in that region as in New York, and when they meet they don't hurry on—they salute and often stop for a chat. Mr. Chambers reined in and asked Atherton some questions as to locations and other matters. Then there was some general conversation, in which Clara joined.

She was the first lady Bob had seen in months. From her he turned his eyes upon Inez. Great heavens! Could this dumpy, coarse little creature be the beauty to whom he had been making love? Inez was conscious of the change. She saw the difference between Miss Chambers and herself and its effect upon her lover. Bringing her quirt down on her horse's haunches, she sent him onward.

Atherton was annoyed. He regretted that he had been caught by the eastern girl in company with the Mexican. He was mortified that Inez should have left him in this abrupt manner, evidently jealous. He must either ride after her or let her go her way. He chose the latter course. Not only this, but when the others moved on he moved with them.

That was the end of Atherton's romance. From the time he laid his eyes on Clara Chambers, he saw Inez as she was. He had not the assurance to drop the latter at once. He went to see her and tried to reassure her. He failed and that made matters worse. When a man is passing from one woman to another the surest way to snap their relations is for her to show jealousy. Inez did not improve matters. Bob gradually dropped her.

Naturally he sought the Chambers, who were of his own class, and for the same reason he was welcomed by them. Of course Inez was not ignorant of this.

One day when Bob was out looking after his sheep he saw Clara riding alone. He was about to join her when he saw Inez riding in the opposite direction from Clara. The two girls met, and Bob saw that something was being said between them. Then Inez pointed with her finger. Clara had evidently asked the way somewhere.

"Heavens!" exclaimed Bob in an agonized tone, and, digging his spurs into his horse's flanks, he shot off toward Clara. She was going directly toward a quicksand. She was nearly two miles from Bob and a quarter of a mile from the quicksand. Bob was going like the wind, but before he could reach her her horse began to flounder. By the time he reached the margin of hard ground the animal was half immersed. Clara, who rode sidewise, was still untouched by the sand. Bob released his lariat, which he always carried, and, whirling it, dropped the noose over her shoulders.

The horse was lost, but the woman was saved.

Neither Atherton nor Miss Chambers said a word to any one about Inez sending her rival over the quicksand. Clara went east within a few days. Bob left his ranch for parts unknown and never saw the Mexican girl again.

"My nerves were very bad, and I could not sleep at night, nor could I control my arms or legs," writes Mrs. Robert Bustard, Maxwell, N.B. 'CREED OF ECONOMY' FOR WOMEN WILLING TO DO THEIR BIT.

NEW YORK. — Women actively engaged in preparedness work have adopted a "creed of economy" which will be urged upon all members of the sex in the United States. Mrs. Henry A. Wise Wood was delegated by the National Special Aid Society of No. 259 Fifth Avenue, of which she is a member, to compose the creed which follows:

"We call upon the patriotism of American women to 'do their bit' in their department of home running."

Then follows a list of what is considered bad ofrm in war time:

"It is bad form to wear jewelry in public.

"It is bad form to give costly presents.

"It is bad form to give expensive entertainments.

"It is good form to dress plainly.

"It is good form to live frugally.

"It is good form to give simple presents.

"It is good form to plant vegetables instead of flowers in the garden.

"It is good form to avoid extravagance of every kind and the display of luxury.

"And by thus setting an example of good form you will be rendering a distinctly patriotic service."

HERE'S A AMPLE OF THE MUDDLING IN MESOPOTAMIA.

As an illustration of the muddle which brought our army in Mesopotamia to disaster, it may not now be indiscreet to say that for a long period the authorities at home persisted in sending out the stores in great 6,000-ton transports, which owing to the lack of necessary appliances, could not be unloaded at Bursa. Once more there was an urgent call for locomotives. Headquarters in London were instructed to send out a certain number of engines in sections but the engines came completely built and could not be lifted from the transport. Urgent cables passed asking for more engines with cranes to lift them. Engines and cranes duly arrived, with the cranes carefully packed under the engines which they were intended to lift!—Glasgow Herald.

RUSKIN IN THE KITCHEN.

How He Prepared Coffee for His Guest.

Ruskin not only preached the gospel of efficiency, says the Youth's Companion, but when the exigencies of the occasion demanded he practised it also. In her entertaining book of reminiscences, "Thirteen Years of a Busy Woman's Life," Mrs. Alec Tweedie says that her father, Doctor Harley, a well known London physician, was a great friend of Ruskin's and often staid at Brantwood. One night Ruskin asked Doctor Harley whether he liked tea or coffee before he got up.

"A cup of tea," he replied.

"Why don't you choose coffee?"

"Well, to tell the truth, I have lived so much abroad that I don't fancy English coffee; it is generally so badly made."

His host said nothing. The next morning Doctor Harley was awakened, and a strong smell of coffee permeated the room. Turning to a servant, he asked, 'Is that my cup of tea?"

"No, sir, it is Mr. Ruskin's coffee."

"Mr. Ruskin's coffee! What do you mean?"

"The master was up early. He roasted the coffee himself, he ground the coffee himself, and he made the coffee himself, and he hopes you will like it."

Mayoral Curiosities.

There are several modern Dick Whittingtons among the new lord mayors and mayors of England and Wales. Councillor Charles Thomas, the new Mayor of Newport began life as a pitboy at Barnsley Colliery, while Councillor George Nicholls, who is the new Mayor of Peterborough, started work as a farm laborer, afterwards working as a navvy and helping to excavate Tilbury Docks.

Among other mayoral curiosities it might be mentioned that Alderman William James Hughes, the Mayor of Sandwich, who is elected mayor for the thirteenth time, was presented with a black wand in accordance with an ancient custom which commemorates the death of a Danish Mayor of Sandwich, who, in A.D. 840, was killed in the battle of the Danes at Bloody Point, in the Sandwich haven.

The old custom of "weighing in" the mayor is still kept up at High Wycombe, Bucks, and Councillor John Gomm, the new mayor, submitted himself to the ordeal of the scales, while the only working journalist in the kingdom to be elected mayor is Alderman J. T. Raby, Fellow of the Institute of Journalists, who fills the mayoral chair of Lichfield.

Christening Beliefs.

There are many superstitions in England connected with the manner in which baby is carried into church for the baptismal service. It is supposed to affect the character and disposition in after-life. The nurse, or whoever carries him or her, should enter the church with the right foot, stepping briskly and dancing the baby in her arms, so that the little one shall grow up cheerful and light-hearted.

Another old-fashioned theory is that if a boy is baptized in the water previously used for a girl he will grow up feeble and effeminate; while if the case is reversed the baby girl will grow up lacking in womanly attributes. In every country white is employed for all baby garments, but where a little color is introduced the superstitious mother takes care that it is a lucky shade. Red is said to be a lucky color, pink and blue are also favorable, but green, the color of jealousy, and yellow symbolize strife.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

With but few exceptions, shrubbery gives its best effects when massed. Single specimens often appear well, but as a rule a considerable number of them growing together in one clump will add strength and naturalness to the planting.

Running water in the farm home is more necessary than a water supply in the stables, only it has not appealed with such force to the farmer, because his wife has done the housework without complaining, while he had the chores to do himself, and saw the labour-saving possibilities of running water in his cow barns and hog pens.—Farmers' Advocate.

She freshened at the age of 2 years 6 months and 14 days. Her sire is Korndyke Abbekerk; her dam is Rose Walker Segis Burke.

Hilmer Carlson, Becker Co., Min., was declared the champion pig-raiser of the State by the Agricultural Extension Division of the University of Minnesota. The pig had the run of an alfalfa pasture, with a stream at the foot of the hill in the same lot.

WAR BRIDEGROOMS TAGGED.

CHICAGO, April 14.—Six recruits for Illinois volunteer regiments were gathered in the long line of applicants waiting to-day at the Marriage License Bureau. Fifteen men, who admitted that they were seeking to evade military service, were decorated with the "ribbon of dishonor," a broad band of yellow, which with very little ceremony was pinned on them by the recruiting officers.

The line of applicants to-day extended for more than a block.

In Which Dr. Chase's Nerve Food Has Made Complete Cure of Nervousness and Sleeplessness

PETEBORO', Ont., March 10.—There is much talk these days about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and what it is doing for people who are nervous, sleepless and run down in health. Almost every issue of the Examiner contains reports of cures effected by this great restorative treatment.

If you are in need of something to enrich the blood and invigorate tired, exhausted nerves, you will be interested in these letters, because they tell exactly what was accomplished by this food cure in two cases, which you investigate, because these people live right here, and may even be your neighbors.

Mrs. Elizabeth Collins, 555 Romaine St., Peterborough, Ont., writes:

"About ten years ago I suffered from nervousness, I could not sleep well, had frequent headaches and pains in my back—in fact my system was in a generally run down condition. I tried different preparations and also doctors' medicines and finally resorted to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. This gave splendid results. I have found them the best restorative for a run down condition; they built up my nervous system, and made me eat and sleep well. I would recommend the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to all suffering from nervousness or run down system."

Mrs. W. Middleton, 636 Water St., Peterborough, Ont., writes:

"About a year ago I was troubled with nervousness, sleeplessness, and loss of appetite. At night when I would lie down my heart would throb heavily. Through reading of the good it had done others, I decided to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food; so I purchased some and commenced using them. I soon found my heart action improved; I could sleep well and my appetite returned. I have recommended Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to many who have obtained good results from its use."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food cures sleeplessness, nervousness, and other symptoms of nervous exhaustion by building up the system. For this reason the benefits are lasting. 50 cents a box, a full treatment of 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Ltd., Toronto. Do not be talked into accepting a substitute. JOFFRE MAY VISIT U.S.

Possibility that he will Assist in Modernizing American Army.

NEW YORK, April 12.—An Associated Press despatch from Washington to-day says: Official despatches on the coming of the French and British Commission to discuss the conduct of the war only mention the possibility that Gen. Joffre may accompany former Premier Viviani of France, but do not give any definite announcement.

While it is possible that joint sessions will be held arrangements have not passed the preliminary stage, and no decision has been reached. Discussion, it is indicated, will necessarily be confined to the very broadest phases.

An impression conveyed in some quarters that the Entente commanders will seek to bind the U. S. to the general arrangement not to negotiate a separate peace is generally discounted here, though officials take care not to express themselves flatly in advance in a way that might be misunderstood by the allies. It has been stated that the U. S. will not enter into an alliance in the old world sense of the term, but will commit itself to unlimited participation in the war until the aims which President Wilson announced are achieved.

An impression has been created that the U. S. will feel itself free to judge when that moment has arrived, and will not commit itself over and above its own aims in the war to an unlimted liability for territorial aims of the allies.

SAD PHASE OF THE WEDDING

There is something sad about a wedding. The young groom is leaving a home in which he always has had his way, and is going into one in which he never will have his way Although his parents do not go through the formality of giving him away at the altar, they know well enough that in a few minutes he will be a son-in-law to another woman, while to them he is nothing but a son.—Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

GERMAN CRUELTY SEEN BY GERARD

CHILDREN TAUGHT CRUELTY.

AMBASSADOR SAW THEM SHOOT PRISONERS WITH ARROWS TIPPED WITH NAILS.

CANADA APPEALS TO THE U. S.

SIR WM. HEARST, ONTARIO'S PREMIER, SAYS GERMANY IS ABOUT TO MAKE SAVAGE DEATH STRUGGLE.

NEW YORK. James W. Gerard, American ambassador to Germany, told the members and guests of the Canadian Club of New York at a dinner in the grand ballroom of the Biltmore, of inhuman treatment of prisoners of war by the Kaiser's military authorities. The 1,500 diners received with groans of shame and indignation the former Ambassador's recitation of how the German authorities imprisoned townsfolk for giving food and drink to starving Canadian prisoners of war; how German sheep-hounds were trained to bite British soldiers; how small German boys were allowed to shoot arrows tipped with nails into the bodies of prisoners, and how when typhus broke out in a camp of Russian prisoners they sent Englishmen and Frenchmen to live with them.

It was the first time since he returned from Germany that he has told of any of these things he had seen. He saw them on visits to the prison camps and in the capacity of official representative of the British and Canadian governments. Mr. Gerard began his speech by referring to Germany as "that country where they were so fond of me that they kept me a week after I said I wanted to go home."

"I want to tell you Canadians to-night," he said, "some of the things I saw your fellow countrymen endure in the German prisoner of war camps. You sitting here in the Biltmore, cannot imagine the horror of living two and a half years in a German prison camp. I know because I saw.

TO JAIL FOR GIVING FOOD.

"One day I read in the North German Gazette a paragraph which told that a number of the inhabitants of a northern German town had been guilty of improper and unpatriotic conduct towards prisoners of war and that they had been jailed for varying terms and their names printed in the North German Gazette, that their names might be exposed to shame, and their falsity made known to generations of Germans to come.

"I said to myself, 'Good, at least some of these Germans are to be punished for maltreating prisoners of war.' I directed the American consul there to make a report on the matter. He sent word that a train-load of Canadian prisoners of war was being taken through the town, when it was neccessary to put the train on a siding. Some of the prisoners communicated to curious townsfolk gathered about the train that they were starving and had nothing to drink. The townspeople had given them food and drink, and that was the crime for which they were imprisoned, and held up to shame!

"I had seen small boys with German simplicity and kindness march about the prison camps armed with bows and arrows, shoot arrows tipped with nails at the prisoners, but I had not before heard of such a thing as this.

"I had read in history that at the beginning of the reformation Martin Luther nailed his thesis to the door of the cathedral. After this you know whom I would like to have nailed to that door.

PRISONERS PUT WITH TYPHUS PATIENTS.

"Another time there was typhus fever in a camp where Russians were interned. Saying that all the Allies should stick together, the Germans placed [illegible] with the Russians in the typhus camp —thus condemning numbers of them to certain death.

"At another camp I visited they had trained German sheep dogs to bite the British, and when the guards went through the camp they took the trained dogs with them, and it was seldom that they failed to bite British soldiers. I complained to Berlin about the matter and for a long, long time my complaint was unnoticed. Nothing was done until I told the Commandant that I was a very good pistol shot and that I felt like going out and shooting some trained dogs, and seeing what they would do about it. Shortly after the Commandant was removed."

Mr. Gerard said that in visiting some of the prison camps he found that many of the Canadians talked with an accent that sounded like New York. He said that one day a Highlander approached him and said:

"Hello, Judge!"

"'What sort of a Highlander are you?'" he said he asked.

"'From the Orange Highlands—of New Jersey,'" was the reply.

Major General Leonard Wood, the next speaker, was enthusiastically received.

"We of the United States and Canada," he said, "are now together for a great effort. It is an effort which we are going to carry through successfully. It is going to mean sacrifice, sacrifice other than money. It's going to mean the sacrifice of life—in large numbers. It is a sacrifice we shall make cheerfully because it is a sacrifice for a principle.

EVERY MAN HAS A DUTY.

We have a lot of work to do, but we can do it. It is the duty of every man to place himself squarely behind the government, for it is no good now talking about the water that has gone under the bridge.

"For my part I think I speak the satisfaction of all our people when I say that we are glad we are with you. We are willing to break the peace if we have to do it to keep the faith. The test of a nation is its willingness to fight for a principle."

General Wood referred to the effort America was about to make as "Peace Insurance."

"We have got to organize," he continued, "organize from the factory to the firing line. There are many Canadians and Americans who have served abroad who can help us in teaching our men trench warfare.

"We are in a state of war; we don't realize it yet, but we are. We don't know where we are going but wherever it is we must go as a united people. Get behind the government, and put this thing over."

General Wood said that in the Eastern Department there would be need for 50,000 or 60,000 officers this summer. He urged every man who had had any military training to give his services.

"This war is going to do the nation good," he declared. "It will result in a higher national spirit. But we have got to be prepared for the supreme sacrifice. We are glad we shall wage the war with our brothers to the north of us. I repeat —let us get behind the government, and put the thing over."

In introducing General Wood, President Neeland of the club said: "If his advice had been taken we would not be where we are to-day."

Sir William Howard Hearst, Premier of Ontario, and the guest of honour, expressed his joy that the Union Jack and the Stars and Stripes were to wave together in the fight for liberty.

"It is our life or the life of the enemy," he said, in telling of the task before the Allies.

He said that the events of the past few weeks had done more to unite the Canadians and Americans than anything that could have happened.

"I have often prophesied," he said, "of the day when if need be for the preservation of the democracy these two great nations would unite. Now this is an accomplished fact and no more significant event had ever occurred than the union of these two nations in the cause of freedom. Now, that you, too, have put your hand to the plow, there is no turning back. There can be no compromise or truce."

He told of what Canada had done in the war and said that if the United States had done a like work, it would have raised 5,000,000 soldiers, of which more than 3,000,000 would be overseas and 1,000,000 on the firing line. In proportion to the losses of Canada, he said the United States would have lost 900,000 men.

"Germany's hope of snatching victory through peace terms was shattered by the united stand and the firm reply of the Allies," he continued. "Within the last few days it has been destroyed completely by the magnificent stand taken by this great Republic. The message of your president to Congress thrilled the hearts of the free people of the earth, and it will be remembered for all time among the great deliverances of the rulers of the world.

"With some our our allies the situation is not in all respects as we would like it so that in the final struggle the result is going to depend more than ever in the past on the British Empire and on our splendid new ally, the great and powerful American nation."

U-BOAT SITUATION 'UNCOMFORTABLE.'

Referring to the fact that he had just returned from abroad, the speaker said that although in the past two months a large number of U-Boats had been destroyed, the situation was yet "uncomfortable."

"Personally, I have the utmost confidence in the ability of the British Navy to meet the situation," he said. "We have to steel ourselves for further losses of both life and property, but this last scheme of the Huns will meet failure, final and complete, as has every other scheme launched by them. If the Germans think by the submarine campaign, diabolical and hellish as it is, that they are going to frighten the British people, with their experience of the last two years and a half, they are sadly ignorant of English character."

In closing, Sir William said:

"I have faith in the people of the United States as I have in the people of my own country that they will measure up to whatever is required of them. And I have faith to believe and courage to hope that when the last post is sounded over the grave of the final victim of the war, and the forces of righteousness have won a final and triumphant victory, the people of the United States and of Canada alike will be able to look back with pride and satisfaction on the part they played in the greatest struggle of the ages."

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Darkens Beautifully and Restores its Natural Colour and Lustre at Once

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients, costing about 50 cents a large bottle, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of muss.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

BEACH ACCESSORIES.

What Smart Women Wear at the Seashore Now.

As smart and effective as an opera cloak is a graceful one piece wrap of rose pink rubber, stripe trimmed in black and white, for beach wear. The coat drapes beautifully and conveniently over the figure by a simple arrangement of fasteners artfully concealed, surely a very pleasing and practical covering for the bather as she emerges from the water and in great demand in beach cottage colonies, where one dresses at home instead of in a bathhouse. Scarfs of pure rubber wide and long enough to be protective as well as decorative are of many pleasing colors, deeply fringed and in some instances decorated with hand painted floral designs.

If you want a practical, good wearing cap or diving helmet they are to be had in several colors and in black and white, made of two thicknesses of rubber that insures their dependability. Wonderfully beautiful in colors and designs are beach pillows of the same fine rubber that the hats, wraps and caps are made of.

If you go in for swimming rather than beach parade you will be interested in a knitted swimming suit of fitted trousers and sleeveless jacket. Beach and swimming suits of all descriptions are to be had—the high neck and long sleeve models of taffeta and satin, looking for all the world like smart street dresses except for their abbreviated skirts, which are in an above-the-knee length to display the trouser shape bloomers, a prevailing feature of most of the new suits. Decidedly ultra are suits trimmed with bead embroidery. Others more practical have band embroidery in contrasting silk floss.

India Hoards Gold.

Precious metals continue to accumulate in India in enormous quantities in spite of the war. This is brought out by the figures of the gold and silver imports of the current year, which are now published. These show that after deducting all exportations there has been in three months an addition to the stores in the country of no less than one hundred and fifty-eight lakhs worth of gold and two hundred and twenty-nine lakhs worth of silver. In the same period the mints in India have struck off the large sum of thirty-six lakhs of rupees which has thus also been added to the circulating wealth of the inhabitants. A total value of over fourteen million dollars.

Suffered With Heart For Ten Years

Would Nearly Smother

There is nothing that brings with it such fear of impending death as to wake up in the night with that awful sense of smothering. The uncertain and irregular heart action causes the greatest distress of both mind and body.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are the only remedy that can give prompt relief and effect a complete cure in cases of such severity.

They strengthen and invigorate the heart, so that it beats strong and regular, and tone up the nervous system so that the cause of so much anxiety becomes a thing of the past.

Mrs. M. O. McCready, Wapella, Sask., writes: "I am not much of a believer in medicines, but I feel that it is only right for me to let you know what your wonderful remedy has done for me, and in a very short time, too. I had suffered terribly with my heart for nearly ten years, could scarcely do any work, and would nearly smother at times. I had many remedies, some only relieving me for a time. I got a box of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills and felt so much better that I kept on using them, and can truthfully say I feel like a new woman.

"I would advise anyone with heart trouble to use them."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c, or three boxes for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Real Travel Comfort

Spring is here, and Patrons of the Canadian Northern Railway will find renewed pleasure in the Compartment - Library - Observation cars on all its Transcontinental trains, which not only allow the passenger to gain the full benefit of the wonderful scenery along the route, but also to take advantage of the many new comfort features which have created so much favourable comment among cross country travellers.

A magazine and library bureau, which contains the latest and most popular literature; writing desks with attractive stationary; a "Travellers' Shop" with a stock of articles the traveller is likely to forget or overlook in packing up for the trip, such as collar buttons, shoe laces, etc., are a few instances, while tasty teas and light refreshments may be obtained at very small cost.

CAPRI, TWIN-HUMPED CAMEL.

Capri, a great twin-humped camel of an island, kneels in the blue just off the tip of the Sorrentine peninsula. From the sway-backed huddle of white, pink, blue, cream and drab houses along the large harbor, up the break-neck road to the fascinating town nestling among the hills, white-roofed and Moorish, and on, still higher up, by the winding road or up the nearly perpendicular flights of rock stairs which furrow the frowning crag with their sharp, zig-zag outlines, to Anacapri, 500 feet or so above, every step of the way breathes the pride and splendour and degradation of the island's greater days.

Here a cyclopean mass of shattered masonry in the warm emerald water, tells of a Roman Emperor's bath; yonder, on a chimney-like cliff, the sinister ruins of a stout castle keep whispers of ancient garrisons and pirates, not armed with automatic rifles or high-powered artillery; and here, overlooking the sea, the vast ruins of a villa recall "that hairy old goat" Tiberius and his wastrel voluptuousness that turned fair Capri into satyrdom.

Capri to-day is richly dowered for sightseer, artist, historian, antiquary, and geologist. On every hand are shaded walks and sequestered bowers in the thick groves of orange and lemon, laurel and myrtle; wild backgrounds of tumbled rock; titantic rifts in the coast, into which the sea has thrust long, insidious blue fingers.—National Geographic Magazine.

A cheaper grade of butter is good for cooking, and a little money is thus saved.

Linoleum should be varnished once a year to be kept in good condition.

Cornstarch pudding will be improved by adding any left-over canned fruit.

For Home Service

"We should send overseas with as little delay as possible the troops now in Canada which have enlisted for overseas service".

"It is necessary that the country should not be left without an adequate force for home defence in case of emergency".

SIR EDWARD KEMP,

HERE IS YOUR CHANCE—

You Men Who Cannot Go Overseas

Take these two statements above and you will realize your opportunity. Who will enlist for Home Defence, and release a trained soldier, ready and anxious to fight in France?

You can stay in Canada, yet serve the Empire in its greatest trial. In this day, when every man is needed, you can help to provide adequately for home protection by enlisting in the

Canadian Defence Force

The term of enlistment, training, equipment and clothing are the same as for overseas service. Pay the same as that for Militia on Active Service. Separation allowances for married men in addition to pay.

Enlist now in the Canadian Defence Force if you are between 18 and 45, physically fit, and anxious to serve to the best of your ability.

For full particulars enquire at Armories of the Regiments listed below.

THE BRITISH STILL SMASHING AHEAD

THE FOE'S COUNTER-ATTACKS ALL FAIL

Enemy's Reinforcements Fail To Stop The Advance of Haig's Men

Counter-Attacks in Great Force Are Totally Routed Huns Losing Heavily---British Forces Fighting on Three Sides of Lens Encircling the Coal City While They Have Captured Village Just North of St. Quentin--French Batteries Pouring Thousands of Shells Into German Trenches and Many Raids Are Made.

A SUMMARY OF TO-DAY'S WAR CABLES

SPECIAL TO THE EXAMINER:

LONDON, Eng., April 16.—In the face of the most valiant resistance, rallied against the British drive, Field Marshal Haig's forces to-day battered their way still further around Lens and pushed another wedge to within a mile and a half of the Cambrai-St. Quentin line. "We penetrated to the northwest of Lens," was the British Commander-in-Chief's laconic comment of that point in the fighting where the British forces have straddled the famed Hindenburg line. Haig also announced the capture of Villaret, southeast of Hargicourt. Its taking by the British troops widens the wedge thrust against the main Hindenburg line of communication from St. Quentin to Cambrai on a front of approximately five miles. Villaret is five miles to the north of Frensoyle Petit and Pontru, both already in British hands, and both one and a half miles from the Cambrai St. Quentin line. The German defenses were centred to-day around Monchy Le Preux. "The enemy attack at Monchy on Saturday," Haig's report to-day asserted, "was pressed in the most determined manner. The Third Bavarian Division was again hurried as a reinforcement to the German line and ordered to retake Monchy at all costs. Its losses, like that of other German troops, were exceptionally heavy. Estimate of the booty captured at Lievien and along the Souchez River is not available yet, but it was exceedingly large, including some six-inch guns and many thousands of rounds of ammunition of all calibres, as far as eight-inch guns."

"It includes quantities of trench mortars, bombs, grenades, truck loads of new tools, many lengths of tram lines with trucks complete, and two large engineer dumps. More than one-third of our prisoners since the 9th were Bavarians."

330 CANADIAN OFFICERS ARE ON THE LIST

SPECIAL TO THE EXAMINER:

OTTAWA, Ont., April 16.— Three hundred and thirty officers fell last week in the ranks of the Canadians in the Vimy Ridge fighting, according to information received here. This total includes killed and wounded, with the latter predominating. It is thought the total casualties will reach five or six thousand.

PARIS (French Official Communique), April 16.—Violent artillery firing along almost the whole of the French front, with vigorous French offensive raids at half a dozen places, penetrating the German lines in Alsace, were reported in to-day's official statement. The artillery combat was particularly intense on the front from Soissons to Rheims. All night between St. Quentin and the Oise the French artillery poured a destructive fire on the German positions. South of the Oise River further progress was made to the east by the French forces on Barisis Plateau and Quincy Bassee. In the Champagne east of Aubrives two German attacks were checked. Following a tremendous artillery preparation in Lorrain and Alsace French detachments entered German trenches at several places. In Alsace, the report continued, French detachments reached the second German lines at six different places."

WASHINGTON, April 16.—One of the most eventful weeks in American history lay before the United States to-day. With President Wilson's appeal calling for the co-operation of every man and woman of the nation in waging a successful war, Congress will put the war on a firm footing this week. At the same time the Allied High Commission will probably be here. Such men as Arthur J. Balfour, Former Premier Viviani of France, and other notables will offer suggestions, make known the peace terms of the Allies, and clinch the co-operation of this Government. The Senate is expected to place an unwavering approval upon seven billions and bond issue bill by to-morrow or Wednesday.

Senator LaFollette, however, may vote against it. With the bond issue out of the way both houses will consider taxation problems.

The Selective Conscription Bill is now before the Senate Military Committee, while other war-time bills, like espionage, wooden ship building plans, and finance measures, are due for early action. The selective draft measure now seems likely to pass through. President Wilson may have to exert further pressure upon the halting legislators.

(By William Philip Simms.)

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES AFIELD, April 16.—British troops fought their way forward in the outskirts of St. Quentin and Lens to-day. Just north of St. Quentin, they took the Village of Trois Sanvages, around three sides of Lens they were fiercely fighting against the German defenders and slowly encirling the Coal City. The Germans fought desperately while in the town itself. They strove frantically to remove guns and supplies. Again early to-day the Germans threw two more strong attacks at the British positions at Monchy Le Preux. Both failed. The British artillery, concentrated in a devastating fire slaughtered the massed attacking forces of the Teutons. Another German attack, likewise in great force, was made on both sides of the Bapaume-Cambrai Road, against Hermies, Noreuil and Lagnicoure. The British held firm at Hermies and Noreuil, but the enemy obtained a foothold on a spur two thousand yards to the north of Penebaling and Lagnicourt. Immediately, however, the British counter-attacked and swept the enemy out. The Germans lost heavily in this attack and subsequent British counter-attacks.

AMSTERDAM, April 16.—Advices from Berlin to-day declared the Reichstag had been summoned to meet April 24, and that Imperial Chancellor Von Bethmann-Hollweg was expected to make an early statement on the Russiana situation.

NEW YORK, April 16.—The British tank steamer Narragansett with nine thousand tons of oil has been sunk off the Irish coast. All the crew were saved.

CITY'S SHARE OF 57TH REGIMENT TO BE ONE COMPANY

Lt.-Col. Walker Announces That Peterboro' Is Expected to Supply Two Hundred and Fifty Men for Canadian Defence Force

RECRUITING NOW ON

Lt.-Col. D. Walker, O. C. the 57th Regiment, Canadian Defence Force, announced this morning that Peterborough's share in the unit was estimated at 250 men. A company of the 57th will be organized in Peterborough, and it is hoped that this city will fill the company.

Arrangements for recruiting are now under way and from now on the recruiting office at the armouries will be open from 9 a.m. to 12, from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m., and from 7.30 p.m. to 9 p.m. daily, for the purpose of enrolling recruits. These will be medically examined as they apply. Half a dozen applicants were enrolled last week, and it is probable that the first parade of the new unit will be called for Saturday afternoon. It is expected that for the present drills will be held on Tuesday and Thursday nights, and on Saturday afternoons. There are openings at present for an orderly room sergeant who should be able to use a typewriter and for a pay sergeant, and Lt.-Col. Walker would be glad to receive applications for these positions.

It should be understood that the 57th Regiment will also recruit for overseas service as well as for the C. D.F., and that transfers from the C.D. F. to the C.E.F. will be permitted and encouraged at any time.

The personnel of the staff of the 57th Reigment, C.D.F., will be announced in a day or two.

A quantity of office supplies for the new unit has arrived at the armouries.

The Rainbow Princess At the Empire

"When you have finished the scene in the lions' cage, you will go up in the balloon and drop in the parachute. Then we will stage the Hula Hula dance with the Hawaiian orchestra and to norrow we will do the ture director said that to you all, in big burglary scene." If a motion picone breath, you would probably faint. When J. Searle Dawley made that speech to Ann Pennington she blinked hard and meekly acquiesced. For it meant that the little "Ziegfeld Follies" star was to start her second Famous-Players Paramount picture, "The Rainbow Princess," which is the attraction at the Empire Theatre, 16th, 17th, 18th.

CLINTON, April 16.—The market for hogs made a high record here when Mr. David Cantelon paid the farers, $15.65 for live weight, this being the highest price ever paid in this district.

The Boys Who Charged at Vimy Ridge Will Need Your Assistance

When the Canadians charged over the summit of Vimy Ridge on Easter Monday hundreds of Peterborough boys were in the wave after wave of khaki-clad Maple Leaf lads who swept the Bavarians from their path. Some of these boys died there in the early hours of that terrible struggle. Although the full tale is not yet known, many others undoubtedly fell wounded by bullet or shell. They will be coming hame, those who were injured, some day sooner or later, battle scarred and worn. They will need a helping hand—a warmer sympathy and a more ready assistance than the often slow-moving Government machinery, can afford. The Great War Veterans of Peterborough, men who have fought the battle against the Hun in the earlier stages of the war, men who know what it is to be wounded and incapacitated, stand ready to supply that assistance if the co-operation of the people of Peterborough is forthcoming. On Saturday Peterborough will be put to the test when the Great War Veterans' Tag Day will be held. Coming on the second anniversary of the great battle of Ypres, the occasion will determine whether or not the people of Peterborough appreciate what their citizen soldiers have done and are doing for them. Let us make the Tag Day total a record breaker.

Five Peterborough Names In Official List Of Casualties

Capt. Harold F. Hill is Missing---Pte. T. W. Hardman Formerly of 93rd Battalion Dead From Wounds and Ptes. Jenkinson, MacDonald and Moore, Formerly of the 93rd Wounded--To-day's Orders and General Military News.

DIED OF WOUNDS.

MISSING.

Capt. Harold F. Hill, Canadian Infantry, 303 Brock street.

WOUNDED.

Pte. John H. Jenkinson, Union street, late 93rd Battalion.
Pte. Herbert Moore, Albert street, late 93rd Battalion.
Pte. G. McDonald, late 93rd Battalion.

Yesterday's and to-day's casualty lists add five Peterborough names to the roll of honour, four of them being former members of the 93rd Peterborough battalion.

CAPT. HILL MISSING.

Mr. W. H. Hill, of the Sun Life Assurance Company, received the sad intelligence yesterday that his only son, Capt. Harold F. Hill, Canadian Infantry, is officially reported missing since April 9th, the day the Canadians charged over the top of Vimy Ridge. The news will be received with deep regret, for the missing officer was one of the best known and most popular of Peterborough's soldiers overseas.

Capt. Hill was born in Peterborough and was educated in the local Public Schools and Collegiate Institute, afterwards going to Queen's University, Kingston. He left that institution in the spring of 1915 to prepare for overseas, and was given a commission as lieutenant in the 57th Regiment, Peterborough Rangers, ain which corps his father has been a Captain. After qualifying he was appointed to the 38th Battalion, C.E.F., and accompanied that unit to Bermuda, where it did garrison duty for some time, afterwards being transferred to France, where it became a unit in a new Canadian division.

Capt. Hill—he was a lieutenant then—saw some hard fighting in the Ypres salient, and afterwards on the Somme, where, last fall, he was wounded. He soon recovered, and on his return to the firing line, was promoted to the rank of Captain—a promotion that was well earned.

Capt. Hill was an all-round athlete. He starred on the half-line of Queen's University Senior Inter-Collegiate Rugby team, while he was also a fine baseball player, his last appearance in that role being with the Thistles in the City League as a catcher in the summer of 1915. He was a splendid paddler, a fine basketball player, and a sprinter and track athlete of no mean ability. While at the Collegiate Institute he was commanding officer of the Collegiate Cadet Battalion.

PTE. J. H. JENKINSON

Mr. John Jenkinson, Union street, received an official message from Ottawa yesterday morning, stating that his son, Pte. John Henry Jenkinson is reported admitted to No. 22, General Hospital, Camieres, on April 7th, suffering from a gunshot wound in the left leg. Pte. Jenkinson enlisted with the 93rd Battalion in the winter of 1915-16, and went overseas with Col. Johnston's unit afterwards going in a draft to another Canadian Infantry Battalion at the front. The official message shows that he was wounded two days before the assault on Vimy Ridge. Pte. Jenkinson is well known throughout the city and his friends will wish him a speedy recovery.

PTE. HARDMAN DEAD.

Pte. T. W. Hardman, who was reported wounded several days ago, is now officially reported died of wounds. Pte. Hardman was one of the first to join the 93rd Battalion, enlisting in August, 1915, and was always popular with officers and men alike. "Tommy" was a crack soccer player and was happy as long as there was a football to kick around. He went overseas as a member of A Company and was transferred to another Canadian battalion. He is survived by his wife, whom he married after enlisting with the 93rd. Other relatives reside in England.

PTE. G. H. MOORE.

Pte. George Herbert Moore, son of Lieut. W. H. Moore of the 247th Battalion, who is attending the I. S. of I. at Kingston, is officially reported seriously ill and wounded, having been admitted to No. 13 Stationary Hospital, Boulogne, on April 12th, suffering from a gunshot wound in the eye. Pte. Moore, whose home is on Albert street, enlisted with the 93rd Battalion early in 1916, coming back from Quebec, where he was employed in the Ross factory, to join the colours. He celebrated his eighteenth birthday in the trenches on Feb. 2nd. He went overseas with B company of the 93rd and was drafted to the 21st Battalion.

PTE. G. MacDONALD.

Pte. G. MacDonald, who enlisted in the 93rd Battalion shortly before Lt.-Col. Johnston's unit left for Barriefield camp in May last year, is to-day officially reported wounded. No further particulars have been received. Pte. MacDonald's relatives live in Scotland.

The 247th Battalion signed on another recruit this morning in the person of Samuel Chas. Profit of Smith Township. His was one of the quickest moves on record, inasmuch as he was signed on at 10 o'clock and left on the 11.27 train to join the 247th Battalion.

Orderly Room Sergt. D. H. Anderson, Orderly Room Clerk H. J. Miller, and Orderly Room Assistant Taylor of the 247th Battalion, left on the 11.27 C. P. R. train for Ottawa this morning to join the 247th Light Britain adjutant of the 247th, a man-

Vimy's Inferno Is Worse Than Dante's

CAPT. HAROLD F. HILL,
Who is officially reported missing since April 9th. He is the only son of Mr. W. H. Hill, of the Sun Life.

Not a Blade of Grass Remains on Some Portions of the Battlefield —Great Numbers of the Enemy Were Buried in Their Trenches

FOE DELUDED HIMSELF

(By Stewart Lyon, Special Correspondent of the Canadian Press.)

CANADIAN HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE (via London), April 15. This despatch is written in the depth of a German dugout near the crest of Vimy Ridge. It is Sunday morning. The battalion commander and staff, who are occupying the dugout, are snatching a few hours' sleep, after a long day of hard work upon the roads. The work of this sort already done is wonderful. The battlefield, across which rails and roads had to be constructed, was so pitted with shell-holes that, as an officer said, not one blade of grass remains, and there is not a spot without either a shell-hole or a mound thrown up by the explosions. How any men lived in the trenches through the bombardment which produced these amazing results, on an area of over two million square yards, is inconceivable. Dante never imagined an inferno like it. That great numbers of the enemy were buried in their trenches becomes evident as the clearing up proceeds. Many so buried were disinterred by later shells, which destroyed their place of sepulture.

A CRUSHING DISASTER.

To the disaster which overtook the German army here the ridge of Vimy will remain a monument of the unparalleled destruction of the hill, as some convulsion of nature that changes the surface of the earth. Sheep may graze in the trenches, craters and shell-holes, but months of labour by a great army would not prepare the soil for the plow.

The enemy is doing his best to-night to add to the desolation. He has been shelling steadily the crest of the ridge with his big guns, located in the vicinity of Lens, which still holds out against us, and points well out on the plain to which he has been driven. Since his retreat began, his efforts to stay the forwarding our guns and supplies have been pitiably futile. Our answering fire is increasing steadily in volume as the night passes and fresh batteries come into action. The captured enemy guns are playing an important part in convincing the Germans that the vicinity of Vimy Ridge is a most unhealthy place for them.

Despite the vibration of the gun fire when at its worst, this dugout evidently was occupied by some high German officer as a safe and comfortable place.

Its safety is proved by the fact that, while the ground thirty feet above the ceiling is pitted with shell holes, the beams of the ceiling remain unshaken. In the matter of comfort the former occupant evidently was a specialist. The wall is covered with burlap in green, and below a yellow dado. A wooden moulding runs around the room, and an engraving after Millais is a feature of the decorative scheme. The heat is supplied by a good stove, and it is now heating the place so well that some of the men, accustomed to the Alberta temperature, have just insisted on more ventilation. There are racks for books, and papers are plentifully provided. The bed of the Herr Commandant is most comfortable.

"Peterborough Presents Possibilities Unsurpassed."

MONDAY, MARCH 16, 1917

NOT WOMEN EITHER.

Pretty figurantes promenading and displaying the newest dress models at Richard Hall & Son's, a day or two ago, attracted a large attendance of ladies, and what was significant, a notably large number of men. It is natural that this should be so. We can of course count upon the ladies on such occasions. We have sent so many real men out of the country, that apart from over-age and physically unfit, a good deal of our population is composed of slackers, whose attitude to the demands upon manhood naturally classes and herds them with women; though, lack of petticoats and Vandyke skirts, and of the great spirit women have shown in this war, stops them short of being on an equality with real women, who can combine love of dress, love of country, and heroic discharge of duty in their charmingly inconsistent personalities. Some of our men are not men and in the possession of some high-grade qualities, not women either.

HONOUR AND HUMILIATION.

Canada, through her wonderful soldiers, is gaining honour and is wiping out a good deal of national humiliation. Ever since we became a self-governing country and before, Canada has accepted, if not with thanks, at least as a casual matter of course, the protection of the British navy, instead of providing, as she should have done, and could have done, with advantage to the development of her industries and her self respect, a navy of her own for her own defense. Now, the humiliation is being repeated and "rubbed in."

It was not so bad—it was in the family—to be defended by the British navy, but when our big neighbour, our traditional enemy, is to take over the contract, we Canadians should have the grace to blush a little. Arrangements have been completed, it is said, between emissaries of the British and French and the United States authorities for patrol by the navy of the latter country of the entire Atlantic seabord, including the Canadian front. British and French ships, now on such patrol duty are to be recalled as soon as the United States have their lines established.

Would it not have been a splendid thing if Canada could have added naval laurels to her military laurels, and combined them in a crown of glorious credit. And Canada could have done so, by having had a navy of her own to patrol her waters and protect her own coasts.

If Canada, several years ago, when a Canadian navy was virtually launched, had not "backed water," and crawfished out of a magnificent ambition, we should have had a navy of our own. The plans for cruisers and destroyers were prepared and tenders were invited, but not acted upon. If at that time we should, as we ought to have done, have taken up the work of building a navy, we should have had one one; and would not have had to suffer the humiliation of having our neighbours protect us. Though we don't despise this protection, yet it is something we should do ourselves and would now be doing if we had not neglected our duty. If a few years ago we had been governed by statesmen, who had the interests and credit of the country at heart, instead of by politicians, who appreciated office so highly that to retain it they purchased support by bartering our naval autonomy, our self-government, represented by self help, for the votes of the Nationalist faction. The best of us wear khaki, but some of us should wear sackcloth. Some of us have earned the laurel crown, but some of us—haven't.

News written without verification usually comes back to haunt the writer.

GLORY AND GRATITUDE.

The Irishman, by constitutional training, and through administrative ill-treatment, is always "agin the government." This was illustrated in Toronto a few days ago, when an Irishman, Lance Corporal O'Brien, a returned war veteran, with an honourable limp, organised a semi-illegal raid upon a munitions factory to round up alien employees, one of whom had told a returned soldier when he applied for employment, to "get to hell out of this!" The squad of returned soldiers when they emerged from the factory with the alien prisoners, were cheered by the citizens. This seems to be wrong, because the raid was an irregular proceeding. But it seems to have been justified by the circumstances to the extent that an officer from Exhibition camp interviewed the manager and exacted a promise that returned soldiers would be given the preference over Hun aliens. Corporal O'Brien, hoisted on the shoulders of comrades, made a speech, announcing, amidst cheers, the success of his campaign. The officer also spoke, but martinet-like couldn't desist from lecturing veterans on their failure to salute General Logie as he passed through the streets. The reply of a veteran that "a soldier on crutches couldn't very well salute," was less apt than that of another who truthfully said it was "the returned soldier that should be saluted."

Both the government authorities and the citizens seem to fail in appreciation of the work and deserts of the returned soldier who comes home invalided—shot or shelled out of the service—with an honourable discharge. They deserve well of us and of the world. They have seen stiff service, endured hardships, faced death and bear permanent certificates of service in the shape of wounds. They have done all this, while the rest of us have stayed at home, sheltered, enjoying life under comfortable conditions, making money, and benefitting by the safety and settled conditions, brought by their sacrifice. And it is galling to be told by an alien enemy, who is earning seven or eight dollars a day—a type of the cause of it all—heaping insult upon one of the world's heroes; and it is more galling and insulting to a returned soldier when applying for civic employment, to be told by a Toronto city official that he must "make himself solid for a job" by joining a Conservative ward association.

That Canada can be very big, our soldiers who have done big things at Ypres and Vimy, and all the way and time between, have shown us. That Canada can be very small, is told by some of, and too much of, the official and popular attitude towards the returned soldier. The best we can give is none too good for them. They return home wounded and invalided through no fault of theirs—yes, by their own fault. By doing their duty, by running into danger they have got hurt, and are paying the penalty. We should not add to the penalty by indifferent or ungrateful attitude or treatment.

THE BRUTAL SLAV.

Russia has done the brutal thing of releasing 600 hostages captured in enemy territory. "The government considers it an injustice to imprison people whose only offense is fidelity to their own States." There you have the Slav in all his primitive barbarism. Germany is shedding its blood to save the Western world from a flood of Slavic savagery. The pundits of Germany explained in the summer of 1914 that Germany was fighting to keep the knout out of Western Europe. These barbarians from the north actually release 600 Germans taken on German or Austrian soil because it is unjust to imprison people whose only offense is fidelity to their own States. But in Belgium, if any one—often a drunken German soldier—fired a gun, 25, or 50, or 75 people of the locality were lined up and shot to death, and their relatives were not permitte to bury them, as the spectacle of their dead bodies was regarded as a wholesome disciplinary measure. This marks the difference between Teutonic 'kultur' and Slavic barbarity.—Philadelphia Record.

McBRIDE AND ROGERS.

The futility of the code of political opportunism needs to be demonstrated by just such acts as the dismissal of Sir Richard McBride. Public men must be taught that they will be held responsible for their policies all through the piece.

It may be necessary to apply in the future the precedent about to be set by British Columbia to another of Canada's ambassadorial representatives. If Mr. Rogers secures the High Commissionership for Canada he will not hold it beyond the election, unless his political friends who placed him in this office remain in power. The fact of his appointment will be one of the issues in the campaign, and the certainty that a change of Government will mean a change of Canadian representative in London will be a vote-getter for the Opposition in every Province of Canada, and particularly in Manitoba.—Manitoba Free Press.

The Deterrent Effects Of Canada's High Living Cost

A correspondent calling attention to the way in which would-be settlers from the United States are frightened away from Canada by the shockingly high prices charged for everything in this country, says:

Take the advertisement of the well-known Ford car, appearing in every paper and magazine in the United States—$360 f.o.b. Detroit—$495 f.o.b. Ford, Ontario (right across the river.) Does it cost $135 more to make this car in Canada? And if not, who gets the difference? Will this "ad." bring people into Canada? And there are any number of "ads." daily drawing the attention to the world to thes eprice comparisons, notwithstanding that all conditions and the cost of production in the two countries is practically the same. United States prices already represent cost of production plus a good, stiff tariff, and yet Canada adds another tariff on top of that.

There is the trouble, and one that Canada must tackle in an earnest and non-political spirit if this country is to make the progress that it ought to make after the war. If the present shocking disparity between prices outside of Canada and inside of Canada continue, we might as well prepare ourselves for disappointment as regards all our hopes of attracting population and expanding in an industrial and commercial way after the war. All our advertising, and all our natural advantages, will not be sufficient to offset the withering influence of a reputation for being the dearest country in the wide world to live in. And nothing that we can say about the opportunities here offered for workers will have any weight with those workers who are confronted with countless advertisements all over the United States for all kinds of merchandise to the same effect as the one our correspondent quotes, namely that a certain article which can be purchased in the United States at the rate of $360 costs $495 in Canada, although identically the same article, and although made in Canada, and therefore not having to pay a customs duty.

There is no gainsaying the fact that the conditions and cost of production in Canada and the United States are practically the same. If they are not, what chance has Canada in the export trade? What raises the prices here is the fact, as stated by our correspondent, that "While United States prices already represent cost of production plus a good, stiff tariff, yet Canada adds another tariff on the top of that" We believe Canadians generally have no adequate conception of the staggering proportion of the cost of every commodity represented by prices artificially boosted by a sky-high tariff For instance, in the returns of the Department of Trade and Commerce for 1916, we find that the total dutiable goods imported into Canada amounted to $310,193,014. On this a total customs duty was collected of no less a sum than $103,940,100.-36. But that is not all. The goods that were not imported, and that did not have to pay a customs duty, were sold at the same price as those that were imported, and the difference in the price was taken out of the pockets of Canadian consumers. This problem of artificially boosted prices has now reached the point where it is an actual menace to our national well-being.

Placing of Men On Farms Is Making Steady Progress

Three or four inquiries for men were received from farmers by Mr. G. A. Gillespie on Saturday. Arrangements for placing several married men were under way to-day, and the work of linking up available labour with farmers who need it seems to be gathering force. Saturday afternoon's meeting or rather what had been announced as a meeting, drew just one attendant, Mr. A. E. Coulthard representing the Manufacturers committee of the Organization of Resources committee. Mr. Gillespie has not given up the scheme of arranging a meeting with farmers, and Mr. Wearing is sending out a special letter this week for next Saturday afternoon..

Several farmers have expressed their doubts of this movement, stating that the men obtained would be useless on the farms because inexperienced. But the organization has no desire to hamper the farmers with inefficient help. Mr. Gillespie and his fellow workers seek in the first place information as to the need of labourers, and are striving against rural indifferences or dubiousness to stir the farmers into an attitude of responsiveness. This must be the basis of whatever work is accomplished. The recruiting of help will rest with the organization, the members of which are fully alive to the seriousness of the production campaign. They also realize that the inefficient service would simply obstruct farm operations. There must be a fusion of interest, information and assistance if the Resources movement is to succeed.

BAD TO CHANGE NAME OF GERMAN ORIGIN

KITCHENER, April 16.—At yesterday morning's service in Trinity Methodist Church a letter was read by Rev. C. A. Sykes, pastor, from Rev. and Mrs. A. P. Quirmbach, who represent this church in the Methodist Mission field in West China, that they have changed their name to "Quentin."

The letter stated that Chinese prejudice against everything of German origin had made it necessary to select another name in order that they could effectively carry on their work among the Chinese. Rev. Mr. Quentin is a native of this city, and has been a missionary in China for about fifteen years.

ALBERT BROWN

"A Little Bit of Fluff" Makes Uproarious Mirth at Walker

(From Winnipeg Tribune)

The most enjoyable performance seen in Winnipeg this season is "A Little Bit of Fluff," at the Walker theatre. Albert Brown was never funnier in any part he ever played than he is in the role of the shy young mission worker forced to play many parts through his unfortunate double possession of an all too pliable disposition and a friend who is something of a rounder.

From the rise of the curtain to the final drop the piece is one huge laugh, and every minute Mr. Brown is on the stage there is something doing. Every movement is mirth-provoking, every situation ludicrously funny. It was a tiredout audience that left the theatre last night, weary with laughter.

Bertram Tully (Mr. Brown) has a friend, John Ayers. John is in trouble. His wife has unexpectedly returned from a visit to her mother to find that John has been out all night. Incidentally she discovers a pearl necklace in his pocket. Bertram is called in to prove that John slept with him and the necklace is explained by John's claim that he purchased it for her. Here the trouble begins. The necklace was being taken care of for John's companion of the night before, who John explains to Bertram is 'a little bit of fluff' from the Five Hundred club. Bertram, as the peacemaker, gets himself into all sorts of trouble, which is accentuated when the little bit of fluff calls in person to get back the necklace, by this time hypothecated with John's wife's mother. The complications which ensue are still further complicated by an elaborate attempt to finance the purchase of another necklace through a damage claim against a motor bus company, which carves a devious path throughout the last two acts of the piece and provides numberless funny thrills. How John finally makes good with friend wife, how the necklace is restored to its true owner, and how the saintly missioner eventually overcomes his virgin antipathy to little bits of fluff is well written and as well played.

Individually, as well as on the whole, the company achieved a decided success. Albert Brown's interpretation of Tully, the oblizing friend was an artistically perfect bit of fun making. It left absolutely nothing to be desired. And the company played well up to Mr. Brown's standard. Every part was well cast, and there were no misfits anywhere. Joseph de Stefani had an important part in the rule of John Ayers, which he played in a manner that would lead the audience into the belief that his was the leading part—until Bertram appeared on the stage. It was a breezy and vigorous conception of a breezy and vigorous part. The 'little bit of fluff' was very cleverly characterised by Clemence Randolph, who proved her right to the favourable impression she created here a few weeks ago. San Perry, too, made an ideal suspicious wife, if such a character can be described in that way. Charles Welsh-Homer, Robert Ranier, Helen Keers and Henry Sherwood also filled minor parts most efficiently.

Mr. Brown and company appear at "The Grand" next Saturday, matinee and evening

TO-DAY'S WAR NEWS

LONDON, April 16.—Turkey has interned the United States gunboat Scorpion at Constantinople.

PETROGRAD, April 16.—The blowing up of the bridge over the Styr River near Liasowa, in Galicia, was reported in to-day's official statement.

NEW YORK, April 16.—Greatest interest attaches to-day to Austria-Hungary's formal bid for peace with Russia. A semi-official statement outlined the identical character of war aims expressed by Russia under the Provisional Government's recent manifesta and those heretofore stated by Austro-Hungary and formally invited Russia to consider these identical aims as the basis of peace. This is the first admission from the Central Powers that they are angling for a separate peace with Russia.

(By W. S. Forrest.)

PARIS, April 16.—France's great offensive, timed to synchronize with the British "big push" may now be starting. To-day's official report indicated a spread of violent artillery preparations all along the Champagne front, an increase in the French drive to-ward St. Quentin, more bitter fighting south of the Oise, and a series of terrific smashes far down to the south in Alsace-Lorraine. Coincidentally, the newspaper Le Temps remarked to-day the war movement will go forward soon. Our cannon roar terribly north of Soissons and in the Champagne, where numerous reconnaisance raids on the enemy lines have taken numbers of prisoners." Other Paris newspapers to-day hinted a belief that the French drive was impending.

SLACKERS WANT TO RETURN TO CANADA

OTTAWA, April 16.—The advent of the United States into the war, with the possibility of some form of compulsory drafting for military service across the line, has resulted in a sudden cessation of the recent drift from Canada of a certain class of slackers across the border. For some months past this exodus from Canada has been of large proportions, averaging some weeks fully one thousand per day. Part of the emigration may be ascribed to labour demands and high wages in the United States, but there were undoubtedly tens of thousands who left Canada because they feared they might be drafted for military service. The total exodus during the past two years has, according to the immigration authorities, been probably over 200,000. A large proportion were men of alien birth, drifters and ne'er-do-well's, whose citizenship is perhaps well lost to Canada. Some of these are now seeking to come back but are being rejected at ports of entry by the immigration officials as undesirables.

AN "IMPOSSIBLE" EMPIRE.
(London Telegraph.)

The plain matter of fact is that the German Empire has made itself impossible in Europe. Its root ideas, its fundamental conceptions, its historic estimate of men and things, its manners, its customs, its behavior, are so widely different from what we associate with the best elements of European culture that it must be taught to amend its ways and accept a defeat which means humiliation.

LE SYSTEME "D."
(Wall Street Journal.)

Training of the French Foreign Legion is the culmination of the French system of the individual as opposed to the German system of the mass. These soldiers, mainly deserters and outcasts from every army of the world are famous fighters, and receive plenty of practice training in the deserts of Morocco. Whereas the German military training aims to form unthinking cogs, and depends on the perfectly co-ordinated machine for its effect, the French build upon the word "se debrouille," to disembroil oneself—in other words, get out of your own scrapes; and taking the initial letter of this verb, the Frenchman calls his plan "le systeme 'D.'"

AN AMERICAN ARGUMENT FOR UNIVERSAL SERVICE.
(Chicago Tribune.)

Of course the national guard had to be called to arms. There was no other way. Public works and factories required protection and there was no other force on hand to provide it. Thus for the second time within a twelve month the national guardsman is taken from his desk and put into camp for the safety of the nation.

But if this is the only way it is also a stupid and an unjust way. It is unjust, not because the guardsmen are compelled to serve the country but because their lazy or indifferent brothers are not also compelled to do so.

It is unjust because it penalizes patriotism and rewards the slacker. It throws away the patriot and keeps the bounder, glorifying him with riches. The good man loses his health, perhaps his life, at the front. The indifferent man grows fat and wealthy at home. The foundations of the large fortunes of this country were laid in just such fashion. The civil war begat multi-millionaires, not out of the men in the battle lines but from the men in commercial lines.

But the system is stupid besides being unjust. It does not accomplish its purpose for all its expense. There can be no greater extravagance than misuse of man power. The national guard system misuses man power shamefully. The system of selection is so bad that it takes men without regard to their value. A trained engineer may be a private and a head waiter a colonel. A man with a large family dependent on him may be a corporal getting $21 a month, and while the state supports his family the boy whose family supports him is sipping gin fizzes at the University Club.

It picks men not because they will make economical soldiers, but because their states of mind permit them to be picked. It takes the boy of 19 and the man of 38, and puts them in the same organization. If the man could be split into two boys of 18 the system might work. There would then be three good and physically capable soldiers instead of one good soldier hampered by the one less capable.

It cannot adequately teach the men it gets into it because military training under this system must always be subordinated to civil activity until the time for action comes. It is unjust to individuals: it is wasteful to the state; it is not effective as an army.

The answer is universal military service, just, economical and efficient.

Daniel Frohman presents ANN PENNINGTON in a fascinating photoplay of circus life

"The Rainbow Princess"

By SHANNON FIFE

The court room scenes in "The Rainbow Princess," in which Ann Pennington is being starred by the Famous Players is not the usual motion picture affair. It is an exact replica of the court room at Tarrytown, N.Y., having been reproduced from photographs taken in the local court house. Because of confusion in the issuance of permits to run a circus in the township, several of the members of the Famous Players Company were hailed to court by the sheriff. Realizing that such a place would be ideal for the scenes which he would have to stage later, Director Searle Dawley obtained permission to have his photographer take some pictures of the room. When the members of the company who had been taken to court arrived in the Famous Players studio a few days later and found themselves in the same surroundings from which they thought they had escaped, they were dumbfounded.

Big Enrollment of Men For The Canadian Defence Force

More Men Are Needed to Release the Overseas Troops For Service Abroad—Overseas Troops Are Being Hurried to England as Fast as Possible—Men Are Needed and Needed Quickly.

The need for men in the armies of Great Britain and her allies is greater to-day than it was at any time in the present war. General Sir William Robertson, Chief of the Imperial staff, speaking recently at a great meeting of trades unionists in England spoke earnestly of the need of men. "Germany is retiring," he said, because she dare not stand up to further punishment in the positions she occupied. She is going back in the hope of becoming stronger, and numerically she is stronger now than at any time during the war. She has now many more divisions in the field than last year, and has increased the number of her soldiers by about one million."

Serious words these. They come, too, from a man who is in the best position in Great Britain to know. He points out that Great Britain and her dominions must make a further effort. "Our immediate needs are a half million between now and July," he says.

In order to meet this need the overseas troops now in the Dominion are being hurried to England as fast as possible. All the units have been warned and in the course of a week or two all will have left Canada.

Canada must have a certain force of troops within her borders in order to meet any emergency which may arise. In time of war anything may happen and it is the duty of the government to be prepared for such. In order, therefore, to release the members of the Canadian expeditionary force for service, the Government has decided to raise a force of 50,000 men for Home Defence. Every man who joins this force releases a man for overseas service. These men are needed and needed quickly.

Recruiting is to be carried on by the various militia regiments throughout the country and already the staffs have been named, and work has been begun in enrolling men. This service should appeal to many of the young men who through family or other reasons, have been unable to go overseas. Terms of enlistment, pay, subsistence, clothing and equipment are similar to those for the C. E. F. and separation allowances are to be paid in the case of married men.

At first the recruits will drill for two nights and one afternoon a week and later will be taken to camp, where they will spend the summer.

But each man should understand that by joining this force he is releasing a man for service in the front line trenches.

A Farmer's View Of Sunday Labour

Does Not Demand "Open" Sunday But Defends "Necessary" Sunday Work Part of the Day in the Interest of Production

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Sir,—I have the Rev. R. G. Peever's appeal for the preservation of the "Rest Day" before me, and I am glad to hear the other side of the argument undertaken by so worthy a gentleman.

However, I am afraid he is somewhat inaccurate in some of his statements, and I have no doubt Mr. Peever will have no objection to my taking issue with him in these cases.

As regards the wheat of 1915, he states Tuesday was a fine day; he should have said beautiful, for it rained hard all day after 10 a.m., and continued to rain for some days afterwards. I remember the day well, as I worked in the rain in an effort to save the last five acres I had in wheat. But then 1915 cannot be compared with the present year.

I do not ask for a permanent suspension of the Lord's Day Act, for, like Mr. Peever, I also know something of the open Sunday; but I do contend that, under present circumstances, when it is almost impossible to secure help, and greater production is so necessary, a farmer should be allowed to work on Sunday, so as in some way to make up for his lack of help.

As regards the hired man, let me assure you I was not trying to be amusing; hired help is too serious a thing to be joked about. I repeat, it should be left to the hired man's own feelings, whether he works or not. Whatever the need may be let no man be forced to work on Sunday against his will.

Doubtless it is true that a Rest Day is a necessity when the whole year is considered, but for the few months we have to produce in I think we can get along with half a rest day, and still give our best. The milkman is on the go seven days a week and there would be a great uproar if they refused to deliver milk on Sunday and, with the exception of the babies, the rest of the citizens could go without or use condensed milk. The garages are open because people are too thought less to attend to their wants on Saturday night, and the cafes are open as well as the hotels, and we hear no protest from our ministers, but the minute a farmer wants to work on Sunday, because he has no help and a very short season to get through a lot of work, the Rest Day is brought up, and we are told it is wicked and harmful.

Now, sir, is it more wicked to drive a team on Sunday than to go to a livery barn and hire a horse for the afternoon? Is it more sinful for me to cut a field of grain than for a man to go to a cafe and eat ice cream, thereby making people work for him Because I draw in some hay on Sunday, am I nearer damnation than the people who spend the afternoon discussing what their neighbours wore at Church that morning. No, sir, I hold that if a man is of necessity forced to take advantage of every minute, then let that man go out on Sunday and do his duty to himself and his country, after having attended church in the morning.

That magificent man, Mr. Lloyd George stopped Sunday labour in the munition factories as he considered the Rest Day essential. In that case it was, for, as Mr. Peever remarks, "it was in obedience to the gain and greed of man for war profits," but the munition works are running night and day, while the farmers cannot work twenty-four hours a day, and cannot get enough help to keep two "shifts" going.

I quite fail to see how farmers working on Sunday constitutes hell as Mr. Peever implies, but of course the thought of real work on any day is "hell" to some people.

A FARMER.

P. S.—I might suggest that if there was a real early service in every church on Sunday, the farmer would be able to attend church, and have a rest before going out to the field.

"CANADA'S TRADE WITH THE ALLIES" SUBJECT OF INTERESTING ADDRESS

Mr. R. R. Hall was the speaker at the last of the five lectures to be given at the Public Library under the auspices of the Otonabee Chapter on Saturday afternoon, and chose as his subject "Canada's Trade with the Allies." Mr. Mowat was in the chair.

Canada has four great natural resources of wealth in her farming lands, in her forests, in her fisheries and in her mines and from the raw products of these to their most complete manufactured state will be found the great and increasing variety of our export trade with our Allies," said Mr. Hall. The number of our Allies are increasing from month to month and it is to be hoped that before the conclusion of the war they will include every nation that loves justice and freedom.

GREATEST ASSET.

Our greatest wealth lies in our farming lands and the highest development of these should receive our first consideration. Take the farming industry of the older parts of the Province of Ontario. Prior to 1871 Ontario increased very rapidly in her rural population, and the products of her farms down to 1871 showed marked and rapid increases from year to year.

Since then a marked change has taken place. If we compare the rural population of the older parts of Ontario in 1911 with 1871 we will find that our rural population during this 40 years has decreased over one hundred thousand souls, and that, notwithstanding increased railway and transportation facilities, great improvements in every variety of agricultural implements and ever increasing home markets.

During the same 40 years the population of our cities and towns has increased over one million souls.

CAUSES FOR DECREASE.

There must be some great economic cause. Does our system of taxation press down unduly upon the farmer? Prior to 1871 our customs tariff ranged from free admission to ten per cent. and to-day it ranges from a small fraction of free goods to forty two and one half per cent. of the value of every import that the farmer must use in the course of his farming operations.

Many intelligent farmers contend that the heavy duty they are compelled to pay on every article they touch on the farm makes farming unprofitable and hence we find our educated Guelph College graduate with all his knowledge of improved farming methods does not put it to use by returning to the farm. To discuss this phase of the question further would tread on controversial ground and hence, said the speaker, I prefer to leave the matter for your own investigation.

WASTE OF FORESTS

Our forests are a great source of wealth. We marvel at the ignorance and stupidity of the North American Indian who "threw a pearl away richer than all his tribe;" yet from one end of Canada to the other we find the Canadian people burning, wasting and destroying our timber and forests as if they were of no value whatever, either for home or for foreign demand.

FISHERIES.

Are we conserving our fisheries as we should? We have the greatest fresh and salt water fisheries in the world. Are we conserving them? Are we making the best use of them as a great source of our national wealth? The mineral wealth of Canada is still unknown. Enough is known to prove that she stands among the great mineral producing nations. Her wealth is sought by every nation. Are we making the best use of our opportunities?

FOREIGN TRADE BEFORE THE WAR.

Our future trade with our Allies must be great. Before the war little Belgium imported more from Canada than did either France or Japan, three times as much as Italy, over four times as much as Russia, and Great Britain imported fourteen times as much from Canada as all our European and Asiatic Allies combined. Our great neighbour to the South however has always been our greatest customer. Nature intended that she should trade with United States.

Nature intended that our trade should flow from North to South, across the whole four thousand miles of our international boundry. The ingenuity of both people for 50 years has been against the course of nature and accordingly we find that during this last fifty years both people have built railways and canals and have erected tariff walls against each other to force trade from East to West and not from North to South. The North West farmer is very bitter against the erection and maintenance of these tariff walls. Here again we are on controversial ground. It is for you to enquire and determine what is in the best interest of Canada.

BILINGUAL QUESTION.

A more thorough knowledge of both English and French languages would greatly assist Canada in developing and extending her European trade. She could more readily conduct her correspondence, learn the wants and requirements of foreign markets, introduce her goods more effectively and enjoy greater trade by meeting her European customer and discussing his requirements in a language to understand.

The increasing ability to speak both languages, by both French and English Canadians would promote harmony and good will at home, produce a truly united spirit and contribute to the prosperity of all.

A hearty vote of thanks moved by Miss Lancaster and seconded by Miss Archer was passed.

CONFIRMATION SERVICE HELD IN ALL SAINTS' CHURCH

Bishop Sweeny of Toronto Was Present.-Fifty-one Candidates Confirmed—Rev. R. B. Grobb Assisted in the Service

At the evening service at All Saints' Church on Sunday the Lord Bishop of Toronto administered the rite of confirmation to fifty-one candidates, including twenty-four women and girls and twenty-seven men and boys. The Rev. R. B. Grobb, Rector of All Saints', presented the candidates. Bishop Sweeny took for his text Colossians iii., 1-3: "If ye then be risen with Christ, seek those things which are above where Christ sitteth on the right hand of God. Set your affection on things above, not on things on the earth, for ye are dead and your life is hid with Christ in God." In the course of his remarks he pointed out the necessity of seeking Christ earnestly and the assurance of finding Him. He also exhorted the candidates to "get into the firing line" in the Christian life and to be active forces in Christ's Church.

The beautiful anthem, "Christ is Risen," was sung by the choir, the soloist being Mr. Boddy, whose solo, "Be Thou Faithful unto Death," was rendered with great feeling and beauty.

The church was taxed to capacity, and many were turned away.

Lectures By Dr. G. Anderson

Arrangements Made For a Series of Meetings in the Interests of the Sailors

Rev. George Anderson, D.D., who is in the city in the interest of the men who patrol the high seas, was heard yesterday in four churches of the city. In the morning Dr. Anderson addressed the congregations of Knox Church and All Saints' Church, appearing at both services for a brief period. In the evening the speaker visited St. Paul's Church and George Street Methodist Church. On all four occasions Dr. Anderson made a stirring appeal on behalf of the men who guard the seven seas, and also the men of the merchant marine. Dr. Anderson represents the Canadian Royal Naval Institute, an organization that caters to the comfort and welfare of the men, and in order to meet the ever-increasing demand that is being made upon the institute throughout Canada, it becomes necessary to ask the public to contribute the sum of one hundred and fifty thousand dollars for extension work.

Meetings Arranged.

Arrangements have been made to hear Dr. Anderson on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week in the Assembly Hall of the Collegiate Institute. On Wednesday evening Rev. Dr. Anderson will speak on the British Navy and its work in the world war. Mayor Duffus will preside.

"Gibraltar; the most unique spot in the British Empire," will be the subject of the address to be given on Thursday evening. Ald. A. H. Stratton will preside. On Friday evening the Rev. Dr. Anderson will speak on "British Rule in Egypt." His Honour Judge Huycke will be the chairman of the evening. Dr. Anderson has spent many years of his life among the soldiers and sailors in Gibraltar, Malta, Egypt, Halifax and Bermuda, and in most places in the British Empire, where the service man is to be found.

Music & Drama

The popularity won by Harvey Orr's production of "The Million Dollar Doll" on its previous appearance here was shown by the big audience who gathered at the Grand Saturday to see the presentation repeated. The musical comedy scored another big hit, the comedy methods of Messrs. Harvey and Harold Orr, the delightful singing and dancing and the many bright features introduced being as successful as before. "Proposals," "My Little Fox Trot Girl," "A Little Luxury Called Love," and the other song hits were as popular as ever.

An officeholder soon forgets that he was once an office seeker.

Proficiency of Dr. Thos. Johnston's Vet. Students

Mr. Walter Zealand, one of Dr. Johnston's veterinary students, sailed from Halifax last week to enter the services of the Imperial government on the staff of army veterinary surgeons. This is the fourth of Dr. Johnston's students that have been called into active service and been accepted for similar services. As an evidence of the thoroughness of the training which these students have received, it may be mentioned that each one was taken out of the Ontario Veterinary College and entered immediately upon their work, without any supplementary training by Imperial vet. experts. Dr. Johnston is largely pleased with the progress of his students; and his only regret is that his own offer for active service was turned down because of some physical imperfection.

VIMY'S INFERNO IS WORSE THAN DANTE'S

FOE DELUDED HIMSELF.

It was the boast of its garrison that Vimy could not be taken. In building their underground habitation the enemy believed their boast would make good. The Westerners have hung their belongings on the German Commandant's clothespegs. These Westerners are amateurs, who look upon their Colonel as their big brother, and express the hope of "getting back to the ranch soon." It would bring the blush of shame to the Herr Commandant's face to hear what they say about war as an exact science, and of the former occupant of this dugout as an exponent thereof. Besides, those two million yards of churned-up earth and the German dead who await a burial party at daylight prove that the Herr Commander was not a scientist, but a blind leader of the blind.

Sunday has been quiet. An officer and ten men on patrol duty were captured by the Germans out on the plain. Lateral succeeded in getting away except one man, who was killed.

THE CANADIAN HARDSHIPS.

LONDON, April 15.—To-day as I went towards Lens over Notre Dame de Lorette and the valley beyond I met a number of these men coming back after their victorious fighting. Amongst them were Nova Scotians and young lumbermen and fishermen from the far west. They came in single file in a long procession through the wood where once two years ago the young Frenchmen fought with heroic fury and died in thousands to gain this ground, so that even now all this hill is strewn with their relics. The boys of Nova Scotia came slowly, dragging one foot after another in sheer exhaustion, stumbling over loose stones and bits of sandbags and strands of old wire, caked with clay from head to foot, even their faces had masks of clay, and they were spent and done, but through that whitish mud their eyes were steel blue and struck fire like steel when they told me of the great victory they shared in, and of the enemy's flight before them. All this without a touch of brag, with a fine and sweet simplicity, with manly frankness.

BARBAROUS WAR METHODS

They suffered tragic hardships at Arras and for five days since the battle of Arras began, but there was no wail in them. When they first emerged from the tunnels on the morning of the great attack they had been swept by machine gun fire, but by good luck escaped the great casualties, though many fell. "Our losses are not nearly so high as we expected," said one lad, "but it is pretty bad all the same. Old Fritz had the ugly habit of keeping one hand on the machine gun till we were fifty paces from him and then holding up the other hand and shouting 'Mercy, mercy.' I don't call that a good way of surrendering."

CANADIANS WITHOUT WATER

The enemy surrendered in hundreds on that day, as already described, and the worst came afterwards, for the Canadians. The enemy's barrage was heavy, but even that was not the worst of it. It was difficult to get food up and more difficult to get them their water. I met lads who had been without a drop for three days. One of them, a fine, hefty fellow, strong as a sapling, could hardly speak to me above a whisper. All of them had swollen tongues and licked dry lips in a parched way. Some of them had been lucky enough to find French wine in the German dugouts. Then the great snowstorm came. "I thought I should die," said one man, "when for hours I had to carry wounded through the snow over the ground knee deep in mud and all slippery. All my wounded were terribly heavy." But in spite of all this these brave and weary men went down the Vimy slopes at dawn yesterday with the same high grit and spirit to clear "old Fritz" as they call him, out of Vimy and Little Vimy villages. "They didn't wait for us," said a young Canadian officer. "One would think the war would be over in a month by the way they ran yesterday." "Old Fritz was scared out of his wits," said another lad. "He ran screaming from us. In a dugout I found two Germans too scared even to run. They just sat and trembled like poor, scared beasts, but there was one fellow we took who got over his fright quick and spoke in a big way. He had been a waiter and spoke good English. 'When will the war end?' we asked the Germans. 'We'll fight for five years,' he said 'and then we will win.' 'Don't you believe it, old sport,' said we; 'you're done now, and it's only the mopping-up we have to do.'"

Special Meetings Gospel Hall

Good Attendance at the First Meeting

The question raised by the disciples in Matt., 19:25, "Who Then Can Be Saved?" was the subject of an interesting address delivered by Mr. Harold M. Harper, late of Moody Bible Institute, Chicago, Ill., last evening in Gospel Hall, cor. George and Brock streets. The speaker proved from various scriptures that man was in need of a Saviour by showing that man had departed from God in the beginning and had continued in that condition, further that God had tried him under various conditions and His verdict is given in Rom. 3:23 "All have sinned and come short of the glory of God."

The speaker then showed from I Tim. 1:15 that God had made provision for sinful men, and this He did not by holding up the life of Christ as an example to follow and thus to put away sin, but by the sorrow and anguish that was the portion of Jesus Christ upon the cross was sin atoned for. And on the basis of the finished work of Christ God was dealing in grace with sinners, forgiving their sins and giving to them eternal life. The appeal was then made for all to decide on Christ in order to know their sins forgiven.

Special evangelistic services conducted by Mr. Harper will be held each evening at 8 o'clock in Gospel Hall, preceded by a song service. The public is cordially invited to attend.

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—On reading your paper on the night the 247th Battalion left Peterborough it said the Temple Band, with a number of the 57th Band were at the station. There were twenty-five in the Temple Band and three of the 57th. I see already the 57th are after the instruments. I was told before the instruments were given in, they were going to get them. I told one of the Speakers' Committee, he smiled and said, "it was thought that they were to be given to the city for a citizen's band." But by the time all the strings are pulled, the instruments will be gone and when it is time for grants some one may move a fifty dollar for the Temple Band and $500 or more for the 57th. Can you give the Temple Band the right string to pull, for when the grants come on the board, some one will say how well the 57th sent off the 247th as the people will know. Thanking you for your space, Mr. Editor.

ONE THAT WAS THERE

Peterborough, Ont., April 16th, 1917.

Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—The Review claims that I have been asking for extra remuneration in regard to the Ontario Temperance Act prosecutions. This Act having coming into force on September 16th last has brought a state of things which is new. No City Solicitor has been a police court prosecutor before, and if I am asked to take these cases I am perfectly willing to do it on a basis that is fair and reasonable. The Review suggests that I am asking on a basis of $40.00 for the same work that Mr. Hatton does for $6.00. This is absolutely incorrect. I offered to take the city's prosecutions on a basis of a fee equal to five per cent of the fines actually paid into the police court clerk or city prosecutions. If no fines were paid, but the person charged was found guilty and went to gaol I would receive no fee; if the person charged succeeded in his defence I would receive no fee; if the person charged succeeded on an appeal or motion to quash, I would receive no fee, and in the event of the Chief of Police considering the case not serious enough to engage a lawyer I would receive no fee. My view was that a fee equal to five per cent. of the fines actually paid into the city in the cases I succeeded in getting such fines would be reasonable. If on the other hand a fee of $6.00 is allowed me on every case prosecuted by the Chief of Police, with my assistance, under the Ontario Temperance Act, whether successful or unsuccessful, I would be willing to accept that fee.

The City Solicitor's position requires the work of a very experienced stenographer in drawing by-laws and doing work incidental to the office, and takes a large part of the time of the most experienced stenographer I have on my staff. In addition to that a great deal of my time is exhausted on various phases of the city's work, and as the Ontario Temperance Act is a new legislation it is something which surely requires attention as to who shall prosecute under it. For the defence in these cases a fee of $50.00 to $100.00 is very frequently paid and I have had cases which have been offered a fee of $50.00 and which I have not accepted on account of refusing a retainer in the case. The opposition of the Review to paying any fee in the prosecution of these cases can have very little merit, because it can hardly be expected with my partner and managing clerk both enlisted and overseas, and I am struggling to keep up the work in my office which was formerly done by three men, that I should be asked to neglect my practice day after day in the effort to enforce this Act, and incidentally to bring fines to the City's Treasury, without some remuneration. I am under an undertaking to give a place to both these young men when they return from the war, no matter what their condition of health may be, and if it should so happen that either or both of them become incapacitated, it would mean some effort on my part to keep the earning power of my firm sufficient to properly carry out these obligations. As I said before I am perfectly willing to relinquish my position as City Solicitor in favour of the first soldier lawyer who returns from the front incapacitated by wounds or ill health, if the City Council will appoint him. This is a small sacrifice on my part in consideration of the sacrifices that may be made by one of the lawyers who has already enlisted and gone to the front.

Of course there is this feature, a newspaper that makes part of its income by publishing booze ads when nearly every other paper has ceased to do so, can hardly be expected to be in sympathy with the vigorous prosecution and bringing to justice of offenders against temperance legislation.

Yours truly,
G. N. GORDON.

RESTAURANT CUBICLES SCREEN FOR WRONG-DOING

Special Allegations by Magistrate Ball of Woodstock

WOODSTOCK, April 14.—Magistrate Ball, who recently asked the City Council to adopt a by-law prohibiting curtained cubicles in the local restaurants, has now been submitted two specific cases in which the police have reason to believe, he says, that the curtains were used as a screen for wrong-doing. In the one case liquor-drinking is believed to have been indulged in, and in the other a young man is alleged to have been guilty of impropriety while he was one of a party which included several girls in one of the restaurants.

Opportunity To Trades And Labour Council To Quicken The Interest In Production

Wednesday nights' meeting of the Trades and Labour Council will probably be featured by a report on the number of vacant lots that have been promised for garden purposes, and also by a general discussion of the prospects for the success of this scheme. The Labour Council has shown their interest in the greater production campaign and many of the prominent members have expressed a readiness to engage in some phase of the work. Within the city, the Home Garden Club will doubtless provide sufficient scope for the surplus energies of men who are rounding out a regular day at a bench or on a building. They are preparing to put forth an extra effort and they should gain some encouragement in the fact that hundreds of thousands of men in America are engaging in the same personal and patriotic work. Reports are the same from Ontario and Ohio, Massachusetts and British Columbia, Quebec and New York, municipalities, societies and individuals engaging or preparing to break and till new ground, and to plant a greater acreage than ever before in the history of America. Such is the lofty promise, backed by seemingly high resolve which may be exactly measured in the harvest days.

But the Trades and Labour Council while they may assume the leadership should by their example arouse many other citizens to join this movement. An energetic and enthusiastic campaign by the Trades and Labour men should provide the necessary inspiration to others who are inclined to hold themselves aloof from this movement. At the present time public spirit seems dead.

The glories of Vimy ridge on one hand and the recruiting inaction on the other, the rapidly advancing cost of foodstuffs and unregulated and unrestricted methods of middlemen, the world shortage of food and the reckless indifference of the people these are some of the unwholesome and irritating evidence of a public spirit that waddles apathetic almost insensate instead of moving alert, responsive, seeking weak spots that demand strengthening in this crisis.

The advancing market price and the probability of their further soaring should be a sufficient spur to property holders and others to utilize as much of their land as possible. Individual or group effort is not enough when every household may be affected and certainly should be concerned. Hence there is grave need of leadership. And in this respect on concerted action by the Trades and Labour Council is certain to have a wide and beneficial result.

Rugs will be bright if sprinkled with tea leaves and swept thoroughly.

Thousands Deported From Luxemburgh

Deportations to Germany Bring New Problem For the Belgian Relief Committee to Face

OTTAWA, April 16.—Official reports received by the Belgian Consul General at Ottawa contained the information that approximately 25,000 Belgians have been deported from the province of Luxemburgh to Germany, there to become practical slaves under the enforced labour system contingent upon the war.

This inflicts a serious problem, because many of these people—men who were caught in the first rush of the German army and have been virtual prisoners in their native towns since—are the heads of families. The taking away of these men, which by the way, was not without a struggle, has thrown the entire care of thousands of women and children entirely upon the Belgian Relief Committee. While Germany has denuded Belgium of all the resources possible, taken away her equipment and leveled industry, these men were of some assistance to those dependent upon them, but now the Relief Committee must be the father to their children, and their wives have been left in trust to the committee.

It is on this account that a new and more urgent appeal is made to the public for assistance. Bread—always bread—is the cry of the people. They must live, they have the right to live, and their allies must furnish the food for there is none in Belgium. There are millions of these people staring death in the face and meeting conditions with a smile, terrible though these conditions may be.

The Belgian Relief Committee ask you to help. You have plenty. Let these poor women and children of Belgium have a little. Your contribution to the Belgian Relief Committee in your home town or at 59 St. Peter Street, Montreal, may save a life. Isn't that worth while?

FOWLER'S PEBLO GLASSES

A GREAT VICTORY

At one time the fitting of eyes with Glasses that were correctly suited to give the best aid to defective eyesight was largely a matter of guess work. It resulted in a great deal of dis-satisfaction and worry, but with Dr. Fowler's modern optical equipment the diagnosis resulting from the test is absolutely correct and efficient service is guaranteed. Science has triumphed over haphazard methods to a remarkable degree.

MISSING BOYS HAVE TURNED UP

The warmest reception they ever received in more ways than one awaited Leonard and Theodore O'Toole, who disappeared on Thursday from home, apparently to join the "show."

The two boys took "French leave" from their respective homes last week, heading no one knew where. Neighbours assured their mothers they must have joined Uncle Tom's Cabin show, and naturally the frenzied women knew no rest. Mr. O'Toole, at great inconvenience to himself, followed the show to Lindsay, and could find no trace of them. On Saturday, quite innocent of the disturbance and publicity they had caused they arrived in from their aunt's home in the country, wondering why their tales of the hard work they had done met with no approval. The broken wires were the reason the aunt had not communicated with Mrs. O'Toole. Four boys from Perry street are reported also to be missing since the show.

Want the Clocks Put On An Hour

OTTAWA, Ont., April 16.—That on the third Sunday in April the clocks in the Dominion should be put ahead an hour was the proposal made this morning by a deputation representing various Canadian Boards of Trade which had a private interview with Sir George Foster, Acting Prime Minister. Sir George, in reply, said that in the absence of the Prime Minister, he could give no definite reply to the request of the deputation. Personally he favoured the proposal and would bring it to the attention of his colleagues.

Wheat Is Now On Free List

Special to the Examiner:

OTTAWA, April 17.— An Order-in-Council was passed by the Government yesterday afternoon placing wheat, wheat flour, semolina and other wheat products on the free list. The order points out that owing to lack of tonnage, all demand in Europe for lower grades of wheat has ceased and consequently these grades are being shipped entirely to the United States. It sets forth further that prices are lower in Canada than in the United States and says there are strong grounds for the belief that influences are at work to keep prices lower than market conditions warrant. In view of this situation the government has taken advantage of the reciprocal clause in the Underwood tariff and placed wheat and wheat products on the free list. The order goes into effect at once.

ROYAL ARCANUM'S RECEIVER.

Suit by Member Alleging Illegal Money Methods in U. S.

BOSTON, April 16.—Thomas J. Boynton, formerly Attorney-General of Massachusetts, was appointed receiver of the Supreme Council of the Royal Arcanum by Federal Judge Aldrich.

The appointment was made on petition of Arthur L. Hobart of Braintree, a member of the Order, who holds a death benefit certificate calling for $500. Hobart alleged that the reserve fund of the Order, amounting to $3,800,000, had been illegally administered, and that it would be entirely depleted within two years unless the court interfered. He asked that an injunction be issued restraining the officers from further administering the funds, and that the receiver wind up the affairs of the council.

The petition stated that $110,000 was lost last year in the sale of bonds of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, and that in 1915 the sum of $1,500,000 was illegally used in the payment of preferential death benefit claims.

Submarine Scampers As Liner Is About To Fire

Exciting Episode Related by Passengers Arriving at New York on a Cunard Liner—Submarine Sheered and Headed at Full Speed Toward a Small British Freighter

A STREAMER OF SMOKE

NEW YORK, April 17.—Passengers of the Cunarder Ausonia, arriving at New York from a British port, were much excited over a dramatic encounter of the liner with a German submarine and the ensuing demonstration of the efficiency of a six-inch rifle mounted astern on a merchantman in inspiring respect from submarine commanders.

The Ausonia cleared March 24, lay inside the outer harbour of the port for two days until signalled to go out. Wednesday, March 28, 900 miles off the Irish coast, a submarine emerged from a smooth, slow heaving sea, four miles from the liner. She came up far enough for the silhouette in the clear sunlight to be identified by the plates with which the navy gunners on merchantmen are provided as a German submarine.

Captain W. H. Hossack called the gun crew to quarters, ordered lifeboats swung out and turned his ship so that the stern was toward the German, which at once turned and made for the Cunarder on the surface. The big gun was sighted until the pointer said he was sure he was "on the target." The submarine was by this time within a little more than three miles of the Ausonia.

The naval officer asked Captain Hossack if he should fire, saying a hit was likely, but not certain. Captain Hossack advised waiting until a hit would be certain, saying a miss would certainly mean the destruction of the liner with all on board and there was little danger from a torpedo until the submarine was quite a little closer.

Passengers who were looking at the swift-approaching menace through marine glasses were certain the commander in his conning tower could see the great gun with its muzzle trained on him and the gunners standing by. They themselves could see plainly details of the submarine's upper works much smaller than the gun.

Abruptly the submarine sheered off and headed at full speed toward a small British freighter which was crossing the horizon. A little later a "bang" and a streamer of smoke told what had happened to the undefended vessel. The Ausonia saw nothing more of the submarine.

Captain Hossack, when asked about the incident, said his orders forbade him to discuss any such matter. Passengers were inclined to exaggerate dangers in these days, he said, but he refused to deny the truth of the story.

MAN BURIED ALIVE EIGHTY-FOUR HOURS SURVIVES THE TRIAL

Miner at Champion Colliery in Alberta Conscious When Rescued, Though He Had Been Eighty-four Hours Without Light, Water or Food.

LETHBRIDGE, Alta., April 17.—After living underground in a cave-in in the mine near Champion for eighty-four hours without light, water or food, Henry Trenton, a miner who was buried by the cave-in last Tuesday morning, was rescued at 11.50 on Friday night, still conscious. The case is the only one on record in mining circles.

The rescuers tried to remove the rock from the face of the mine, but had to give that up. They heard the man knocking on the coal face, and they sank a shaft forty-three feet through rock, afterwards digging a 223-foot tunnel around the face of the cave-in to reach him. Mine Inspector McDonald, of Calgary, and Mine Inspector Johnston, of Lethbridge, superintended the rescue work, conducted by over thirty people working in relays.

Wheat Prices Up Yesterday

May Delivery Was Especially in Demand—Wheat Placed on Free List

CHICAGO, April 17.—Scarcity of offerings and the eagerness with which they were snapped up hoisted wheat prices yesterday far above previous records. The May delivery, which was especially in demand, went to 2.30 a bushel as against 2.24 1-2 to 2.25 at Saturday's finish. New crop features at first showed a downward tendency on account of better weather conditions but later rallied owing to strength of cash wheat and of the May option. Opening prices, which ranged from 2 1-8 decline to 1 1-2 advance, with May at 2.25 1-2 to 2.26, and July at 1.90 1-4 to 1.90 1-2, were followed by decided upturns all around.

French and British Co-operate In A Gigantic Offensive

French Take Ten Thousand Prisoners in a Twenty-five Mile Sweep—More Guns Than the World Has Ever Known Before in One Operation Are Belching Forth Death Over a Stretch of One Hundred and Seventy Miles.

GERMAN COUNTER ATTACKS FAILED

Special to the Examiner:

LONDON, April 17.—The greatest offensive of the greatest of wars was on to-day. Over a front of nearly one hundred and seventy miles, French-British forces were driving with all the strength of the energy carefully conserved through months of winter preparation. A forecast through four days of tremendous artillery concentration, the French movement began with a brilliant victory, despite the most desperate resistance from the German defenders. Laon, one of the most important of the centre supply stations on the German line, is now added to the list of German key points directly menaced by the French-British attack. It was apparently the direct objective of the first smash with which General Nivelle threw his massed forces against the enemy. That tremendous blow swept the Germans off their feet and forced them back of the third line trenches. It inflicted devastating losses on the Teutons, and so firmly established the French attacking forces that hurriedly summoned German counter attacks could not dislodge from the mound they gained. The French took ten thousand prisoners in a twenty-five mile sweep from Soissons to Craonne.

LONDON THRILLED TO-DAY.

LONDON, April 17.—London was thrilled to-day with the actual start of the greatest of all offensives—the forward thrust for which every man, woman and child in the British Empire has been working and sacrificing for the past six months. At least three million of France's and England's best troops are probably fighting along this gigantic front. More guns than the world has ever known before in one operation are belching forth death over this stretch of one hundred and seventy miles.

Great Slump In World's Crops; Causes Many

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Reports of unfavourable crop prospects are being received from parts of the old world. Conditions in the agricultural sections of most of the countries now at war are said to be unfavorable, largely on account of bad weather and lack of labour.

Russia's great wheat crop will be curtailed and prices are going up. Germany's crop prospects are generally fair, but reserves are scanty, and the United Kingdom has a fair crop prospect, although the acreage has been reduced. Broomhall reports as follows respecting crop outlook:

France — Weather continues against wheat and prospects continued unfavourable. Native offers are practically nothing and millers' supplies are light, with foreign arrivals small. Import requirements are important, notwithstanding reduced consumption.

Russia—Crop advices are uniformly unfavorable. Weather has been bad during the winter, with severe cold and lack of proper snow covering. Railway facilities are inadequate, and therefore there is very little grain moving. Stocks at north ports are light. Interior prices advancing.

Wheat Crops Poor.

Germany—Neutral sources report that crop prospects are generally fair. Reserves are scanty.

Italy— Crop prospects are not favourable. Dryness is interfering with general condition. Acreage was reduced as labour was scarce and seed not favourable. Reserves are moderate and foreign arrival limited. Import needs important.

Spain — Crop prospects not favorable and yield will be moderate. Native reserves are fair. There is small need for imported wheat this season.

Australia — Reserves are large, but movement limited. New crop estimates are being reduced, owing to unfavorable weather just before and attending harvest.

India's Good Crop.

India—Crop prospects excellent, but extreme estimates of the yield will not be realized.

North Africa — Crop prospects fair. Corn prospects unfavourable.
